New Zeus Motor Is Fired

Captive Test Is Success; Fired Ahead of Schedule

A new design of the relatively small rocket motor that will power the business end of the Nike Zeus anti-missile missile has been successfully fired in a captive test, the Army announced Monday.

The Army revealed that the test, a full week ahead of schedule, was accomplished at the Redstone Arsenal plant of the Thiokol Chemical Corporation, propulsion subcontractor for the missile.

Army officials termed it another forward step in the Nike Zeus program, the only system under active development to defend the Free World against Intercontinental Ballistic missiles.

The solid propellant motor of unique spherical shape will propel the last stage of the three stage Nike Zeus missile. Thiokol developed it to meet specifications set by the Douglas Aircraft Company, subcontractor for missile development. Western Electric Company is prime contractor for the Nike Zeus system under the supervision of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, an element of the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

All three stages of the Nike Zeus missile have yet to be tested together. Several firing tests have demonstrated satisfactory in-flight performance of the missile's first and second stages. Much larger and more powerful than the third, the first and second stages are used to hurl the third to extreme heights in minimum time.

The missile's third stage is designed to maneuver inside or outside the earth's atmosphere in response to steering orders from control centers on the ground. These centers are designed to think for the defending Zeus missile. (See NEW ZEUS on Page 2)

KEY TO PROGRESS—Maj. Gen. August Schomburg (left), Sen. John Sparkman and Col. John G. Zierdt examine the symbolic key which "opened" a new headquarters building for the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency Saturday. Dedication of the new building was the highlight of ARGMA's first open house attended by an estimated 15,000 visitors.

An estimated 15,000 visitors attended the first open house of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency Saturday as the Army dedicated the Agency's multimillion dollar headquarters building on Redstone Arsenal.

Military police reported hundreds of cars with Mississippi, Tennessee and Georgia tags joined Alabama autos in a steady procession through the Arsenal gates throughout the day.

Visitors saw one of the largest displays of Army missiles ever assembled. In addition they toured ARGMA's new headquarters building, had guided tours of Redstone Arsenal and were permitted to witness actual missile firings on ARGMA's rocket ranges.

R. G. Foster Receives Contract For Runway

Col. R. W. Love, U. S. Army District Engineer at Mobile, Ala., announced today the award of a contract for strengthening and extending the runway at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Alabama, to R. G. Foster and Company of Wadley, Ga., in the amount of $749,016.65.

Foster and Company will extend the runway from 5,540 feet to 7,300 feet, strengthen the existing pavement with an overlay of asphaltic concrete, and provide drainage facilities, electric ducts and fencing.

The job is to be completed by December 1961. Construction work will be scheduled so as to cause as little disruption as possible to regular use of the runway.

The Redstone Arsenal runway is being reinforced to handle large cargo planes ferrying missile components to and from the Army missile center.

Col. Zierdt's Statement to ARGMA Personnel

"I desire to take this opportunity to thank each and every member of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency for your whole hearted and concerted effort in making the 15 October ARGMA 'Open House' an unqualified success.

"To those of you who served on the 'Open House' committee or who played some other significant role in the scheduled events and activities, go my special thanks. The manner in which these were handled was most gratifying.

"I trust that each of you, your families and your friends enjoyed the open house as much as I.

"I am certainly proud to have such a fine family of friends under my command. We can all rest assured that as a result of last Saturday's activities we have some 15,000 new friends with us.

"Also, we are especially indebted to our friends in AOMC, ABMA, OGMS and Redstone who helped to make our 'Open House' a great success. Without their assistance the job could not have been done as well."

ADM. MONROE IS DUE HERE TODAY

The commander of the Pacific Missile Range, Rear Adm. J. P. Monroe, is scheduled to arrive at the Army Ordnance Missile Command today for a two day visit.

Adm. Monroe, who has headquarters at Point Mugu, Calif., commands range facilities extending 6,000 miles west into the Pacific. Both Air Force and Army missiles are tested there.

It was established because missile "outgrew" the shorter range overland facilities offered at White Sands, New Mexico, and Cape Canaveral, Fla., was not able to accommodate all the additional long range testing necessary.

A part of his two day visit will be devoted to gathering information concerning Army use of the range. The range is also to be used in connection with space launches and Admiral Monroe is to receive briefings from George C. Marshall Space Flight Center personnel.

Army plans call for use of the range in Nike Zeus anti-missile missile tests. Nike Zeus missiles will be fired from Kwajalein Island in the South Pacific and Point Mugu in various phases of system tests.

AOMC GETS FLAG—The Department of the Army has approved a distinguishing flag for the U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Command. Miss Margaret Francis, secretary of Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, looks at the flag displayed in his office. Gen. Schomburg commands AOMC. The flag is blue with a gold fringe border and carries the same missile insignia worn on the shoulder of AOMC military personnel. The flag will be used in various ceremonies and parades.

FIRST TOUR IN 18 YEARS—Mrs. Peggy Michell who has been directing visitors to various points on Redstone Arsenal for 18 years had her first complete tour of the installation Saturday. W. D. Edwards explains the operation of a Hawk guided missile to her at one stop on the tour route.

United Nations Day, Oct. 24

Editorial—

U. N., 15 Years Old, Is Best Hope For Peace

The United Nations marks its 15th birthday this month in the most dramatic circumstances of its history. Admission of many new nations has swelled its membership. The appearance before the General Assembly by many Chiefs of State including Mr. Khrushchev and other heads of Soviet bloc states has sparked it with a high drama that electrifies the world.

What does the passionate oratory and the histrionics of this momentous Assembly session prove? Foremost, certainly, that in the United Nations lies the only hope for a peaceful solution, of differences between the great powers. To doubt this is to face a bleak future. Heads of state present diverse proposals for peace, but the heartening fact is that they are talking peace, not shunning discussion of it.

In the eyes of the free world, the eloquence and sincerity with which the President of the United States set forth as his program is a reaffirmation of American leadership. Against it, any volume of ranting and reckless distortion of historical facts sounded harsh and hollow. Here was a reaffirmation of the hopes of men of good will everywhere; also an undemagogic statement of our own country's desire to help new and old nations in the development of their economic and social potentials.

The net effect of gross deceit in the floodlight of the great Assembly chamber, under the symbolic olive branch of peace, is to discredit its perpetrators and make them appear meanly treacherous. Beside it, the message of calm voices speaking a language of reason, calling for a continued war against want, disease and ignorance—and threatening no other kind of war—are heard with greater clarity. Open House

Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, officially opened the new building in a brief ceremony at 10 a.m.

Sen. John Sparkman of Huntsville and Rep. Robert E. Jones of Scottsboro attended the dedication heading a delegation of national, state and local dignitaries. Brig. Gen. Charles Rust represented the Chief of Army Ordnance, Lt. Gen. J. H. Hinrichs.

Introduced by Colonel John G. Zierdt, ARGMA commander, Gen. Schomburg used a missile to cut a ribbon completing the ceremony. The General triggered a model of the Army's Nike Zeus anti-missile missile which rose along a wire to intercept an "attacking" missile. They met in a burst of flame which severed the ribbon.

Towering behind the speakers' platform was full-size Nike Zeus missile, representing ARGMA's major missile development program. All other ARGMA missiles and those under the jurisdiction of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, ARGMA's sister agency, were on display.

The missiles highlighted more than 90 displays open to the public. Many were provided by industrial contributors to the Army's missile programs.

One that proved particularly popular to the thousands of school age children who attended was a missile shooting gallery set up by Convair, Pomona, prime contractor for the Army's Redeye anti-aircraft guided missile. Visitors operated Redeye launchers, aiming the shoulder fired missile at model airplanes which flew through the shooting gallery.

Army buses took visitors on guided tours of the 40,000 acre Army Ordnance Corps installation at Redstone. At ARGMA's rocket ranges, there were public firings of wire guided anti-tank missiles, small free flight rockets and firings of solid propellant rocket motors in tie-down tests.

Students and instructors from the Ordnance Guided Missile School, also located at Redstone, had Nike Hercules and Hawk anti-aircraft guided missile batteries in full operation.

The new building will permit consolidation of heretofore scattered ARGMA activities. Three stories tall, of masonry construction, it houses approximately 1,300 ARGMA employees. Engineers, scientists and technicians of ARGMA's Research and Development Operations and Industrial Operations staffs occupy the new structure together with the headquarters staff.

Work began on the new building in 1959. Brig. Gen. John G. Shinkle, commander of White Sands Missile Range, N. M., another element of AOMC, was ARGMA commander at that time. He returned to Redstone to attend dedication ceremonies for the new building.

ARGMA is responsible for all Army missiles which maneuver after firing either in response to self-contained guidance systems or from signals from ground control stations. ABMA exercises supervision of Army missiles which follow pre-set trajectories after firing.

Garrison Upsets 291st MPs — First Loss in Two Years

An enthusiastic crowd of over 200 saw a spirited USAG team upset the previously undefeated MP squad by the score of 21 to 0.

USAG started a scoring drive from their own 37 and in six plays, which featured two good runs by halfback Dick Budd, they scored on an eight yard pass from quarterback Matienzo to end Collier. The extra point was missed leaving the score 6-0.

After receiving the kickoff, the MP offense failed to come up with a first down and USAG took over the ball on their own 39 yard line. As the first quarter ended, USAG was on the 21 yard line of the MP's. On the third play of the night, halfback Mocerri rolled out, faked a pass, then scampered 12 yards to pay dirt. Mocerri passed to Cassidy for the PAT making the score 13-0.

The MP offense moved the ball, after the kick-off, from their own nine yard line to Garrison's 38 before losing the ball on downs. Garrison failed to make the necessary first down and punted.

Evans of the MP's returned the punt to Garrison's 27. On the next play, Evans raced down the sidelines to the nine yard line.

A loss of ten yards on the next play and three incomplete passes halted the only scoring threat the MP team could muster in the first half. The score remained 13-0 as the half ended.

After receiving the second-half kick, it took Garrison seven plays to score their third touchdown. With an eight yard pass from Matienzo to Mocerri scoring the touchdown and the PAT missed, the score stood at 19-0. The remaining minutes of the third period and the entire fourth quarter saw both defenses completely dominating play.

The final score of the game came on the alert, defensive play by Garrison's Cassidy, who tackled an MP back in his end zone for a two point safety, making the final score HQ Det, USAG, 21 and 291st MPC, 0.

OGMS FOOTBALL TEAMS FIGHT CLOSE BATTLE

A battle between two of OGMS's strong teams turned out to be a complete surprise at the decisive margin that Hq. Co. defeated Co. A. Never relinquishing the lead; Hq. stormed over Co. A by the score of 38 to 13.

After receiving the opening kickoff Hq. Co. marched 55 yards to score the first touchdown of the evening on an eight yard plunge by halfback Tomshee. The first period ended with neither team able to come up with another score.

The second period found both teams crossing the goal line twice. Hq. Co. ran their lead to 12-0 on a pass from quarterback Barrows to Bock. Once again the point after was unsuccessful. Co. A broke into the scoring column on a short run by Foster. The point after was missed and the score stood 12-6.

Halfback Tomshee scored his second touchdown in a ten yard run. A pass from Barrows to Svoboda for the point after made the score 19-6 in favor of Hq. Co.

With 33 seconds remaining in the first half; Co. A's quarterback, Reynolds faked a pass and ran 45 yards for Co. A's second

291ST MPs BEAT CO. A, OGMS

Linton Field was the site of the battle of the undefeated, as the 291st MP Co. and Co. A., OGMS met in a clash for first place honors early in the season. The 291st scored three times in the first half and had to hold off a determined Co. A team in the fourth quarter for a 25 to 18 victory.

On the opening kickoff Evans of the 291st, took the ball on his ten, picked up a couple of key blocks, and scampered 70 yards to pay dirt. The PAT was unsuccessful.

Co. A received the kickoff and in the second play from scrimmage the alert defensive team of the 291st picked off a Reynold's pass. Two plays later the MPs scored on a 28 run by Evans. Again, the point after was missed. In the second period, Co. A pushed over their first touchdown on an eight yard by halfback Bihleman. The score stood 12-6 as the point after was missed. The 291st, taking advantage of Evan's arm, scored their third touchdown on a twenty yard pass to Minor. The point after was unsuccessful and the first half ended with the 291st leading 18-6.

The third period proved to be a battle of defense, as both clubs exchanged the ball several times. The period ended with Co. A deep in 291st territory.

Early in the fourth quarter Co. A scored on a five yard run by quarterback Reynolds. The point after was missed and the score stood 18-12. With their running game at a standstill the 291st turned to the reliable arm of Evans and scored on a 30 yard pass to Minor. This time a pass, from Moody to Marbury, was good for the point after and the score stood 25-12.

Once again it was a battle of the defenses as the ball exchanged hands several times. A blocked punt by Wheeler, which was recovered in the end zone by Andell, put Co. A right back in the game. The point after was unsuccessful and the score stood 25-18. The last scoring opportunity by Co. A was squelched by an intercepted pass. Time ran out with the 291st in possession of the ball. The game ended 25 to 18 in favor of the 291st MPs over Co. A, OGMS.

TEN COMPLETE TRAINING COURSE

A 30-hour Methods of Instruction training course, sponsored by the Training and Career Development Branch, Civilian Personnel Division at Redstone Arsenal, was completed by ten Redstone employes recently.

Employes were selected by management on the basis of maturity, poise, and experience to instruct new clerk-typists and stenographers in correspondence procedures and office practices.

Most of the instructors are scheduled to teach one day a month. However, more such instructors are needed according to the personnel at the Training and Career Development Branch. The Judge Advocate Advises

ASSUMPTION OF RISKS BY SPECTATORS

The outlook wasn't brilliant for the home team with the score tied, two of the opposition players on base and only one out. "Spec" Tator, a rabid fan, leaned forward on his seat in the left field bleachers. The pitcher got his signal, the ball sped toward the plate.

Then came two sharp cracks. The first was the bat on the ball. The second was the ball on Spec's head. Spec went to sleep, and quick.

To recover damages for his injuries and medical bills, Spec made a claim against the baseball club. He charged it with negligence in failing to put a wire screen in front of the bleachers where he sat and in failing to warn him that batted balls might come into those bleachers and injure him.

But the court said, "No" to Spec. He had chosen to sit in the unscreened bleachers in preference to sitting behind a screen where the tickets cost more. Therefore, he had "assumed the risk" of being hit by a batted or thrown ball during the playing of the game. No recovery was allowed.

In such cases, the courts say that the spectator is an invitee to whom the invitor (the ball club) owes the duty to exercise ordinary care to render the premises reasonably safe for him.

"But," say the courts, "the invitor is not an insurer of the safety of the invitee; neither is the invitee protected against all hazards, nor relieved of all duty to himself for his own safety. And to the extent that the duty of self-protection rests upon the invitee, the duty of the invitor to protect is reduced."

These same rules as to "assumption of risk" are applied to most places of amusement and amusement devices. A swimmer must anticipate that a diving board will be wet and slippery. A person who rides on the "Dodgem" and can see the flying sparks, takes the chance that a flying spark may strike his eye.

And one who goes upon a revolving floor device for the purpose of being thrown from it, accepts the dangers inherent in such sports so far as they are obvious.

On the other hand, if the danger is not apparent or obvious, the operator of the device has a duty to warn the rider or spectator. It is the ordinary risk that is assumed, not the unusual.

Where, for example, a device known as the "Bug" was operated on a particular occasion at an especially fast speed so that it jerked and jolted violently, a rider who was injured by these unusual conditions was permitted to recover.

A patron of a place of amusement is entitled to be protected from hidden dangers, but he cannot go into a place of danger

Preventing Fires Prevents Accident

By D. K. Womack

It is with distressing regularity the newspaper and television furnish us with disastrous reports of the tragic loss of life and property as a result of fires.

More appalling of course is the loss of life, and exceedingly disturbing is the fact that many lives are lost not directly as a result of the fires, but from the panic which follows the cry of "fire."

Particularly when the cry alarm is followed by a rush of smoke and heated gases, the stage is well set for a human stampede of the worst sort. A group of people in a state of panic creates a situation equally as dangerous to themselves as would a herd of frightened cattle.

Repeated incidents confirm the terror of panic as a result of fire, in night clubs, hotels, hospitals, theatres, and other places of public assembly. However, this combined fire and panic hazard exists not only in places of public assembly, but in shops, warehouses, office buildings and dwellings as well.

As a safety measure, every effort is made here at Redstone to provide building facilities with adequate exits, which are well placed and suitably marked. These give a sense of security which lessens the panic hazard, in the event of a serious fire or explosion; however, these measures alone are not enough.

Personnel occupying these buildings must be trained in the art of safe conduct during an emergency and to insure their knowledge of the proper exits and escape routes, so that safe and orderly evacuation may be made from a dangerous area.

Fire protection regulations require periodic fire drills for all personnel to maintain a constant awareness of fire safety and safe behaviour during a fire, but all too often these exercises are not conducted with sufficient frequency to meet the desired standards.

All too often participation in these drills is taken too lightly by some. This attitude is a serious mistake which could contribute to misfortune and tragedy.

Periodic inspections are made of all buildings by both the Fire Department personnel and safety representatives to detect and eliminate hazardous conditions which produce fires.

However, this combined effort alone will not completely insure the safety of life and property. Every individual concerned has the responsibility to observe and report any unsafe act or fire producing condition noted to their immediate supervisor.

Although the Fire Prevention Program and the Safety Program at the Redstone Arsenal and other United States Army Installations are separated administratively they are peculiar to the extent that a continuing coordinated effort between the two programs is required to insure the safety of personnel and property.

Fire safety-prevention plus protection is an important goal. Fire Prevention Week October 9-15 was observed here at Redstone and across the nation and is one of the significant events of the year.

Personnel of the Fire Prevention Branch and the Safety Division enjoin the cooperation of all concerned in a dedicated effort in

A Letter Answers Some Questions On Health Benefits Insurance

The Personnel Office at AOMC sought to clear up some questions posed by individuals enrolled in the Federal Employees Health Benefit Act, Government Wide Indemnity Plan. The following is excerpts from the letter received at AOMC.

"Where an employe or his family, covered under the Plan administered by Aetna, desires to make a claim, he should proceed as follows:

"If it is designed to assign benefits to the hospital, use the hospital Form GO-B, (hospital assignment form); After the employe's full name, date of birth (not age), Enrollment Code Number have all been written in at the appropriate places at the top of the form;

"Fill in the patient's name, relationship to employe, and patient's age.

"The employe should then execute the assignment form at the bottom of Form GO-3 in the presence of the hospital employe. One of the identification cards should be shown at the hospital . . . but not left there.

"The hospital will expect the employe to pay $25 of the $50 calendar year deductible, and the employe's portion of the co-insurance feature of the plan on each hospital admission.

"If a private room is used, the hospital will also expect the employe to pay the difference in the cost of the private room and the average semi-private room.

"Hospitals will assume that the full $50 deductible will apply on out-patient cases. The same procedure should be followed on maternity claims.

"On maternity, the hospital benefits are up to $15 a day, up to 10 days for any one pregnancy or pregnancy termination. It will pay the obstetrician's bill up to $90 for a normal delivery, up to $150 for a Caesarean, and up to $60; for miscarriage or other termination of pregnancy.

"It will pay anesthetist fees up to $18 for normal deliver, up to $30 for Caesarean, and up to $12 for miscarriage or other termination.

"The anesthetist's provision states that in order for the fee to be payable, the anesthetist must not be the attending physician and not be an employe of the hospital.

"In addition to the above, on all types of cases, have the main doctor in attendance fill out the physicians report, Form GO-4. On each separate illness or confinement, the employe should fill out Form GO-2, employes statement and send same with physicians report, his bill, and any other ills, along with one identification card to the Aetna Casualty and Surety Company, Group Claim Department, 1710 1st Avenue North, Birmingham 3, Ala. The identification card shall be returned. The employe may also assign the policy benefits to the surgeon if desired.

Claim forms can be obtained from Aetna's Office at the above address. Identification cards are only issued from the home office of Aetna at 151 Farmington Ave., Hartford Conn., by the Special Group Plans Department.

Former Corn Growing Champ Controls Budget

Spaugh Started As Indiana Farmer, ABMA Comptroller

A tight fist ed ex-farmer and one time Indiana corn growing champion controls upwards of $500 million a year at the Army Ballistic Missile Agency here.

He is James I. Spaugh, a little known agronomist and horticulturist in local circles, but recognized as a wizard when it comes to government finances.

Spaugh is Chief of the Financial Management Office at ABMA. He also casts a wistful glance at local farms and reminisces when he grew the best corn in Indiana and had 50 varieties of grapes growing on a single plot nearly two decades ago.

The war ended all this for Spaugh.

He slucked his overalls and joined the U. S. Government service in Pearl Harbor. As chief of planning for the $40 million dollar Naval Air Station there, he worked with a group that supported all the airplanes operating from carriers in the South Pacific during World War II.

Spaugh spent the duration of the war there. The spirit of the operation and wartime morale made a career employe out of him. He does it as well as he farmed. His office walls contain an array of outstanding performance citations, the latest one just a few months old.

A comptroller, Spaugh explained, must possess a vast knowledge of purchasing, parts and components, engineering costs and production techniques. Like a farmer, however, he also has to plan for crop failures in the missile business and "inclement weather" in developing programs.

Too, Spaugh has learned, a small amount of money often can spray bugs off a sizable problem.

With all this knowledge, the greatest perhaps is his Indiana farmer instincts. This allows, for example, some outguessing and rearrangement of finances to accommodate immediate needs.

While ABMA has grown a fine missile crop, allowances must still be made for budget fluctuations and rush programs.

Spaugh relies on considerable homespun logic to solve these problems. In fact, many missile budgetary problems are solved in his mind as he probes around the 100 African violets he is propagating in his back room "farm."

In addition, he browses through an impressive flower garden in his yard which contains a variety of hybrids and transplants.

Most of his thoughts are clearly focused on missile financing nowadays, but in his spare time he experiments with plant propagation ideas he remembers from the seven year tour of duty in Hawaii and later in the Panama Canal Zone.

In 1952, Spaugh transferred to Camp Aiterbury, Ind., and resumed some of his farming interest. He was able to get together with his father, a retired rural mail carrier, who is widely recognized as an authority on agronomy and horticulture in Indiana.

He also judged a number of exhibits at county fairs, on grains, vegetables and fruit. He had 10,000 gladiola bulbs under propagation at one time.

From corn to missiles is quite a jump for a farmer. Spaugh looks upon both as a crop that requires good management for success. As chief money handler for ABMA, one of the first things he learned was that money does not grow on trees.

MEDIC MEMO: Over 2,000 American and international physicians, dentists, veterinarians, nurses, and medical specialist delegates will begin registering for the 67th Annual Convention of the Association of Military Surgeons in Washington, D. C., on Oct. 30.

Fire kills 11,600, injuries an untold number annually.
