Redstone Missile Carries 'Flying TV Station' Aloft

Enables Assessment Of Target Damage

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M.—A Redstone ballistic missile carrying a "flying TV station" was fired for the first time last week by Army troops at White Sands Missile Range, the Department announced.

The miniature television station is designed to enable a ground commander to see actual target damage inflicted by the missile from a receiving station miles away.

Last week's Redstone was fired under tactical conditions by an Army unit which returned from Europe to carry out the training firing. Battery "A" of the 40th Field Artillery Group, stationed in Europe since June, 1958, fired the 62-foot ballistic missile.

Ejected During Flight

Housed in a small cone-shaped capsule, the camera is ejected from the Redstone during flight. While falling to earth, it takes pictures of the impact point of the missile warhead, and the resulting damage.

The receiver for the pictures transmitted during last week's firing was located 75 miles from the impact point. The pictures were also recorded on video tape to permit Army development engineers to study the results.

The TV equipment and receivers were developed for the Army by the Radio Corporation of America with Chrysler Corporation Missile Division, prime contractor supplying the Redstone missile to the Army. Both companies worked with the Army Ballistic Missile Agency and the Army Signal Corps on the project.

Capsule Behavior Tested

On January 26, 1960, a Redstone missile was fired to test capsule behavior. In that firing a camera was positioned inside the missile to photograph separation of the capsule from Redstone. Another camera photographed the capsule as it traveled through space. The capsule contained test instruments including accelerometer, gyroscopes, a temperature measuring device, and an ejector monitor instrument.

GEN. GEORGE C. MARSHALL Facility Named for Him

Text of President's Order Naming Space Center for General

Following is the text of a proclamation by President Eisenhower designating the facilities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Huntsville as the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center:

Whereas, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has recently acquired facilities at Huntsville, Alabama, for space flight research and development; and

Whereas, these facilities are destined to play a major role in man's conquest of outer space and its utilization for peaceful purposes for the benefit of all mankind; and

Whereas, it is fitting that these facilities bear the name of a distinguished and revered American; and

Whereas, the late General of the Army George C. Marshall devoted his life to the service of his country and to the advancement of the cause of peace throughout the world:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the

VON BRAUN TEAM MOVE OFFICIAL

President Eisenhower has officially designated the Huntsville facility of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center.

The President's proclamation came on March 15, as the 60-day limit on Congressional disapproval expired, clearing the way for actual transfer of the von Braun team on July 1.

Gen. Marshall was the World War II Army Chief of Staff and later Secretary of State.

Marshall's widow and Dr. T. Keith Glennan, NASA chief, were present at the White House when Eisenhower signed an executive order naming the Huntsville NASA facility.

Under provisions of the National Space Act, the transfer was due to become official, but not effective, 60 days after the move was presented to Congress. Barring objections by Congress, the transfer was to take place automatically.

Last month the House voted, as an indication of its confidence of the move, a resolution that would have removed any question of transfer of the team to NASA.

The Senate, however, did not vote on the resolution, partly as a result of the log jam over civil rights.

authority vested in me, as the President of the United States, I hereby designate the facilities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Huntsville, Alabama, as the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center; and such facilities shall hereafter be known and referred to by that name.

ENGINEERS CALL FOR SATURN BARGE DOCK WORK BIDS

Army Engineers have asked contractors to bid for the construction of a dock on the Tennessee River at Redstone Arsenal, for use in loading Saturn boosters onto specially-constructed seagoing barges for transportation to the Atlantic Missile Range at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Because of the great size of the space booster, it has been decided that barge shipment on the Tennessee River to Paducah, the Ohio River to Cairo, and the Mississippi River to New Orleans, then across the Gulf and around Florida to Cape Canaveral would be the most practical means of transportation.

Col. R. W. Love, U.S. Army District Engineer, announced that bids for the construction of the loading facility would be opened at 11 a.m., C.S.T., on April 5, 1960, at the Corps of Engineers office, 2301 Grant, Street, Mobile, Ala.

It will consist of a concrete dock, 42 feet by 40 feet; a concrete approach slab; two portable steel bridges, each 9 feet by 4 feet; a sheet pile turning dolphin; two 10-ton cranes; three cast iron mooring posts; a winching system; and an aerial electrical distribution extension.

ARGMA Station Tracks Solar Satellite 500,000 Miles

The United States' newest solar satellite, Pioneer V, has been tracked to a point more than 500,000 miles from earth by the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency's tracking station at Redstone Arsenal.

Waite H. Todd of the Missile Electronic Laboratory, which operates the station, said that the station should be able to maintain contact up to a distance of 1,500,00 miles.

The station, a research center for development of weak signal receiving techniques, has been enabled to track beyond the 1,000,000-mile mark by a new parametric amplifier. Replacement of a vacuum tube amplifier with the parametric amplifier has almost doubled the station's range.

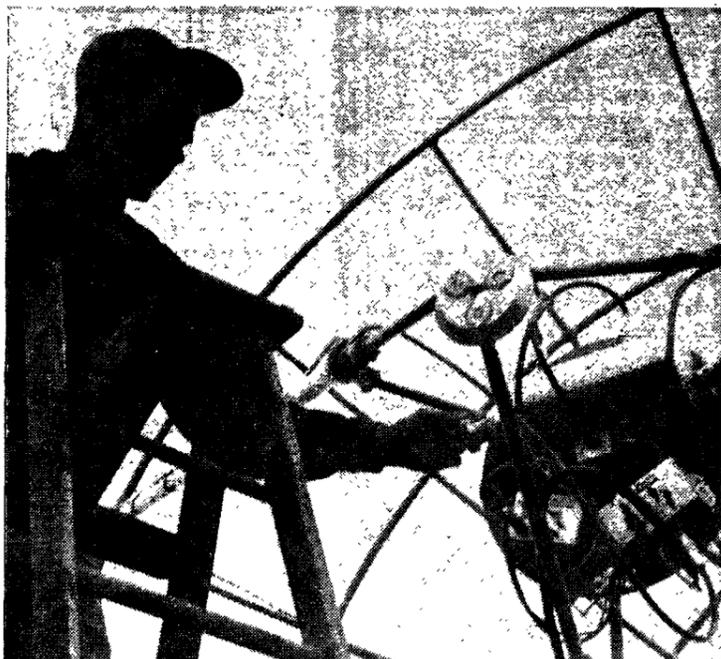

The high gain and low noise characteristics of the amplifier permit the use of a 15-foot paraboloidal antenna for long-distance tracking of spacecraft. Without a parametric amplifier, it would be necessary for the station to use a 25-foot antenna, at a cost three times that of the present system, to achieve comparable results.

In keeping with its research mission, the station uses most of the latest techniques for weak signal reception. The equipment is constantly being modified in the search for better techniques.

To test modifications of equipment, the station tracks artificial satellites, measuring signal strength and telemetry and gathering information by which to locate the object in space.

Information gathered during tracking exercises is furnished to the agency which launched the satellite, contributing to studies of its behavior.

ADJUSTS AMPLIFIER — E. E. Johnson, operator of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency's satellite tracking station at Redstone Arsenal, adjusts the parametric amplifier on the station's 15-foot paraboloidal antenna, preparing to receive a scheduled transmission from Pioneer V, the United States' newest solar satellite.

"LET ME DIE WITH DIGNITY"

Kathryn Morris, writing in the National Safety News, says: "I'd as soon be killed and eaten by cannibals as to die in an automobile accident."

The following are excerpts from her thought-provoking article:

"I can think of no more repugnantly undignified a way for life to end than to become one of the thousands who die annually on our streets and highways.

"With the exception of mishaps which take place in remote or inaccessible spots, any crash immediately draws a crowd of spectators, some of them officially concerned, most of them simply morbidly curious.

grotesquely sprawled, senses befuddled, or faces mirroring the "Bleeding, broken, clothing pulled indelicately awry, limbs grotesquely sprawled, senses befuddled, or faces mirroring the shocking finality of sudden death, the accident victim has lost, in the moment of impact, that intangible but precious commodity known as human dignity.

"Death on a public thoroughfare provides much of the same sort of spectacle as a lynching. I want none of it, for myself, or for anyone I love.

"I'd like to die with dignity."

For last week's firing the battery was supported by Detachment A of the 630th Ordnance Company, of the 40th Redstone group, the same company which supported the firing team in the historic May 16, 1958 event.

The 209th Artillery Group based at Ft. Sill, Okla., provided additional support.

Trained at Redstone

The 40th Group was trained at Redstone Arsenal where its weapon system was developed. It is composed of 600 men in five units; the Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, A and B Batteries of the 217th Field Artillery Missile Battalion, which are the firing elements; the 580th Engineer Company and the 630th Ordnance Company.

Redstone is a surface-to-surface ballistic missile with a war head which carries either conventional or atomic charges. It is powered by a liquid fueled rocket motor developing 75,000 pounds of thrust.

FAMILIARIZATION COURSE GIVEN ON HEALTH BENEFITS PROGRAM

Civilian personnel specialists in each AOMC agency have had a familiarization course during the past week covering the rules and regulations established by the U. S. Civil Service Commission for the new Federal Employees Health Benefits Program.

The personnel specialists are now orienting civilian employees generally, throughout the Command. This employe orientation program commenced March 21 and will continue through April 30.

The information furnished during this period will consist of having employees know the types of plans for health insurance which are being made available and the rules that have been established for employe participation.

Some of the high-lights of this employe training include the following general information:

1. Chance to join a group health benefits plan, with better rates and better protection than is available to an individual.
2. No medical exam, age or physical requirements.
3. Easier payments, through regular payroll deductions.
4. Government contributions toward membership cost.
5. "Catastrophic" benefits that go beyond usual costs of surgery and hospitalization, to help finance chronic, long-term, or serious illness or accident.
6. Choice of plans, to provide the kind and amount of protection one actually needs and wants.
7. Continued protection after retirement, if one meets the service and length-of-enrollment requirements.
8. The peace of mind that goes with a good program of health protection.

The second phase of instruction, which covers the specific items of "coverage" and "cost" for the different plans and options, will take place about May 16, running through June 30, during which time all employes will be required to register and have the opportunity to enroll in a plan of their own choice. For employes who are paid on June 30, the insurance coverage will be effective July 3, 1960, and for employes who are paid July 7, the effective date of coverage will be July 10.

Except for new employes, persons now in Federal Service who do not enroll in the Health Program at this time will not have the opportunity again until October, 1961.

How's Your Know-How?

1. How much of a person's weight is made up of blood?
2. What is jahemmy?
3. Why are London policemen called "bobbies"?
4. Which of the 49 states has the largest number of military installations?
5. What and where is Hispaniola?

(Answers to Quiz)

1. About eight per cent.
2. A large, pneumatic tire wheeled salvage rig fitted with falls, used to lift a landing craft and move it.

INTEGRATING ZEUS TEST PROGRAM DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE HERE

Spokesmen for the major military and industrial organizations responsible for the research and development of the Army's Zeus anti-missile missile ended a three-day conference March 17 at Redstone Arsenal aimed at integrating the Zeus test program. Represented at the conference were the Army Ordnance Missile Command; the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency; the White Sands Missile Range, N.M.; the Air Defense Board, Ft. Bliss, Tex.; the Continental Army Command, Ft. Monroe, Va.; the Western Electric Company, Winston Salem, N. C., and Bell Telephone Laboratories, Whippany, N.J.

The conference, the first such held in the Zeus program, was called for the purpose of reviewing and coordinating the individual requirements of the several agencies included in the overall Zeus program. Engineering conferences will follow to make plans for integrating these various objectives into each Zeus test.

This effort, which typifies the close cooperation between the Army and its contractors in the Zeus program, will permit a variety of vital information to be obtained concurrently, netting an important savings in time and money.

During the past year the USO answered some 7,000,000 informational queries for servicemen or their families and more than 14,000,000 servicemen and women were served at USO snack bars and canteens.

SMU Choir to Sing in City March 29

The Southern Methodist University Choir under the direction of Dr. Lloyd Pfautsch, director of choral activities at SMU, will present a choral concert in Huntsville during an eight-state tour.

The choir will sing at the First Methodist Church on Tuesday, March 29. Concert time is 8 p.m. The public is cordially invited to hear this outstanding choral group.

He was formerly professor of voice and choral director at Illinois Wesleyan University where his collegiate choir achieved national recognition for high standards of choral excellence and for commissioning contemporary choral works each year. The critics have acclaimed that his choirs achieved "standards of choral excellence one expects to hear only from professional choral organizations."

He was a soloist for the Robert Shaw Chorale and the New York Oratorio Society. He sang with the Robert Shaw Chorale for three years. Numerous oratorio appearances throughout the country have been made by Dr. Pfautsch with the role of Elijah as a specialty.

The SMU Choir was chosen to be the official choir for the National Convocation of Methodist Youth held at Purdue University in 1959. This is the third time his choirs have been chosen for this recognition. The SMU Choir has also been chosen to make a new recording "Music For Worship." The program includes "Te Deum

One said to the other, "I suppose we should have gone to church."

"Heck," said the other, "I could not have gone to church anyway. My wife's sick in bed."

WHAT IS DEFENSIVE DRIVING?

By Tom Davidson, ARGMA Safety Engineer

Defensive driving is the technique used to avoid traffic accidents by anticipating all possible hazardous situations created by the unsafe acts of others or by adverse traffic or weather conditions.

Defensive driving is designed to stress the things to do both for compliance with laws and regulations as well as prescribed rules of common courtesy.

Why defensive driving, It puts the positive "DO" in motor manners: DO obey signs and signals, DO keep your car under control at all times, DO yield rights and privileges to others, DO reduce your speed to existing conditions, DO maintain your car in good condition, DO drive according to weather and road conditions and DO be courteous to other drivers.

I AM my brother's keeper . . . when I drive defensively. Invariably participants in two-car collisions blame the other motorist. Defensive driving requires a motorist to be his "brother's keeper" and be alert to any unexpected movement by motorists and pedestrians. With the exception of one-car crashes (involving too much speed and error in judgment), vehicle accidents could be greatly reduced by being prepared to react safely to unexpected incidents on the roadway. We can all be our "Brother's Keeper" by driving defensively.

There's never an "open season" on pedestrians. In 80 per cent of all pedestrian fatalities, it is recorded that the "walker" was at fault by crossing between intersections or ignoring signals. But many of these fatal mishaps could have been prevented if drivers had been alert to unexpected movements of pedestrians by being alert and driving defensively.

The "key" to the problem: Defensive driving begins at the ignition switch. The key should never be turned on until a motorist is certain that the car is in good condition before venturing onto the streets and possible danger. All lights, tires, brakes, windshield wipers and other parts should be made periodically at a garage or filling station, particularly before starting on a trip. Safety begins at home — in the garage.

Remember, drive defensively! Anticipate the mistakes of others and be ready for them every moment you are behind the wheel.

College professor: Gentlemen, I will not begin today's discussion until the room settles down.

Wise guy: "You're right, prof. Why don't you go home and sleep it off."

A boy applied for a job at the local utility company and was questioned by the personnel manager.

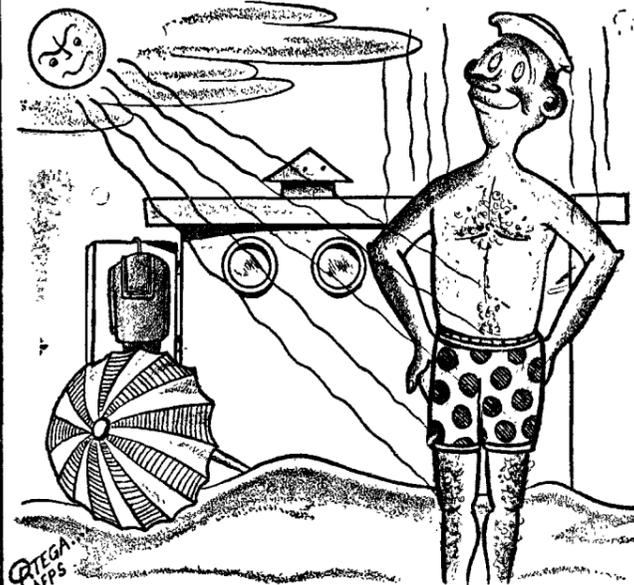

Manager: "What's your name?"

Boy: "Thomas Alva Edison."

Manager: "Say, that's a pretty famous name around here."

Boy: "Well, it ought to be. I've been delivering newspapers in this building for two years."

LESTER SAMPLE

Lester Sample Is Safe Supervisor

Lester Sample, Guided Missile Mechanical Installer and Repair Foreman, Ammunition Storage Branch, GMAMP Shop, Depot Division, RSA, has been selected as safe supervisor of the week.

Sample was born in Cassopolis, Mich. However, at an early age he took the advice of that well-known author, Horace Greely, to "go west, young man," and did just that. He graduated from West End High School, Salt Lake City, Utah, and spent a great part of his life living in northern California. Sample was employed approximately eight years at the Foote Ordnance Depot as an automotive inspector.

He transferred to Redstone in 1956 and assumed his present duties as supervisor of Unit GMAMP Shop, which is responsible for developing maintenance procedures in guided missile ammunition items. Lester was the only fully experienced mechanic assigned to this shop when it was organized. During the past three years he trained his subordinate personnel in mechanical procedures and use of various types of metal working equipment while performing the assigned duties of his unit.

His training has placed first emphasis on safety at all times. Due to his personal efforts, his unit (five men) has experienced no lost-time accidents, no property damage, and only infrequent minor injuries although the work of his unit involves experimental work on explosive loaded items of various sizes and the use of all types of power tools and material handling equipment.

Sample is married to the former Olga Seebler of Wheeling, W.Va. His wife is employed by the Small Business Administration, Redstone Arsenal. He is a member of the local lodge of the Knights of Columbus. His hobbies are sports of all types. The Samples make their home at 2114 Harris Road, N.W., Huntsville.

ARMY AVIATION HISTORY

On February 27, 1920, an official world altitude record of 33,113 feet was set by Major R. W. Schroeder at McCook Field, Ohio.

One year ago, in March, 1959, a NIKE HERCULES missile intercepted a Q-5 drone traveling at a speed greater than March 3 at an altitude of over 70,000 feet at White Sands Missile Range.

SP4 CHARLES H. LINSTRUM

SP4 Charles Linstrum Safe Worker of Week

SP4 Charles H. Linstrum, Bus Guard of the Hq & Hq Detachment, USAG, is selected as the safe worker of the week.

Linstrum was born in Galveston, Texas, where he completed elementary and high schools prior to enlistment in the armed forces. He is a career soldier with 10 years of active service. He was in the Army Air Corps during World War II and returned to civilian life in 1946. Prior to his reentry into the army in 1954, he attended college on the G.I. Bill of Rights and finished Stephen F. Austin State College in Nacogdoches, Texas, in 1951. His major field was sociology and he minor-ed in history and secondary education.

From 1951 to 1954 Linstrum served a rural pastorate for two years with the Methodist Church, worked as a clerk for one year with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and returned to the Army in October 1954. His basic assignment in the Army is Chaplain's Assistant; however, he has also served in a number of other capacities.

Prior to his assignment as Bus Guard, he was company clerk at the 283rd Ord Det (TI) of this station. In addition to his assigned duty of working with the delivery of elementary school children to Madison Pike School, he serves as a clerk-typist at the Film Depository of RSA for three hours daily.

In his present assignment, Linstrum has shown particular interest in the safety of school children utilizing Army buses to and from school. He is particularly observant to insure that all children are properly seated at all times while the vehicle is in motion and on discharging children from the bus he exercises particular care to further insure their safety when crossing to the opposite side of the street within the housing areas where they live.

Linstrum is married to the former Marcelle Dullier of Ransart, Belgium. They have a son, Charles, Jr., age 13, who is in the seventh grade at Farley Junior High School. Education is Lindstrum's hobby. He has enrolled in several correspondence schools and spends his free time in furthering his Army education through this source. His application to attend Ft. Monmouth's Electronic Warfare Equipment Repair Course is pending.

The Linstrums reside at Apartment 9116-B, Redstone Park, Huntsville.

Wage Change Study Being Conducted in Area Wage Locality

In accordance with instructions from the Army-Air Force Wage Board, Washington, D.C., a wage change survey is being conducted in the Huntsville area wage locality.

The purpose of this survey is to determine if any wage changes have occurred in the industrial firms which were surveyed last year.

Under the operational procedures of the Army-Air Force Wage Board, a full-scale survey is not conducted each year. Wage change surveys are accomplished by contacting the firms that were contacted in the last full-scale survey to determine if any increases in rates have occurred.

Representatives from all installations in the U.S. Army Ordnance Missile Command complex have been appointed to collect the wage data, and the survey period is from 15 March through 5 April 1960.

After all data is obtained, it will be forwarded to the Army-Air Force Wage Board, Washington, D.C., for a determination as to whether there will be any change in the rates here. It is expected that information concerning the outcome of the survey will be received between the 1st and 15th of May 1960. Specific information concerning the outcome of the survey will be published at the earliest possible date.

Chamber Commerce Board Endorses Daylight Saving Time

In answer to a letter from Col. Owen T. McCloskey, Redstone Arsenal Commander, the Board of Directors of the Huntsville-Madison County Chamber of Commerce recently endorsed the opinion that “the entire community should cooperate with the Arsenal as Daylight Saving Time affects our national defense effort.”

Col. McCloskey's letter had requested that the city and surrounding area go on Daylight Saving Time again during 1960. The letter, was sent also to the Madison County Board of Commissioners.

The Chamber Board's reaction was stated in a letter from Thomas S. Dark, Board president, to Roy L. Stone, Chairman, County Board of Commissioners, and to Huntsville Mayor R. B. Searcy.

Dark's letter stated, “The Board voted to leave the decision with the governing bodies of the city and county in proclaiming Daylight Saving Time this year. Timing to be determined by city, county, and Arsenal authorities.”

Way Cleared to Prove Children's Citizenship

Washington (AFPS) — New regulations will now result in military personnel having an easier job establishing proof of U.S. citizenship for their children born overseas.

In an effort to help simplify procedures, the Army has prepared a new regulation, the Air Force has issued a new pamphlet (AFP 34-1-18), and the Department of State is readying a new birth certificate for citizens aboard.

The new Army regulation, entitled "Naturalization and Citizenship of Military Personnel and Dependents," will provide guidance on the status of persons serving in the Armed Forces who are aliens or dual nationals, including naturalized citizens, and also outlines the latest procedures on obtaining proof of U.S. citizenship for children born aboard.

Also included in the regulation are instructions for obtaining "expeditious naturalization for spouses and adopted children" of U.S. military personnel scheduled for overseas assignment.

The State Department decision to issue a form of "birth certificate" for citizens born abroad followed a series of meetings here between immigration authorities and representatives of various U.S. agencies, including the Department of Defense and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The need for such form has become increasingly apparent, officials said, since neither the birth certificate issued by a foreign country nor the consular "report of birth" has proven satisfactory for purposes of school enrollment or employment.

"For many years, particularly since WWII," State Department officials said, "there has been a demonstrated need for some U.S. agency to issue a form of birth certification for citizens born aboard somewhat similar to the usual birth certificate issued by the various states.

"The certificate of birth will not and is not intended to replace the consular report of birth in any way. The certificate of birth will be issued only where a consular report of birth has been executed."

For about 100 years American foreign service officers have, upon request, recorded the births of

PENSION LAW CHANGES

Changes enacted by Congress in 1959 (Public Law 86-211, 86th Congress) in the law covering the nonservices connected pension program become effective on 1 July 1960.

This new law does not apply to the compensation program, through which the Veterans Administration pays monthly dependency and indemnity compensation to the survivors of active duty personnel and certain former personnel, but is concerned with the payment of a Pension, when the death of a veteran is in no way connected with his military service. A pension is not payable when death occurs on active duty.

Before the 1959 amendment, the survivors of a person who served in World War I were entitled to a pension based solely on the fact that the individual served in a war period. The survivors of a person who served in World War II or the Korean campaign were entitled to a pension only if the former military member had in existence at time of death a disability attributable to service during World War II or the Korean campaign. Under the old law, a widow was entitled to a payment of $50.40 per month, provided her outside income did not exceed $1,400.00 per year.

A widow with a minor child or children received an additional amount for each child, but this pension was not payable if her income exceeded $2,700.00 per year. The old law contained, as expressed during the Congressional hearings, too many "loopholes." For example, a widow with an annuity of $1,500.00 per year could "waive" $100.00 of this income, and thus be eligible for a pension.

Congress further felt that the principle of "all or nothing" was not fair to widows who barely exceeded the income limits, and did not provide sufficient income for those with little or no income. To overcome these objectionable features, the new law calls for the payment of pensions on a sliding scale, thus providing a graduated income depending on the financial status of the survivor. Further, survivors of veterans who served in WWII or the Korean campaign now are entitled to a pension on the same basis as the survivors of veterans who served in WWI.

For example, a widow with no dependents with an annual income less than $600.00 would receive $60.00 per month; with income between $600.00 and $1,200.00, she would receive $45.00 per month; and with income between $1,200.00 and $1,800.00, she would receive $25.00 per month. If she has income in excess of $1,800.00, she would not be eligible for a pension. Corresponding changes have been made with respect to benefits for a widow and children. When a widow with a child is not eligible for a pension because her outside income exceeds the maximum limit the children are eligible for pension payments, unless each child has an income in excess of $1,800.00 per year.

In determining annual income

all payments of any kind are included except payment of six-months' death gratuity; donations from public or private relief or welfare organizations; payment of the pension itself payments of United States Government Life Insurance, National Service Life Insurance or payments of the Servicemen's Indemnity; lump sum Social Security payments (monthly income under Social Security is counted as income); payments to an individual under public or private retirement, annuity, endowment, or similar plans or programs equal to the veteran's contributions thereto; amounts equal to amounts paid by a widow or child of the veteran for just debts, expenses of last illness and burial; and, proceeds of fire insurance policies.

As indicated, monthly income from the Uniformed Services Contingency Option Act and monthly income from the Civil Service retirement system count as income, but the survivors receive credit for payment made into these programs. Before this new pension program, proceeds paid under the Uniformed Services Contingency Option Act program did not count as income, but in considering all "loopholes" in the old program, the new law includes a requirement that USCOA proceeds will be counted as income.

Proceeds of commercial life insurance do count as income, but if the survivor has the right to receive the proceeds in a lump sum at time of claim, the Veterans Administration will consider that the entire proceeds were received in the year of claim, and even though the widow's income from insurance may exceed the specified limitations, she will be eligible for pension payment in succeeding years.

A veteran of war-time service is also entitled to a pension if he is totally disabled. This disabling condition need not be related to his prior military service, but could have been the result of an automobile accident, a hunting accident, or any other cause, except one caused by willful misconduct or vicious habits. A pension is not payable to a person serving on active duty. If a person on active duty becomes disabled, he is entitled to compensation from the Veterans Administration, or retirement pay from his military service.

Before the new law, a totally disabled veteran received $66.15 per month, increased to $78.75 when he had received pension for 10 years or had reached the age of 65. A single veteran could not receive a pension if his income from outside sources exceeded $1,400.00 per year, and a veteran with dependents could not receive a pension if his annual income exceeded $2,700.00.

Galley 2 Judge Advocate Advises

Under the new program, a pension to a veteran is paid on a graduated or sliding scale, as in the case of a widow, depending on annual income of the veteran. For example, a single veteran with an income of less than $600.00 would receive $85.00 per month; with income between $600.00 and $1,200.00 - $70.00; and between $1,200.00 and $1,800.00 - $40.00. Again payments to veterans with dependents are increased accordingly.

Information concerning this new law, together with other information pertaining to personal affairs, will be included in forthcoming Department of the Army publications.
