Col. Paul Is Cited For Work On Jupiter

He Receives Air Force Commendat'n

Col. Thurston T. Paul received the U. S. Air Force Commendation Medal Friday (July 22) for his "meritorious service as chief of the Jupiter Project Office and as Deputy Commander of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal, Ala."

The medal was presented at Mobile, Ala., by Maj. Gen. Dan F. Callahan, commanding general of the Mobile Air Material Area at Brookley AFB, Ala.

"In managing all aspects of the Jupiter program," the citation read, "Col Paul rendered an outstanding service to our country. His organizing ability and drive promoted a sustained sense of urgency which resulted in target goals being met. Although program management was complicated by dual Army-Air Force interest in the Jupiter weapon system, extremely cordial relationships between Army and Air Force personnel were maintained as a direct result of Col. Paul's magnetic personality as well as his organizational and technical ability."

Col. Paul, who is leaving ABMA, an element of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, July 29 to attend the National War College, was also commended for his "devotion to the fielding of operational Jupiter weapons with trained crews and maintenance personnel. This achievement, the citation ended, reflects "extraordinary credit on himself and the Army Ordnance Corps."

Survival Kits Are Distributed at Key Points on Arsenal

What's in the box with the scotchlight sign on the side which says: "Emergency Medical Treatment Unit—Phase I?"

Capt. Earl W. Lauck, Medical Supply officer for the Arsenal received this query from various sources and chose to use The Redstone Rocket as a means of answering as many people as possible who are curious about these large boxes located on many busy main corridors of buildings throughout the installation.

These are survival kits for use in case of nuclear attack. (See SURVIVAL on Page 2)

COL. W. F. KAISER

Graduates Urged To Keep Pace With Technology

Students from the Army, Navy and Marine Corps received diplomas Friday from the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School at graduation exercises held in the Redstone Arsenal Post Theater.

The 41 graduates heard Col. William F. Kaiser, chief of the control office of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, urge them to continue their studies to keep pace with fast-changing missile technology.

"Career opportunities for men trained in missiles are greater today than ever before, and those who continue to expand their knowledge will inevitably win advancement," he declared.

Lt. Col. Donald W. McFeeters of Glen Ridge, N. J. was the honor graduate in the class of officers completing a lengthy course in guided missiles and special weapons. Sgt. Phillip Henderson II, a Marine from Camp Pendleton, Calif., took honors in a course on the Hawk air defense missile, while Army Specialist Hayward S. Melville of Shoemakersville Pa., was high man in a Hawk radar class.

ABMA Will Have Seven Surface Missile Systems

A plan for the transfer of seven surface-to-surface missile systems to the Army Ballistic Missile Agency was approved July 20 by Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, Commanding General, Army Ordnance Missile Command.

To be transferred, effective August 1, 1960, will be the Honest John, Littlejohn, Corporal, Sergeant, Light Antitank Weapon (LAW), Missile A and Missile B weapons systems. These systems are currently under the management of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency.

Both ARGMA, commanded by Col. John G. Zeirdt, and ABMA commanded by Col. Richard M. Hurst, are elements of the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

Also included in the transfer will be the reassignment of approximately 252 engineering, scientific, technical and administrative personnel currently engaged in these missile programs.

The transfer of these systems will be limited at this time to all aspects of research and development and only the systems management divisions of industrial operations. ARGMA will continue to maintain responsibility for all field service activities related to management of these systems.

Supporting services of special procurement, quality assurance, engineering documentation and engineering laboratory evaluation will also be provided to ABMA by ARGMA.

In addition to the new systems, ABMA will continue to maintain its Redstone, Jupiter and Pershing ballistic missile programs. ARGMA will continue to have responsibility for the Nike Zeus, Nike Ajax, Hawk, Mauler, Redeye, Lacrosse and Shillelagh systems.

Former Training Officer for Arsenal Is Cited in Germany

James M. Pride, former Deputy Chief of Training, Redstone Arsenal, was honored at a ceremony in Heidelberg, Germany, recently, in recognition of outstanding achievement.

Now Training Director for the U.S. Army, Europe, Pride was cited by the William A. Jump Memorial Foundation. He had been previously selected as the 1960 Department of the Army nominee from a field of world-wide candidates.

The Jump award is given annually for outstanding service in the field of Federal public administration or for notable contributions to the efficiency and quality of the Federal public service. Employees must be under 36 years of age to be eligible for consideration.

After leaving Redstone Arsenal, Pride was Deputy Chief, Training and Development Division, Office Deputy Chief of Staff Personnel, Department of the Army. A graduate of the University of Kentucky, he is a Navy veteran of World War II.

He now lives in Heidelberg with his wife, the former Miss Jo Ann Veatch, and two sons, James, 15, and Paul, 9.

sided at the ceremony, said that three German Air Force majors who were to have received diplomas with the class had been given accelerated training when orders were received last week for their return to Germany.

Students Make Practical Use of Theories at AOMC

Graduates, Profs Also Have Summer Employment Here

Putting classroom theory to practical use, nearly 100 students and teachers are working as summer employes at the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

Employed in a wide variety of positions, they are participating in a program which provides them with an opportunity for valuable experience and also paves the way to permanent employment for more than 50 percent of the students who take part.

AOMC has 96 summer employes this year. The greatest number are working at the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency where 41 undergraduates and 14 graduates are on the rolls. The Army Ballistic Missile Agency has three graduates and 24 undergraduates while Redstone Arsenal has five undergraduates and Command Headquarters has two graduates and seven undergraduates.

"I wanted a job connected with engineering," relates Miss Jan Burton, electrical engineering aid in the Test and Evaluation Laboratory at ARGMA. Her work this summer includes comparing and evaluating data from various static rocket motor tests conducted by the lab. An electrical engineering student, she is seriously considering the possibilities of permanent employment with AOMC following her graduation from Duke University, Durham, N.C., next year.

Joe Sovie, a physicist is making his second summer as an employe at ARGMA. "My summer employment," he declares enthusiastically, "exposes me to the newest fields under consideration in physics and gives me an opportunity to determine the present state of the art in these fields."

EVALUATING TEST RESULTS—Miss Jan Burton, electrical engineering student at Duke University, is spending the summer working in the Test and Evaluation Laboratory at the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency evaluating results from static rocket motor tests. The Agency has 55 summer employes this year including 41 undergraduates and 14 graduates.

Is People-to-People Needed?—It Sure Is

When Japanese students in Tokyo riot against their country's security treaty with us, many Americans are apt to adopt a disgusted air, saying "See how much good that People-to-People stuff does? They've never forgotten they lost the war—they hate us."

But "they"—the Japanese—don't hate us. We are hated by Communists who are loyal to no love of their homeland, who cleverly staged these riots and used excitable youths for their mission of discrediting U. S. influence in the Far East.

It is just such regrettable incidents that enhance, not diminish, the importance of People-to-People. The Communists admit they are engaged in a struggle for the "conquest of millions of minds and hearts of the working people throughout the world." The words are, in fact, those of V. Moskovsky, one of the top Soviet propagandists.

It is part of Mr. Moskovsky's job to constantly try to obscure and wreck the very solid achievements of the People-to-People program in winning confidence in U. S. aims the word over. Communists go in for "conquest." Our way is to put out a helping hand, dispense with the impersonality of officialdom, recognize that people everywhere want the good life and respond to genuine manifestations of friendship.

For there is a quiet power about which avowals of common humanity that no lying bluster and epithets can lessen. Communists are helpless before a program of partnership that operates at grass roots, transcending language barriers. People-to-People is invincible to their most extravagant abuse of it. (AFPS) bution of these units is dictated by the Department of the Army on a military head count. One kit is issued for every 100 military persons.

The objective of the program, established in August 1956, was to create an "in being military medical resource required for essential support of the armed forces during an emergency; and the post rehabilitation which follows nuclear attack."

These kits contain medical supplies which can be used on the "buddy system" by persons with elementary knowledge of first aid, a requirement for every man and woman in the armed forces.

A tri-wall container on a wooden pallet includes four inner units: a master pack which contains some surgical supplies; a burn pack, fracture pack, and wound pack.

The supplies include dressings, scissors, pins, guaze, tape, splints, lubricants, sodium chloride and sodium bicarbonate, forceps, pharyngeal airways—in short, the necessary medical supplies for survivors of a nuclear attack.

The packages can be opened only in case of such attack or at the direction of the Surgeon General.

Ashworth's Record Is Among Top Ten

In the early part of this year, Ernest Ashworth, production planner, Bldg. 4712, recently signed a contract to record for Decca Records, Inc.

Ashworth collaborated with another Arsenal employe, Billy Hogan, who works in Property and Supply, Bldg. 4727, on the song titled "Each Moment (Spent With You)." Ashworth auditioned for Owen Bradley and Harry Silverstein, head men for Decca records in Nashville who recorded the song.

The record, released during the last week in April, is now one of the top ten songs in the country and western field. It has been recorded in the pop field by Nick Todd, Pat Boone's brother. Ashworth says he doesn't know what the future plans are for him but hopes they will include a contract with the Grand Ole Opry, an ambition and dream he has had since childhood.

Ashworth's record has been ordered by Slim Lay's Record Ranch located on Andrew Jackson Way and Arnold Hornbuckle's record shop located on Clinton Street.

boxes, but not their contents, is made by a disinterested officer. Five years after packaging, the supplies will be rotated.

Since an enemy attack by bomber or missile may not impact on an intended manufacturing target, but hit the administration instead, these containers are dispersed as widely as possible.

The supplies in their interior would sustain survivors for 72 hours.

"Like a fire extinguisher," Capt. Lauck said, "these packages are not beautiful but are necessarily accessible for use in an emergency which each individual hopes will never happen."

Command personnel officials are enthusiastic about the summer employment program, and consider it at least equal with the co-op program in securing college graduates as permanent employes.

Screening of applications begins as early as January and applicants are considered in regard to requirements set up by offices planning to use summer employment.

search and Development Division, Sovie is devoting his efforts to guiding research and development contracts, and conducting research to evaluate proposals submitted by contractors. He received his BS degree from St. John Fisher College, Rochester, N.Y., and is currently working on his Master's Degree in physics at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio. He is also an assistant instructor in the University's physics department.

The appeal of the Army's missile programs brought Miss Ann Burkett to summer employment at ABMA. A math trainee with the Engineering Division of Industrial Operations, she will be a junior this fall at the University of Georgia.

In ABMA's Field Support Operations, industrial and personnel management student Tim Jordan is assisting with the re-organization of the Maintenance Division.

"I was looking for work related to my college studies," he explains, "and this is just what I wanted." He is preparing new organization charts for the Branch and has also had the opportunity to sit in on interviews with prospective employes. He will graduate from the University of Alabama next year and is seriously considering permanent employment with AOMC after completing his required tour duty with the U.S. Army.

One summer employe led to another in the case of Paul Hassell, assistant professor in industrial engineering at the University of Alabama.

Hired as an industrial engineer in the management services division of Control Office at Command Headquarters, he suggested to university colleague Joe Newman, also an assistant professor in industrial engineering, that he, too, might find interesting summer employment at AOMC. The result: Two assistant professors working in the Command Control Office.

Hassell received his B.S. degree

TAKEN FOR GRANTED

Free Election System Is Boon to Americans

The place is Anytown, U.S.A. The time is immediately before an election. The events are commonplace. Candidates for office high and low have for months been viewing with alarm and pointing with pride. In the papers there have been big headlines:

JONES TOOL OF LABOR BOSSES, SMITH CHARGES

SMITH AGENT OF WALL STREET, JONES SAYS

JONES ACCUSES SMITH OF WEAK PLATFORM

The day after the election, the count is 1,511,000 to 1,400,002. Immediately the defeated candidate wires: "You have been entrusted by the people with great responsibility STOP My congratulations and best wishes to you STOP."

All is calm. The factories are open, people are at work, stores are crowded, and students are in their classrooms. On Main Street there are no barricades, no angry mobs, no protesting parades. People are talking mainly about the unseasonable weather.

The people of a large country have chosen the men who are to run their school systems, direct their cities and states and guide the nation in Washington. These decisions will closely affect their lives and their fortunes.

Yet their decision was accepted without bloodshed. When the votes were in, the losing parties shook their heads in dismay, but it never entered their minds to reject the ballot box verdict.

This is remarkable. So deeply ingrained are the habits of democracy that Americans sometimes forget that in some places in the world such an event could not take place.

In other countries and in other times, brute force has often been used to decide who should run things. Even where no open clash occurs, a small group of self-appointed bosses, by stifling criticism and manipulating propaganda, can make decisions without consulting anyone. Such are the tactics of totalitarians.

To Americans, the workings of democratic government are a commonplace matter. They sometimes tend to take democratic government for granted. But all take pride in their ability to make it work.

MISSILE DEFINITION: Computer—a mechanism which solves mathematical problems involving firing and navigational data.

Woods And Waters

Military fishermen, especially those who prefer artificial baits, are missing a bet if they don't carry a basic stock of streamers in their kits. Most big game fresh water fish will be tempted by this type of lure, some because they think they just want to "kill" it.

Streamers come in many sizes and colors, but they all have one thing in common—a large tuft of hair or feathers that trails out behind the hook. They can be fished on the surface, or at any depth down to the bottom of your favorite fishing spot.

Another advantage of streamers is that they can be used either on a fly rod or with spin fishing equipment. For spinning, you'll need either a weighted streamer or a plastic bubble to give casting weight.

There's a big difference in the way a game fish hits a streamer from the way it mouths bait. With a streamer there's no false start. He slams into it with such force that more times than not he hook himself.

Although it takes a while to catch on to the technique of fishing with streamers, once learned it'll work oftentimes where live bait fails.

YANKEES STILL LEAD IN MINORS

Pirates Are Trailing Three Games Behind

The Pirates battled the Tigers in Tuesday's first game which was controlled by the Tigers through the second inning by their fine fielding and courageous hitting.

Especially prominent in his fielding was first baseman Mark Halaski who several times made unassisted put-outs by smothering hard hit drives and forcing the batter. In their half of the third inning the Pirates displayed the power for which they are renowned and tied the games up at 3-3.

renewed and tied the game up at 3-3.

The Pirates struck again in the fifth to step out ahead 7 to 3 and although the Tigers rallied with a run in the sixth they bowed before the second place Pirates by a final score of 7-4.

The Hitters again demonstrated that they are in reality "hitters" by belting the Rebels severely in a three-inning tilt 19-7. The potentially adept Rebels never recovered from the Hitters four-run first inning and, by dropping this game passed up a third place in league standings.

Both Blankenship and Maxwell, last week's Rebel stars, were absent from Tuesday's competition. Norman Ott and Peter Lawson were standouts for the ill fated Rebels while Kit Horvath sparked his team to its second victory of the season.

The Yankees want to win and for that reason they will continue to win. This fierce desire was vividly demonstrated in Thursday's contest when nine of the Rebels' 18-man team visited Redstone Park. In the second game of his career, 8-year-old Mario Gonzalez played the high caliber ball we have come to expect of the aggressive Yankees. Yankee 10-year-old, Nick Pena, pitched innings 2 and 3 with remarkable accuracy and was supported by the usual hustle from his teammates. The Yankees won, 19 to 4.

The Pirates forfeited their 8 a.m. Saturday game to the Hitters by the regulation score of 6 to 0.

The 10:00 a.m. game between the league leading Yankees and the Tigers was one of the most spectacular played this year. The Yankees were rudely awakened in the second inning by the ferocious Tigers who were determined to knock the top off the league. The Yankees pulled themselves together after that inning but it wasn't until after the last out of the game that they could relax. The running score of this game is the best explanation of the tension and anxiety that both players and spectators felt.

The Tigers are to be congratulated for their fine team play and spirit.

Army Says Richard Roe and John Doe Policy Must Go

Washington (ANS) — Starting this fall, the anonymity of an enlisted man's assignment as a "Richard Roe" will go limbo along with the horse and wrap-around legging.

"By name" assignments for all enlisted personnel will be rapidly phased in, according to the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel. A DCSPER spokesman said that while the program is designed primarily to centralize control of enlisted personnel resources, improve their utilization and assist in the continued automation of the U. S. Army Replacement System, it is also designed to embrace desirable personnel management techniques throughout.

PEOPLE-TO-PEOPLE WRITING CONTEST WINNERS NAMED

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — For her prize-winning article, "A Package of Gum a Month," Miss Lucy Anne Bent, a school teacher at Ben Guerir AFB, Morocco, was awarded $250 in the Army-Navy-Air Force Register and the Armed Forces Writers League People-to-People writing contest.

The first place winner's story was one of nearly 400 the judges received from People-to-People supporters throughout the world. They all told "What I Did to Make Friends for the U.S." in 1,500 words or less.

Other winning yarns were penned by Maj. Robert Moore, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., $100; Miss Lorraine Hillis, 6431st ABG, Japan, $50; A1/C Robert Kerber, 6821st RGM, Japan, $50 and Col. Robert Robertson, Army Corps of Engineers, Arlington, Va., $50.

Miss Bent, assigned to the 3926 Supply Gp., wrote to the former junior high school she taught at in Green Bay, Wis., enlisting their help.

They responded by sending the equivalent of a package of gum a month in money per youngster. The total often amounted to more than $50 each 30 days. Miss Bent used this money to help support a medical aid program for the Berber people of Ourika Valley, Morocco.

Miss Hillis wrote of her experiences in organizing a clown club known as the Island Jesters which entertained Okinawan children in American fashion.

Maj. Moore told of the days back in WWII when he was a warrant officer. He and some associates adopted 100 children in an orphanage in Germany, providing food, clothing and shelter for the homeless urchins.

Kerber too worked with children. He related his efforts in forming pen pal clubs with stateside youngsters for some 1600 primary school children in Japan.

Col. Robertson wrote about the activities of the Inter-American Goedetic Survey. He developed a concept he called "simpatico," a Spanish word meaning the "good feeling you get when someone accepts you as you are and unreservedly offers you his friendship."

For his work, Col. Robertson received many honors and awards from towns in Central and South America.

Thomas Jefferson (in 1800) and John Quincy Adams (in 1824) were both elected by the House of Representatives, since neither polled a majority of the electoral votes in his election.

Did you hear the one about the lovelorn porcupine who bumped into a cactus and whispered, "Is that you dear?"

EXPLORERS SPEND WEEK CANOEING

Thursday afternoon six Air Explorers and three leaders from Air Explorer Squadron 234 returned to Redstone Arsenal after a week long canoe trip at the Region Explorer Canoe Base, Boulder Junction, Wis. The Explorers who made the trip were Bill Arnold, Bill Babcock, Bob Buchholz, Dave Cherry, Tim Koeneman and Bushy Mrazek. The leaders included Advisor Bob Bednarcik and Associate Advisor Ted Nowicki and Vin Adam.

The group left Redstone Thursday, for the Canoe base. While enroute they stopped at Fort Campbell, Ky., and Great Lakes Naval Training Center. While at Great Lakes the Explorers watched a large review by the school personnel and received a tour of the base and also of a destroyer escort stationed there. The final evening before arriving at the canoe base Sunday afternoon was spent in Antigo, Wisconsin. Sunday morning after church services the group toured the radar installation at Antigo Air Station.

Arriving at the canoe base the Explorers were met by Bill Babcock their voyager who arrived five days prior to obtain some training for the group. After re-

Field Service Manuals Are Reproduced by Automation

Missile Handlers Kept Abreast of Latest Changes

Moving toward automation in technical publication reproduction, the Publications Branch, Field Service Division, ARGMA, recently initiated a process for printing manuscripts by IBM computer printout.

Accord to Lt. Col. Frank E. Napper, Chief, FSD, this method will revolutionize present manuscript reproduction in certain areas.

"At the present time we foresee the greatest application of the computer in our supply manuals," Col. Napper stated. "We are now cataloging tens-of-thousands of repair parts. This new high speed method is our answer to making these repair parts manuals available to using Army organizations on an extremely timely basis."

In addition, Col. Napper stated that with some of the more sophisticated systems now being planned, the repair parts requirements will more than double.

This high speed reproduction is accomplished in the following manner: All identifying data for a repair part item is punched into IBM cards. (A single operator can punch as many as 800 lines a day.) These cards are then run through an IBM Card Converter which transfers the card data onto a magnetic tape. Computer programs accomplish the maintenance of changes. The tape is then programmed to produce the computer printouts. The computer printout rate is fantastic—reproducing some 1000 lines per minute.

Mrs. Edith Gibbs, Chief, Data Processing Applications Branch, FSD, who has charge of the computer operations gave this example of the high speed rate of reproduction.

"All of the supply manuals which the Publication Branch has ever developed—this is in the hundreds—are now on computer tape, and can be printed in less than three days."

Another advantage of the IBM reproduction process is that additional information for other purposes can be programmed onto the computer. Thus, making collective repair parts data available almost instantly.

The development of the IBM computer printout process is another example of how all phases of the missile industry must progress to keep abreast of the rapidly changing hardware. The computer printout method of reproduction will allow ARGMA to keep current some 165,00 repair parts items now in the supply system.

WORTH REPEATING

Most of the conspicuously heroic deeds of war have been carried out by individuals or troops where discipline or volition existed—where officers have succeeded in making themselves the guardians of their men's interests and in return have gained unstinted devotion from their troops."

NEW HOME OF NATO SHAPED LIKE HUGE 'A'; SYMBOL OF HARMONY

Paris (AFPS) — After eight years the headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) has moved from its provisional home at the Trocadero here to its new building designed in the shape of a gigantic "A", in the Porte Dauphine area.

This permanent NATO home lies athwart the old city walls of Paris and houses 1,000 offices of which some 350 are occupied by the various national delegations. It houses a bank, a post office, a newspaper shop, a theater, and an assembly room seating 550 where public sessions of the NATO Council will be held.

Before the move, NATO headquarters occupied a temporary structure built in 1951 for the U. N. General Assembly. The new structure, designed by the noted French architect, Jacques Carlu. In construction, furnishings and equipment the building reflects the harmonious resolve of NATO's 15 member nations to defend their common heritage. Most of them were allotted responsibility for specific features of the project. For example:

France was responsible for all the "heavy" work — masonry, stone-facing, concreting, electricity, central heating, etc.

Belgium provided the aluminum windows, the big conference tables and other furniture.

Holland furnished all the electronic equipment including the radio, and television systems; also the theater, equipped with Cinemascope.

The United Kingdom supplied all cooking equipment and kitchens, in addition to furniture and the office wall partition system.

Luxembourg provided the structure steel.

Germany was responsible for the complete telephone installation and also contributed carpeting, Venetian blinds and curtains.

Turkey supplied the restaurant mosaic.

New Household Goods Policy Set by Defense

WASHINGTON (ANS) — A new directive stating Department of Defense policy governing the transportation of household goods of both military and civilian employes has been announced by Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates, Jr. The new directive, while effective July 1, 1960, will be implemented at shipping activities of the military services on December 1, 1960. During the interim period, the present regulations of the military services will remain in effect.

Secretary Gates stated that after thorough review of the household goods movement program, he is convinced the new policies are fair to Department of Defense personnel and their families, and are also fair to the transportation industry.

The revised policy has as its basic objectives (a) the assurance of high quality moving services for DOD personnel and their families at the lowest over-all cost to the Government; (b) equitable treatment of all carriers engaged in the transportation of their household goods who can conform to high quality standards of service and are competitive on an over-all basis; and (c) assignment of responsibility to the Secretary of the Army, as the single manager for traffic management,

SELLING FOR THE HIGH DOLLAR

Ardmore Estates is located on the Ardmore highway, a new paved two lane road (proposed four lane) connecting Huntsville and Ardmore. Approximately 3,100 feet of this property has a frontage along the Ardmore Highway, affording excellent commercial potential property. This road connects a direct route to the famous Redstone Arsenal, without driving through industrial or business areas. Across the street and all through the area east of the Ardmore Estates has been 100% developed within the past three years with new homes ranging in price from $11,600 to $18,000.00. The majority of the occupants of the homes in the developed area are business and professional men including technicians employed by the Redstone Arsenal. Most of the streets are paved, many with curbs and gutters. Water, gas, electricity and city facilities are now in the developed part of this property. New brick veneer homes are now located in this subdivision and now would be the time to go and select the homesite of your choice. This property is the beginning of residential and commercial development on the highway and the short route for tourist travel connecting U. S. Highways 31, 431, 72, and 231. The entire property is located only four miles northwest from the main business district of Huntsville.

In the past ten years, Huntsville has practically doubled in size and property values can only INCREASE. Now is the time to invest, for your investment can only go up. The auction will be held rain or shine, on the property, under our large auction tent. Plenty of seats will be available, music to entertain you, and a barbecue will be served with all the trimmings. Come and be with us. Inspect these lots today. REMEMBER: You'll bid, and buy for the high dollar at public auction.

TERMS: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY, 25% day of sale, balance 30 days. COMMERCIAL PROPERTY, 25% day of sale, 25% 30 days, balance 6 months. Write for complete description in our illustrated brochure

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING HIGHLIGHTED—The spotlight is on good housekeeping in the Consolidated Supply Division at Redstone. Displayed above is the Consolidated Supply Division safety plaque which is awarded each month to the activity maintaining the best housekeeping program. Winner of the plaque for the month of June was the Warehousing Section, Bldg. 7422. Pictured here are members of the Division safety committee who program and conduct the accident prevention activities of this organization. Front row left to right: James Stanley, R. L. Cloud, Marion Wheeler, D. K. Womack, RSA Safety Division, and Gerald Rinker, Committee Chairman, holding the plaque, James Allen, J. E. Hall and J. D. Pike.
