REDSTONE ARSENAL, HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA

NOVEMBER 16, 1960

Value Analysis Seminar Is Scheduled Nov. 29-30

The Army's first Value Analysis-Engineering Seminar for missile systems will be held at Redstone Arsenal, Nov. 29 and 30.

The two-day meeting, which will be attended by more than 400 top management representatives from the Army and industry, is under the joint sponsorship of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency and the Martin Company.

As applied to the Army's missile program, Value Analysis — also referred to as Value Engineering — is a technique designed to provide more missiles for less money.

Essence of the technique is to determine whether a missile part can be simplified and produced at less cost, or can the same job be done without the part. Such determinations are made without sacrificing the quality of performance of the part or the missile.

Participating in the seminar will be many top military and civilian experts engaged in the Army's missile programs; a number of the nation's leaders in value engineering from civilian industry and the Armed Services; and officials of firms holding Army missile contracts.

Among the speakers for the meeting will be Brig. Gen. Richard M. Hurst, Commander of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency; George T. Willey, vice president and general manager of Martin Orlando; and Col. Oliver M. Hirsch, Director of ABMA's Industrial Operations.

Maj. Gen. John A. Barclay, Deputy Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, will address the group at a dinner at the Squirrel Hill Officer's Club, Nov. 29.

Purpose of the seminar is to provide an orientation for agencies most directly concerned with missile costs, from inception to full scale production. It is expected that the result of the seminar will be the establishment of value analysis-engineering programs in the execution of most, if not all, of the Army's missile contracts.

Arthur E. Harvey, Jr., chief of ABMA's Value Analysis Office, is in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

THANKSGIVING DAY

The schedule for on-post Thanksgiving Day activities will be published in detail next week.

Present plans call for religious services, a football game, dinner at the mess halls, and Special Services facilities.

Third Pershing Training Conference Held at OGMS

Representatives from 13 Army agencies and offices and the Martin Company of Orlando, Fla., will meet for two days this week at the Ordnance Guided Missile School for the third Pershing training Conference.

The meeting, scheduled for Nov. 16 and 17, is being conducted by the Army Ballistic Missile Agency.

Discussions will center around plans for training programs for the Army's Pershing ballistic missile. Pershing, now in the research and development phase, will replace the liquid-propellant Redstone for support of the field Army.

The conference is being held at the request of the U.S. Continental Army Command, the agency responsible for training all Army personnel in the United States.

Building and Road Bids to Be Opened

Army Engineers will open bids on successive days at the Engineer district office at Mobile, for two construction jobs to improve facilities at Redstone Arsenal.

Col. R. W. Love, District Engineer, will open bids on Nov. 30, for modifying the mezzanine of Bldg. 4500 to provide additional space for the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency.

The work will include the installation of windows, partitions, acoustical tile ceilings, asphalt tile floors, and wall and ceiling insulation; the alteration of the existing ceramic tile floor and plastering; the provision of utilities, including air conditioning; and interior painting.

Col. Love will open bids on Dec. 1, for extending Martin Road from its intersection with Patton Road northeast to the reservation boundary and constructing a guard house and a control and identification building at the entrance, which will become the main entrance to the reservation.

The job will include the construction of about two miles of 2-lane asphalt road; concrete bridges over three streams; and two small masonry buildings with all necessary utilities and a parking area at the reservation boundary. The State Highway Department will build a connecting road from the entrance to U. S. Highway 231.

Missile Contractors Meet to Discuss Corrosion Problems

More than 200 representatives of Army agencies and missile contractors are meeting at Redstone Arsenal today to discuss the prevention of corrosion in missiles and ground equipment.

During the one-day meeting, the group will hear presentations on corrosion prevention and treatment, as well as a briefing on the Army Ordnance Command's total program for corrosion control. Maj. Gen. John A. Barclay, Deputy Commanding General of AOMC, will present the briefing on AOMC's program.

Metals used in the Army's missile systems are subjected to extensive environmental tests prior to production. While there have been no major problems of corrosion in on-site missiles, the Army (See CONTRACTORS on Page 2)

Gen. Barclay Receives Highest Award of State Rocket Society

THE HIGHEST AWARD made by the Alabama Section of the American Rocket Society, the Hermann Oberth Award, was given to Major General John A. Barclay (left) at the Section's 9th annual Honors Dinner in Huntsville recently. Retired Major General John B. Medaris (right), former Commanding General of AOMC, presented the award to General Barclay. Gen. Medaris, guest speaker for the occasion, was the recipient of the Oberth Award for 1959. The one-third scale bronze bust of Dr. Oberth was given to Barclay for his promotion and advancement of astronautical sciences. Dr. Oberth was one of the earliest theoreticians of astronautics and manned space flight. Major General August Schomburg, Commanding General of AOMC (seated, left) introduced General Medaris. Konrad K. Dannenberg, Alabama Section president, is seated behind Gen. Medaris.

The highest award made by the Alabama Section of the American Rocket Society was given to Major General John A. Barclay, Deputy Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

The Hermann Oberth Award, named for one of the earliest theoreticians of astronautics and manned space flight, is presented annually to an individual for his promotion and advancement of astronautical sciences.

Gen. Barclay received the award at the Alabama Section's 9th annual awards dinner at the Huntsville Country Club. Retired Major General John B. Medaris, former Commanding General of AOMC, was guest speaker. Gen. Medaris received the Oberth award in 1959.

The one-third scale bronze bust of Dr. Oberth was cast from an original sculpture work of Raymond Hass, in Bavaria, Germany. Karel J. Bossart, Technical Director of Convair (Astronautics) made the presentation to Gen. Barclay. Convair sponsors the Hermann Oberth Award for the Alabama Section of the ARS.

Also participating last night's ceremonies were Major General August Schomburg, Commanding General of AOMC; Dr. Werner von Braun, Director of the Marshall Space Flight Center; Konrad K. Dannenberg, president of the Alabama Section; and Dr. Martin Shilling, vice president for Engineering and Research for the Raytheon.

Gen. Barclay has been the Deputy Commanding General of AOMC since April 1, 1960. A veteran of 29 years of Army service, he holds a Master of Science degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is also a graduate of the Armed Forces Staff College, the National War College, and the Army Aviation School.

General Barclay served as Theater Ordnance Officer in China during 1945-46 and was a member of the Army Advisory Group to China in 1946-47. Later he served as Executive Officer of the Research and Development Division in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance.

In May, 1956, he became the Deputy of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal. He was named Commander of ABMA in March, 1958. In that position, his responsibilities included supervision and control of research and development, production, and support of ballistic missile systems and of satellite and space vehicles. While Gen. Barclay commanded ABMA, he was directly concerned with many of the United States' initial efforts in space exploration.

Ordnance Personnel Men Hold 2-Day Conference

Fourteen U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Command civilian personnel officers began a two-day conference Nov. 15.

Robert F. Mello, director of civilian personnel for AOMC Headquarters, welcomed the group to Redstone Arsenal. Mello will preside at the conference sessions.

William H. Rima, Jr., deputy director of the Fifth U. S. Civil Service Office in Atlanta, was among those scheduled to speak. His topic is "Employee Development."

The AOMC personnel officials meet semi-annually to discuss employe problems.

Army Gives Smithsonian 'Able-Baker' Equipment

The Army tomorrow will present the equipment used in the famous "Able-Baker" experiment to the Smithsonian Institute for permanent display in the Smithsonian's Air Museum.

Lt. Gen. John H. Henrichs, Army Chief of Ordnance, will make the presentation to Leonard Carmichael, Secretary of the Smithsonian, in Washington D. C. in brief ceremonies scheduled for 10:30 a.m.

Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, will represent the elements of AOMC at Redstone Arsenal which played a major role in the experiment — the first successful space flight by primates. AOMC served as the managing agency for the experiment.

Much of the equipment that will now be displayed in the national museum was designed and built by the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, an element of AOMC. George Pedigo, who was project engineer at ABMA for the building of the capsule which carried the feral Rhesus monkey, Able, during her historic ride in a Jupiter missile nose cone, will represent the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center at the ceremony.

Many of the personnel involved in the experiment were transferred from ABMA to the Marshall Center earlier this year.

The capsules which housed Able and Baker—a South American squirrel monkey—the tiny helmets they wore, some of the instruments which measured their reactions and the JUPITER missile nose cone that carried them will be turned over to the Smithsonian.

The JUPITER built by ABMA that carried the monkeys was fired at Cape Canaveral, Fla., in the early morning hours of May 29, 1959. The Surgeons General of the Army and Navy worked on the biomedical experiments placed in the missile nose cone as passengers in support of the space programs of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

AOMC to Host Boy Scout Roundup

Major General August Schomburg, Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command and Chairman of the 1960 Pershing-Zeus Boy Scout Roundup, announced plans for the December 3 Boy Scout "open house" at Redstone Arsenal.

More than 2000 Boy Scouts and Scout leaders are expected to attend the Roundup activities at (See BOY SCOUT on Page 2)

TWO CONTRACTS AWARDED

Two contracts aggregating $14,258.00 were concluded during October between Army Ordnance Missile Command elements at Redstone Arsenal and two Alabama firms.

The MG Electrical Equipment Co., of Birmingham and the Noland Co., Inc., of Decatur, were the participating companies.

The Birmingham contract, in the sum of $8,144, was for resistors and capacitors; the Decatur contract, at $6,114 for pipes and valves.

The Redstone Rocket

The Redstone Rocket is a privately owned newspaper published every Wednesday at no expense to the Government by Jack W. Hoffhaus, Hartselle, Alabama, with exclusive regard for the reader's interests of personnel at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama, in accordance with an agreement between the publisher and the Public Information Office, Army Ordnance Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal, Alabama.

The Rocket is NOT an official or semi-official Army or Ordnance Corps publication. Policies and statements reflected in the news and editorial columns represent the views of the individual writers and are not necessarily those of the Department of the Army, the Ordnance Corps, or any organization at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama. Appearance of advertisements in the Rocket does not constitute an endorsement of the advertising matter by the Department of the Army, the Ordnance Corps, or any organization at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama.

The publisher will receive editorial content for publication in the Rocket only through the Public Information Office, Army Ordnance Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal, Alabama, Bldg. 4505, Extension 2722. All advertising copy and payments therefor are received by Mrs. Zillah Newsome, 311 Holmes Ave., N. E., Huntsville, Alabama, P. O. Box 346, telephone JE 4-4701, as representative of the publisher.

The Redstone Rocket is distributed free of cost to personnel at Redstone Arsenal. Mailing rates for the Rocket are $5.00 a year, or $2.75 for six months. Mailing arrangements may be made with the publisher.

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEN OF THE THIRD UNITED STATES ARMY

On behalf of the United States Army, I extend best wishes and congratulations to the officers and men of the Third United States Army on the occasion of its forty-second anniversary.

Formed after the end of World War I at Ligny-en-Barrois, France, Third Army organized and established the American military occupation of Germany.

During the early part of World War II, it prepared and trained tactical units for service overseas until the time when it entered combat itself during the Normandy Invasion. From then on, Third Army played a significant role in the active effort to crush the enemy's military power. From July 1944 to V-E Day, the Third took part in five campaigns, and gained historic distinction for its successful push through France and across the Rhine, culminating in its brilliant drive into Czechoslovakia just before the war's end. Following the cessation of hostilities, Third Army again, as after World War I, performed vital occupation duties in Germany.

Today, the Third Army continues to contribute to the security of the Nation and the Free World by carrying out important training missions essential to the strength and war-deterrent role of our Army.

I join with other members of the United States Army in expressing pride and confidence in the Third United States Army as it continues to add to its proud traditions of the past and completes another year of devoted service to our country.

G. H. DECKER
General, United States Army
Chief of Staff

ANNIVERSARY MESSAGE TO THIRD UNITED STATES ARMY 15 November 1960

All members of United States Continental Army Command join me in extending congratulations to personnel of the Third United States Army on the occasion of your organization's forty-second anniversary.

The decisive victories won by the Third Army during the Normandy, Northern France, Rhineland, Ardennes-Alsace and Central Europe campaigns of World War II are indelibly written into the pages of military history. Its traditionally high standards of performance during time of war have been adhered to in the dispatch of peacetime missions.

Today, as a member of the "One Army" team, the Third United States Army continues to render essential, praiseworthy service to our country.

You have my best wishes for future success.

HERBERT B. POWELL
General, U. S. Army, Commanding

MISSILE DEFINITION: Thrust — the "push" obtained by exhausting material backward, that lifts or accelerates a rocket. Thrust is expressed in pound of force.

BOY SCOUT

Redstone that day. All scouts who have recruited at least one new boy for scouting between Sept. 1 and Nov. 26 will be invited to attend.

Major General John A. Barclay, Deputy Commanding General of AOMC, will welcome the group to Redstone at 8:30 a.m. in building 8024. Beginning at 9:00 a.m. the scouts will be divided into ten groups and rotated among ten missile and rocket exhibits.

The ten exhibits include the following missiles and rockets: Pershing, Zeus, Redstone, Nike Hercules, Hawk, SS-10, SS-11, Honest John, Little John, La-Crosse, and Sergeant.

A movie, "The Army Family of Missiles," will also be shown.

Groups will rotate every 15 minutes, with five minutes allowed for movement between exhibits.

At 12:30, scouts will reassemble in building 8024 for the presentation of Roundup awards. Gen. Schomburg will present individual awards to the nine scouts who have recruited the most boys during the Roundup. For the leading recruiter in each of the eight districts and divisions, there will be a camper tent and sleeping bag. A grand prize will be awarded the scout who has recruited the most boys for scouting. Additionally, units which have completed all requirements will receive banners and certificates signifying successful participation in the Roundup.

Robert L. Haskins, Tennessee Valley Council Scout Executive, will address the group also. Captain Sherman Seltzer of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency will act as Master of Ceremonies. Four mobile canteens will be available to the scouts for lunch. Music for the occasion will be provided by the 5th Army Band from Redstone Arsenal.

Col. Zierdt, ARGMA Commander, Visits New Jersey, Florida

Col. John G. Zierdt, Commander of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency is visiting the RCA facilities in Camden and Moorestown, N. J., and the Thiokol facilities in Trenton this week.

His visit, in conjunction with the work the contractors are doing for ARGMA was scheduled Nov. 16-18.

Last week Col. Zierdt was at the Martin Co., in Orlando. His guide during briefings on current and long range missile system programs at Martin was G. T. Willey, vice president and general manager.

Col. Zierdt also spoke at a combined meeting of Reserve Officers Association and Military Order of World Wars in Orlando on Nov. 11. His subject was the "Army Missile Programs."

Brig. Gen. Eggleston Visits AOMC, And ARGMA

Brigadier General Howard K. Eggleston, Chief of the Military Supply Division in the office of the Army Chief of Engineers, visited the Army Ordnance Missile Command recently.

He left for Washington after a one-day tour and orientation combined with conferences with key AOMC officials on various projects of mutual interest.

General Eggleston was welcomed to AOMC by Major General August Schomburg, its commanding general.

He met with Colonel R. O. Leh-tonen, deputy commander, Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, and received briefings there on two ARGMA weapons systems, Nike Zeus and Mauler, given by First Lt. James A. Mullin and Major Henry D. Mittman.

my would like to extend even further the life of the metals used.

The metals must have the durability to withstand all kinds of weather in areas of extreme conditions. The same missile that could remain operational in an area such as Alaska, must also be capable of functioning properly in the Panama Canal Zone.

This must be accomplished without sacrificing any of the mission of the missile and without increasing the weight of the system too greatly.

Among those participating in today's conference are representatives of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Frankford Arsenal and Rock Island Arsenal.

Zierdt Praises Zeus Before Joint Meeting in Florida

ORLANDO, FLA., — "Boldness, great skill, and sustained and dedicated effort have developed the Nike Zeus, which the Army believes is now ready for production."

Col. John G. Zierdt, the man in charge of the "only authentic anti-ICBM system under development today," told a Veteran's Day audience this at Orlando Air Force Base.

The Commander of the U. S. Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, an element of the U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama, addressed a joint meeting of the Central Florida Chapters of the Retired Officers Association and of the Military Order of the World Wars.

Colonel Zierdt said the Army rejected the idea that an Intercontinental Ballistic Missile was the "ultimate weapon" and proceeded with the concept of a missile that could intercept it.

The missile expert used film to show the capability of various Army missiles to intercept other missiles. He said once this theory had been proved the Army proceeded with the development of Nike Zeus as a possible answer to the ICBM threat.

Today it has the nation's highest priority and is on a million-dollar-a-day development program. "Nike Zeus has already undergone several successful firings," he added.

He had this to say about the major implications of the Army missile systems that have evolved from modern technology.

"We know that this technology is not standing still either for us or for any potential aggressor.

"As we move forward and are engaged in a struggle for our very survival, we require your understanding of the fact that we must continue a sustained sense of urgency.

"This urgency is in science, in applied technology, in education, in a challenging situation as any this nation has ever faced."

The Army Ordnance weapons reviewed by Colonel Zierdt range in size from the bazooka-type REDEYE, an anti-aircraft guided missile which can be shouldered fired by one man, to the mighty Nike Zeus which is designed to combat intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Col. Zierdt said the REDEYE will replace the .50 caliber air defense machine gun.

"Although simple for the soldier to handle, it is a sophisticated, complex guided missile. It uses infrared guidance and is able to find the target on heat radiation by the target," he added.

The ARGMA chief described MAULER as a complete, self-contained, self-propelled guided missile system, mounted on a tracked chassis of standard design.

"MAULER will move with and protect our highly mobile armor and infantry elements and will possess a shoot-on-the-move, all-weather, day-and-night capability."

Speaking of the LACROSSE, he said, "This is a highly accurate general support field artillery weapon. It bears a 'Made in Orlando' stamp, since it is manufactured here by the Martin Company.

"LACROSSE can carry an atomic or non-atomic warhead. It is also an all-weather weapon."

Colonel Zierdt described the Army's HAWK as a low altitude air defense weapon for use with our field Army and divisions. It has a high rate of fire and a short reaction time to its intended target.

Boy, do we ever have a week lined up for all you lucky boys! We start it off Wednesday, the 16th at 1930 hours with our usual dance classes, which, by the way, are going great with Ray Pisani directing. I have heard, on good authority, that we have some amazing dancing talent around the Service Club, and its beginning to show up in these dance classes. I crept in and watched from the sidelines. You should see some of those people tango! The dance classes are filled now, but those of you who missed out on this course, be on the alert for the next one.

Thursday night, the 17th, we really get underway with a Semi-Formal Thanksgiving Dance at 2000 hours that ought to be a swinger. Gene Louis's Sextet will be pouring forth a lot of good foot-twitching music, also, the Birmingham girls will be here with our own Junior Hostesses from Huntsville. Those girls can dance like crazy. Don't let the words, "Semi-Formal", shake you up - coat, tie and dress parts are all that's necessary.

By the way, have you ever noticed that when someone says the word "pinochle", certain people get a strange glazed look in their eyes? This marks a pinochle player. We plan to have plenty of glazed gazes around the Club this week, because on the 18th, 19th, and 20th, we're throwing a pinochle marathon.

The marathon is scheduled for Friday at 1830 hours until 2200 hours, Saturday at 1330 hours until 2200 hours, and Sunday 1330 hours until 2000 hours. We were going to run it a trifle longer, but we are considering your health, so we will reluctantly close the marathon Sunday night.

On that same Sunday, 20 Nov.,

when the pinochle players are staggering in for the final session, another group will be climbing aboard a bus for a tour of Cathedral Caverns, an underground wonderland that is really something to see.

Any camera fans who plan to bring your cameras, don't forget your flash attachment, because it's dark in the cave. You must sign up in advance at the Service Club. Now, remember, that's Sunday, 20 Nov., tour leaving at 1330 hours from the Service Club.

Of course, we will serve coffee and donuts as usual Sunday morning at 0930 hours, and Sunday night at 2000 hours, we will have a record dance.

Well, that takes care of the weekend.

Monday night, bingo is coming up. On Tuesday night the 22nd, we have a Rho Sigma Chi meeting at 1930 hours. For the uninitiated, Rho Sigma Chi is synonymous with Junior Hostess. I really have to hand it to the Jr. Hostesses, they were right in there working hard on all sorts of decorations during October.

If anyone got a charge out of the huge spider web in the center of the ceiling at the Halloween Dance, you owe it to "Spider" John Kassner. The crepe paper decorations around the bandstand had the magic touches of Betty Ann Shamblin, Cathy Vaughn, and Mary Todd.

History

Last week was Hayseed Week at the Service Club. We had an Old Fashioned Hoe-Down on Saturday night that really shook the rafters.

The staff spent half the night scraping people off the walls, untangling over-zealous dancers, and getting the lighter girls down

Dale Carnegie Grads Plan to Organize

An organizational meeting of the Dale Carnegie Alumni Club will be at the International Business Machines Office, 1320 Meridian St., North, at 7 p.m., on Nov. 16.

The club objective is to encourage and aid in continued development of speakers and leaders who will take active part in community affairs. All graduates of Dale Carnegie leadership courses, regardless of where or when completed are invited to attend.

For further information, individuals may contact Billie Crew, JE 6-0590, or Doyce Thompson, JE 9-3425.

from the ceiling.

On Sunday night, we had a hayride, a hamburger fry, and a dance, with Bill Johnson's Combo doing the honors at the Club.

That's all the news for this time, but keep your eyes on this column, because we have some interesting programs coming up at the Service Club, including little goodies like a spaghetti supper in the near future, and you wouldn't want to miss them.

Lucas at the monthly Lions Club banquet in the Russel Erskine Hotel. SP4 Lucas was the guest of honor of the Club, co-sponsor with the Huntsville-Madison County Chamber of Commerce for the local Soldier of the Month program. Lucas and his wife were weekend guests at the Albert Pick Motel. SP4 Lucas is a legal clerk in the Redstone Arsenal Adjutant and Administrative Services Division. He is a native of Illinois with a bachelor's degree in government earned at Southern Illinois, University. He also has a law degree from Texas University School of Law. He belongs to Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity, and Pi Sigma Alpha, honorary political science fraternity.

'COMING DOWN THE MOUNTAIN' NO SOFT STUNT

Ft. Gerrly, Alaska (AFPS)
—The sergeant let out a yell as he hurtled down the sheer mountain cliff, kicking furiously to keep his face and body from its jagged rock. "Falling!" he shouted to the men above him.

Then his body jerked rigid and the rope around him stretched taut. At the top of the cliff it was attached to a belay held by another sergeant.

They were two of 100 non-commissioned officers training at the Army's Cold Weather and Mountain School under the watchful experienced eye of SFC Richard C. Powers, a mountain instructor. His job was to teach them that the built-in hazards of mountain warfare can be reduced with the proper know-how.

"We teach every possible safety device," says Powers. "But you cannot take all of the danger out of mountaineering. And when you're teaching men to scramble up mountains taking and returning bullets it's even more dangerous than the techniques of sport climbing."

Powers speaks from experience. He was one of the first 10 men in the Army's 10th Mountain Div. when it was formed in 1941, and led one of its companies that helped crack the Axis line in the Apennines Mountains of Northern Italy.

Another old hand at mountain techniques is the school's chief instructor, Maj. Glen H. LaPine,

"No one desires peace as much as the soldier for he must pay the greatest penalty in war."

—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur who, like Powers, is an expert parachuter and finds climbing a bit more demanding of skill than jumping.

"You have a greater feeling of depth on a steep cliff only 50 feet high than you do when you go out the door of an airplane 2,500 feet high, says the major. "A billowing parachute canopy feels a lot more secure than a quarter inch-wide ledge of decaying rock."

Season Ends With 27-6 Headquarters Victory

Hq. Co OGMS ended their regular football season, with 8 wins and 2 defeats, as they dominated Co. B, OGMS 27-6 on Linton Field, 8 Nov. Hq. Co. cinched at least a tie for second place in the RSA Tackle Football League.

McElhinney, Hq. Co. a leading scorer throughout the season, equalled the century mark scoring three touchdowns and an extra point to bring his season's total points to exactly 100. Tomshee, who lead the scoring most of the season, scored one TD to bring his season's total to 88 points, second to teammate McElhinney.

On the opening kickoff Co. B recovered an on-sides-kick on Hq Co.'s 35 yard line but were forced to punt after four downs. Sayger, Co. B, tackled the Hq's man, returning the ball, with such force that he fumbled and Co. B again recovered the ball for a first down on Hq. Co.'s 10 yard line.

As before they were contained by Hq. Co.'s defense being prevented from scoring.

Hq. Co. took over the ball and moved via short passes and runs to Co. B's 5 yard line before McElhinney scored the game's first touchdown. The attempted EP was missed. The quarter ended 6-0.

Early in the second quarter Hq. Co. added another seven points as Quarterback Barrows passed to Halfback McElhinney for a 30 yard TD play and again for the point after touchdown. The defensive units of Hq. Co. using gang-tackling, and of Co. B stalwarted by Sayger, Andre, and Westphal, held the opponent's offensive units from scoring the rest of the half. The halftime score was 13-0 in Hq. Co.'s favor.

In the third period Hq. Co. scored an early TD, after driving down to the six yard line, when Halfback Tomshee carried around end to paydirt. The PAT was missed. Undaunted by this TD, Co. B, scored its only touchdown on a 10 yard pass from Quarterback Suchan to End Andre. The extra point attempt was unsuccessful. The third quarter score was 19-6.

The last touchdown of the evening was scored on a pass play covering 20 yards from Hq. Co.'s Quarterback Barrows to McElhinney. Williams booted the PAT for two points boosting Hq. Co.'s score 27 to 6 over Co. B.

Turkey Bowl Classic Scheduled Nov. 24

An annual attraction sponsored by Special Services Sports Branch, the "Tur-Bowl Classic," will be played, 1500 hours, 24 Nov. at Linton Field.

The competition will be between the RSA All-Stars and the OGMS All-Stars from their respective troop commands. All-Star players will be selected by SFC Paul Teagarden, RSA All-Star Coach, and 1st Lt. Joel Thomas, OGMS All-Star Coach. A handsome 15 inch, silver-plated, "Turkey Bowl Classic" Trophy will be awarded to the winners at the game's conclusion. This is a rotating trophy and permanent possession will be obtained by the team that wins the 'Classic' two consecutive years.

This game will have no effect on the regular season play, but is an added attraction and climax of the 1960 Football Season. Officials for this 'Classic' are:

USAG Beats OGMS, Co. B

Hq USAG overpowered an injury ridden Co. A, OGMS team on a rain soaked Linton Field by the score of 39-2. As rain hampered the passing game of both teams, which is the main threat of Co. A, the teams mainly used their ground attack. Garrisons defense held Co. A to only one first down, that came in the fourth quarter on a pass from Quarterback Davis to End Simon. Simon also gave Co. A their only score on the last play of the game as he nailed Garrisons Halfback Myers in the end zone for a two point safety.

Offensively, Garrison's first squad scored every time they obtained the ball. Four times in the first half Garrison drove to within Co. A's 20 yard line and scored from there. In the first quarter Clark carried 10 yards for the TD and Mocerri drop kicked for 2 points.

On the next series for Garrison, Center Greeson caught a 10 yard pass from Quarterback Matienzo for an additional six points.

In the second quarter, after a TD play by End Cassidy was called back on a penalty. Matienzo tossed a 15 yard pass to End Smith for another score.

The last touchdown before the half, was scored on a line plunge by Halfback Lucas. End Collier received a Matienzo pass for the extra point, putting Garrison into a halftime lead of 27-0.

After the half, Garrison scored again when Halfback Budd drove over for the counter from five yards out. The third quarter ended with Garrison threatening on the Co. A 10 yard line after Mocerri had hotfooted it 40 yards. The score at this time stood 33-0 in Garrisons favor.

On the second scrimmage play, Mocerri skirted end for the tally, ending USAG's scoring. Two Co.

Referee, Victor DeAnglo; Umpire, Melton White; Head Linesman, Pleasant Riley; and Backfield Judge, Harold Lane. The 55th US Army Band will perform at halftime for this Thanksgiving Classic.

Spragins Tournament Golf Trophies Awarded at Lunch

Thirty-two golfers were lunch-guests of Mrs. R. L. Spragins in the Blue Room of the Russel Erskine Hotel last week climaxing the tournament sponsored by Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Spragins among the Golf Group of the Redstone Officers Wives Club.

The tournament ran from Oct. 7-28. Gen. Spragins presented the awards which included a charm bracelet to first flight winner, Mrs. Glenn Crane. Mrs. Frank Napper won the second flight; Mrs. Adonis Creel, third flight; and Mrs. Stephen Albee, Jr., was low putt champion.

Mrs. H. H. Wishart was presented a gift certificate by Gen. Spragins in appreciation of her efforts in arranging the tournament.

Gen. Spragins also celebrated his birthday by blowing out candles on a birthday cake while the guests sang "Happy Birthday."

The head table was decorated with an elaborate arrangement of red and white gladioli. Guests places were marked with name cards with a golf motif.

Guests, other than tournament participants, were: Mrs. Milton Cummings, Mrs. J. B. Medaris,

A passes were intercepted by defensive Halfbacks Myers and Matienzo.

The final score was 39-2 with Garrison winning.

Films Will Be Shown

A series of films entitled Ballistic and Space Vehicle Systems will be presented to the public at Huntsville under the sponsorship of the Alabama Section, American Rocket Society. The University of Alabama is providing the film locally for these public presentations. The films were produced this year by the Audio Visual Department of the University of California.

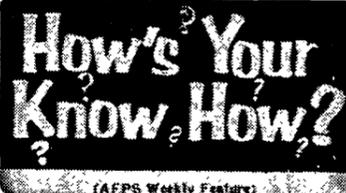

The fifteen lectures survey the fields of propulsion, structures, flight dynamics and vehicle design, missile performance and trajectory analysis, guidance control, re-entry and recovery, auxiliary, guidance control, detailed list of lecture topics, dates, and information concerning the lectures is attached.

The filmed lectures will begin on Tuesday, November 22, 1960, and will be held on each Wednesday evening for 15 weeks, from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. at the Rocket Auditorium on Redstone Arsenal.

Notes on the lectures in considerable detail have been prepared for subscribers to the series and will be distributed at the first film presentation on November 22.

Applications will be accepted in the order in which they are received. Persons wishing to participate in this series should fill out the application below and mail with their check. The fee for attending the series is $20. For members of the American Rocket Society the fee is $10. Persons wishing to apply for Rocket Society membership may call Mr. Milton Anderson, membership chairman, JE 6-5536, Ext. 464.

GEN. LEMNITZER THANKS TROOPS

Gen. L. L. Lemnitzer recently made the following remarks at a farewell retreat and review at Ft. Meyer when he moved up to Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

He explained in a letter to the Chief of Ordnance, Lt. Gen. John H. Hinrichs, that the following remarks were in reality intended for all of the Army and thanked the Ordnance troops in particular:

Gen. Lemnitzer's Address

"Moving on from my duties as Chief of Staff of the Army to enter my new assignment as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, I do so with a deep feeling of pride, confidence, and appreciation for the Army.

"My pride stems from the splendid qualities of the Army today as a skilled, dedicated member of our Armed Forces Team. My confidence is based on the knowledge that, with Mr. Brucker as its Secretary and with General Decker serving ably as its Chief of Staff, the Army will go on to ever greater achievements. My appreciation derives from all that the Army has done for me as an individual.

"For more than 40 years, the Army has been my home. It has taught me many valuable lessons. It has given me many rewarding experiences. It has granted me opportunity of the most satisfying kind — the opportunity for challenging service. Its members have furnished me with loyal and devoted support. Its leaders — civilian and military — have provided me with wise guidance and inspiring examples.

"The Army is a vast organization. My thanks to all its members — civilian and military — who are performing such a great variety of important duties throughout the world, and performing them quietly, efficiently and without fanfare. My thanks to the men in the combat arms and to all those who support them in the basic mission of the Army.

"I am particularly mindful of and grateful to the thousands who are serving in the far corners of the earth — in the tropics and the Arctic — along the Iron Curtain in Europe and the Demilitarized Zone in Korea — as Military Attaches or members of Military Advisory Groups and Missions. Also, my thanks to the Army Staff — without which this great Army organization could not function effectively.

"In particular, Mr. Secretary (Brucker), I want to express my appreciation of the privilege of service directly under you for more than three years. I want, also, to extend my congratulations to you and to the Army as a whole upon your splendid new Chief of Staff, General George Decker.

"Although I now am moving from my Army assignment, I prefer to consider this move not as

FOOTBALL CHEER HAD ITS ORIGIN IN CIVIL WAR

Football stadiums throughout the country echo to familiar cheers pouring from thousands of throats — "Siss, siss, boom, boom, aaaaaahhhhhh . . ."

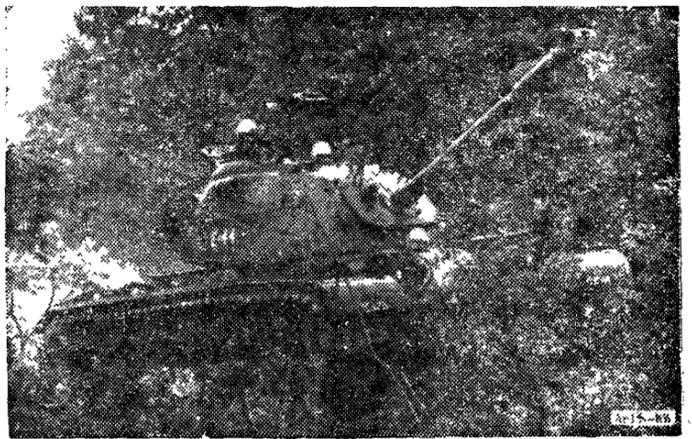

No glad contest would be complete without it. It dates from the first football game played in America.

That took place in 1869, the contestants being Princeton and Rutgers. Princetonian spectators encouraged their team with a rousing "Siss, boom, ah!" They had never forgotten this rocket yell of New York's 7th Regt. which had passed through Princeton during the Civil War.

The Confederate forces in that conflict also contributed to the football exhortation. At many games played in Dixie the wild Rebel yell whoop rings out in one of leaving the Army so much as it is one of joining all of the Armed Forces of the United States — the Navy, the Marine Corps and the Air Force as well as the Army. All have a vital role to play in defending this country against the greatest threat that we have faced in our entire history.

"But as I move, I know that, whatever requirements the future may bring, the Army's dedicated men and women will rise successfully to the challenge in the same outstanding manner which has marked the Army's service to the Nation for more than 185 years."

DRIVER TRAINING—An Army tank rumbles over the natural-terrain convoy course at Ft. Knox, Ky. The armor trainee at the controls must run the course both in daylight and darkness and is graded on whether he observes safety rules, complies with arm and hand signals, keeps correct distance from other tanks and checks his vehicle during operation.

chorus. But in the festive atmosphere of the football stadium it isn't as ferocious as the cry historian Douglas Southall Freeman, writing of the Battle of Spotsylvania, calls "the fiendish yell (that) froze the blood in the gathering twilight."

In the history of cheering in America, one can go back to the time of Washington. What later became the best-known description of him was actually a cheer used by his followers. They would chant, "Who was George Washington? — First in war — first in peace—first in the hearts of his countrymen!" and then follow it up by stamping their feet in rhythm.

EVACUATING WOUNDED MEN—one of the most spine chilling feats of mountain warfare. Two Army Cold Weather and Mountain School students slowly rappel down a sheer cliff while they guide the stretcher down. A healthy but rather scared patient is securely tied to the stretcher, giving him a feeling of complete helplessness as he watches the faces of the two men performing their exhausting work.

Tenn. AOA Group Tours AOMC Facility

More than 50 members of the Nashville Volunteer Post of the American Ordnance Association visited the Army Ordnance Missile Command Wednesday.

They were greeted upon arrival by Major August Schomburg, Commanding General of AOMC. Later they received briefings on the organization and mission of the command.

The afternoon was devoted to a tour of a test range, the Ordnance Guided Missile School and the Missile Exhibit Unit.

Members of the Volunteer Post represented local chapters in cities and towns throughout Tennessee. President of the post is Brig. Gen. H. A. Nisley (U. S. Army Ret.). This was the first trip to Redstone for the group.

The AOA is a national organization composed of Army Ordnance officers and civilians interested in the promotion of Ordnance and Army programs.

Members of the Volunteer Post departed Wednesday evening following a dinner at the Squirrel Hill Officer's Club.

SECRETARY BRUCKER SAID IT: "We must work with nations of the world to find a way toward true peace. However, in the face of the massive threat which confronts us, dare we let down our guard for even an instant, We cannot afford to 'stack arms' in any respect. Rather, we must constantly seek to extend and improve our military capability."

Operation Blonde

IT'S NO SMALL OPERATION, FEEDING U. N. DELEGATES

New York (APPS) — New York is a city famed for the variety and opulence of its eating places, but one of its biggest restaurant operations is not, strictly speaking, in the city at all.

It is on the East River where the great glass shaft of the United Nations rears skyward. Within, to serve the delegates and their staffs, a hotel chain operates seven dining rooms, one large cafeteria, three snack bars, a coffee shop, four bars and three cocktail lounges. The basement cafeteria is open to the public.

Some idea of the magnitude of the operation may be gained from an estimate that in an average day U. N. personnel consume some 1,800 pounds of meat and poultry, 1,000 pounds of potatoes, 400 pounds of fish, 300 dozen eggs, 250 pounds of coffee, 400 loaves of bread, 300 dozen rolls, 3,000 half-pints of milk, 300 quarts of cream, 300 pounds of butter and 1,500 tea balls.

It is one of the jobs of Manager Frank Reickert to make sure that each day's menu has something for every religion and nationality. The daily menu also features a special dish of one member nation.

As for the bars and cocktail lounges, Reickert says that "These people are fundamentally not drinkers . . . why, we have cocktail parties here where we serve nothing but fruit juices and soft drinks."

The very nature of the United Nations confronts Reickert with problems that would make most restauranters throw up their hands. U. N. meetings often run overtime; lunch may be prepared for one o'clock but a meeting may last until two-thirty. Again, he may suddenly be notified that the Assembly will have a night session; in that case Reickert has to call on his staff for night work.

"We had no rest with the Congo this summer," says Reickert, "and summer's usually a quiet time."

Wheelchair Design Contest Will End December 1, 1960

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The deadline for inventors who want to share in the $5,000 prize money being offered for invention of a practical, self-propelled wheelchair that will go up and down stairs and in and out of public and private buildings, is Dec. 1, 1960.

The announcement was made jointly by Frederick H. Mueller, Secretary of Commerce and Maj. Gen. Melvin J. Maas, USMCR, Ret., Chairman of the President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

The contest is sponsored by the President's Committee. The National Inventors Council of the U. S. Department of Commerce has the responsibility for receiving and evaluating the inventive proposals and recommending the promising ones to three judges who will determine practicality of the designs.

Since many firms are reluctant to hire properly trained and qualified workers who must depend on wheelchairs, and because of the difficulty of bringing chairs into and getting them out of industrial or business spaces, a "Public spirited, private citizen interested in the betterment of the physically handicapped," made the $5,000 prize money offer.

The contest was announced by the National Inventors Council and the President's Committee May 6 on the closing day of the President's Committee's Annual Meeting.

Exact requirements of the chair are as follows:

Maximum weight of occupant — 200 lbs.

Approximate weight of chair — 50-75 lbs.

Wheelchair to be capable of being folded by user and stowed in interior of automobile.

Further details on specifications may be obtained from the National Inventors Council, U. S. Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C.

Fuller Is Named ARGMA Zeus Rep

Major Richard D. Fuller has been named Resident Nike Zeus Project Engineer at Vandenberg Air Force Base, California, by the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency.

ARGMA, an element of the Army Ordnance Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal, is supervising development and testing of the Nike Zeus anti-missile missile system.

Major Fuller will be ARGMA's representative at Vandenberg in connection with tests of the Zeus in the South Pacific. Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles will be fired by Air Force crews at Vandenberg down the Pacific Missile Range. Nike Zeus missiles fired and controlled from Kwajalein Island will be tested in actual intercepts using the incoming ICBM's as targets.

Major Fuller, a native of Dayton, Ohio, is a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, Virginia. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in engineering from VPI.

Prior to his new assignment at Vandenberg, Major Fuller was with the U. S. Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Virginia. His duty station was at the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Whippeny, New Jersey, as liaison officer for CONARC's Material Developments section. Bell Labs is a major industrial contributor to the Nike Zeus program.

He is married to the former Miss Barbara Lauderdale, daughter of Major Clarence E. Lauderdale (U. S. Army Ret.) of Pasadena, California. The Fullers have two children, Dennis, age 7, and Valerie, age 6. Major Fuller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest B. Fuller, reside in Melbourne, Florida.

Major Fuller is a veteran of almost 18 years service. During World War II he participated in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater of Operations. He was awarded the Bronze Star during the Korean War.

The Judge Advocate Advises

WILLS

(Excerpted from a Ohio Bar Association Publication)

After recovering from his second coronary, John R. Straight-forward decided that he ought to have a will. As luck would have it, he happened to meet his old lawyer friend, Casper V. Precise at his first meeting of the Rectangularians after returning from his sick bed.

"Cass, old fellow, how'd you like to make me a will?"

"Sure enough," said Casper, "I'm not busy tomorrow afternoon from 3:30 on. Why don't you come over to the office and we'll talk it over."

Next day at the appointed hour, John presented himself at Casper's office. As Casper knew already, both John's son and daughter had died some years previously. His son's 3 children and his daughter's two were his and his wife's pride of joy.

"I want my wife to have all of my property as long as she lives, but after she dies, I want the kids to have it equally, of course, but I don't want them to be able to spend it until they're 25," John said.

After an hour's conference, during which Casper had made extensive notes on his yellow pad, it was decided that Casper should make a rough draft of the will and that John should come back in a couple of days later to check it over.

When John returned he was presented with a sheaf of typed pages. He noted the provision giving all his property to his wife and then everything became confused. The following language, in particular, had him stumped:

"In Trust Nevertheless . . . for my grandchildren naming each one) . . . The shares of my said grandchildren to be determined on a per capita, not a per stirpes basis."

"What does all this mean?" said John. "It was simple when I said it . . . I just want my grandchildren to share equally, but I don't want them to be able to spend it until they're 25. Why all this rigmarole?"

Casper was expecting something like this and was ready for him. "My job is to start with your wishes and put them in such exact language that no one will have the slightest doubt as to what you mean. If I should say it the way you said it, there might be some doubt as to what you mean, and someone might file a lawsuit to get the court to declare just what you meant. A lawsuit would cost your heirs money, which you don't want and I wouldn't have done my job."

"I know it seems silly to have to go into such detail, but it is necessary. For instance, you said you didn't want your grandchildren to enjoy the property until they are 25; the only way to accomplish this is by testamentary trust, and the usual words used in setting up a trust are, 'In Trust Nevertheless'. Why should I take a chance with another phrase, when I know how this one will be understood?"

"I used the words, 'per capita and not per stirpes' to make it clear that you wanted each grandchild to get the same amount. This is equality per capita instead of equality in the per stirpes sense which means that the three children of your son will share equally in half your property and the two children of your daughter will share equally in the other half. That is the way your property would descend if you had no will, and would, of course, result in your daughter's children each getting more than your sons."

When Casper got through John was convinced. This little story should be a lesson to you, too. If you get bogged down in the terminology of a legal instrument, try to understand that the lawyer who wrote it didn't use those words to confuse you. Believe it, or not, the language is meant to to other lawyers and judges, who make the document crystal clear are after all, lawyers, too.
