Gen. Barclay Tells Hayes Executives Army Concepts

Says Industrial Contracts Assure Economical Arms

Maj. Gen. John A. Barclay discussed Army missile program management Saturday during a dinner meeting of the Hayes Management Club at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel.

Gen. Barclay, Deputy Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal, told the Hayes executives that contracting with American industry was a management concept the Army employed to assure the most modern and economical weapons possible.

He said that for many years Army Ordnance has relied upon industry to produce Ordnance items required for military operations and that recently the trend was for industry to perform an increasing portion of design and development relative to production.

The Army general continued, "however, it is still the Army's responsibility to see that the job gets done . . . that the weapon fills the need. So we monitor, supervise, and expedite contractor efforts."

"In order to do this we make full use of the 'in house' capabilities of the Army Ordnance Missile Command as well as the facilities and personnel which are available at other Ordnance installations and technical services."

"By utilizing these special capabilities we provide industry with unique technical skills which are essential to the successful fulfillment of its contracts and the government is assured of the most effective contractor efforts," he said.

Gen. Barclay said the Army regards weapons system management as a "birth-to-death" concept for the weapons systems as—See GEN. BARCLAY, Page 2)

Effort Will Be Made To Transfer People At Depot Operations

Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, said last week that "every effort will be made to provide employment for all persons affected by the closing of Redstone's Depot Operations."

The Department of Defense recently announced that Depot Operations is one of 73 installations and facilities to be inactivated.

Some 111 employees are now engaged in the storage, shipment and care of orthodox-type ammunition, storage of explosive missile components, and storage of heavy automotive parts.

The storage and shipment of conventional ammunition is a carry-over from the time when Redstone Arsenal was engaged to a major degree in manufacturing and packing this type of ammunition.

Some of these missions will be transferred to the Anniston (Ala.) Ordnance Depot. This will release the space now being used at Redstone to meet a new requirement of AOMC for storage of missile material.

"To the maximum extent possible and feasible, personnel assigned to the Redstone Depot missions will be reassigned elsewhere within the Command," Gen. Schomburg said.

For those who wish, however, Gen. Schomburg explained that the Command will assist in placing personnel with the Anniston Depot.

New Civil Defense Cards Are Issued

New Department of Defense Emergency Instruction cards were issued recently to military and civilian personnel at Redstone Arsenal.

The new cards tell the holder what to do in case of a Civil Defense alert or "take cover" signal. The card, in case of such emergency, is identification of individuals whose movements are to be expedited and generally directs the holder (through the aid of the Civil Defense traffic patrolmen) to an assembly area or relocation site.

Personnel are divided into Category I and II. In Category I are employees selected for specific tasks, Category II includes all others.

The Civil Defense Organizations of the Huntsville area have plans for the evacuation of the civil population. The CD Patrol will control traffic to a distance of forty miles from the center of Huntsville.

All traffic will be directed outward from Huntsville towards the nearest Civil Defense Reception Center Redstone Arsenal assembly area. No traffic will be permitted to move laterally across evacuation routes. Civil Defense (See CD CARDS on Page 2)

Only One 'Open House' Is Planned Annually

Engineers Advertise Sale of Post Timber

Timber on about 50 acres in the southern portion of the Redstone Arsenal reservation, is being advertised for sale on a lump-sum bid basis, by the Army District Engineer at Mobile.

The estimated volume of timber is 45,000 board feet of pine sawtimber, 8,000 board feet of hardwood sawtimber, 1,900 board feet of cedar sawtimber, 75 cords of pine pulpwood, and 3,450 board feet of stockpiled hardwood sawlogs.

Inspection of the timber may be arranged and bid forms obtained by contacting Mr. Roger W. Scoggin, Resident Inspector (Timber Harvesting) in the office of the Area Engineer, Corps of Engineers, Redstone Arsenal, phone 876-3433.

Col. R. W. Love, District Engineer, said that all bids must be in his office at 2301 Airport Boulevard, Mobile, no later than 2:00 p.m., C. S. T., Apr. 20, at which time a public bid opening will be held.

Authorities Denote Armed Forces Day Open to Public

Redstone Arsenal will be opened to the public on Armed Forces Day, Saturday, May 20th, for tours and demonstrations, the only day in the year when the general public will be admitted.

Maj. Gen. August Schomburg made the announcement Sunday. Gen. Schomburg, commanding general of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, noted that the Arsenal had, in the past, admitted visitors on several occasions during the course of a year. This practice, he said, had been discontinued. Armed Forces Day will be the single yearly occasion when visitors will be permitted entry.

Lt. Col. Robert C. Skillinger, who heads the Arsenal's committee for Armed Forces Day, said a schedule of tours, displays, briefings, and demonstrations would assure an entertaining and educational visit for all age levels.

Among the activities thus far announced is a demonstration of missile and rocket firings by personnel of the Test and Evaluation Laboratory of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency.

The ARGMA laboratory personnel will conduct captive rocket motor firings, and will also discharge several rockets and guided missiles at simulated combat-type targets.

Under the direction of Frank C. Bunn, Test Operations Branch associate director, the demonstrations will commence at 1:30. Buses will carry visitors to the test area.

ARGMA Representatives Visit Aeronutronic

Fourteen representatives of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency recently visited Aeronutronic at Santa Ana, Calif., to acquaint contractor personnel with ARGMA Industrial and Field Service program management philosophy.

Aeronutronic a division of Ford Motor Company, is prime contractor for the development of the Shillelagh surface-to-surface guided missile under technical direction of ARGMA.

William C. Wall, Jr., Industrial Systems Engineer, headed the two day conference.

ARGMA is divided into three operations: Research and Development, Industrial, and Field Service. Program management responsibility is phased from one to the next, timed with weapon system progress by the contractor, Wall explained. The Shillelagh project is currently under Research and Development management.

Kelly F. Prady, Chief of Direct Support Systems (Guided) Division in Industrial Operations, acquainted Aeronutronic personnel with responsibilities, structure, and program management philosophy of Industrial Operations.

WO E. J. Gonçalves discussed the organization and maintenance and supply philosophy of Field Service Operations. He also explained requirements and time-phasing for Field Service documentation.

It is currently planned to use this conference as a model for orienting all new missile system contractors.

ARTHUR E. HARVEY, JR.

Harvey to Conduct New York Seminar On Value Analysis

Arthur E. Harvey, Jr., chief of the value analysis office at the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, is serving as co-chairman of the American Management Association workshop seminar in New York this week.

"Purchasing Cost Management and Value Analysis" is the theme of the meeting being attended by 15 manufacturing management executives.

C. F. Van Epps of the Stromberg-Carlson Company is serving as the other co-chairman.

This week's meeting is the first half of a two-part seminar. The second half will be held May 15-17 in New York. Harry H. Helper, also of ABMA, will serve as co-chairman for the May meeting.

Discussion at the two meetings will center on how the tools and techniques of value analysis can be used to reduce costs in the purchasing department.

AMA sponsors several workshops of this type during the year. Now totaling more than 30,000 members, the AMA was founded in 1923 for the purpose of finding, developing, and sharing better management techniques.

Harvey served as chairman of the Army's first value analysis—(See HARVEY on Page 2)

TRAINED KILLERS ARE MOVING IN ON SUMMER'S INSECT HORDE

A small squad of specially trained killers are braced to launch their spring offensive at Redstone Arsenal, home of the U. S. Army's missile program.

These men, confident though outnumbered, are after bugs of the crawling, flying, wiggling variety. Unusually heavy rains this spring are expected to yield a bumper crop of insects.

Although the Arsenal is the headquarters of the U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Command, most of the 40,000 acre installation is covered with forest and brush. There are extensive swampy areas along its southern border, traced by the channel of the Tennessee River.

John L. York, who leads the Arsenal's pest control forces, expects termites and roaches to be his major forces in the coming campaign but he's ready also for mosquitos, snakes, flies, clover mites, ants, chiggers, gophers, rats, and an occasional skunk.

Just one skunk in the wrong place at the right time, York has found, can be unfortunate. Recently one wandered into an office building with spectacular results.

Bugs are his big job, however, and his biggest season is approaching.

York, who has been specially trained to fight pests, said his four man crew has been working during the "off-season" winter months treating building foundations to thwart termites.

"Of all pests, mosquitos are the hardest to eradicate. Like Army missiles, mosquitos have a high degree of mobility. They bite—See TRAINED on Page 2)

TURKISH AIR CHIEF ARRIVES—Lt. Gen. Irfan Tansel, commanding general of the Turkish Air Force, is welcomed to the Army Ordnance Missile Command by Maj. Gen. J. A. Barclay, deputy commanding general. The general arrived last week by plane to visit AOMC and the Ordnance Guided Missile School. He was accompanied by several Turkish officers. The party departed Tuesday morning (Apr. 4).

The Redstone Rocket

The Redstone Rocket is a privately owned newspaper published every Wednesday at no expense to the Government by Jack W. Hoffhaus, Hartselle, Alabama, with exclusive regard for the reader interests of personnel at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama, in accordance with an agreement between the publisher and the Public Information Office, Army Ordnance Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal, Alabama.

The Rocket is NOT an official or semi-official Army or Ordnance Corps publication. Policies and statements reflected in the news and editorial columns represent the views of the individual writers and are not necessarily those of the Department of the Army, the Ordnance Corps, or any organization at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama. Appearance of advertisements in the Rocket does not constitute an endorsement of the advertising matter by the Department of the Army, the Ordnance Corps, or any organization at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama.

The publisher will receive editorial content for publication in the Rocket only through the Public Information Office, Army Ordnance Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal, Alabama, Bldg. 7101, Extension 876 - 3362. All advertising copy and payments therefor are received by Mrs. Zillah Newsome, 311 Holmes Ave., N. E., Huntsville, Alabama, P. O. Box 346, telephone JE 4-4701, as representative of the publisher.

The Redstone Rocket is distributed free of cost to personnel at Redstone Arsenal. Mailing rates for the Rocket are $5.15 a year, or $2.83 for six months, Alabama sales tax included. Mailing arrangements may be made with the publisher.

'Unfair' Competition? Not in Trying for Top

It's odd how many men resent a winner. They're the men who, when they were boys back in school, hooted at the brightest kid in the class, the "smarty" who walked away with the prizes. They felt that it was downright unfair of him to apply himself to his studies so diligently.

He is the man now—enlisted or commissioned—who takes to training with healthy zest, accepting it as a challenge to his stamina, his capacity to learn new ways of doing things. If he attends a service school, he's once again the student seeking to advance himself and enlarge his proficiency.

You'll spot this man everywhere in the service—because he stands out. He's the soldier of the month, the sailor or airman of the year in his command. But while most of us give him the "well done" that certainly is coming to him, there are always a few detractors who resent his superior performance and attribute the praise it brings him to a talent for apple polishing.

The top man on the career ladder is so accustomed to looking up that he hasn't time to worry about the opinions of others. They have a chance to profit by the example he sets and they pass it up. They stay put; he keeps going up until they lose sight of him.

They all started together. The competition was equal. Unfair of him, isn't it? (AFPS)

Reception Centers will be located at Ardmore, Athens, Decatur, Guntersville, Hartselle, and Scottsboro, Alabama.

Upon receipt of a Civil Defense "Alert Signal," or when directed by the Commanding General, USAOMC, personnel will immediately evacuate the Redstone Arsenal complex and the Huntsville area and proceed as directed by the Civil Defense authorities. In the event evacuation takes place during working hours, personnel will not be able to join their families prior to such evacuation.

Employees should familiarize their family with evacuation routes and location of the reception center they may evacuate to, for assistance in reuniting. Prior arrangements should be made for transportation and if possible emergency accommodations of families outside of the Huntsville

The Fire Marshall Says:

By William H. Kleiber

This is Spring clean-up time, and many families are busily engaged in sprucing up their homes.

Throwing out accumulations of old newspapers and trash is a vital part of the clean-up job, because it reduces fire hazards.

I suggest that fire safety be made a year-round job.

Around one-fourth of all fires are caused by matches and smoking. Another 20.4 per cent are due to mis-use of electrical equipment.

Three-fourths of all fires are the result of carelessness and forgetfulness. They could have been prevented."

He added that important phases of weapons system management were design, development, production, supply, maintenance, and certain aspects of training.

"The number of missile systems involved and their diversity make our management job a complex one," the deputy chief of the Army Ordnance Missile Command said.

"Some of our missile systems have ranges of a few hundred yards, others hundreds of miles. Some are surface-to-surface missiles with ballistic trajectories generals just as hard as they do privates, too," York says.

Huge draglines have been cutting ditches across swamps to drain some of the mosquito breeding grounds. A jeep equipped with a large blower to spray insecticide is ready to go and workers have been treating window screens to kill flies.

"Fleas aren't much of a problem, but most of the people who complain have household pets who bring them into the house. As far as I'm concerned," York says, "a goldfish is the ideal pet—it would sure make my job easier."

His best help in rodent control are the 30,000 motorists on the Arsenal. "Cars kill a lot of skunks, dead mosquitos cover windshields and grills and a car ran over our only game-killer not long ago," York said, "I like cars."

Broken lines are main roads.

Others are surface-to-air, using command guidance. Some are small, relatively simple systems which can be operated by one soldier. Others are complicated systems which require large crews," he continued.

In the presentation Gen. Barclay described in detail the activities of the Army Ordnance Missile Command and its various agencies in the Army's missile program.

He also outlined the step-by-step procedure of Army rockets and missiles progressing from the "idea stage" to formidable weapons in the hands of troops.

ROCKET SOCIETY ASTRONOMICAL GROUP TO MEET

The Rocket City Astronomical Association will present in a joint meeting with the American Rocket Society an illustrated presentation called The Search For Life In Other Worlds.

Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger will introduce the program in which three speakers will each give a short illustrated talk on one particular facet of man's search for life.

William B. Greene, ARGMA Industrial Operations Division will discuss "What makes an intelligent being?"

Ernest Wells, ABMA Industrial Operations, will recount man's search with scientific instruments such as the radio telescope in his delivery of "The Search and the Tools." Ronald D. Ferdie, Chrysler, will present "The Origin of Life in the Universe."

The program is directed by Larry Beck, Chrysler. Special art work for this program has been originated by Malcolm H. Smith, NASA Graphics Engineering.

The meeting will be held at the Huntsville Electric Auditorium at 8 p.m. Apr. 17, and will be open to the public.

During the past months the presentation team has gathered much of its information for this program and further publications from primary sources.

The team visited such installations as the National Radio Astronomy Observatory at Greenbank West Virginia where project OZMA attempts to translate signals from outer space, and the Carnegie Institute where the Ableson experiments with synthetic life forms are conducted.

Industrial Engineers Will Meet April 17

The North Alabama Chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers will meet on Apr. 17 with Prof. Wyllys C. At the Service Club

These torrential deluges we have been having off and on all month are known as "April Showers." It is said they bring the May flowers shooting up like so many Roman candles. This is all very well; however, since this monsoon season began, outdoor recreation is impossible, so this brings about a search for indoor entertainment and recreation. The point I am trying to make is that the Service Club stands open and ready to provide fun and shelter during the Spring rains.

To enlighten your dampened spirits, join our dance classes on Wednesday the 12th, beginning with the jitterbug class at 1930 hours and continuing through the Samba and Tango classes at 2030 hours.

Thursday night, the Shutter Club will meet at 1900 hours in the small lounge. Small Games Night will also be featured on Thursday with chess, checkers, cards, monopoly and many others that are bound to catch your fancy.

A Pool Contest will be conducted at 2000 hours Friday the 14th.

Saturday night we have scheduled a Patio Party in hopes that the clouds will roll by long enough for everyone to enjoy a bit of the outdoors. If it rains, we will hold it in the large lounge. That will be at 1800 hours on the 15th and you will need to sign up in advance at the office.

Monday night the evening of games will start at 2015 hours.

The Bridge Club will hold their weekly meeting on Tuesday at 1930 hours in the small lounge. During this same time, the Rho Sigma Chi will hold their monthly meeting.

ENGINEER OFFICER WILL ADDRESS GARDEN CLUB

Lt. Col. Charles C. Rollins, Deputy Post Engineer, will address the Garden Club sponsored by the Redstone Arsenal Officers Wives Club at 8 p.m. at the Squirrel Hill Officers Club on Tuesday, Apr. 18.

Members will have the opportunity to question Col. Rollins about the things residents on post may and may not do about yards, what the Post Engineer does and does not do for the residents, and similar problems.

Reservations for the meeting may be made with Mrs. William L. Allen, 877-5846.

The recently installed officers of the Garden Club are: Mrs. James E. Harris, president; Mrs. Cecil H. Fuller, vice president; Mrs. Charles C. Blaser, secretary; and Mrs. Spencer F. Ball, treasurer.

The officers have issued an invitation to any officers wife interested in gardening and floral arrangements to visit or join the club.

The plaque for March for the best yard was awarded Mrs. W. G. Trainor.

He Communicates Late!!

When Horace Weeks, now in the Financial Management Office of ABMA, was working in Montgomery in 1946, he was contacted by an old Army buddy returning from a vacation in Florida. The friend was broke, his wife was ill, and they needed to get to their home in Ohio. Mr. Weeks loaned him $20.

The friend promised to pay it back shortly, but years passed—15, in fact—with no communication between the two men. The incident drifted to the back of Mr. Weeks' mind, and a door was shut on it.

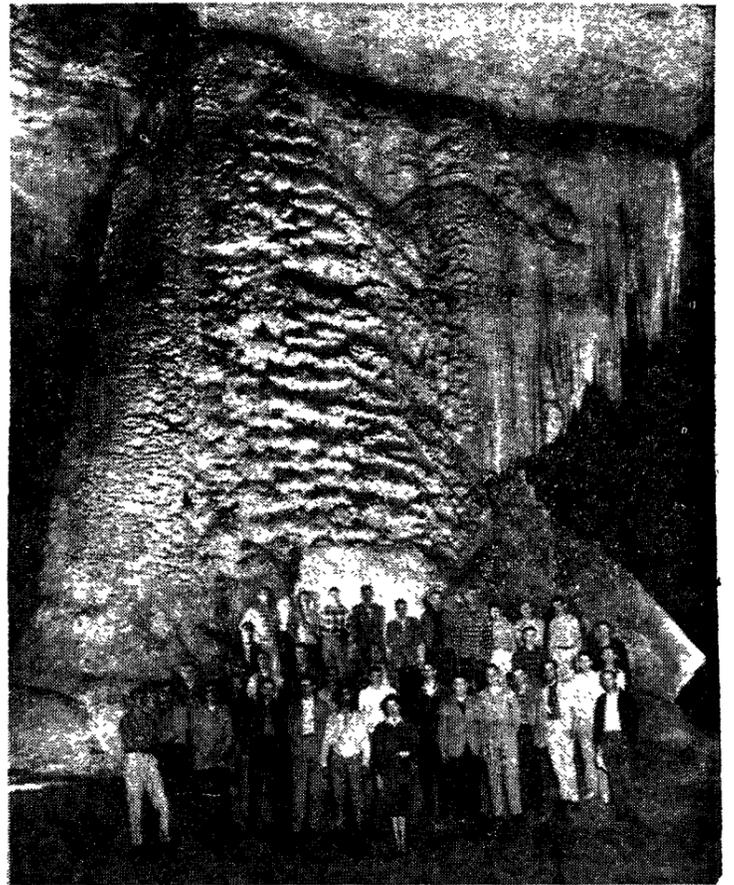

A few days ago Mr. Weeks visited his mother at a family gathering in Montgomery. She handed him a letter from Ohio, sent to Mr. Weeks' old address in Montgomery, and forwarded by the landlady to her home in Winter Haven, Fla.

Inside was a money order for $20.

music lovers should take advance notice and plan to attend. I am referring to "Melody Square," featuring local Barbershop and Chorus groups. If you like this type of music, you should not miss it. Circle the date on your calendar now—April 29th, at the Service Club. You will hear more about this later on.

Speaking of music lovers—we will have a band concert later this month and a semi-formal dance. So come by the club. We will be glad to see you.

HONORED BY ARMY — Lt. Col. William J. MacPherson (right) director of the Department of Research and Curriculum, presents the Army Commendation Medal to S/Sgt. Conrad J. Inamorati, during ceremonies at the Ordnance Guided Missile School. Inamorati was awarded for outstanding performance of duty as a technical specialist with the 328th Ord. Bn. at Vicenza, Italy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Con Edward Inamorati of 181 Hemlock St., Swyersville, Pa. He entered the Army in March of 1950. He presently resides with his wife, Hazel, at 2420 Medaris Road, Huntsville.

Library Schedules Many Competitions During National Library Week

Sunday marks the beginning of a week-long open house at the Redstone Arsenal Library.

Hostesses will represent the Officers' Wives Club, Special Services Service Club, NCO Wives Club, the Garden Club, the Altar Guild, Gray Ladies, and the Art Club.

The display windows will be decorated by the Garden Club, Crafts Shop, Gray Ladies, NCO Wives Club, Art Club and the Camera Club.

A door prize will be awarded. Prizes will be given to the contest winners in each category. These prizes may be seen at the Post Library.

The Art Club, Garden Club, Scouts, and Camera Club are sponsoring the contests which are open to the military and their dependents. Exhibits may be submitted to the respective clubs or to the library.

Details of the contests are as follows:

CAMERA CLUB: Pictures may be submitted to the Redstone Camera Club, Bldg. 3190, Monday nights from 7:30-9:30 p.m. The Club will accept entries until April 17. The pictures will be judged at the Post Library April 21. Those submitting their entries to the library, must submit them before noon, April 21.

The contest will consist of two categories—Scenic and Human Interest. Each picture must be mounted on a 16x20 board, available at the Camera Club. There will be no limit to the size of print or the number of entries.

The titles must be on the front of each picture, with the name of entrant and other data on the back. Type of lens, light, speed, etc., optional. Awards will be given in each category. For further information contact Maj. Al Birkenstein, 876-2392.

ART CLUB: The categories will be modern and conventional. All entries must be original.

All media will be accepted with one entry per contestant. Entries will be brought to the library before noon, April 15.

Each entry should be identified with title, name of artist, telephone number and address on the back of picture. Pictures may be reclaimed by the artist on April 24. An award will be presented for the best picture in each category with honorable mention to second, third, and fourth place winners.

GARDEN CLUB: The theme will be "Flowers for National Library Week," using a book as an accessory. Arrangements must measure from 12 to 14 inches in height, including the container.

All entries must be in the library by noon, Wednesday, April 19. First and second place awards will be given and honorable mention to the third, fourth and fifth place winners.

SCOUTS: The Scouts are sponsoring an essay contest entitled "Why I Use the Library." The contest is open to all on-post Scout troops and military dependents in this age group. The Senior Scouts will be limited to 200 words and 100 words for the Junior Scouts. The author's name, age, address, and telephone will be located at the top, right corner of each page. Awards will be made to each group. The deadline for submitting essays is April 15. The winner will be announced April 20.

ARSENAL BOWLERS SLATED FOR THIRD ARMY TOURNEY

The Redstone Bowling Team enters the Third Army tournament at Ft. Rucker on Apr. 16.

Maj. Rexford Javins, Hq. Det., AOMC, became a member of the team through a roll-off Monday, Apr. 4 at the Arsenal bowling lanes.

League competition is nearing the end in which a tournament of league leaders will bowl to determine the "Champion of Champions." The final roll-offs will be in May.

SOFTBALL PLAYERS GETTING READY FOR LEAGUE PLAY

Softball teams are practicing to get in shape for the season which begins May 8.

Two softball leagues, each composed of six teams, are scheduled for Intro-Arsenal competition.

Four games will be played nightly on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights.

SOCCER

The German NATO, OGMS Soccer team traveled to the University of Auburn, Saturday, Apr. 8 to play a return game.

Confident from their win over the University Mar. 25 by a 5-3 score, the team hopes to make a clean sweep of the two game series.

German Soccer Team Entertained by Alabama Governor

A reception at the Governor's Mansion in Montgomery and a 1-0 victory over the Auburn University soccer team at Auburn provided the German Air Force students at the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School with a busy two-day tour during the past weekend.

Mrs. John Patterson, wife of the state's chief executive, and wives of the Governor's cabinet held a coffee at the Executive Mansion on Sunday morning for 110 officers and airmen of the German detachment.

An interesting highlight of the event was the fact that the state's first lady and her young son and daughter could speak German, having acquired the knowledge of the language while the Governor was on a tour of duty at Frankfurt. The Pattersons' daughter, Barbara Louise, now 8 was born in Germany.

Following the coffee, members of the Montgomery Rotary Club conducted the Germans on a tour of the State Capitol where they visited the Governor's office.

In the soccer game Saturday afternoon at Auburn, the German Air Force footballers scored their second consecutive victory over the Tigers. The lone score of the 1-0 game came late in the final period from the toe of Sgt. Friedel Voigt. The outstanding player for Auburn was Goalie Gunther Sturm who made a number of saves to prevent German scoring during the spirited match.

In pregame ceremonies, Lt. Col. Donald C. Maliskey, acting commandant of OGMS, presented Dr. Michael C. Huntley, Auburn's dean of faculties, with a plaque bearing the OGMS crest, to commemorate the beginning of athletic relationships between the two institutions. OGMS also presented the German soccer team with a similar plaque, citing them for outstanding sportsmanship in their athletic activities during their 18 months of duty at OGMS.

VOLLEYBALL

Volleyball is coming to a close for league play on April 14. The first six teams will then enter a double elimination tournament beginning at 6 p.m. April 17 thru April 21. The following are Vol-

Jones Scores Hole-In-One

Kent Jones, Industrial Procurement, ABMA made a hole-in-one on the No. 4 hole at the Huntsville Municipal Course Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Jones, playing with Dale Hamilton and Forrest Wells from Huntsville and Charles Schoulin of Lacey Springs, made the 155-yard drive on a Par 3 hole. He used a No. 3 iron.

MRS. KLOOS WINS 'BLIND BOGEY' GOLF TOURNEY

The Golf Group of the Redstone Arsenal Officers Wives Club had nineteen competitors in the "Blind Bogey" tournament Wednesday, (Apr. 5) at the Special Services Golf Course.

Tournament winner was Mrs. E. J. Kloos. A three-way tie for second place was scored by Mrs. F. E. Napper, Mrs. J. N. Jean, and Mrs. H. E. Fite.

James McClure, Arsenal golf pro, held the first clinic of the season Tuesday, (Apr. 4) with 44 golfers attending the first of a weekly series of six clinics.

Talent Winners Get Ready to Go to Third Army Contest

The annual talent competition for the All-Army Entertainment Contest was held on March 30, at the Service Club under the direction of SP4 James B. Stark, Entertainment Section, Special Services.

Winning talent in the Group Singing segment was the Hawk Quartet, consisting of Pvt. Edward Jackson, Pfc. Andrew K. Hirta, Pfc. Michael R. Howard, and Pvt. Herbert M. Nouchi, all of 273rd Hawk Detachment, UTC.

Accordianist Pfc. Richard C. Bianchi, Hq & Hq Co., UTC, OGMS, won the instrumental segment with a skillful rendition of "Carnival of Venice."

SP5 Fred Renault danced his way into the winner's circle with his tap version of "I Wanna Be

PFC. Richard B. Wynn, Med. Det, USAH, won in the vocalists group with his selection of "September Song."

Pvt. Paul E. Comeau, 2nd ETC, USA OGMS, Guitarist, and Boz Barone, sang and played their way to a winning spot with a lively performance.

Pvt. Sam Wolfson, Hq & Hq Co., USAG, of the Entertainment Section, Special Services, "emceed" the show.

These winners at Redstone will compete at Ft. Benning, Ga., with other Third Army winners.

Presently assigned as an instructor in digital computers at the Redstone Missile Section at the school, Williams entered the Army in December of 1955. Williams is a graduate of Alexander High School, Union Mills, N. C., Pfeiffer College, Misenheimer, N. C., and Milwaukee (Wis.) School of Engineering. He resides with his wife, Savannah, at 2613 Triana Blvd., Huntsville, Ala.

GRAY LADIES WILL BEGIN TRAINING APRIL 17 AND 18

A class to train volunteers as Gray Ladies will begin at the Post Chapel Social Room on Apr. 17, running from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for two days.

Instruction includes the organization of the Red Cross, the purpose of the Gray Lady Service, and specialized instruction by Post Surgeon and Medical personnel.

Further particulars about the Gray Lady Service at Redstone Arsenal may be obtained from Mrs. J. H. Davitt, Chairman of Volunteers, phone 877-5970 or Mrs. W. M. Kiser, Chairman, Gray Ladies, phone 877-4649 or from the Red Cross Field Direc-

SAFETY AWARD: Col. Charles W. Eifler (left) Commandant, OGMS, is shown displaying award check presented by Col. Thomas W. Cooke, Commander, Redstone Arsenal, for winning first place in the SIAM (Safety Is a Must) name the cartoon contest for military personnel last month. Approximately 700 names were submitted for the cartoon which depicted a driver making a dangerous turn at a street intersection while his eyes and mind were entirely off driving and centered on a curvaceous young lady standing on the curb. Col. Eifler won top prize with the caption "From Her to Eternity." He in turn contributed the money to the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

Julian Kobler Tells Air Force Reserve About Material Role

Julian S. Kobler, Chief of Fabrication and Assembly Engineering in Research and Development Operations of ABMA, lectured on "Materials and Processes: Their Role in Modern Technology" at the April 6 meeting of the U. S. Air Force Reserve meeting at the Naval Reserve Armory in Huntsville. Kobler, a metallurgist, is a graduate from the University of Pennsylvania and earned a law degree at Rutgers. His wife is an Engineer at ABMA. They reside at 7700 Cadiillac Drive.

Electronics Men Develop 'Stupid' Box That Talks

"Stupid", a black box that talks, and its friend, Sgt. James M. Busby, are a combination that illustrates how the Army's confidence in its young, technically inclined career personnel pays dividends.

Busby, an electronics research technician, assembles and designs electronic components that form the innards of Army missiles and rockets. He works at the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency.

"Stupid" works there too. Busby was one of several godfathers in ARGMA's Advanced Component and Techniques Laboratory who pooled their talents to produce "Stupid." They are now working on ways to put it to the best practical use.

It isn't much as electronic marvels go, for it just talks. It "sees" too, of course, but mostly it just talks.

The device uses a photosensitive "eye" to see patterns held before it. In a demonstration of its capabilities, "Stupid" has been able to recognize individual letters of the alphabet, words, and even pretty girls, at which it whistles! It selects a previously recorded sound track to give an oral identification of the letter, word, or object, and sounds off until the object has been removed from its field of view.

"Stupid" talks in monosyllables, but then, it never went to school.

Busby and two other soldiers who work with him on electronics research at ARGMA, Sgt. 1st Class Gerald F. Thomas, a control technician, and Specialist 5 Bobby G. Shirley, a radar expert, are graduates of the first class sponsored by the Army Ordnance Corps in its special technicians' training program.

They studied electronics for two years at the Milwaukee School of Engineering, and are now putting their new knowledge to work in the Army's missile program at Redstone.

Army regulations provide for applicants for one year of such schooling to accept a "short discharge" from the Army, and to reenlist for three years. Sgt. Busby, who has completed two years' schooling, was required to reenlist for six years. Thus the additional skill ingrained into the trainees is guaranteed to remain of benefit to the sponsoring service, the Army.

"Should we return to Milwaukee," said Sgt. Busby, a tall, slender, soft-spoken young man, "we'd be able to secure a degree not in two years, but in only one and a half. The usual school year last only nine months. Each of ours was a full twelve."

"Married men were all sent to Milwaukee, and bachelors were sent to Purdue," reminisced Busby.

"At a conservative estimate, I studied 80 hours a week. My children, who were going to school, couldn't understand why 'daddy was going to school too.' We studied basic electronics, computers, industrial management and application, mathematics, chemistry, English, and other humanities." Class time averaged 21 hours a week.

Busby is enthusiastic about the training, and its worth to the Army. In addition to the two classmates in his division, there are three more at the Ordnance Guided Missile School.

It was here, as a student in the OGMS course on maintenance of Nike missiles, that Busby heard about the course, and applied for admission. Dr. C. D. Leatherman, then educational adviser for OGMS, since retired, told Busby about the course and fired his enthusiasm for it.

Students at Milwaukee lived in apartments in town, wore civilian clothes, and in addition to the usual pay and allowances, received $100 a year for books. The Army paid their tuition costs.

As a result of this training Busby and his classmates are well grounded in electronics fundamentals. Adequately prepared to embark on the third year of regular college course of no little difficulty, the men can, with a week or two of study, equal the mastery of an Ordnance Corps missile system component, totally new to them, that is taught to others, not so prepared, in a course lasting several months.

AOMC, standing for Army Ordnance Missile Command, looms large in the work of Sgt. James M. Busby, an electronics technician in the Advanced Component and Techniques Laboratory of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency. The mechanism the Baltimore, Md. native is adjusting is a pattern recognition device called "Stupid." The device "sees," "talks" and whistles at pretty girls.

The Milwaukee course was a mixture of three different courses offered civilian students. Students came from all theaters where the Army has men.

A native of Williamsburg, W. Virginia, the 30-year-old veteran of 13 months in Korea, graduated from Southern High School in Baltimore, Md., in 1948.

Busby is married and has three children. A member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, Busby represents the Farley, Ala. Parent-Teacher-Assn. on the Board of the Madison County PTA.

"ONE ARMY" IN HISTORY: Captain Jonas Parker was the commander of a company of Minute Men. It was Parker who declaimed: "Stand your ground. Don't fire unless fired upon! But if they want to have a war, let it begin here!"

Army Plans Switch To Metric System

Washington (AFPS) — The Army will soon switch to the metric measurement system to establish a common unit in operations with NATO and other Allied Nations.

Nuclear damage radius, air and road distances and minefield depths are among the areas that will now use the metric measure.

Conversion of meters to inches amounts to approximately 39 inches or 3.28 feet per meter. Thus 100 meters is equal to about 328 feet.

THE GORDONAIRE writes . . . "don't expect to much from others . . . remember they are not much better than you are!"

Army Promotions To Rise in May

Washington (AFPS)—Army enlisted promotion quotas during May will be a bit higher than April.

Total promotions, E-4 through E-7, during May will be 17,246 as compared to 16,487 for April. By grade, the quotas are: E-4, 12,940 (April 11,263); E-5, 3339 (April 2,989); E-6, 444 (April 346); E-7, 184 (April 179).

The E-6 authorization dropped from 981 for April to 179 during May, while the May E-7 quota of 100 is 629 less than April's total.

The list of frozen MOSs changed very little on the May list. Missing from the banned list in grade E-5 was the clerical MOS 711 which has been in the deep freeze for some time.

President Accepts Honorary Post As Chairman of USO

Washington (AFPS) — Both President and Mrs. Kennedy will be officially supporting service morale activities as conducted by the United Service Organizations, Inc., the USO's National Chairman, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., has announced.

The President, in a letter to Mr. Firestone accepting the Honorary Chairmanship of the USO, told him:

"I know the real services which the USO provides in meeting the social, educational and spiritual needs of the members of our Armed Forces throughout the world. I pledge my full personal encouragement and help in its work in this country and abroad."

Meantime, Mrs. Kennedy became Honorary Chairman of the Metropolitan Washington USO. It maintains the Lafayette Square site systems.

Aycock is also responsible for the design, development and implementation of accounting, budgeting, pricing and internal review activity.

1939. He and his wife and five children live at 4103 Memorial Parkway, Huntsville.

As AOMC Comptroller, Aycock has financial management responsibility over about $2.7 billion in outstanding contracts throughout the nation. AOMC now has an annual level of effort of approximately $1.5 billion dollars.

A comptroller handles the purse strings at a military installation. The AOMC Comptroller is also responsible for furnishing guidance on the expenditures of subordinate agencies in the command, the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, White Sands Missile Range, and Redstone Arsenal, partners in development and management of the Army's mis-

The Judge Advocate Advises

Any member of the armed forces may be assigned to duty which temporarily separates him from his family or removes him from the scene of business transactions requiring action in his absence, e.g., the shipment of household goods and personal effects, the instrument, power to act in another person (the attorney or agent), whose name is stated in instrument in writing which gives the termination of a lease, the sale of an automobile. Usually such acts can be accomplished through the use of a power of attorney.

A power of attorney is in the place of and on behalf of the person (appointer) who executes the instrument.

The uses of a power of attorney are varied in scope and almost limitless. There are two types of powers of attorney: A general power of attorney gives the attorney or agent the power to do all the things that the appointer himself could do, such as sell or mortgage his home, withdraw his savings account, sell his stock, borrow money and so forth.

A special or limited power of attorney authorizes the attorney or agent to do only a certain specified act, such as to sell the appointer's car.

A power of attorney should be limited to the authority necessary to accomplish the purpose for which it is intended. Since a general power of attorney gives the agent or attorney the power to perform any acts the appointer himself could perform, caution is especially necessary. There must not only be assurance of integrity, but also of capacity of the person to whom the power is to be given.

Powers of attorney are not unlimited in duration, and may be revoked or terminated in several ways. The death of either party automatically revokes a power of attorney. A power of attorney may also be revoked by the execution of a formal instrument of revocation.

If the power of attorney has never been revoked, taking it out of the hands of the attorney or agent effectively revokes the power granted.

The instrument can then be either destroyed or revoked by writing a proper notation, such as "void" on the instrument. In any event after a revocation (except in cases of death of either party), all persons who have previously relied on the power or in the future might so rely should be given actual notice of the revocation.

A power of attorney should be drawn up carefully. Consult your personal attorney or your Legal Assistance Officer prior to taking any action relative to drawing up powers of attorney.

WARRANT OFFICERS

Four Hawk missile maintenance supervisors were recently awarded warrant officer bars in ceremonies at the Ordnance Guided Missile School.

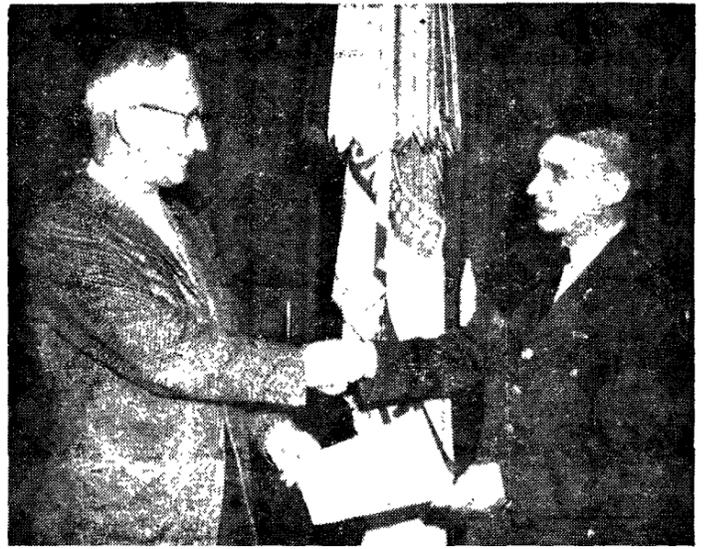

They are WO Edward C. Haldaman, Jr., who joined the Army in Feb., 1955, WO Edward L. Collins, an Army man since

Field X-Ray Unit

The US Army Medical Service has announced the development of a compact (85 lb.) diagnostic field x-ray which can be carried in a medium-size suitcase and could be used in the infantry division area.

March, 1953, WO Clay Hensley, a veteran who joined in May, 1943, and WO Robert J. Stacklin who has been in the Army since June, 1946.

RECEIVES ARMY AWARD—Harold E. King (left) is presented a Certificate of Achievement from the Army Ballistic Missile Agency by Col. Charles W. Eifler, commandant, during ceremonies recently at the Ordnance Guided Missile School. King merited the award for outstanding performance of duty while assigned at the Training Office at ABMA. He is presently the chief of the Training Standards Branch at the department of Individual Training at the Missile School.
