

GEN. SCHRIEVER ABMA VISITOR

Heads Air Force Delegation Here

Representatives of the U. S. Air Force last week paid a two-day visit to the Army Ballistic Missile Agency as guests of Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris, commanding general.

The Air Force delegation was headed by Maj. Gen. B. A. Schriever, commanding general, Ballistic Missile Division, Air Research and Development Command. Officers of the Air Materiel Command, Air Training Command, and the Strategic Air Command participated.

They received an intensive and secret briefing on the Army's Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile development, Jupiter. They were escorted through several Agency laboratories to observe work in progress and also witnessed the static firing of a Jupiter rocket engine.

Gen Schriever is responsible for the nation's largest weapon development program, that of the Intercontinental Ballistic Missile, and for the Air Force version of the Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile, Thor.

Gen. Medaris is responsible for the Army's Redstone Ballistic Missile System and for the Jupiter development.

The official visit was Gen. Schriever's first to the Army Agency. Gen. Medaris had previously visited him at his Inglewood Calif., headquarters. There has been a continuous exchange of technical information between the two commands by liaison officers. An Air Force officer has been stationed at ABMA since its activation Feb. 1, 1956. An Army officer is stationed at the Ballistic Missile Division.

Gen. Medaris recently disclosed that the Jupiter would be modified to serve Air Force requirements. The Department of Defense announced in November, 1956, that the Air Force would exercise operational control over the IRBM. It also announced that following a technical evaluation of the Jupiter and Thor systems at a later date, one IRBM will be selected for final development, production and deployment.

Accompanying Gen. Schriever were the following Air Force officers:

Air Research and Development Command — Col. C. H. Terhune, deputy commander, technical operations; Col. J. A. Dodge, chief armament group; Col. L. D. Ely, assistant for technical groups; Col. W. R. Large, Jr., plans and operations; Col. Van E. Neal, di-

GENS. MEDARIS, SCHRIEVER ISSUE JOINT STATEMENT FOLLOWING VISIT

At the conclusion of a two-day visit by Air Force officers responsible for the IRBM and ICBM programs to the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, the following statement was issued jointly last week by the respective commanders: Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris, ABMA, and Maj. Gen. B. A. Schriever, Ballistic Missile Division, Air Research and Development Command.

"The military officers responsible for all phases of the Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile programs of the U. S. Army and the U. S. Air Force have participated in a two-day presentation by the Army Ballistic Missile Agency.

"The presentation covered the progress achieved by the Agency in the development of the Jupiter IRBM system. The Army is continuing this development under the authority of the Secretary of Defense, who has determined that the operational employment of the IRBM will be the responsibility of the U. S. Air Force.

"There has been a complete interchange of technical information in the IRBM developments between the Army and the Air Force commands responsible for them.

"The sole interest of both uniformed services is to provide the best IRBM at the earliest practicable date in the urgent interest of national defense. It is to achieve this objective that we have committed all the resources in manpower, facilities and funds provided for the purpose.

"Out of this joint effort will emerge the weapons system determined essential to the security of our country."

Quantum Mechanics Seminar Organized By Research Labs

The Research Laboratories of the Research and Development Division have organized a seminar for advanced study in Quantum Mechanics.

After an initial review which is now in progress and which will be continued for several weeks, the studies will be at the post-doctoral level.

The purpose of the activities of the group is the development of competence in the subject at an advanced working level. Admission to the group is open to any qualified employe at Redstone Arsenal, the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, the Ordnance Guided Missile School, and contractors.

Qualification will be judged by a committee comprised of present members of the group.

For further information, please contact Dr. Dennis Nead, Training Branch, Civilian Personnel Division.

Joint Statement on Safe Driving Issued By 3 Commanders

The commanders of the three organizations at Redstone Arsenal recently issued a joint statement to all RSA, ABMA, and OGMS personnel on the subject of "Safe Driving." Following is the statement signed by Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris, Brig. Gen. John G. Smikle, and Col. Henry S. Newhall:

The City of Huntsville has announced a safe driving campaign designed to reduce accidents and insure the observance of traffic control ordinances. Within the city's limits the maximum speed permitted is:

40 MPH—Memorial Parkway only.

25 MPH—All other streets.

DOG MAY BE MAN'S BEST FRIEND — BUT OGMS CAPTAIN HAS DOUBTS

A dog may be man's best friend—but you'll never convince Capt. Robert L. Mitchell, an instructor at the U. S. Army Ordnance Guided Missile School.

Mitchell, driving from his home to the city on Huntsville's Fifth Avenue, noticed an injured dog lying in the middle of the heavily travelled four-lane drive. And, playing the Good Samaritan, Mitchell pulled over, and carried the dog to the shoulder of the road.

The ingracious animal bit him on the hand, and Mitchell hurried to the Redstone Arsenal Hospital where he received five anti-rabies injections.

Meanwhile, Huntsville Police, determining the dog too badly injured to be helped, shot the animal through the head, thus destroying any hopes of examining the brain for signs of rabies.

Mitchell dismissed the incident, and although slightly sore from the five shots, felt fine for a few days. Then it started—he got a terrific headache and his body broke out in an allergic skin reaction. His body was so badly swollen he couldn't get his shoes on. And, he spent two weeks in the hospital undergoing treatment for his reaction to the serum.

Mitchell's out of the hospital now, and on two weeks convalescent leave. Just to guard against the chance of rabies, he's taking a new series of 14 shots with a different serum.

All 19 shots might have been unnecessary, but it will never be known whether the dog was rabid.

NEW OFFICIAL VISITORS BADGE BEING ISSUED BY REDSTONE ARSENAL

The Intelligence and Security Office at Redstone Arsenal is now issuing a new official visitors badge. It is the same size and shape as the badge worn by Arsenal employes and will completely replace the old round visitors badges.

The same color system used to designate clearance classification on the old badges will be used on the new. Black and white indicates that the wearer of the badge is not cleared for classified information, blue indicates clearance for confidential, red indicates secret, and green top secret.

There is also a new procedure for returning the badges. The Intelligence Office emphasized that the badge holder must personally return his badge to the duty sergeant at the main desk in building A-101.

They also pointed out that these badges do not authorize entry into a building. The badge holder must also show a pocket pass which specifies the areas that he is authorized to visit. This pass is to be turned in at Gate 1 by the visitor on leaving.

The new badges expire July 1 1961.

A NEW BADGE for official visitors at Redstone Arsenal is now being issued by the Intelligence and Security Office. They will completely replace the old visitors' badges. The same color system used to designate clearance classification on the old badges is being used on the new.

GEN. McNAMARA IS NAMED QUARTERMASTER GENERAL

HEADQUARTERS THIRD UNITED STATES ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga. — Maj. Gen. Andrew T. McNamara recently took the oath of office as Quartermaster General of the Army, the Department of the Army announced.

Gen. McNamara, who succeeds Maj. Gen. Kester L. Hastings, will become the 36th head of the Quartermaster Corps, the Army's supply service. Gen. Hastings retired on March 31. The President nominated Gen. McNamara on April 18 and the nomination was confirmed by the Senate on May 9.

As the Quartermaster General of the Army, Gen. McNamara will direct operations concerned with providing food and clothing to the Armed Forces, and supplying the Army with petroleum products and other types of supplies, equipment and services. His responsibilities also include operation of U. S. national cemeteries and the Army's ten general depots in continental United States.

A native of East Providence, Rhode Island, Gen. McNamara was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1928. Serving first with Army infantry units in this country and Hawaii, he transferred to the Quartermaster Corps in 1937.

Following the outbreak of World War II, General McNamara served as Quartermaster of the II Corps in England and North Africa and as Quartermaster of the First Army during the fighting in France and Germany. Later he returned to the United States to become Quartermaster of the First Army in August, 1945, and chief of the Subsistence Branch, Office of the Quartermaster General, in February, 1946. Following graduation from the National War College in June, 1948, he served with the Plans and Operations Division, Army General Staff and was then named Commandant of the Quartermaster School at Fort Lee, Va.

In September, 1951, he returned to Washington, D. C., as Executive to the Under Secretary of the Army. Two years later he was again assigned to the Army General Staff. In September, 1954, he was appointed Chief, Storage and Distribution Division, and later Director of Supply Operations, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics, in which positions he served until his assignment in July, 1956, as Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4, U. S. Army Europe. It was while holding this assignment that he was nominated as the Quartermaster General.

Gen. McNamara has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal and several foreign decorations, including the French Croix de Guerre with Palm, French Legion d'Honneur and the Order de la Couronne de Chene de Luxembourg.

Anyhoo, we're having hostesses from Nashville and dance hours will be from 21-00 to 2400. All of you fellows get those ties out and be ready to greet the girls at 2100 for a good ole time. We have been lucky lately about recruiting hostesses for our dances, but we never know when the luck will run out so — best you take full advantage while the opportunity prevails.

Saturday will be a "relaxer" day and, of course, Sunday morning we'll have a Coffee Call at 0900 and a Patio Party (for the sun lovers) at 1300. Don't forget Closely associated with the electronics development in the defense program since the early stages of World War II, Carl E. Duckett is now assistant to the Signal Officer of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency.

Duckett participated in radar development in Baltimore, Md., with a defense contractor, when the U. S. was rapidly marshalling strength for the world conflict.

He was sent to Europe as a radar technical representative when the British sought defense advice against the German V-1 rocket. He entered Normandy with Allied invasion forces as a civilian radar advisor.

Duckett then entered the Army and spent some time in the Pacific Theater as the war drew to a close. He returned to this country and helped establish the first radar instrumentation system at White Sands Proving Ground, N. M., where captured V-2 rockets were launched early in 1946.

Leaving the Army, he became general manager and chief engineer of radio station WBOB in Galax, Va. He was recalled to active duty by the Signal Corps in 1950 and served at White Sands until 1953.

He accepted a civilian position at the Proving Ground and served as chief of the radar instrumentation division and conducted long-range technical planning for the Signal Corps Agency. He joined ABMA June 1, 1956.

Active in civic life, Duckett became a state vice-president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Virginia. He relinquished this position when he returned to the Army in 1950.

A native of Swannanoa, N. C., he completed high school there and also was graduated from Danville, Va., Technical School where he studied electronics. He attended Johns Hopkins

Trophies Presented To Trio at Redstone Toastmasters Meet

Permanent trophies were presented to John Gullick, "Des" DesLaurier, and Tom Enzor at the regular weekly meeting of the Redstone Toastmasters Club. The trophies are presented to members who have been elected "best speaker" three or more times. A similar trophy is presented on a rotating basis to the "best speaker" each week.

Jim Keat was elected "best speaker" of the evening for a discussion of the great pressure and demand for more engineers in this country. The program also included: Maj. Bob Darnell, who recounted some of the problems involved in establishing a school in Africa, Lt. Don Swartwout, who explained the rules of safety in handling firearms, Oscar Herndon who described the Mechanical Laboratory and its capabilities, and Bob Granger, who informed the Toastmasters how to conduct a courtship in different countries.

Toastmaster for the evening was Norm Hedges. Table Topics were led by Lt. Tom Lindsey; Maj. Bud Parker served as general evaluator. Col. Art Lahlum as grammarian, and Des DesLaurier as parliamentarian. Bob Cramer presided at the meeting.

Reports on the zone meeting of Toastmasters International in Nashville were given by T. C. Burns, Ed Lawrence, and Stan Houck.

Guests at the meeting were Tony Demetriou and Lt. Col.

MRS. MULLANE NEW PRESIDENT

Officers' Wives Install Leaders

Installation of officers for the next year for the Officers' Wives Club was held at the Redstone Arsenal Open Mess Tuesday, June 18th, at the monthly meeting. Mrs. Walter R. Mullane, new president of the club, was presented a gavel by the retiring president, Mrs. Robert Barthele.

Other officers assuming their new duties are Mrs. John Dante

Vezzoli, vice-president, replacing Mrs. Rudolph A. Axelson; Mrs. William R. Hahn, treasurer, replacing Mrs. Clifton Nooncaster; Mrs. Henry Arrott, recording secretary, replacing Mrs. Charles Schloss; and Mrs. Roy P. Beatty, corresponding secretary, replacing Mrs. William N. Lingenfelder.

Mrs. Frank E. Napper was chairman of the meeting. The Field Service Division of the club was in charge of arrangements and decorations. Mrs. Harold Zier was chairman of the decorating committee.

The club was decorated as a summer garden scene, with white wrought-iron lawn furniture placed in groups under colorful lawn umbrellas. Green shrubs were banked against white trellises, giving a striking background for installation ceremonies.

The first law relating to military affairs, passed by Congress on Aug. 7, 1789, established a Department of War responsible for both the Army and Navy.

Miss Massey Becomes Capt. Minter's Bride

Miss Joann Massey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Massey of Guntersville, became the bride of Capt. James M. Minter, USA son of Mrs. James M. Minter of Chicago and the late Rear Admiral James M. Minter, in a ceremony at the Redstone Arsenal post chapel June 15.

Maj. James H. Goewey, Redstone Arsenal chaplain, officiated, and Miss Suzanne Dews of Guntersville presented the music. The bride was attired in a waltz-length gown of lace accented with a back bow of taffeta. She wore a tiara of Alencon lace and an illusion veil and carried a white prayer book centered with an orchid and showered with stephanotis.

Mrs. Donald E. Denicke attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a waltz-length gown of soft aqua-marine with matching lace halo and carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Capt. Robert J. Mann served as best man, and Donald E. Denicke and William Marks were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Massey chose a toast-colored dress accented with beige accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother was unable to attend due to illness.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained with a reception at the Redstone Arsenal Officers' Club. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. Loyd Darnell, Miss Gail Cochran, Mrs. William Marks, and Mrs. Herbert Mansfield.

For traveling, the bride wore a black and white sheath dress with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

After an extended honeymoon to Chicago and points of interest along the eastern coast, the couple will reside in Aberdeen, Md.

Mrs. Goewey Speaks On African Violets At Garden Club Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Redstone Garden Club was held June 18 at the home of Mrs. Thomas B. Tucker.

Mrs. Edward A. Dicks, of Hadden Field, N. J., was welcomed as a guest. Mrs. Dicks is the daughter of Chaplain (Maj.) and Mrs. James H. Goewey.

Personnel attending services at the new Post Chapel will enjoy viewing the shrubbery planted at the entrance by members of the garden club. The boxes of shrubbery contain Japanese holly, Burford holly and ivy.

Mrs. James H. Goewey gave a short talk on how to grow African violets. She exhibited several of her own plants.

At the next meeting Gloxinia seeds will be planted. Gloxinia is the flower of the club.

This was the last meeting for two club members. Mrs. Rudolph A. Axelson is leaving for Kansas in July and Mrs. Paul A. Gurnee is going to Aberdeen, Md.

Cake and iced tea were served to 12 members and one visitor.

CHANGE OF PLANS — Miss Sarah Denny, this week's Rocket Pin-up, was all set (and dressed) to have her picture taken in swimming togs at the post pool. But it rained that day (and girls aren't supposed to get their bathing suits wet), so photographer and subject simply moved inside the Service Club where Sarah relaxed with a good book instead — and mace just as pretty a picture. A native of Nashville, Miss Denny works in the Training Division of ABMA. (Photo by Bill Kellar)

'Ham' Radioman Get Rare Drug to Haifa

WURZBURG, Germany — Private Stewart B. Fason of the Tenth Infantry Division is a mighty pleased 'ham' radio operator, and not just because the Army has 'professionalized' his ten-year hobby by making him a regimental intermediate speed radio operator.

It's because he may have helped save a young boy's life who was dying of leukemia in Israel.

Searching the bands on his private short wave receiver here, he caught a distress signal from an amateur station in Haifa. A rare drug was needed in a hurry.

Fason relayed the message through the Military Affiliate Radio Service, or MARS, the network of 'ham' operators which has U. S. Government sanction because of its usefulness during emergencies.

Six hours later the MARS station at Frankfurt, Germany, told Fason that the drug had been located and was on its way to Haifa.

Fason's previous proudest hour as a 'ham' had been when he operated his own 1000-watt transmitter from his home at (6212 W. 82nd St.) Los Angeles. He relayed a message from the famous Kon Tiki expedition to the King of Denmark.

The Continental Army was created on June 14, 1775, when the Continental Congress authorized 10 companies of infantry.

travel techniques will be fully developed at least by the year 2000.

Other locally written articles include one by Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger entitled "Outlook on Space Travel," and two by Dr. von Braun — "Where Are We Going?" and "Because It is There." In the latter article, Dr. von Braun sums up his reasons for thinking man will conquer space by quoting the words of Sir Edmond Hillary on why he scaled Mt. Everest: "Because it is there."

Other contributors to the first issue include Dr. Fred Whipple, chairman of the Department of Astronomy at Harvard University; Daniel M. Popper, chairman of the Department of Astronomy at the University of California; and Edgar W. Woolard, director of the Nautical Almanac Office, U. S. Naval Observatory.

LIBRARY LOAN SERVICE IN FAR EAST CATERS TO GIs' READING TASTES

CAMP ZAMA, Japan — Long lauded as the world's best fed and best led, the American soldier in the Far East can now lay claim to being the best read soldier in the world, if the library service in the area is any criterion.

Under a recently organized program, a soldier in Korea wanting to read a book unavailable in his unit special services library merely puts in a request for the volume in the same manner he would at any library in the United States.

The request can probably be filled at the 14,000 volume reference center in Seoul. If not, the Seoul librarian checks with libraries in Japan and Okinawa. If the book is on the shelves there, the soldier in Korea gets it quickly. If necessary, the book can be ordered from a library in the U. S. and, as a last resort, can be purchased.

Since small unit libraries cannot always satisfy every request the "inter-library loan system" was put into effect. A librarian anywhere in the Far East can thus obtain a desired book in the shortest time.

The new system was set up to assure that the American soldier in the theater, his family, and Department of the Army civilian employes receive their fair share of the world's cultural wealth.

Reference center libraries, with a total of 76,000 books, are located in Seoul, Korea; Okinawa; Tokyo, and Camp Zama, Japan, and daily deliveries are made from each to smaller libraries throughout the command.

The literary stockpile includes much more than the normally popular best-sellers. High in demand from the Camp Zama library, for example, are investment periodicals like the Wall Street Journal and Moody Stock and Bonds Investment Services.

Less financially-minded soldiers have their pick of 270 magazines each month and 12 newspapers, and pick-and-choose readers run the gamut from students of military science to do-it-yourselfers.

A special file at Zama covers vocations for the soldier scheduled to return to civilian life. From this shelf he can get the facts about being a blacksmith, an explorer, a model or museum worker as well as the more prosaic vocations.

For the inquisitive, the librarians operate a fact factory, whether to settle a bet between two otherwise bored privates or for information for a writer working on a speech for a general. Both the privates and the general's aide receive the same careful attention.

Who is the world's greatest authority on genes? What's the tonnage displacement of the USS Missouri when fully loaded? How many suicides were there in the United States last year? These are just a few of the questions asked and answered recently.

GINGER - PEACHY — Snug pants and a loose blouse display the winning form of Ginger Rogers, star in a psychoanalysis-spoofing film called "Oh, Men! Oh, Women!" "Who's Who" tells all, and says Miss Rogers was born July 16, 1911. Ponce de Leon was not looking in the right place.

Soldier-Interpreter Speaks 11 Languages

BERLIN, Germany — If Specialist Third Class Joachim H. Rau were stationed in any of eleven countries he would not be hampered by that old bugaboo — intelligible conversation. He speaks and understands that many languages.

The 23-year-old interpreter conversed at home at (504 Dwinell St.) Baytown, Texas, in French, German, English, Dutch, Russian, Danish, Swedish, Norwegian, Yiddish, Hungarian and Greek.

His father speaks thirteen languages and his mother and a sister, seven each.

Big reason behind Rau's interest in languages is a strong desire to work with the U. S. State Department overseas after he has completed his military obligation and his last two years of study — in linguistics of course.

Religious Leader Commends Soldier For Refugee Aid

FORT BLISS, Tex. — Sergeant First Class Frank J. Palyu, who normally spends the day instructing missilemen at the U. S. Army Antiaircraft Artillery and Guided Missile Center here, was commended recently by a high El Paso religious leader for his voluntary off-duty work among the Hungarian refugees in the area.

On the receiving end himself one of the compassionate financial help of organizations and individuals, Palyu feels that he can best make payment by emulating their kindness. About a year ago he lost a young daughter and most of his possessions in a trailer fire.

The commendation came from the Right Reverend Monsignor Hugh G. Quinn, Chancellor of the Diocese of El Paso, and cited Palyu's service as an interpreter between the escapees and the organizations helping them.

Palyu, born in Rose Bush, Mich., and raised in the Hungarian section of Cleveland, learned the language from his Hungarian-born parents.

On duty, Palyu is a trouble-shooter, instructor and overseer of a group of soldiers who train the Nike 'package' units that are sent to the missile sites guarding industrial areas throughout the
