ROAD OPENS—Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, Friday places the sign at the intersection of Vincent Drive and Goss Road during dedication ceremonies for the newly opened Drive which leads through the troop area to the Arsenal housing area. KICKOFF FOR JOINT FUND CRUSADE IS ON FEBRUARY 20

Every employe at Redstone Arsenal will be personally contacted and given an opportunity to contribute to the 1961 National Health Agencies and Federal Service Joint Crusade campaign which was kicked off Monday. Redstone Arsenal Executive Chairman, Harold B. Carpenter, announced today

Carpenter further stated that contribution envelopes have been distributed to all agency chairmen and will soon be in the hands of keymen. Keymen will answer questions concerning the campaign.

Carpenter emphasized that the six-week campaign is national in scope. He pointed out the President and the Secretary of Defense have endorsed the fund drives.

The President in his letter of endorsement said "The work of the National Health Agencies offers hope to millions of Americans who are the victims of diseases or disability. Contributions will be used in the great task of treating those who are ill and seeking prevention and cure for many of the feared diseases that threaten the health and life of every American."

Secretary Robert S. McNamara in backing the campaign stated "The work of the National Health Agencies is of the utmost significance to each of us, our families and our friends as well, and must have the full measure of our support if we are to progress in overcoming the illnesses of the body that plagues mankind." (See UNIVERSITY on Page 2)

Road Connects Troop And Housing Areas

The first car to roll along Vincent Drive after the official opening ceremonies last Friday afternoon belonged to Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

Gen. Schomburg opened the road by attaching the sign on the signpost at the intersection of Goss and Vincent and cutting a ribbon while the 55th Army Band furnished a musical accompaniment to the ceremony.

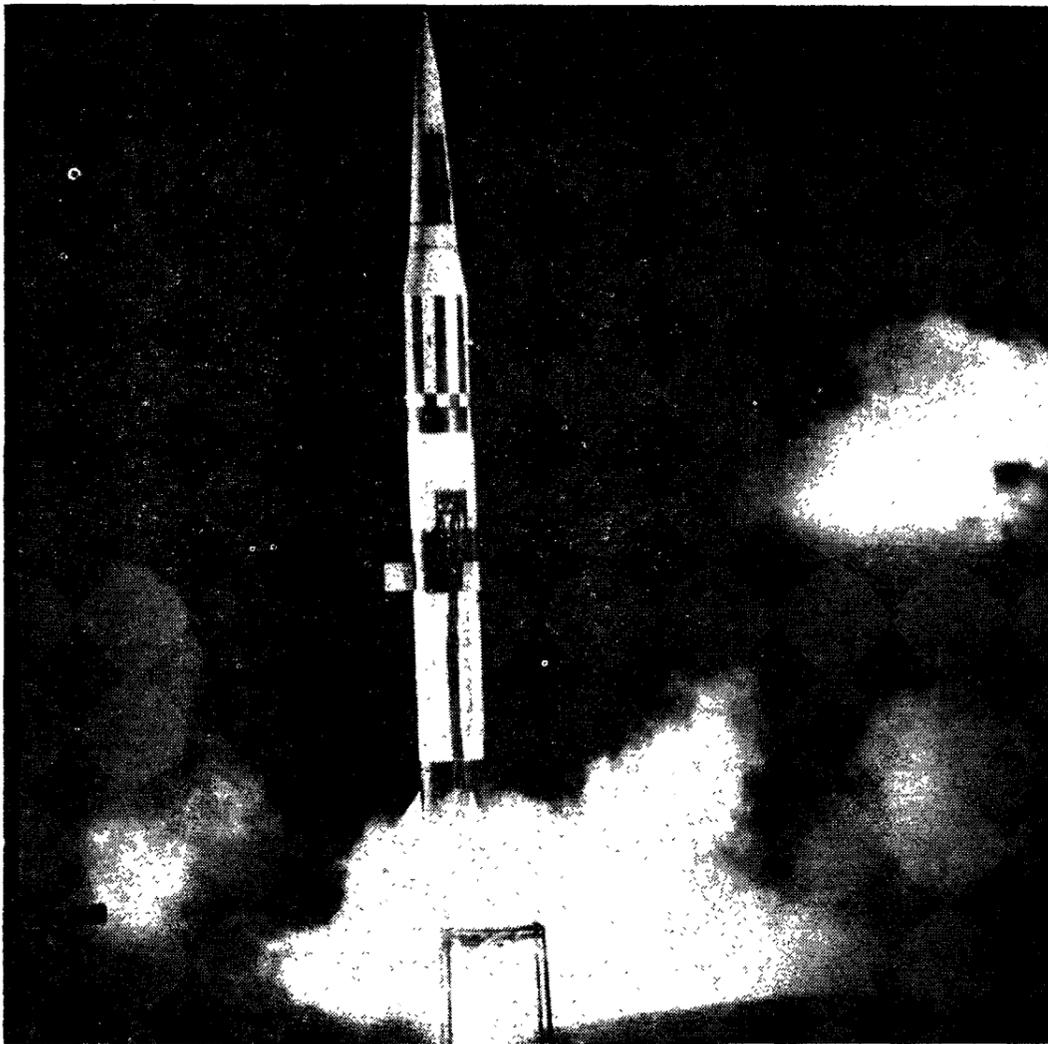

Among the guests present for the dedication ceremony were Col. Owen T. McCloskey, Redstone Arsenal Commander; Col. W. G. Trainer, Post Engineer; Col. Cecil H. Fuller, Deputy District Engineer; J. L. Abercrombie, area Engineer; O. V. Stewart, Jr., Resident Engineer; W. F. Sanders, Paving Engineer; E. G. Gray, Ashburn and Gray, contractor; William T. Moody, project manager for the contractor; and Roble Redden, Property Superintendent.

Vincent Drive was named for Brig. Gen. Thomas K. Vincent, the Arsenal's first commanding general.

Gen. Vincent assumed command of the Arsenal in June, 1952 and served until his retirement from active military service in August, 1954.

At that time, the commanding general was responsible for the Army Ordnance Guided Missile and Rocket programs which became the responsibilities of the Agencies in the Army Ordnance Missile Command (established in 1958).

Gen. Vincent died in September. (See ROAD on Page 2)

ARMY'S PERSHING Ballistic Missile rose into the dark sky over Cape Canaveral in a Feb. 15 test firing. Brig. Gen. Richard M. Hurst ABMA commander, said all test objectives were met. The Pershing also carried flares which were ejected during trajectory to enable optical tracking of the missile.

urge all personnel of the Department of Defense-civilian and military-and Government workers everywhere to continue their leadership in community support of this joint effort."

Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, Commanding General of AOMC and Chairman of the fund drive, has already stated that "These worthy and international causes should inspire the support of each individual." The General further stated that he is looking forward to results as successful as in similar past campaigns.

"We have our tasks set before us," Carpenter continued, "And I urge that each one's response to the campaign be generous and a 100 percent voluntary effort—a gift from everyone on this installation. To have a successful drive and meet our self-imposed goals we must far exceed our campaigns of past years. We have an obligation to our fellow citizens here at Huntsville, Alabama, and to the Nation. We must not fail them or our friends in other nations."

"As Executive Chairman I believe there are three compelling reasons why everybody at Redstone Arsenal should support the Health Campaign," Carpenter said.

"First, you will be assuring yourself and your loved ones of better health by helping to advance important programs of medical research, community service and education.

"Second, by means of a special designation form, you are being given the opportunity to select the Health agencies of your choice and divide your gift among them in any way you see fit.

"Third, your voluntary contribution to the Voluntary Health Agencies means that you are participating in a wonderful American tradition of philanthropic giving through independent, individual choice. A gift from everyone means better health for all.

"We who are conducting the drive are especially appreciative to the First National Bank of Huntsville and the Birmingham Trust Company who have undertaken the huge and important task of opening contribution envelopes and counting funds for the National Health Agencies" the Executive Chairman concluded.

National Voluntary Health Agencies in this year's campaign include Multiple Sclerosis Society, United Cerebral Palsy Association, American Cancer Society, American Heart Association, The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, and Muscular Dystrophy Association of America. International Relationship Voluntary Agencies include CARE, Inc., American-Korean Foundation, Inc., and Crusade for Freedom, Inc.

7 Missile Systems Are Transferred

Transfer of seven surface-to-surface missile systems to the Army Ballistic Missile Agency from the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency has been completed.

Systems transferred from the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency under a realignment of functions within the Army Ordnance Missile Command included the Honest John, Little John, Corporal, Sergeant, XM-72 Rocket Grenade, Missile "A" and Missile "B" systems.

The turnover was completed recently when ABMA assumed responsibility for the procurement of repair parts for the systems. This action has been transferred to an office headed by Hosea B. Abernethy of ABMA Industrial Operations.

The transfer of functions started several months ago.

ABMA will continue its Redstone, Jupiter and Pershing ballistic missile programs. ARGMA retains responsibility for the Nike Zeus, Nike Hercules, Nike Ajax, Hawk, Mauler, Redeye, Lacrosse and Shillelagh systems.

JOINS ABMA — Raymon S. Dotson, former chief of the Redstone Arsenal Field Maintenance Division, recently joined the Army Ballistic Missile Agency as Chief of the Administrative Office of Research and Development Operations. Dotson, served here as an Army officer from 1956 until assigned to Vietnam in 1959. He is married to the former Miss Marianna Mullender, who held the beauty title of "Miss Belgium," and was a contender in a "Miss Universe" contest. The Dotsons have two children, Editha, 2; and Manuella, 1.

The senator was stumping a rural area seeking reelection. His long-winded speech had been going on and on, punctuated only by occasional stops for gulps of water. During one of these pauses an old farmer in the audience turned to his neighbor and in a loud whisper observed: "First time in my life I ever saw a windmill run by water."

At the Service Club

Sometimes we get a week like this one at the Service Club, when each night or afternoon holds a program of special interest. The schedule this week is well worth considering, as something "big" seems to be on the agenda every evening.

Wednesday morning, the 22nd, Hot Coffee and Donuts will be served at 0930 hours. Later that evening at 1800 hours, there will be a George Washington Birthday Party, followed by the usual Dance Classes at 1930 hours.

The Shutter Club will meet in the small lounge on Thursday, the 23rd at 1800 hours. At 1900 hours, the Post-Wide Pool Tournament will get underway. This is sure to be an exciting contest, both for participants and audience.

Friday night, the Semi-Finals of the Post-Wide Pool Tournament will begin at 1900 hours. So check with your First Sergeant and get your name in the "pot" for this tournament. Straight pool will be played. The rule book is available at the Service Club. I know there are many skillful pool players anxious to display their skills. This is your chance to help your unit win the beautiful trophy on display at the Service Club, and also the individual trophy—a nice souvenir to remember your days at Redstone Arsenal. How about it boys?

On the 25th comes a program that should be fun for everyone, as a little of everything will be offered that night. I'm speaking of Cabaret Night, of course—a night on the Western Frontier. There will be gaming tables, dancing and a floor show. If at all possible, come in Western Costume, or partial costume. Cabaret Night begins at 2000 hours, so circle the date and time on your mental calendar and don't miss it.

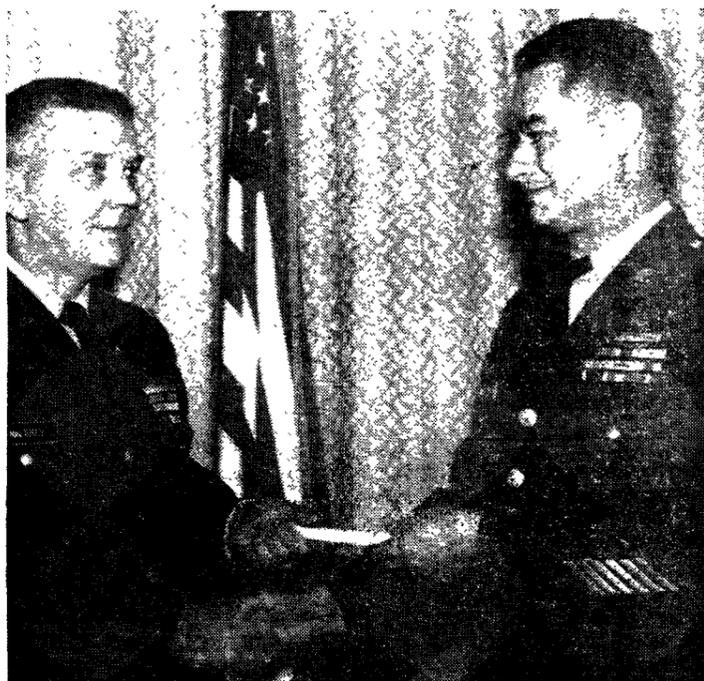

Coffee Call will be at 0930 hours Sunday the 26th. At 1900 hours, Charlie Lyle's Orchestra will arrive to make some very danceable music for the Sunday night dance. The Birmingham Hostesses plan to attend this one, as well as the Huntsville Junior Hostesses.

On Monday, the 27th, we will have a Clothes-Line-Give-Away. If the name has you confused, it's a unique form of Bingo.

The Bridge Club will meet in the small lounge on Tuesday, the 28th. Sgt. Jean Claude Belis was the winner of our last Bridge Party.

HISTORY: Pvt. Robert H. Veunten, Hq., UTC, was the winner of our Shuffleboard Contest on the 12th.

The second tour to the Birmingham Art Museum was just as successful as the first, if not more so. For those of you who were left behind because of lack of space, more tours to Birmingham

Applications for Dependent Travel Being Processed

Policy Accords With President's Order Rescinding Travel Reduction

The Department of the Army has given instructions to Redstone Arsenal's Military Personnel Office to begin processing of applications for travel of dependents who wish to accompany their sponsor to overseas area.

The announcement is in accordance with President John F. Kennedy's order rescinding the dependent reduction program initiated by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Generally, the announcement by the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel rescinds all Department of the Army instructions and directives previously issued in connection with dependent reduction.

The new instructions provide for handling of applications from Army personnel who are already in overseas area, those placed on orders during the ban, those placed on orders before the ban and who lost the option of requesting dependent travel, and those receiving orders since the ban was rescinded.

Provisions have been made for local commanders to amend orders issued during the time the reduction program was in force. This is a return to procedures which existed prior to the announcement on dependent reduction.

Another set of instructions called for reinstatement of provisions under which an individual may request an extension of overseas service. All requests for such extensions were halted when the dependent reduction plan was issued.

All policies contained in regulations dealing with voluntary extension of overseas service have been placed back in effect by the new order.

All personnel wishing to obtain information on overseas movement of dependents and concurrent travel should contact the military personnel office at Headquarters, Redstone Arsenal.

WINGS ON HIS SHOULDERS—Niles M. Bengtson, of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, was recently promoted to the rank of Colonel. Col. R. O. Lehtonen, left, Deputy Commander of ARGMA, and Col. R. W. Burkett, right, Chief of Research and Development Operations, pin new silver eagles on Col. Bengtson.

Bengtson Wins Eagles; Is Tact Systems Chief

An Army officer with a key position in the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, Nils M. Bengtson, has been promoted to Colonel.

Acting in the absence of Brig. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Col. R. O. Lehtonen, Deputy Commander of ARGMA, and Col. R. W. Burkett, Chief of Research and Development Operations of ARGMA, pinned the new silver eagles on Col. Bengtson.

Col. Bengtson, chief of the tactical systems projects office of ARGMA R&D, began his military career in 1935 as an enlisted man. Shortly after entering the Army he won a competitive appointment to West Point and graduated as a Second Lieutenant, Infantry in 1940.

From 1940 to 1943, Col. Bengtson served in a variety of assignments with the 2nd Infantry Division in Texas and the 24th Infantry Division in Hawaii. In 1943 he joined the 89th Infantry Division and saw action in the Rhineland and Central German campaigns.

He received the Bronze Star for his service during WW II.

Returning from Europe in 1946, Col. Bengtson was assigned to the Pentagon as Plans Officer for Army Service Forces. For his services there he received the Army Commendation Medal.

After transferring to the Ordnance Corps, he attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology and graduated with a Masters Degree in electrical engineering in 1948.

From 1948 to 1950, Col Bengtson served as a project engineer with the General Electric Company, followed by a two year tour in the Office, Chief of Ordnance as Rocket Branch R&D Coordinator.

Previous to reporting to the Army Ordnance Missile Command in 1956, he served as guided missile representative to the U. S. Army Standardization Group in London, England.

The Colonel and his wife, Ann, live at 1204 Cleermont Circle in Huntsville with their two children Neal, 13, and Jane, 11.

He is the son of Mrs. Viola H. Bengtson of 3 Gunn Square, Springfield, Massachusetts.

White Sands Tests New Target Rocket
New Missile Will Be Used to Test Army's Nike Zeus

A new target rocket for the U. S. Army's Nike Zeus was successfully fired to an altitude of 155 miles at White Sands Missile Range, N. M., yesterday.

The two-stage, solid propellant rocket is one of several targets being readied for use in developmental testing of the Army's Nike Zeus anti-missile missile system. The Army said the probe type, unguided rocket will be used to provide fast, high altitude radars which will be carried out at White Sands.

When the full Nike Zeus system is tested at Kwajalein Island in the South Pacific, the target rocket will be employed as a high speed, high altitude target which a Nike Zeus missile will be required to intercept.

Later actual Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles will be used as targets for the Nike Zeus system.

The new rocket is one of the targets being developed by the New Mexico State University under the direction of Bell Telephone Laboratories, responsible for Nike Zeus system design and development. The Western Electric Company is prime contractor for the Zeus system.

COMPANY A, OGMS IS 'LITTLE DIXIE CLASSIC' WINNER

Adams Is Leading Scorer for Team And for Arsenal

Co. A, OGMS won the Championship game of the "Little Dixie Classic" Feb. 13 beating Hq. USAG 56-48.

This was the second time during the "Classic" that Co. A, defeated Garrison. In the previous meeting Feb. 3 the score was 46-44.

In the first quarter Garrison was leading 18-15. Adams, Co. A's leading scorer, was missing during the quarter while Rutherford and Smith of Garrison scored.

Adams entered the second quarter and aided Co. A, to a halftime scoring 31-26. Several easy lay-ups by Vellair also helped increase this lead.

In the third quarter Garrison outscored Co. A with eight points to six. Both teams found it difficult to prepare an offensive threat because of faulty ball handling. The score at the quarter's end was 36-34 for Co. A.

With only three minutes gone in the fourth quarter Garrison tied the game 41-all. This was the last time they threatened Co. A's lead. Two and one half minutes before the game's end Nichols,

Golf Group Brunch Draws 86 Prospects For Coming Season

Eighty-six women attended a brunch last Wednesday sponsored by the Golf Group of the Redstone Arsenal Officers Wives Club.

Brunch, served buffet style in the Hawk Room of the Squirrel Hill Club was followed by an indoor putting contest. Contestants won in the following order: Mrs. L. H. LeVine, Mrs. Albert Birkenstein, and Mrs. R. L. Goodale.

Number Four team membership, determined by drawing a number at the door, and Number Seven team were high in that order.

Mrs. H. H. Wishart, Chairman for the coming season, welcomed the group. The brunch was scheduled to give both new and old members a chance to get acquainted.

Garrison's leading rebounder, fouled out.

Co. A then controlled the boards and continued to outscore a weakened Garrison team. The final score 56-48 gave Co. A the "Classic" Championship and Hq. USAG Runner-up position.

Adams lead the scoring by Co. A with 17 points followed by Vellair and Hunsicker with 11, Bourgeois 9 and Morris 8.

Rutherford was the game high scorer with 22 points for Hq. USAG followed by Apke 9, Smith 8, Nichols 7 and Matienzo 2.

Volleyball Teams Being Organized

Volleyball teams are now being organized by the various units at Redstone Arsenal.

Approximately twelve teams are expected to enter the Arsenal League for single round-robin competition in regular season play. After the regular season, a double elimination tournament will be conducted to determine Post Champions and Runner-ups.

The schedule will open March 1 with three games played Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, starting at 1800 hours. The season will close April 21.

Adams Named 'Most Valuable Player' In Dixie Classic

PFC Loren Adams, Co. A, OGMS was selected Most Valuable Player of the "Little Dixie Classic" Feb. 15 by the Classic officials.

Adams was Co. A's leading scorer during the tournament, dropping in 78 points in five games for a 15.4 average. Not only a stellar player in the scoring column for the "Classic" Championship Co. A team, his leading rebounding against the opponents defined him as an excellent choice for the Most Valuable Player Award.

New Recording Concept In Use at White Sands

White Sands Missile Range, N. M. — An unusual demonstration on a new concept of recording and storing information was given recently to White Sands Missile Range engineers and technical personnel. The new technique is called thermoplastic recording. It uses electronic means for recording, but can be read out either electronically for analog or digital computer usage or optically for direct image projection. The system can also form full-color displays.

This startling development in recording and storing information has many distinct advantages. A modernized hybrid, combining some properties of both photographic film and magnetic tape, thermoplastic film is capable of recording more data more accurately and rapidly in less space than either of its predecessors.

Materials used for thermoplastic records are somewhat similar to a highly specialized film, but without a chemical emulsion. An image is obtained in the form of an electrical charge. Heating the thermoplastic then develops the image.

The process requires no chemical processing and thermoplastic developing is accomplished in less than one-fifteenth of a second. In addition, the whole process can be repeated thousands of times before the film is no longer usable.

A special application of thermoplastic recording will be a digital storage plate able to store 80 million bits of information per square inch. Any of this stored data can be erased and updated.

According to a WSMR electrical engineer, it is believed that General Hershey became director of the country's Selective Service System in 1941, and in the 1930's directed the planning for the draft which was put into effect before the outbreak of World War II.

General Hershey won nationwide recognition for his successful administration of a complex and sensitive program of procuring men for the armed forces during World War II. He became generally recognized as the leading authority in the highly specialized field of building and maintaining large defense forces under a democratic form of government.

The Nation's mobilization of its manpower to fight two wars, and to defend itself in a continuing cold war, is inseparable from the name of Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey in the minds of Americans.

Upon reestablishment of the system in July, 1948, General Hershey was named again to head the organization he had built and developed.

Books in Review

TRAGEDY AT HONDA by Vice Adm. Charles A. Lockwood, USN (Ret'd) and Col. Hans Christian Adamson, USAF (Ret'd) (Chilton Company, 243 pp, $4.95).

At 2100 on the eighth of September 1923, nine sleek, battle-ready destroyers, victims of tradition and shortsightedness, steamed through the fog to strike the black, bleak Devils Jaw of Point Honda, 213 miles south of San Francisco. Seven remained there, impaled.

Radio direction finders were new and suspicious gadgets, electrical depth sounders were in short supply because of an economy-minded Congress, and radar had not yet been born when Squadron 11 of the Destroyer Force executed a column formation course change to enter Santa Barbara Channel. They were wrapped in fog and the sea was unpredictable in that area, with wayward currents, unexpected gales, and enormous breakers crashing into the desolate rocks.

This was the final leg of 20-knot endurance trials, and the Squadron was on the way to its home port of San Diego after a Fleet Week in San Francisco. The flagship, Delphy, led the column, and the other restroyers followed the unwritten doctrine of following the leader, astern of the Delphy. She turned, and shuddered in death agony as she ran herself onto the jagged rocks.

As the Pharmacist's Mate later noted, "the bottom seemed to fall out of everything . . . The old girl smashed back and forth and breaker after breaker dumped tons of water down the open hatchway. Then the lights went out. By the time I put foot on deck, I was briny as a herring but I also had the night vision of an owl."

Each ship in the Sjuadron followed and in little over an hour 800 men were in dire peril, with their ships fereft of power and light, flooding rapidly and beginning to break up in the surf. But because of perfect discipline and calm efficiency; only 23 men were lost.

Canadian-U. S. Armies Investigate Missile Defense Techniques

Research teams from the Canadian Defense Research Board and the U. S. Army have joined forces to investigate ballistic missile defense techniques.

The Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, has joined with the Canadian Armament Research and Development Establishment (CARDE) an element of the Canadian Defense Board at Valcartier, Canada, to investigate problems incident to ballistic missile defense.

ARGMA is technical supervisor of the Nike Zeus anti-missile missile system, the only United States anti-missile missile system now in development for active defense against intercontinental ballistic missiles.

CARDE is a central facility which provides advice and research on weapons and weapons systems for the Canadian Armed Forces.

Its major fields of research are in aerophysics, infra-red studies and propulsion.

Test facilities provided by the Canadians include unique indoor ranges which permit study of model ICBM nose cones in flight. The ranges also simulate atmospheric conditions encountered by an ICBM as it leaves and re-enters the earth's atmosphere.

The model nose cones weighing up to 100 pounds are fired at high speed from gas operated guns up to 14 inches in diameter. Through this system, scientists are studying the requirements for detecting and tracking incoming ICBMs.

The United States has established a liaison team at the CARDE facilities and provides some of the technicians and equipment for this joint research project.

BROTHERS OF THE BRUSH—Employees of the U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Command may be 'way ahead in the missile business but some are a little lax in shaving. (L to R) John W. Nelms, William Silvey and Thomas "Hack" Wright enjoy a checker game during lunch hour in what looks like a beatnik conference. The men, employees of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency Industrial Operations, were caught in the midst of hometown celebrations of the Civil War Centennial and had to grow beards or face stiff fines and jail sentences. Nelms, an engineering aide, sports a Burl Ives arrangement (minus the guitar). The beard worn by Silvey turned out remarkably like that of Abe Lincoln and the beard worn by Wright is a combination Smith Brothers, Beatnik, Santa Claus and plain woolly booger set-up.

Arrangements Completed For Graduate Courses

Govt. Support Given University Program in Area

Arrangements have been completed with the University of Alabama to open government graduate courses at Redstone Arsenal and the University of Alabama Huntsville Center to the general public.

Dr. William W. Carter, chairman of the Joint Army-Marshall Space Flight Center graduate study steering committee, and Dr. F. H. Mitchell, representative of the dean of the University graduate school, Huntsville Center, made a joint announcement of the move today.

Dr. Carter, Chief Scientist of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, said graduate courses have been offered to government employees and government contractor students since 1953.

Beginning with the March 23 term, persons who fully meet requirements for admission to the University graduate school and meet requirements for specific courses may enroll in the graduate classes.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Dr. Mitchell at the graduate office in the Huntsville Center.

The government has about 200 graduate students enrolled in the 14 different evening courses at this time, according to Dr. Carter. He said participation of personnel from the Army elements at Redstone Arsenal and from the Marshall Space Flight Center has

Value Analysis Is Studied By Yoakum

Mark Yoakum of the ABMA Value Analysis Office recently attended a three-week Value Seminar conducted by The General Electric Company at Syracuse, New York.

The Seminar's attendees were divided into 13 teams of four or five men each. Each team was assigned a portion of a sonar depth finder of the type used on our atomic submarines, for its cost-reduction project.

Yoakum's team was assigned the mechanical portion of the sonar cabinet. After an initial study, the team decided to concentrate its efforts on the cabinet door, the vent louvers and the cable entry box. These three areas were subjected to a detailed ap-been extensive.

He said local City officials and industrial representatives were enthusiastic over the admission of the public to the classes. It will afford personnel employed by Huntsville and North Alabama private industries a new opportunity to enter graduate work.

The courses currently offered and the instructors are as follows: Servomechanisms, George Jones; Research Problems, J. P. DeFries; Legal Practices in Engineering, Douglas L. King; Statistical Methods for Engineers, Edwin M. Barte; Vector Analysis, Dr. Rudolf Festa and Helmut F. Bauer; Introduction to Higher Algebra, Dr. Hans J. Sperling.

Elementary Number Theory, Dr. Richard F. Schulz-Arenstorff; Theory of Differential Equations, Dr. Siegfried Lehnig; Mechanical Vibrations, Helmut Bauer; Advanced Mechanics of Materials I, J. Johnson.

Advanced Dynamics, Mario Rheinurth; Compressible Fluid Flow, Homer Wilson; Introduction to Theoretical Physics, Mario Rheinurth and Quantum Mechanics II, Dr. Albert Ignatowski.

Dr. Mitchell said some additional courses in business administration and management are under consideration and may be offered later.

The classes were developed by the University of Alabama graduate division in consultation with the joint Army-MSFC graduate steering committee.

Rhymes of the Times

plication of Value Analysis concepts and techniques, with the result that savings of 65 per cent, 71 per cent and 79 per cent, respectively, of the original costs were found to be possible.

Yoakum left the Seminar firmly convinced that Value Analysis is the key to increased missile production without increasing budgetary outlay.

YOUR ARMY IN HISTORY:
On October 12, 1847, a volunteer Texas army under Stephen F.

The War for Peace

Peace, someone once said, must be waged as efficiently, as completely as war is waged.

Today, the Free World is committed — thoroughly and irrevocably — to that truth. It is determined to wage the peace — to wage it and to win it.

And as it does so, it is presented with three examples of unparalleled success; three graphic illustrations of the fact that the peace can indeed be waged and won.

These examples are found in the programs of the Federal Service Joint Crusade agencies—the American - Korean Foundation, CARE, Radio Free Europe. So convinced are we as a nation of the effectiveness of these agencies that we have given them our unstinting support, in time and in dollars, over the years.

Last year, among members of to $2 million was contributed the Federal Family alone, close through the FSJC to further the peace-building activities of these three organizations.

Now, between January and April, we who serve our government as employees or members of the Armed Services, are being asked to again show our faith and our confidence in the ability of the FSJC agencies to wage the peace. Again this year we are being asked to give our time and our money to AKF, CARE, and RFE.

And again this year, we are confident, our answer will be greater participation than ever before. For from this greater participation shall come greater resources, greater strength in the battle for freedom in which the entire Free World is engaged.

The Judge Advocate Advises

Support of Dependents

(Because of the timeliness of its subject matter, this article, published in 1960, has been revised for this publication.)

The Internal Revenue Code allows the taxpayer an exemption of $600.00 for each dependent whose gross income is less than $600.00 for the calendar year, in which the taxable year begins, and for children who are under the age of 19 or students, regardless of gross income. The general rule is that more than one-half of the support of the dependent in the calendar year must be contributed by the taxpayer before he may claim the dependent as an exemption.

However, if more than half the support during any calendar year was furnished by two or more persons, each of whom would be entitled to the exemption, except for the fact that he did not alone furnish more than half the support, one of them is entitled to the exemption for the dependent if he furnished more than 10% of the support. But this is so only if, in addition, everyone else, who contributed more than 10% of the support, files a written declaration, that he will not claim the individual as a dependent for any taxable year beginning in that calendar year. Such written declaration must be made on Form 2120.

Generally speaking, support includes food, lodging, clothing, cost of education, church contributions, medical and dental care, rental value of house or apartment, etc. Survivors and old-age insurance benefits received under the Social Security Act and used for support, are, like other non-taxable income used for support, considered as having been contributed by the recipient to his own support.

The year in which the support was received, and not the year of payment of a debt incurred for support, is controlling in determining the amount of support furnished, regardless of the accounting method used for other purposes.

If the dependent is a member of your household and lives with you for the entire year, it is not necessary that the dependent be related to you in order for you to claim an exemption for him.

A dependent related to you in any one of the following degrees is not required to be a member of household.

1. Your child, or your grandchild, great-grandchild, etc. (A legally adopted child is considered your child).
2. Your stepchild, but not the stepchild's descendant;
3. Your brother or sister, half-brother, or half-sister, stepbrother or stepsister;
4. Your parent, grandparent, or other direct ancestor, but not foster parent;

5. Your stepfather or stepmother;
6. A brother or sister of your father or mother;
7. A son or daughter of your brother or sister;
8. Your father-in-law, mother-in-law, daughter-in-law, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law.

It should be remembered that, while fully considered in the tax laws, one spouse can never be a dependent of the other spouse for income tax purposes.

In determining whether a serviceman is entitled to an exemption for a dependent, quarters allowances and allotments of pay received by the claimed dependent are treated in the same manner as if they had actually been given to him by the serviceman.

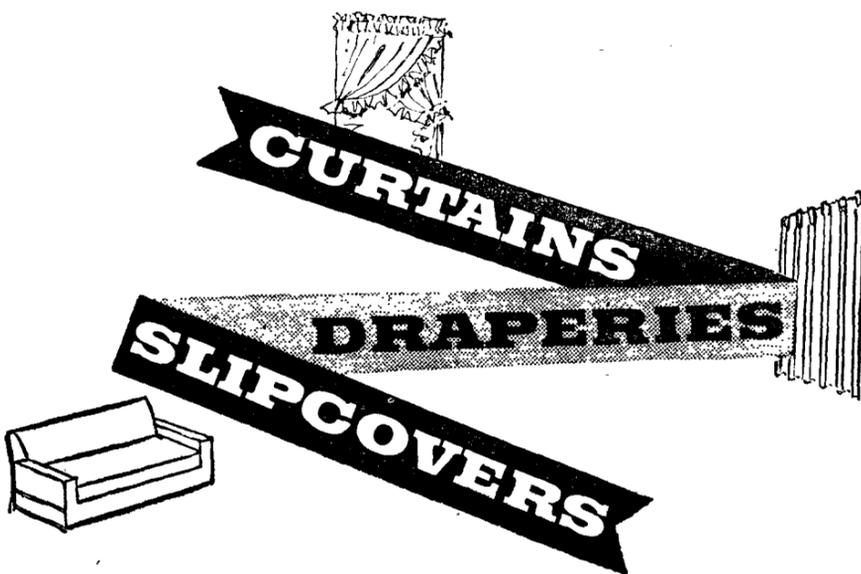

Consequently, in making a determination as to whether a serviceman has furnished more than one-half of the support of an individual claimed as a dependent, the entire amount furnished by the serviceman, including allowance for quarters and monthly allotments received by his dependents, may be considered.
