Nike Zeus Undergoes Successful Test Firing

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N. M.—The U. S. Army's Nike Zeus anti-missile missile was test fired successfully at 6:40 p.m. CST Friday.

Brig. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commander of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, said the missile performed satisfactorily over an extended range.

Zierdt said the missile met its test objectives.

The firing was another in the development test series.

Traffic Is Major Concern to Many

A lot of people have Redstone Arsenal traffic on their minds these days.

The various officials whose responsibility it is to speed things up are working on more roads, wider bridges, overpasses, underpasses, new bridges and like facilities.

Meantime the people most affected, the Redstone Complex employees who have to leave home earlier to get to work on time and get home later because of heavy traffic, are thinking about how they can help.

One suggestion received by Incentive Awards recently simply involves putting into practice common courtesy. It concerns intersections where there is no traf-

Western Electric Will Do More Work On Nike Hercules

The U. S. Army today awarded a $6,273,972 contract to the Western Electric Company for further work on its Nike Hercules air defense guided missile system.

Work authorized under the contract will be performed by Western Electric, prime contractor for the Nike Hercules system, at its Burlington, N. C. plant.

Developed under the technical supervision of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, Nike Hercules is an operational weapon capable of intercepting and destroying high performance aircraft at extreme altitudes.

The New York Ordnance District administers the contract.

Leaving the service after 30 years, Barclay was an Army missile and space pioneer. Others in the photo are Brig. Gen. John G. ## TROOPS, MILITARY BAND AND PLANES PARTICIPATE IN CEREMONIES

He Receives Medal For Distinguished Service in Army

Love of a country . . . the fascination of missilery and space . . . a favorite hobby . . .

All were a part of the retirement review of Maj. Gen. John A. Barclay Friday at Redstone Arsenal.

All seemed to be reflected in the music he requested for the last military ceremony of his 30-year Army career.

Colorado born, Barclay reviewed the troops for the last time as the band played a medley of "Springtime in the Rockies" and "Beyond the Blue Horizon."

The parade grounds are not far from the headquarters of the U. S. Army Ballistic Missile Agency where he distinguished himself as the Army boss of the famed von Braun space team.

During the ceremonies for the retiring Deputy Commanding General of the U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Command, soldiers from the U. S. Army Ordnance Guided Missile School and the U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Support Agency stepped smartly to the "Washington Post" and "West Point" marches.

Of course there was "the Star Spangled Banner" and the festivities were concluded with "Auld Lang Syne" as family from far and near looked on.

And for the man who has flying for a hobby, there was an aerial salute by planes and helicopters.

General Barclay Says:

ARMY'S PERFORMANCE RECORD GIVES ASSURANCE, SETS GOAL

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—The U. S. Army built up a record of performances in the military aspects of missilery and in the early stages of the National space program that gave the country assurance and others a mark to shoot at.

These were the words of Maj. Gen. John A. Barclay who addressed the Reserve Officers Association of the United States here June 21 as it held its 35th national convention.

With a keynote address by Army Secretary Elvis Stahr, the convention was attended by prominent members of Congress, other top government officials and high-ranking officers from the Army, Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard.

Barclay, a pioneer Army rocket and missile expert, will retire from the Army in a few days. He is at present Deputy Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

He was formerly Commander of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency which managed the scientific efforts of Dr. Wernher von Braun and his rocket development team.

When one line gets going, sometimes the other line backs up for a great distance before lead cars find a gap.

MRS. WERNER HORST FORNOS

MISS MARGARET LYNN SAMPSON WEDS WERNER HORST FORNOS

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil R. Sampson of 3213 Varnum St., Mount Ranier, Md., announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret Lynn, to Mr. Werner Horst Fornos of Newton, Mass.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jaime Fornos of 14 Harbor Road, Hyannis, Mass.

The wedding took place Saturday afternoon, June 24, in the Mount Ranier Methodist Church with the Rev. William B. Greynolds performing the service. Rev. Paul J. Sampson, an uncle of the bride, assisted in the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of imported silk organza over taffeta. The fitted bodice was enhanced by a satin scroll around the neckline and elbow length sleeves edged in satin. The very full flowing skirt was set off by the satin scroll at the front of the skirt and silk organza bows at the back. Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion drifted from a crown of silk organza. She carried a white Bible covered with white Butterfly roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. H. William Heslop, sister of the bride from Edgewater, Md.; and bridesmaids were Mrs. William Gerke, Arlington, Va.; Miss Rosemary Shaffer, W. Hyattsville, Md.; Miss Gail Thornburg, Mount Ranier; and Miss Delice Volentine, Riverdale, Md.

The matron of honor wore a pervanche blue gown of nylon sheer over taffeta with elbow length sleeves and carried a cascade bouquet of Sunset gladioli. The attendants wore matching gowns of light blue with cascades of Talisman Regina gladioli.

The mother of the bride wore pink and the mother of the groom champagne both with shoulder corsages of Cattelya orchids.

The best man was Dr. Archie Golden, New Milford, Conn., a friend of the groom. Ushers were 1st Lt. David L. Schwartz, Mansfield, O.; Tom Schoff, Lancaster, Pa.; Frank Kuligowski, Philadelphia, Pa.; Ray Wisniewski, Scranton, Pa.; and John Woo, Jackson, Miss.

The ceremony was preceded by organ and vocal selections. Mrs. Hugh Janney, Baltimore, Md., sang "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" and "The Wedding Prayer" with Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter as accompanist.

The chancel was banked with arrangements of white gladioli, majestic daisies, and pom poms, flanked by palms and tapers in branched candelabra.

The parents of the bride entertained at the reception in the Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was centered with a wedding cake surrounded by white gladioli. On either side were mixed arrangements of seasonal flowers. Approximately 250 attended. Art Colevas and his orchestra provided background music.

For the wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains, the bride wore a turquoise blue ensemble with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Northwestern High School, Hyattsville, Md., and the Washington Hospital Center School of Nursing, Washington, D. C.

The groom is a graduate of Newton High School, Newton, Mass., and has studied at Boston University and the University of Maryland. He is now working as Information Officer of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency.

The couple will reside at 612 Kennan Road, Huntsville, Ala.

 "It was my privilege to have shared in the management of Army missile programs over quite a span of years," he said.
 "The most exciting, of course, were those at Redstone Arsenal where, working with Dr. von Braun and his brilliant assistants and with the devoted support of a large segment of American industry, we helped usher in the Missile Age.

"As has happened many times in the Army's long history, this dedicated civil service group demonstrated that it is entirely practicable for a government-industry team to carry out challenging and complex development programs in a short time," the General continued.

In recognizing the military contributions of Reserve officers he said:

"They have been the prime source of strength to the Army in time of emergency. From their ranks we have gained outstanding Regulars who are a credit to the Service and to the country."

Apparently mindful that this would be his last official public address in the Uniform of the United States Army, Barclay said he would like to pass on some conclusions he had drawn during his career in the Army Ordnance Corps.

He enumerated:
 Influence of the user must be brought into any new development program and kept in the forefront throughout the design, development and test phases.

Resources available to all the services must be exploited to the maximum because "we cannot afford the luxury of duplicating highly skilled teams and costly

Major development programs must be funded in such a way as to avoid costly stops and starts.

Each service must have the weapons and equipment it requires to accomplish its mission.

About Army weapon programs currently under development Barclay said:

"The Army is conducting the Nike Zeus anti-missile missile program with all possible zeal.

"Since the inception of this vast undertaking in 1957 there has been no hold-back of funding in research and development. I can assure you that Zeus is proceeding on schedule.

"The men engaged in the program, the most experienced air defense team in the country, are confident that Zeus will prove equal to its task."

Company 'A' Wallops Headquarters, UTC

Co A's strong pitching staff received more than enough support from its batters as they scored 20 runs on 15 hits—four by their center fielder, M/Sgt Joe McNutt. It was Co A's third victory of the season without a defeat.

Hq, UTC, managed to score a single run in the first and seventh innings, but Co A scored in every inning, getting five in the last of the seventh. Pfc Herb Olson started the game and struck out four batters in the two innings he worked. He gave up one run and one hit. Sp/5 Ken Hunsicker worked the last five and struck out ten and allowed one run and two hits. One of the hits was a long double off the bat of Sp/4 Phil Saraceno.

Co A's catcher, Pfc Jim Ryan, and their left fielder, Sp/4 Larry Reynolds, each had two hits in two times at bat.

Totals for the game, Co "A," OGMS, 20 runs on 15 hits. Hq, UTC, 2 runs on 3 hits.

CO. 'A', OGMS MAULS HQ, USAG

It stopped raining long enough Friday night to play the first game in a week at Linton Field. Co. "A" wasn't hampered in the least by the damp grounds and cool breezes as they easily defeated Hq, USAG, by the score of 23-2.

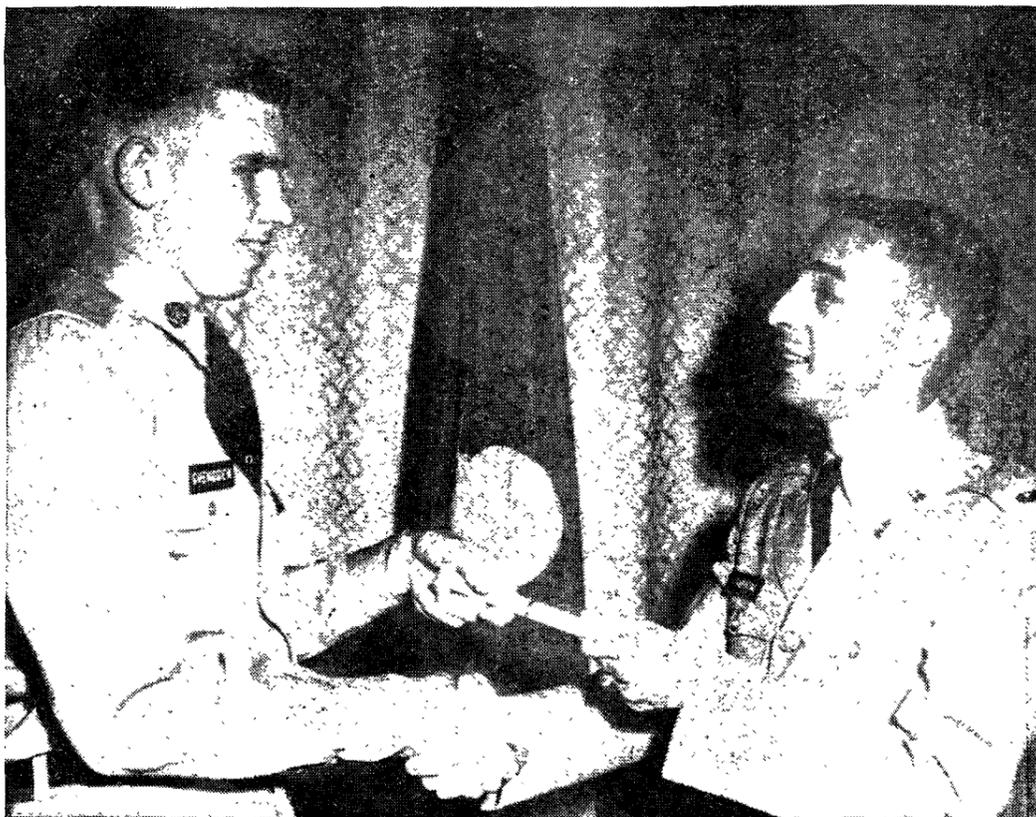

Co. "A" picked up one run in their half of the first inning when center fielder M-Sgt. Joe McNutt, tripled home PFC Gene Ashley. Hq, USAG, tied the game in the first of the second when left-fielder PFC Bill Gawron started the inning with a double. He moved to second on a force out at first and scored on a wild pitch.

In the second inning SP4 Bob Patton walked the first five batters he faced, and when the inning was ended, 16 men had come to bat with each player scoring at least once.

Co. "A" managed only four hits, but picked up eleven runs with the help of eight walks in the inning. They scored seven more runs in the third on three hits, and four runs in the fourth inning on one hit.

The starting and winning pitcher, PFC Herb Olson, struck out six batters and gave up one hit in the three innings he worked. SP5 Jim Ramsdell pitched the final two innings and struck out seven batters and allowed no hits. The catcher for Co "A" PFC Jim Ryan, had a single and a double in three attempts, and their left fielder SP5 Ken Hunsicker had two singles in four times at bat.

Totals for the game Co. "A" OGMS, 23 runs on 9 hits. Hq, USAG, 2 runs on 1 hit.

THE POST LIBRARY

By Jean L. Hoffman,
Asst. Librarian

The library staff has arranged a special salute to Dr. von Braun and other officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as the community of Redstone celebrates this, the first anniversary of NASA.

Highlights of the display are color photographs of Dr. von Braun, the distinctive red-white-and-blue symbols of NASA, photographs of the Saturn project and the barge, Palaemon. Significant achievements as well as historical origins of the agency have been for posterity by David S. Akens, historian, in a recent publication entitled, "Historical Origins of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center," now available to patrons of this library.

Books designed to capture the imagination adorn the shelves, in the 629.14353 section on space exploration, rocketry and missiles.

Leading the list are Dr. von Braun's recent "First Men to the Moon," and his "Reaching for the Stars," with co-author Erik Bergaust. A behind the scenes look at Project Mercury, America's man-in-space program, is given in Martin Caidin's "The Astronauts," and "Spaceport U. S. A.," which is the complete history of the Air Force Missile Test Center—Cape Canaveral. Jules Verne's prophetic "From the Earth to the Moon," bears re-reading.

The story of the X-15 rocket-ship, now taking men to the edge of space at approximately 4,000 miles per hour, is told in Myron Gubitz' "First Man into Space," and his "Rocketship X-15." Books on the achievement of other individual rockets such as the Polaris, are recorded in James Baar's "Polaris."

Persons traveling to Europe or planning a "state-side" vacation will benefit from the special exhibit arranged by Miss Norma Short which includes passport information, pamphlets, brochures, posters on Mexico, Canada, and Hawaii.

The following recent acquisitions beguile the imagination of all would-be travelers: "Fodor's Jet-Age Guide to Europe;" "Europe on $5 00 a Day," by Arthur Frommer, and David Dodge's "Poor Man's Guide to Europe."

Adventure awaits all arm-chair travelers as well in such beautiful books as "Illustrated Guide to Paris and the Parisians," "This is Rome," "Night Life of Paris," "The Women of Japan," "The Louvre," and "Japanese Inn," by Statler.

Recent books on American history much in demand are "The Man Who Feels Left Behind," by Gerald Johnson, sage of Baltimore, whose thoughts are sparked with spicy comments such as the following:

Observe the happy moron
He doesn't give a damn!
I wish I WERE a MORON . . .
My God! Perhaps I am!
and "A Forward Military Strategy for America," by Straus-Hupe. Princeton University's ten-dollar book by Otto Kahn entitled, "Thermo-Nuclear War," is gaining in popularity. William Lederer's "A Nation of Sheep," and Norman Cousins's "In Place of Folly," vie for listing with the top-ten best-sellers which include: "Agony and the Ecstasy," by Irving Stone; "Skyline," by Gene Fowler; "The New English Bible: The New Testament," Rise and Fall of the Third Reich," by William Shter; "To Kill a Mockingbird," by Harper Lee; "China Court," by Rumer

June novels are Steinbeck's "Winter of Our Discontent" and Gladys Schmitt's "Rembrandt."

Gen. Hinrichs Says: World Freedom Dependent On Nike Zeus Anti-Missile

General Addresses Management Club

CHARLOTTE, N. C., — The survival of the Free World may depend on the U. S. Army's Nike Zeus anti-missile missile system the Army Chief of Ordnance warned here tonight.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Douglas Aircraft Management Club, Lt. Gen. John H. Hinrichs said:

"The defense of our vital centers of population and industry may depend on Zeus. The welfare of our nation may depend on Zeus. Thus, the survival of the Free World may depend on Zeus."

Nike Zeus, now in advanced development, is a weapon system designed to detect and intercept intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"Developing an ICBM defense is not a simple job, nor can it be done inexpensively. It is a most difficult job, but we have gone far enough with the Zeus development to know that the job can be done," Hinrichs said.

The General, who heads the Army technical service responsible for Zeus development, pointed out that it is the only missile system under development in the Free World to neutralize the supreme challenge of long-range ballistic missiles.

Earlier in the day he had visited the Charlotte Ordnance Missile Plant where Douglas produces Nike Hercules air defense missiles. He was accompanied by Brig. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commander of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal, the Army's technical supervisor for the Nike Hercules and its bigger brother, Nike Zeus.

General Hinrichs pointed out:

"The Soviets have put considerable emphasis on defense of their homeland from all types of attack.

"If they achieve an anti-missile missile capability before the United States deploys an anti-missile system it will have a significant impact on the world balance of power," he warned.

At the Service Club

The month of June is fading away, but we still have plenty of fun in store for everyone in July and August. Dances, picnics, swimming parties, and card parties are only a few of the activities planned for the next two months. Next to you are in the Service Club, pick up one of our monthly programs and keep it in a convenient place so you will not miss any of our activities.

Wednesday, June 28, Ray Pisani will be on hand to teach the Fox-trot and Mambo dance classes at 1900 hours. There will be only two more classes for these popular dances, so do not miss these important lessons.

Thursday the Shutter Club will meet at 1800 hours. Later in the evening a Jam Session will begin at 2000 hours in the main lounge. Everyone bring his favorite instrument and let's have a blast.

Friday is the time to check out some of our outdoor equipment because badminton, croquet, horse-shoes and deck shuffleboard will be played that evening at 1730 hours. Come and enjoy an evening of outside games.

Saturday, July 1, a Shuffleboard Contest will take place. All shuffleboard players are invited to participate in the contest at 2000 hours. A prize will be awarded to the winner.

Sunday morning, July 2 at 0930 hours, coffee and donuts will be served from the kitchen. Later Sunday evening, a Record Dance will take place at 1900 hours in the main lounge. Several new tapes have been made for your dancing pleasure. If you have favorite records that you would like us to play for you, bring them along and we will give them a spin.

Monday, July 3, our weekly evening of games will be played in the main lounge at 2015 hours.

Tuesday, the Fourth of July, if you would like to spend an enjoyable 4th, join us for a Swimming Party at the Post Pool at 1330 hours. Later in the evening a Record Hop will get underway. Pfc Richard Fallinger, Pfc Ronald Schinger, and Pvt. Robert Cardillo will spin your requests for dancing at 1930 hours in the main lounge. While some people are dancing, the card sharps will enjoy the weekly Bridge Club at 1930 hours in the main lounge.

HISTORY

Our Army Birthday Dance was a big success. The Huntsville and Birmingham Hostesses were on hand to dance with the enlisted men to the music of Lonnie McDaniels' orchestra. Here's hoping we will be able to have Lonnie McDaniels and his orchestra again in the future.

Thanks to Pfc Richard Fallinger, Pfc Ronald Schinger, and Pvt Robert Cardillo for making our first Disk Jockey Record Hop a big success. These fellows will be on hand the 4th of July for another Record Hop, so don't miss this one.

FUTURE

Two tours are planned for July—one to the Birmingham Zoo and the other to Chattanooga, Tenn. Be sure to sign in advance for these tours.

Those of you who enjoyed dancing to the music of Tommy Martin and his orchestra for the Halloween Dance last October will have another delightful evening to look forward to in July when he and his orchestra will play again for us.

See you at the Service Club.
—Betty

Hey, Diddle Diddle, the cat and the fiddle, and the cow jumped over the moon. The little dog laughed to see such a sight, and Art Harvey, ABMA's Value Analysis Chief, thought it less expensive than sending missiles.

PENTAGON'S SIZE STUNS SIGHTSEERS

Washington (AFPS) Daily the sightseers' buses filled with visitors to the nation's capital circle the world's largest office building, covering 34 acres in view of the Potomac.

The guided reels off statistics and the sightseers gape incredulously, as well they might. They are looking at the Pentagon, sometimes called the "Concrete Carousel" — the seat of the Department of Defense.

Five national Capitol buildings could fit inside the area of this five-sided building which has parking facilities for 9,300 cars. A building where 25,000 military and civilian employes work under 3,000 clocks and dring some 30,000 cups of coffee daily. A person covering all of its corridors would walk 17 1/4 miles; yet he could cover the maximum distance between any two of its offices—1,800 feet—in six minutes.

If he wearied of climbing any of its 150 stairways, he could avail himself of any of its 19 separate escalators, or pause to refresh himself at one of its 550 water fountains.

It's estimated that upwards of 270,000 people spend a dime a day to talk business with Pentagon employees on its 60,000 telephones.

But one statistic must forever remain undetermined. That's the number of jokes that have been coined about people getting lost in the building's pentagonal, labyrinthine vastness.

Herberts Transfer To Ft. Leavenworth

Capt. Morris J. Herbert is going to the Kansas Army Post to Command and General Staff College.

A West Point graduate, he has been assigned to Research and Development at headquarters of the Army Ordnance Missile Command for the past three years.

Maj. Gen. August Schomburg presented Capt. Herbert with the Army Commendation Medal for exceptionally meritorious service during his tour of duty at Redstone Arsenal, the birthplace of Army rockets and missiles. Present for the occasion were Mrs. Herbert and six-year-old Caroline, and Morris, going on four. Left at home because she was not quite old enough to make the party was two-year-old Faith Herbert.

Mrs. Herbert is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Seiple, 39 Brentwood Road, Newington, Conn. Capt. Herbert is the son of Mrs. J. J. Herbert, 438 So. Cuason Avenue, Los Angeles 35, Calif.

The Army Transportation Corps recorded 4,212,600 trips made by Army military and civilian personnel within the United States during FY 1960. Buses carried 1,799,400 Army passengers while 1,550,300 traveled by air and 832,900 by rail.

"When you can't spare 'em, teach 'em at home!"

In the Field Maintenance Division at the U. S. Army Missile Support Agency, a need for training in new areas of electronic equipment repair and maintenance arose. Courses were offered at other posts, but the 200 men who needed the training could not be spared for the time it would take, even in staggered shifts.

So, Sherman Clay, Chief of the Division and B. J. Brown, Chief of the Electronic Maintenance Branch worked with the Civilian Personnel Training Branch to design a course to be taught at home.

The instructor is Samuel Sanders, a former Air Force man now working in the Division as an electronic test equipment repairer.

One of the men who has helped to establish the course is Millard M. Jernigan, Chief of the Calibration Laboratory in the Division. The Laboratory work ties in with the instruction.

Makshift classrooms were set up with especially designed visual aids and actual equipment such as oscillators. In this manner, shifts of workmen can attend classes while others are; in the shops attending to the immediate workload demands. All will eventually have enough knowledge to carry on precision maintenance of complicated pieces of electronic equipment.

Approximately 30 men at a time attend class. An indication of the interest of these students was demonstrated when a photographer and reporter visited the classroom with Mr. Jernigan.

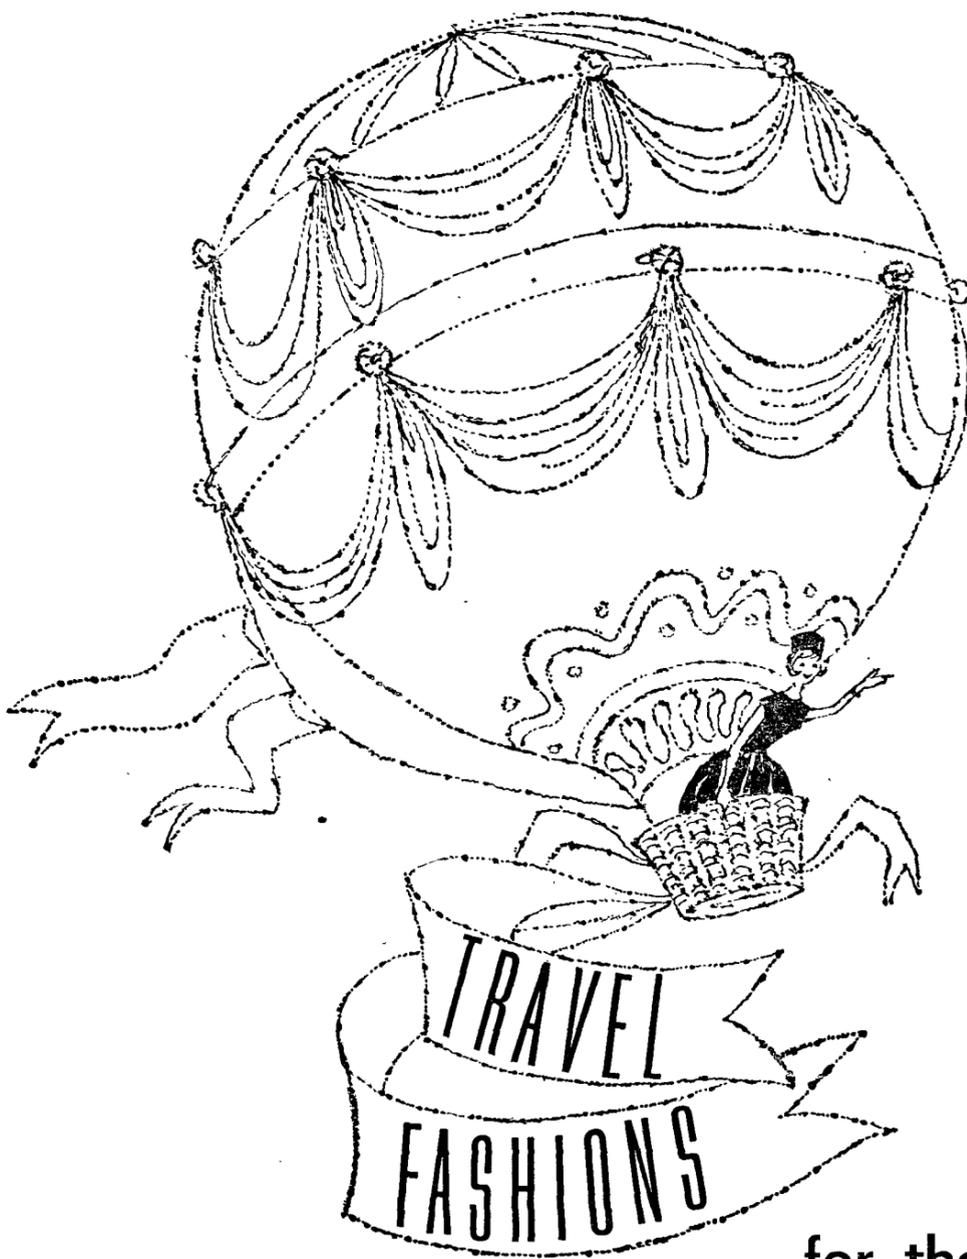

The men whose attention was diverted from the instructor by the intrusion frowned at the intruders and tried to maintain their concentration on the instructors words. The remainder of the class was unaware of intruders.
