Dr. Sayles Talks At London Meeting

An Army solid propellant expert from Redstone Arsenal addressed an international group of solid propellant technicians in London, England tomorrow.

He is Dr. David C. Sayles, a Research and Development scientist with Headquarters of the Army Ordnance Missile Command which manages the development of major Army missile programs.

Dr. Sayles was scheduled to speak to both morning and afternoon sessions.

In the morning his subject was "Problems in Solid Propellant Grain Being Encountered within the United States."

His afternoon topic was "Combustion and Stability Problems Encountered in Solid Propellant Missiles and Rockets Within the United States."

Another U. S. representative at the solid propellant discussions is Harold Jersin, Guided Missile Branch, Office Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C.

The Redstone scientist will remain in England for a two weeks tour of defense installations.

Certificate of Need No. 8 for 500 units of housing under Section 809 of the National Housing Act is now ready for use by Redstone Arsenal personnel.

This certificate was approved for issuance by Department of the Army June 26. It was received at Headquarters, Army Ordnance Missile Support Agency on July 7.

The certificate was presented to the Director, FHA Birmingham, and those of Redstone Arsenal on the use of individual certificates.

The restrictions which have been added to the present Certificate of Need for 500 units do not necessitate any change in Department of Defense regulations, and processing of applications for issuance of individual certificates has begun.

The certificate for 500 units specifically provides that no military guarantee may be made to the Armed Services Housing Mortgage Insurance Fund for loss with respect to insured mortgage loans on the 500 units covered by the certificate. However, the certificate was authorized to be issued on the basis of an agreement between the Commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, and the Department of Defense.

As agreed, certificates of employee eligibility will be accepted by the FHA Field Office Director. (See HOUSING on Page 2)

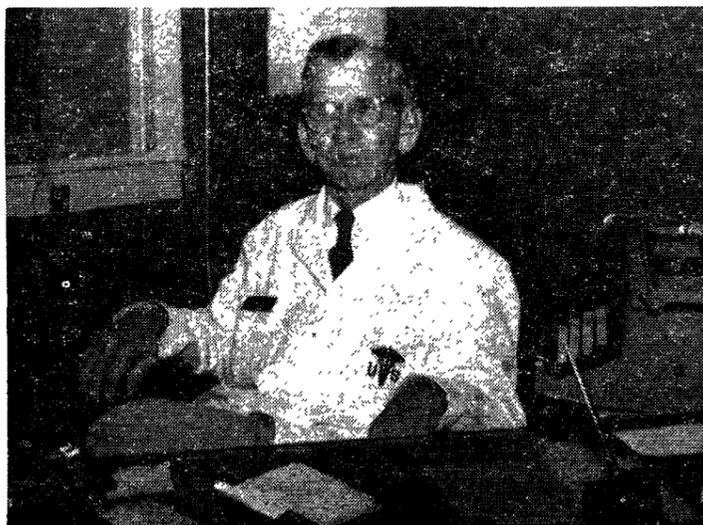

LT. COL. JAMES C. MILLER

Lt. Col. Miller Assumes New Duty

Lt. Col. James C. Miller, Jr., has been appointed the Chief of the Requirements and Plans Division of Research and Development Operations it was announced this week by Brigadier General John G. Zierdt, Commander of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency.

A graduate of the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., Col. Miller comes to Redstone Arsenal after a two year tour of duty with the United States Military Assistance Advisory Group to the United Kingdom where he served as the Ordnance Officer and guided missile advisor.

Gen. McMorrow Assumes Deputy Duties Tuesday

CHAPLAIN BURNS

Chaplain B. M. Burns Promoted to Lt. Col.

The Catholic Chaplain, Monsignor Bernard M. Burns, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Chaplain Burns began his work at Redstone Arsenal in July, 1960 following an assignment in Hawaii where he spent three years at Ft. Shafter and Schofield Barracks.

The Chaplain is Diocesan Priest of the Archdiocese of Santa Fe, N. M.

He received his degrees in philosophy and theology at St. Thomas Seminary in Denver, Colo.

In addition to his service in Hawaii, Chaplain Burns has served at Sandia Base, and on Okinawa. During World War II, he was in Puerto Rico and Panama.

He Is Gen. Barclay's Replacement at AOMC

Maj. Gen. Francis J. McMorrow assumes his duties as Deputy Commanding General for the Army Ordnance Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal Tuesday, July 18.

Replacing Maj. Gen. John A. Barclay, who retired last month, Gen. McMorrow comes here from an assignment as Director of the Procurement Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics in the Pentagon.

A graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, Gen. McMorrow was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Regular Army in June, 1933. During World War II he served as an ordnance staff officer for the Army Air Corps in the Far East.

He holds a master of science degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and has attended the National War College in Washington, D. C.

His principal awards and decorations include the Bronze Star and the Legion of Merit.

Gen. McMorrow is married to the former Miss Catherine V. Fox of New York City. They have two daughters, Mrs. Paul Rudd of Washington, D. C.; Margaret, who will accompany them to the Arsenal; and one son, Thomas, a West Point graduate now with the 32d Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N. C.

Cooley Named Chief Operating Services Office at ARGMA

Marvin G. Cooley has been appointed as the Chief of the Operating Services Office of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, it was announced today by Brigadier General John G. Zierdt, Agency Commander.

Mr. Cooley moves to the position after three years as deputy chief of the same office.

A retired Army Lieutenant Colonel who served on active duty from 1934 to 1955, Mr. Cooley has been with the Civil Service since August, 1958.

He brings to his new position on the staff of the Agency Commander a wealth of experience and training in the administrative field, including graduation from the Ordnance Field Service School's administrative and advanced leadership courses. He also graduated from the Adjutant General's School.

Dr. Shaddix Will Change His Form of Employment

Dr. Marion L. Shaddix faces retirement from Government service after 19 years without any intention of actually retiring.

He is writing about the philosophy of existing times and trends, both social and economic. Dr. Shaddix started this project during World War I and has completed three volumes to date. He has also written what he estimates to be thousands of poems.

Dr. Shaddix, a member of the staff of the Occupational Health Services at the Army Ordnance Missile Support Agency since June, 1958, received his degree in medicine at the Mobile Medical Department of the University of Alabama—a school that became a part of the University of Tuscaloosa in 1923.

For 15 years prior to joining the staff here, Dr. Shaddix worked with the Veterans Administration. His territory covered a wide area during his service. He worked out of Nashville, Birmingham, Mobile, and in Georgia where he helped establish the Veterans Hospital in Thomasville in 1949. He remembers the hospital as a place where he worked very hard and "equipped beautifully."

Books Are Vital Part Of People-to-People

Language is communication, and books are its chief instrument. If all the peoples of the world could get a picture of Americans as we really are, through what we write about ourselves—our history, our habits, our beliefs—that the great goal of mutual understanding and friendship would be closer to achievement.

So in books we have a practical means of reaching out to strangers and saying, "Here we are. Get to know us better, will you?" Moreover, books are invaluable aids to betterment—of an individual, a community, even a whole nation such as any one of the emergent African states where people need and crave information about child care, sanitation, cooking, food preservation.

Books, then, are an invaluable part of the People-to-People Program which former President Eisenhower instituted and which President Kennedy has inherited as a potent service to world peace. When we support it by book donations we become active partners in a project of enlightenment. Just as we share our food with the needy peoples of the free world through CARE and other programs to relieve want, so we can share our ideas, skills and experience by contributing to the libraries of schools and other centers of learning overseas.

How to go about it? The Public Relations Committee of the People-to-People Program will be happy to provide that information. Its address is Box 896, Washington 4, D. C.

Housing

(Continued From Page 1) Birmingham, only with respect to existing housing or new housings currently under construction. The Field Office Director, FHA, has indicated that property offered as mortgage security must be an existing house or a house which was under construction on or before May 9, to be eligible for mortgage insurance without military guarantee.

As background for this agreement, information has been received that FHA will not agree to the acceptance of Section 809 Certificates without military guarantee in cases where construction has not already started, until the backlog of existing housing already under construction and available for purchase has been successfully reduced.

This restriction may create a hardship for some of the employees who had already signed a contract and had made a down payment for the purchase of a home on which construction has not begun. However, those which are considered to be hardship cases may be referred by arsenal officials to Department of the Army for consideration of exception to the policy.

He participated in the Normandy, Rhineland and Central Europe campaign and received the Bronze Star Medal and the Combat Infantryman's Badge, presented to soldiers after 90 continuous days in the front lines.

His post war years were spent in various staff and troop assignments, including a tour of duty as the Executive Officer of the Ordnance Research & Development Rocket Sub Office at Fort Bliss, Tex., which supervised the efforts of the German scientists brought to America from Peenemunde.

In 1952, Col. Miller was assigned to Korea as an Ordnance Officer and for his part during that conflict, he received a second Bronze Star Medal.

Prior to his assignment to the United Kingdom, Col Miller was a Project Officer in the Air Defense Division in the office of the Chief of Research and Development Department of the Army.

His post graduate education includes a Master of Science degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Southern California and graduation from the

Touring Europe Strenuous

Redstone Recreation Assoc. Members Ready to Go Again

Four whole weeks hopping from country to country in Europe!

It's the dream of a lifetime for any Americans and a very large percentage of them don't see the dream come true.

However, Redstone Recreation Association members who recently returned from this dream come true, clamor that stops were too short and that they needed more time.

Choicy lot, these globetrotters from Redstone!

And with one grand tour of the continent under the belt, almost to a person these travel minded folk are plotting plans for a return trip, wanting to explore more thoroughly sites which intrigued them.

A case in point is Nancy Nielsen (Mrs. P. R.) from the Civilian Personnel office in Headquarters, the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

Mrs. Nielsen and the tour group were met by a bus and a youthful girl guide at Frankfurt . . . first stop Europe. The guide, fluent in five languages, stuck with the group through the European jaunt, translating everything from background on opera to directions for finding the nearest rest room.

Heidelberg and its interesting sites and history was the first city where exploratory sightseeing was conducted on a very wide scale, according to Nancy. "But, before we had seen near all we wanted to see, we had to hustle off to Lucerne," she continued.

"The most interesting city we visited?" "Oh, I suppose our entire group from Redstone would agree on Lucerne, Switzerland," she said. "There was a misty mountain rain hovering over us almost the entire time we were there, but it only lent to the enchantment of Lucerne."

In addition to Ute, the guide, who became such a vital part of their lives during the four-weeks tour, there was Joe, the bus driver. Joe had been thoroughly indoctrinated by American GIs during and since World War II.

He had been indoctrinated so well that he had an addiction for hot dogs, hamburgers and chewing gum. Joe's wife joined the group at Munich and added much to the pleasure of the trip across Europe.

Salzburg. Nancy remembers most vividly. It was here while touring the Mad Bishop's Castle with its hidden water sprays that a guide played a joke on her.

A high spray was suddenly changed to a lower arc, catching our Nancy and giving her a soaking reminding of an Alabama creek baptizing.

However, it was in the same city that Nancy found soothing music in the Opera House included on her tour. She described herself as dazed and almost put to sleep at times by the lovely music.

Running true to those tourists who sometimes build up too big an image of a city to be visited, Nancy described Vienna as a disappointment. "But, tramping through the 45-room Shoenbrunn Castle was a highlight of the trip," she said.

In Italy, where men are famous for pinching, no one in the Redstone group admitted to getting pinched, but reported frequent stares.

When one Italian was asked why the men of Italy stare so at women, he gave a simple reply:

"Italian women are the happiest in the world. From the time they are six until past dotage, they know they are appreciated because the men stare at them."

Venice, Rome, Florence, Assisi—pigeons, history, the Vatican where the Catholics were blessed by the Pope, shopping tours and some of the world's most famous art works were all included on the trip through Italy where Nancy said, "the shoes are the most beautiful. The Italians show so much imagination."

On the whole, shopping in Europe was no cheaper than shopping in the United States.

All over Europe flowers were everywhere — in windowboxes outside office buildings, in the streets and parks and gardens.

The group stayed in Venice to see the Doge Palace and the Bridge of Sighs and visited the beach at Lido where the Americans felt overdressed among the bikinis. The most beautiful art was seen at Florence.

Nancy went shopping on the covered bridge of the silversmiths, Ponte Vecchio.

At Assisi, a walled city, any house less than 1,000 years old wasn't considered antique.

Coffee Is Strong

The Italian coffee had to be chewed, it was so strong, but the group got good coffee in Belgium and Holland.

Paris is too blasé toward tourists to leave a feeling of warmth, but shows and clubs were visited as well as art galleries and a tramp on the Champs Elysees.

Monte Carlo was acclaimed "beautiful" and the bikinis in Nice will go into Nancy's collection of slides. They were the best she took on the tour.

Many of the group carried cameras and made pictures, almost all in color.

Having been warned to dress warmly, the group suffered from the heat. The temperatures were exceptionally hot—101 degrees in Rome, 90 degrees in Paris. The only wool weather was during the last three days before return to the United States.

Everyone came back in better physical condition. Tramping through the galleries and narrow streets of Europe brought to attention muscles the majority didn't suspect existed until the tramping days began. Most suffered until the muscles strengthened to carry the walking assignments a red blooded tourist sets himself. One of the nicest customs found was the siesta. No mad dogs in the noonday sun, the continentals. They close shop after lunch and rest until late afternoon.

A wag quipped, "Instead of coming home with bouffant hairdos, we're going home with bouffant muscles. Everyone appreciates the siesta."

Kaleidoscope Impressions

Parisienne women were a disappointment. More high style was found on the streets in Brussels, in Southern Germany, and in Switzerland. Leica cameras in Germany cost as much as they do in the U.S.

However, food and rent were cheaper and the fruits and vegetables of a storybook variety. The farms and gardens were so perfectly laid out that they rivalled the flower gardens in beauty.

Teenagers didn't appear as boisterous in public.

The flower auction in Holland was one of the most beautiful sights to behold. Barges, loaded with blossoms, would be sold and towed away along the inland waterways to places like Paris for resale on the retail market.

Flowers, teenagers, art, music

The "military hardware" is "cold-bathed" over a prolonged period and then tested for operational efficiency.

everywhere and the flavor of a present mingled with faint scents of the past.

And on and on our Redstone travelers go as they dream of the immediate past and start planning for the trip of the future.

NCO Wives Organize Garden Club

The Noncommissioned Officers wives have organized a Garden Club on post which held its first meeting at the NCO Club last week to elect officers and establish a program.

Mrs. F. G. Moore, club organizer from Huntsville, assisted the group at the meeting.

The scheduled meetings will be open to all wives of noncommissioned officers and will meet on the first Thursday of each month.

Fifteen charter members attended the organizational meeting.

Officers elected are Mrs. John J. O'Shea, president; Mrs. Curtis Dunning, vice president; Mrs. Frank Reed, secretary, and Mrs. Arthur J. Massey, treasurer.

Warrant Officers Association Elects 1961-62 Officers

Chapter 53 of the Warrant Officers Association elected officers for the coming year at a special meeting recently at the Squirrel Hill Officers Club.

The new officers include CWO Spencer Ball, president, CWO John C. Dodd, vice president; WO Drew J. Curry, Jr., in the dual role of chairman and treasurer. All four are assigned at the Ordnance Guided Missile School.

Chapter 53 is the third largest chapter in the Warrant Officer's Association.

Nowicki to Speak At Joint Meeting Of ARS and RCAA

The American Rocket Society and the Rocket City Astronomical Association will hold a joint meeting at the Huntsville Electric Auditorium on July 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Albert L. Nowicki will speak on "Topographic Mapping of the Moon." Mr. Nowicki is Chief of the Department of Cartography, U. S. Army Map Service, Washington, D. C.

He holds a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from Marquette University and a master's degree from the University of Minnesota. He taught at both schools.

During World War II, Mr. Nowicki was a lieutenant colonel in the Army. He began his Government Service with the U. S. Forest Service and also worked for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Mrs. Lowery Is Newest NCO Wives Auxiliary Member

Mrs. William F. Lowery joined the NCO Ladies Auxiliary last Thursday, July 13th at the monthly business meeting.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. George Parmelee, Mrs. Richard M. Scholl, Mrs. Donald M. Hipsher and daughter, Donna.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Roy Henderson and Mrs. D. Coughlin.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Frank Reed, Mrs. Robert Metcalf, Mrs. S. Minton and Mrs. D. Coughlin.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, August 10th at the NCO Club.

At the Service Club

This week at the Service Club, the spotlight turns to music, music, music, and more music, with a bit of dancing and fun thrown in for good measure.

We start off the week with Wednesday's dance classes, and we are just starting a new course, so now is the time to get in with the class. We have an excellent instructor, guaranteed to get your feet moving in time to the music. Come by the Service Club at 1900 hours and see—chances are you could be another Astaire, hiding your talents. Remember, that's at 1900 hours on Wednesday night.

Then on Thursday evening after the Shutter Club meets at 1800 hours (more about the shutter club later) we will swing into the "Stop the Music" program at 2000 hours, when you can win candy for a little knowledge of tune titles.

Friday? Mood music at 1800 hours, and then when everyone's feeling thoughtful and intellectual due to the music, we will get a Chess Contest under way at 2000 hours, or even a bit earlier if enough chess enthusiasts come early.

We'll relax on Saturday evening at 1730 hours with a change of pace—a horseshoe contest, but to carry on our Theme of Music Week, we'll take requests for any of our LP's you might like to hear over the PA system, beginning at 1900 hours.

Sunday morning Coffee Call will be held at 0930 hours, and you can munch donuts and sip coffee to soft background music, or jazz if you prefer. Then at 1900 hours, a Platter Parade, the weekly Record Dance will take over the main lounge for an evening of some really toe-tapping music.

Monday night, of course, is our weekly evening of games, starting at 2015 hours.

Tuesday night the Bridge Club will meet in the small lounge at 1930 hours. The Rho Sigma Chi will also hold its monthly meeting on Tuesday night, and I urge you all to be there, as the August program will be discussed, and from advance plans it looks very interesting.

ADVANCE NOTICE SECTION

I am leaving out the History and Future section this week to give you advance notice on a host of fascinating programs planned at the Service Club next month, or shortly before.

On the 28th of July, the Club will rock to the sounds of the Jazz Festival, which will begin in the Lounge at 2000 hours that evening. It's been advertised as "Jazz Festival—Or Something," but I can guarantee you that whatever it is will be entertaining, and will include a bit of comedy and variety as well as Jazz, so don't miss this one. It's also been billed as "EXCITING SOUNDS," but it all means the same thing—entertainment.

Then there is a Splash party at 1500 hours on the 30th, followed by a Pot Luck Supper back at the Club.

In August, there will be a Bermuda Street Dance on the 3rd, and a Photo Contest on the 10th, sponsored by the Shutter Club.

'Rocking Rockets' Hold Graduation

The "Rocking Rockets" Square Dance Club held a dance and graduation exercise Friday night, July 14, 1961, at the Officer's Open Mess for new members having completed a program of basic square dancing instruction of twelve weeks.

This square dance group, one of the fastest growing activities at Redstone Arsenal, meets at the Officer's Club each Thursday evening from 1900-2130 hours.

Major Wilbert Higgins, a veteran caller and dancer for 15 years, serves as caller and advisor.

This will include color slides as well as color prints and black and white and everyone is invited to enter. First prize will be a sturdy tripod, and invaluable tool to the camera bug. Begin collecting your entries right now, as the 10th isn't too far off. The categories will be: (1) close-ups, (2) action, and (3) landscape and scenic; as you can see, a bit different from most photo contests, but calculated to bring out the best and widest variety of shots. The contest will be held a 1800 hours, August 10th.

There's a Dow Show in the offing, too, but as I have run out of space, that can wait until next week. Before I close, though, I would like to congratulate Pvt. Robert L. Dillon of 2nd ETC, who won the Pool Contest held at the club on the 7th.

See you at the Service Club. Margaret

DUMBO THE DUNKER—Used for dunking Marines in a pool of water at Camp Perdleton, Calif., this new trainer is being evaluated and tested as a life saving device. This gives leathernecks realistic training in water evacuation from downed 'copters.

MISSILEERS TOLD TO COPY DOCTORS

Missile men should follow the example of physicians and devote much off-duty time to keeping abreast of new scientific developments. Lt. Col. Armand L. Bellavance of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency gave this advice Friday, (July 14.) to 54 officers and enlisted men completing courses at the Ordnance Guided Missile School.

"We are engaged in a real and ever-present technological struggle with a political enemy who has openly vowed to destroy us," said the chief of engineering ARGMA's Industrial Operations.

"With this stark reality before us, let each of us resolve to make every class we teach fully outstanding, to assure ourselves that our repair of any system is first class and that our technical management is all that it can be," Col. Bellavance declared.

The graduates included 19 officers completing Ordnance courses in field artillery missiles and enlisted students in Nike and Hawk courses.

Ivey Receives Chief of Staff Suggestion Award

Bennie C. Ivey, a microphotographer with Industrial Operations became the first Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency employe to receive a cash award as a result of a suggestion he submitted in the recent Chief of Staff Suggestion Campaign.

For saving the government $2,337.00, Ivey was presented a check for $85.00 and a Suggestion Award Certificate by Colonel Henry H. Wishart, Deputy Commander of the Agency.

Ivey suggested that ARGMA contractors submit target density readings in writing accompanied by three or more frames of film in each shipment of electronic accounting machine film-mounted aperture cards submitted to this installation.

A native of Huntsville and educated in the Huntsville schools, Ivey works in the Engineering and Documentation Branch.

An Army veteran of the Korean war, he came to work at Redstone Arsenal after his separation from the service in March, 1953.

He and his wife, the former Dorothy Edwards, and their two children, Steve, 5, and Timmie, 3, make their home at 423 Abington Avenue.

Mismanaged Finances Result In Bankruptcy

There are some very distasteful and complicated problems that can easily develop from over-extended credit.

Perhaps the most disastrous is bankruptcy. A personal bankruptcy proceeding is an indication in most instances that you have mismanaged your personal financial affairs to such an extent that you must have Federal Court action for the benefit of unsecured creditors.

In appropriate situations, military personnel like other American citizens, are entitled to take advantage of bankruptcy proceedings to shed themselves of debts and obligations.

Bankruptcy is not recommended. It is a costly, detrimental and degrading proceeding.

But what leads to bankruptcy in the first place?

A report by the Consumer Bankruptcy Committee of the American Bar Association takes note of the following reasons:

- * Careless and irresponsible credit practices.
- * The increase in personal loans.
- * A philosophy of sheer extravagance.

If you fit any of the above categories you'd better adopt — and quickly — what legal advisers call a solvency code.

- * Curb impulse buying.
- * Shop around for the best buy before making a necessary purchase.

* Keep financial cushion to take care of emergencies.

If it's too late to do any of these things, contact your Legal Assistance Officer.

Above all, remember this: Don't rush into bankruptcy. When those bills start to pile up seek the less expensive and much more satisfactory means of settling your debts in an honorable way.

HAMMING IT UP — Ham, the famous space chimp, beams happily upon returning to this world after a trip 155 miles into space from Cape Canaveral, Fla. The 37-pound bundle of fur was found to be healthy, happy and hungry after his flight.

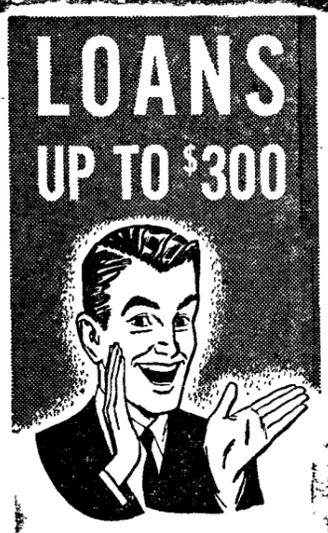

NEW LIGHTWEIGHT 40 millimeter Grenade Launcher will fill the gap in range between the hand grenade and the mortar for combat troops. Developed and produced by the Springfield Armory, Massachusetts for the U. S. Army Ordnance Corps, the grenade launcher weighs only six pounds and has an aluminum barrel. Traveling at 250-feet per second, the projectile is designed to knock out enemy bunkers, machine gun nests or small troop concentrations. A delay arming fuse protects the soldier from the deadly effects of the exploding shell.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY . . . Father: "So you want to become my son-in-law, do you?"
 Suitor: "No, sir, I really don't. But I want to marry your daughter and I don't see how I can avoid it."
 Those people who try to do something and fail are infinitely better than those who try to do nothing and succeed. Be cost conscious.
 TWIN TOWERS TIMES

MISSILE MARCH — The first engine for the Saturn 1.5 million pound thrust booster was successfully test fired at the Army Ballistic Missile Agency two years ago (May 1959).

At the beginning of the current fiscal year, the U.S. Army was using equipment valued at $7,242,000,000 here and overseas, including weapons, ammunition, guided missiles, tanks and combat vehicles, aircraft and many other items.

TERRY'S READY TO GO
Downtown Huntsville

With Latin America prominent in national policy thinking today, this Council on Foreign Relations book is particularly pertinent. With an introduction by Lyndon B. Johnson, it offers analyses by six authorities on the social changes in Peru, Bolivia, Brazil, Guatemala and Mexico, and the implications of these changes for United States policy.

The writers do not offer solutions for the problems. They view themselves as providers of information which may be of use to policymakers. "This kind of knowledge may enable the representatives of our government in foreign lands, and especially in countries now undergoing profound transformation, to get at levels of the population not reached before and scarcely ever understood."

Bryson sees three fundamental changes occurring: in relations among the primitive tribes and the forms of nationalism and national unity, in relations among different races, and in the population shift to the cities and to industry.

John P. Gillin, Dean of Social Sciences at the University of Pittsburgh, believes that while a democratic system like ours is not likely to develop in Latin America in the near future, there is a growing nucleus of middle class Latins who realize that it is possible to develop a sympathetic understanding for

He also suggests that our programs take into consideration Latin American traditions, honor and intelligence that our planning be undertaken in a full coordination with the Latin American countries; that the United States establish "a general image of itself as the friend of responsible democrats and liberals and an opponent of dictatorships of the right or the left."

He adds that friendly cooperation between U. S. Government and private concerns in their respective foreign policies would be advantageous; and that we support Latin plans and programs even when they are not precisely in accordance with our concept of "free enterprise."

It is the task of U. S. policy, he writes, to establish a better groundwork for mutual understanding, so that Latin America may move forward without either succumbing to "the rage offered by Moscow" or to a "war of the United States."

The factual essays on the five countries are informative and instructive. The problems faced by each country are different; their approaches toward solutions are different; yet there is a ferment of social change common to them all and, by extension, to the other countries of Latin America. The "differences seem to be largely in the stage each has arrived at in the journey they are all making in one direction, toward freedom and welfare."

COMMUNIST GUERRILLA WARFARE by C. Aubrey Dixon and Otto Heilbrunn (Praeger, 229 pp., $4.50).

As Lt. Gen. Sir Reginald F. S. Denning comments in his foreword, this study of Russian guerilla warfare against the Germans in WWII should be "of considerable value to those who may be responsible for planning to combat this menace in any future war." Principally using captured German documents and the testimony of German officers who learned Soviet techniques by personal experience, the authors analyze guerrilla operations, German countermeasures and the lessons to be learned from both.

They also summarize the precepts delineated by Mao Tse-tung, whose basic principles appear to have furnished considerable guidance to Soviet planners.

Dixon and Heilbrunn conclude that partisan warfare has revolutionized the concept of classic warfare by adding an element of depth which ranges from the front line to the remotest bases, and they propose a list of rules for the conduct of guerrilla operations.

Essentially, the book is really a plea for recognition of the fact that the Communists, both Russian and Chinese, consider guerrilla warfare in the enemy's own territory a necessary and vital adjunct to conventional military operations and that "It is a grave mistake to allow the Communists everywhere to monopolize the guerrilla movements."

An appendix contains the German blueprint for anti-guerrilla operations as propounded in a pamphlet "Warfare Against Bands" issued to the Wehrmacht in 1944.

POLITICAL HANDBOOK OF THE WORLD edited by Walter H. Mallory (Harper & Brothers, 243 pp., $4.50).

A standard reference work for 34 years, Mallory's compilation is a very useful tool for military personnel stationed overseas and interested in their country or area of assignment.

Some 80-odd countries are covered in detail — a few geographic facts, the names and political affiliations of the ruling parties, a systematized summary of the government, an outline of recent events in the political area and a description of the political parties and their leadership.

Listed under each country are the major newspapers, with their political affiliations, circulation and editorship; leading periodicals; and news agencies. Both free and communist countries are represented in the compilation.

There is a section on the United Nations which includes a listing of the intergovernmental agencies related to the UN, the membership of the UN and the Security Council, and other information of value.

Twenty-seven additional countries, including the new African states, are covered very briefly.

This is a valuable reference work, published for the Council on Foreign Relations.

THE ULTIMATE DECISION, Ernest R. May, Editor (George Braziller, 290 pp., $6.50).

Has the office of the President of the United States become so complex that he can no longer competently fill the dual role of political leader and commander-in-chief? Could our political system survive if the military command were vested in someone other than the President?

These interesting and vital questions are posed by Mr. May and five colleagues in a series of essays which analyze the conduct of our wartime Presidents as commanders-in-chief. May, associate professor of history at Harvard and once with the historical section of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, in an introduction discusses the probable intent of the Founding Fathers in giving the President two hats and in a closing chapter analyzes Mr. Eisenhower's actions in the Cold War and takes a look toward the future. The assessment of Madison during the War of 1812 brings forth a Scots verdict of "not proved," for the reliable evidence is scant and contemporary opinion too biased for satisfactory analysis. Polk, in the war with Mexico, collected all of the reins into his own hands and made all decisions of any importance.

Lincoln, disillusioned initially when he relied on his generals, ran the war until he found one he could rely on; then he built a modern command system. McKinley strove to avoid the Spanish-American War. When forced into it, he exercised supreme command, fought a political war, and won at the polls.

Wilson "believed that the president should control, but not command . . . he was rigid in forbidding military interference with policy . . . but neither should policymakers meddle in military affairs."

With F. D. R., there was never any doubt who was commander-in-chief, and he "employed his powers . . . in their true but negative function, as the shield and buckler of his presidential powers and his presidential policies."

Mr. Truman held that the military doctrine of command responsibility was applicable to the presidency, and "in more respects than most, Truman was the commander-in-chief envisioned by the writers of the Constitution."

Importantly, none of the Presidents who acted as commanders-in-chief ever forgot "that strategy was the servant of policy." Whether wisely or stupidly, rightly or wrongly, they all waged war as politicians — with a sense of responsibility to public opinion as well as to national interest abstractly conceived."

The essays are well-written and the approach is unique, with a considerable appeal to the thinking military reader.

866th, AOMSA Hq Tied for First

Winner of Local Softball Tourney Goes to 3rd Army

The 866th Technical Training Squadron, the only Air Force Team represented in the Redstone Arsenal Softball League this year, is tied for first place with Hq. Det, AOMSA.

The team has two very fine pitchers, Sgt. John Bond who has pitched in two world wide tournaments. In one he pitched Dover Air Force Base to the championship, Airman first class Lloyd Lucas, a fine fire baller with a sharp curve, has had six years experience, and will be a top pitcher in any league.

The manager, Sgt. Gerald Harvey, has played in five world wide tournaments during his career with the Navy and Air Force, and with two civilian teams.

Sgt. James Meechum, a fine fielding shortstop, is the power hitter on the team with eight home runs.

The Air Force Team is going all out to win the right to represent Redstone Arsenal in the Third Army Tournament.

Organizational Meeting Of Ski Club Is Tuesday

Organizational meeting of the Water Ski Club for the Huntsville area will take place at 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 25, at the Outboard Boat and Motor Company in the Pearsall Shopping Center.

Military and civilian water skiers, neophytes and seasoned veterans, have been invited to attend the meeting.

Tuesday's program will include a film, discussion of the proposed constitution, and an outline of the primary aims of such a club in promoting the sport.

Some of the aims are to teach safety and courtesy on Alabama's waterways; offer instruction to skiers in all brackets; sponsor ski shows and demonstrations; and sponsor tournaments.

A sport that can be enjoyed by the whole family skiing for fun, water skiing can also be classed a highly competitive sport. Tournaments and competition are divided into three areas: tricks, slalom and jumping.

Tricks are judged and awarded points on difficulty—usually on a timed and marked course. Slalom follows the pattern of snow skiing over a marked course at faster and faster pace. Jumping is spectacular and is based on a standard jump and constant boat speed. Jumpers are rated on form and distance.

The new club members hope to lay out regulation courses and maintain a jump ramp for the members.

On a non-competitive basis are barefoot skiing, kite rides, and the saucer—a round disc which spins easily.

The American Water Ski tournaments include competition at both junior and senior levels. From the annual competition, U. S. champions are picked to represent the country in international competition.

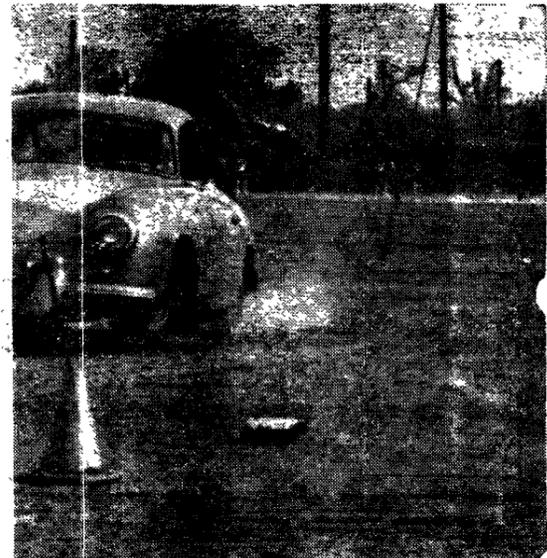

The temporary chairman for the club is Fred Chesebro of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency Industrial Operations. The election of officers will not take place until a constitution has been adopted.

Sports Car Buffs Plan Gymkhana

The Tennessee Valley Region of the Sports Car Club of America, a group of motor sport enthusiasts comprised mostly of Missile Command, MSFC, and related organization personnel, are sponsoring a test of driving skill at the Parkway City Shopping Center July 23.

The event, which is known as a Gymkhana to sports car buffs, is probably more familiarly known as a road-e-o and consists of various types of driving tests over a course marked out with rubber pylons. Tests include slaloms, backing, garaging, braking and others. Drivers are required to drive the prescribed course in the shortest possible time while being timed to the 1/100th of a second. Additional seconds penalty are accumulated for knocking over a pylon or

Missilemen to Give Opinions on Compact Cars for Dispatch

Army missilemen at Redstone Arsenal who are developing compact but deadly rocket weapons for troops in the field are now being asked for opinions on compact cars.

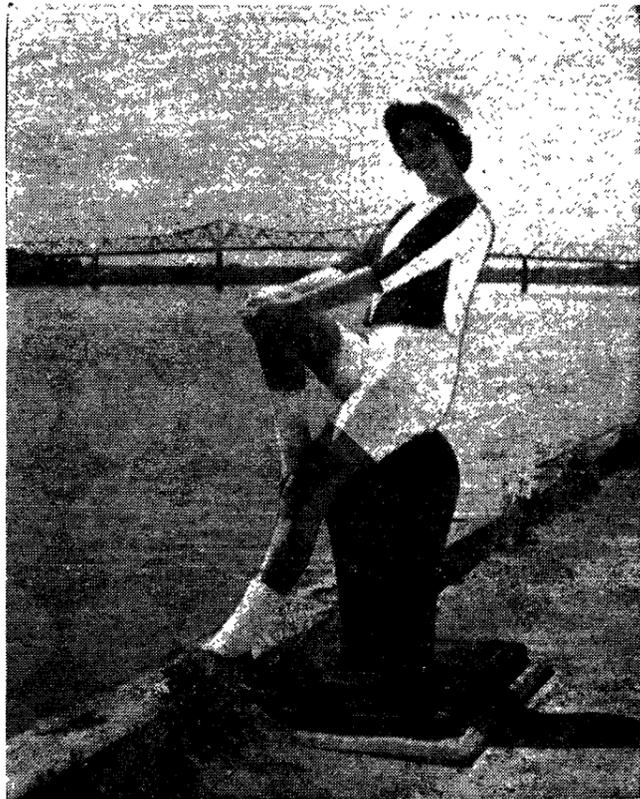

Three economy-sized vehicles being evaluated as dispatch vehicles in comparison with standard dispatch automobiles.

The compacts were purchased by the Department of Army and given to various installations throughout the country for testing and evaluation.

Testing compact versions is nothing new for the missilemen, who have developed the "hip pocket rocket," a four pound M-72 rocket grenade developed to stop tanks, and the portable Redeye, designed to give the individual soldier his own anti-aircraft protection in combat.

Passenger comments on the ability of the compact cars to perform their mission, and the comfort and convenience of the economy versions will be compiled during the year, according to Lt. Col. Theodore Antonelli, Chief of the Army Ordnance Missile Command Transportation Office, and will be submitted to the Department of the Army for final evaluation.

Col. Raymond Commands Mobile Area Engineers

Lt. Col. Daniel A. Raymond, a veteran career officer in the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, has assumed command of the Mobile Engineer District.

A native of Jacksonville, Fla., and a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, Harvard University, and various service schools, he is an experienced officer and engineer.

His previous assignments have included service as a company commander and battalion executive in an engineer combat battalion in the European theater during World War II, as a combat engineer advisor in Turkey, as a battalion commander and division engineer in Korea, and as deputy engineer at Okinawa.

He comes to Mobile from the U. S. Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Penn.

As District Engineer at Mobile, Col. Raymond will direct military construction for the Army and the Air Force in Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, and northwest Florida and Federal waterways improvement in major portions of Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, and Florida, a combined program which cost over $80 million in the fiscal year just completed.

He succeeds Colonel Robert W. Love, who has been assigned to duty in Hawaii.

LAST YEAR, Army motor vehicles were driven the equivalent of 2,500 round trips to the moon.

Army Technical Services are also using compact cars on a trial basis.

Last year, Army motor vehicles within the Continental United States were driven some 130,000 miles for each accident reported. By contrast, the better civilian motor fleets reported a record of an average 75,000 miles per accident.

TWENTY-YEAR MAN—Walter W. Raisor (left), storage specialist in the Consolidated Supply Division of the Army Ordnance Missile Support Agency, receives a Department of Army certificate and pin from Eugene M. Minor, Deputy Chief of the Division, upon the completion of 20 years of Federal Service. Raisor, a Navy veteran, came to the Arsenal from Jefferson Proving Ground, Ind.

Raisor Receives Certificate for 20-Years Service

Walter W. Raisor, who joined the staff at the Army Ballistic Missile Agency three years ago from Jefferson Proving Ground, Indiana, and transferred to the Army Ordnance Missile Support Agency's Consolidated Supply in November, 1959, received a pin and certificate for the completion of 20 years of Federal Service last week.

Mr. Raisor, a storage analyst, began his Federal Service at the Proving Ground which is near his home at Madison, Ind.

He took a military furlough for 30 months of Navy duty during World War II, serving in the Pacific where the tide of battle landed him at Iwo Jima on his birthday in 1945 and at Okinawa on Easter.

He served with the Navy from Sept., 1942 until October, 1945, working up to Gunners Mate First

ARMY ORDERS 18 CHINOOK COPTERS

WASHINGTON, D. C. (ANS)—The Army has ordered the first "Chinook" helicopter, a twin-turbine model capable of transporting 33 soldiers at a cruising speed of 130 knots, the Department of Defense has announced.

Eighteen of the helicopters will be produced, under a contract valued at $25,357,544, by the Vertol Division of Boeing Airplane Co., Morton, Pa.

The "Chinook," with a cargo capacity of three tons, loads through a real cargo ramp. The ramp may be left partially or completely open, or removed for flight. A 30-foot long cargo compartment with six and one-half foot headroom allows for carrying large size cargoes, such as PERSHING missile system components and various sizes of Class, a job that fitted with his civilian experience at Jefferson Proving Ground.

He returned to Jefferson where guns and equipment were processed for long term storage, much of the equipment shipped there from depots when closed following the war. Later, this stored material was used in Korea.

Mr. and Mrs. Raisor, originally from Terre Haute, Ind., share an enthusiasm for fishing and spend their weekends at Guntersville where they have built a retreat. Mrs. Raisor is Chief Surgical Nurse at the 5th Avenue Hospital in Huntsville. In Huntsville, the Raisor's reside at 2818 Dogwood Lane.

PAST AND PRESENT meet at Fort Knox, Ky., as members of the Modern Army's 6th Armd Cav Regt get ready to celebrate their 100th birthday. M-41 tank and crew from Troop B halt to look over 6th Cavalry trooper of the 1861-1865 vintage.

Army vehicles.

Instrumentation is provided for all-weather flight. The 51-foot long fuselage is 18 feet 7 inches tall at its highest point, with lift provided by two three-bladed rotors with 59-foot diameters.

The T-55-L-5 turbine engines will be obtained from Lycoming Division of Avco Corp., Stratford, Conn., under a separate contract. "Chinook" deliveries will begin in March 1962, and continue through the following November.

THE MORE THAN ONE MILLION servicemen and women and civilian employees of the Armed Forces who bought Series E savings bonds regularly in 1960 accounted for $362 million of the $3.5 billion saved through this program.

White Sands Missile Range, N.M.—William A. Lieberman, the Signal Corps photo ace who parlayed a surplus trailer at White Sands Missile Range into one of the finest documentary motion picture plants in the Armed Forces, has been honored by the Army with one of its highest awards.

The Army's Commendation for Meritorious Civilian Service was presented to Lieberman by Col. Paul W. Albert, Commanding Officer of the U. S. Army Signal Missile Support Agency at WSMR.

Lieberman officially came to White Sands in January of 1953 to set up a photographic laboratory in an old Air Force trailer obtained by what was then the six months old White Sands Signal Corps Agency.

But he had made many trips to White Sands on temporary duty orders from Fort Monmouth, N. J., to photograph missile firings here starting with the captured German V-2 shoots in 1946.

Under Lieberman's technical guidance, the early Signal Corps photographic program at White Sands grew to the present Pictorial Division of SMSA that has produced color motion pictures now in Army-wide distribution.

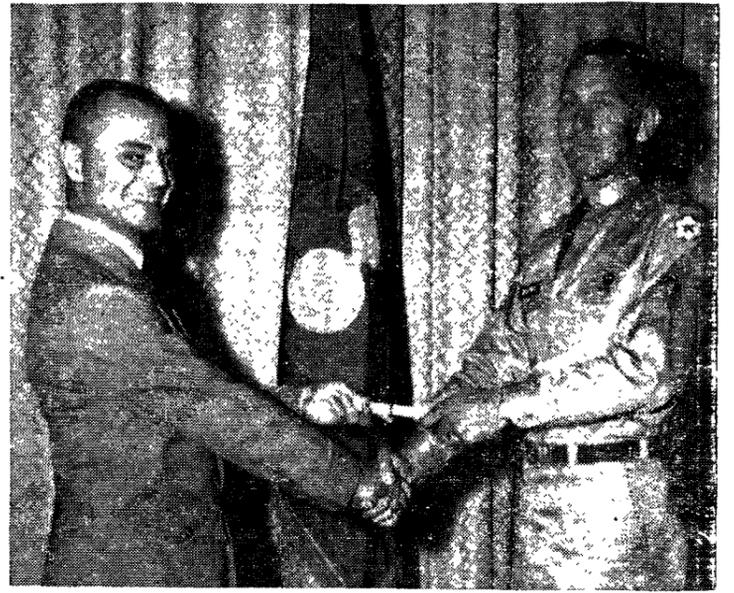

The trailer has given way to a modern laboratory building where 70 military and civilian technicians work with the latest techniques to produce motion picture and still photography.

The language of the commendation cites Lieberman for "outstanding accomplishments in production of professional quality motion pictures for White Sands Missile Range, other Army commands including the Secretary of the Army, and civilian agencies such as the National Academy of Sciences."

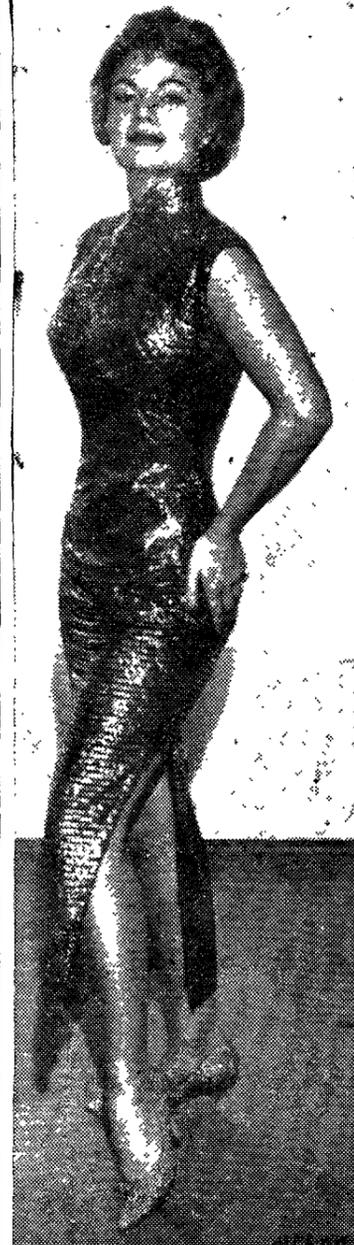

During the International Geophysical Year, Lieberman's group produced motion pictures on many scientific experiments that received international acclaim.

Many of the films have received national awards in competition with the top documentary motion pictures produced by industry. These films are available for non-profit showing by interested groups on application to the Signal Missile Support Agency.

TOP MISSILEMAN—Pfc. Samuel W. Waldenberg, (right), receives congratulations from guest speaker, Capt. Robert S. Macy of the U.S. Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency during graduation ceremonies recently at the Ordnance Guided Missile School. Waldenberg was top man in the Nike Track Radar Repair Course at the school. He is the son of Mrs. Iva V. Waldenberg of 203 Park Dr., Great Falls, Mont. He entered the Army in August of 1960, taking his basic training at Ft. Ord, Calif., and attended the U. S. Army Signal School at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. before coming to the missile school. He is a graduate of Great Falls High School, and attended Montana State College at Bozeman for a year.

Jupiter Launch Site Now Protects NATO Forces

ABMA, Air Force And Contractors Worked As a Team

Men from Detachment C, an overseas arm of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency who have been working as a team with the Air Force and the contractor to complete installation and checkout of the Jupiter weapon system at the NATO I site, returned to Redstone Arsenal last week after the final details were completed.

Completion of the missile site for the 1500-mile range missile is designed to add strength to the NATO shield defense against aggression.

More than 500 people worked more than a year under the direction of the men from ABMA to complete the launch sites on schedule.

Army officers and civilians from the Army supervised contractors who readied the sites. Men who coordinated the construction and related activities include the first Detachment C Commander, Col. Brian O. Montgomery who was succeeded by Lt. Col. Gilbert P. Levy; Maj. Merlin Bullard, Capt. Peter S. Conzelman, John H. Nichols, H. John Smith, Jr., and Carl L. McMillion.

Jupiter is the largest missile for which Army has had development responsibility. Chrysler Corporation is prime contractor for production. Before the weapon system was fielded, Department of Defense decided to turn Jupiter over to the Air Force for operational use. Plans also were made to train NATO forces to use Jupiter.

Under the original concept, the Jupiter was to be a mobile weapon, held in readiness in a horizontal position, protected from weather, moved to the launch site in the field when needed and raised to vertical firing position. The user changed the concept to fixed launching sites on which Jupiter remains in a vertical position. The sites include facilities for generating liquid oxygen, fuel storage, maintenance, launch areas and munitions storage for warheads.

To erect these sites, obstacles such as rough terrain with inadequate roads, and personnel needs including housing, had to be overcome. Completed, the site provides Jupiter missile systems ready for almost instant use if needed, and leaves the missiles exposed in all kinds of weather conditions.

The environmental conditions were one of the problems not anticipated when Jupiter was developed under the original concept of mobility. Adequate protection was one of the problems overcome while the site was being constructed.

Contract Awards Made to Firms In Southeast

Service and goods contracts exceeding a half million dollars were awarded to firms in Alabama and neighboring states by elements of the Army Ordnance Missile Command for the month of June.

The $516,302 figure for Alabama firms in June skyrockets above the preceding five months which averaged $150,000 in contracts let.

The six month total for goods and services contracted from Alabama firms during 1961 now stands at $1,269,259.

Five June contracts went to Huntsville firms; four to Decatur; six to Birmingham; and one each to Montgomery, Arab, Harpersville, and Gadsden businesses. Three Tennessee firms and three from Georgia took $92,807 in contracts.

The largest contract was awarded to Meadow Gold Dairies of Huntsville, a $114,804 order for dairy products. Other Huntsville contractors were: Ideal Baking Co., $14,310 for baking products; Dave L. Brown, $71,775 for ready-mix concrete; Bob Ward's What Cheer, Inc., $47,114 for laundry and dry cleaning items; and Ashburn & Gray, Inc., $18,744 for paving and lighting.

The Decatur firms were Quality

Model Laundry & Dry Cleaners, Inc., $5,544 for supply linen service; J. E. Johnson & Co., $20,774 for additions to boiler and pump house; Pat Dairy Products Co., $74,150 and $23,100 for dairy products.

Cosby-Quinn Mechanical Contractors of Arab received a $13,567 contract for installation of air conditioning; F. Jackson Contracting Co. of Harpersville completed a $14,840 contract for planting trees and shrubs in the Capehart area; Butler and Cobbs of Montgomery made modifications to the NCO Open Mess for $14,100 and American Bakeries Co. of Gadsden was awarded $37,161 for bakery products.

Birmingham contracts went to Hinkle Supply Co., Inc., $5,669 for aluminum bars and plates; H. L. Eskew & Sons, $19,600 for building modification and addition; General Electric Co., $12,159 for power supplies; Incho's Mechanical Contractors, $6,800 for installation of air conditioning; Alabama Oxygen Co., $5,215 for compressed gas; and the Whitaker Paper Co., $7,840 for paper.

The Volunteer State firms were Siskin Steel & Supply Co., of Chattanooga, $13,743 for structural steel beams and channels; Tri-State Roofing Co. of Nashville, $9,917 for building re-roofing; and Delta Refining Co. of Memphis, $24,354 for fuel oil.

The Georgia firms include Mod-

HOW TO AVOID DAVEY JONES' LOCKER

• There are now more than 8 million pleasure boats zooming and sailing in American waters. To prevent accidents, boat owners should be aware of these basic safety rules from Red Cross:

1. Know how to swim.
2. Equip your boat with oars, anchor, fire extinguisher, first-aid kit, life preservers, signal whistle, and flares.
3. Never overload your boat. One adult passenger to a seat is a good rule.
4. Before leaving shore, tell someone where you're going. Keep to your cruise plan.
5. Provide a life preserver for every passenger. Be sure non-swimmers wear them.
6. Don't take your boat out in bad or threatening weather. Learn to recognize storm signs.
7. Avoid sudden or excessive bursts of speed.
8. Remember that most boats will float when swamped or capsized. Hang on and don't abandon your boat unless necessary.

Millions of Americans benefit from Red Cross safety programs. Your help can keep Red Cross strong. This year, please be generous.

Incentive Awards Increase Cash For Suggestions

More incentive has been given to the incentive awards program at Redstone Arsenal with an across-the-board minimum cash award increase.

During the past fiscal year, employees here collected over $13,000 in awards for suggestions that were adopted by the government for a savings of more than $237,000.

Effective July 1, the new increase was announced by Gen. George H. Decker, Chief of Staff, Department of the Army. Besides increasing the minimum reward, the changes authorized increased benefits for adopted suggestions with more significant savings.

Under the new system, for instance, the minimum award for a savings of $2,000 is $100, as compared to $75 under the old system. Similarly, for a savings of $10,000 under the new system the employee receives a minimum $500 award as compared with $275 under the old award scale.

Suggestions with a tangible value less than $50 will now merit a letter of appreciation instead of the former small cash award. However, on higher savings to the government, suggestors will benefit from the increased award scale ranging from $5 to more than $400.

"This increase points out the significance the Army and the Federal Government place on this program," Frank Holmes, secretary of the Incentive Awards Committee at Redstone stated, "And it should be a further stimulant to civilian employees to present money-saving ideas to their supervisors."

Buying on Credit? See Better Business Bureau

There's a safe and practical way to buy a car—pay cash! Sounds good, doesn't it? But, you say, "I haven't got that kind of cash."

Alright, there's still a safe and practical way you can buy a home, car, furniture or anything else as long as you are careful not to go beyond your ability to pay.

When you decide to use credit the Better Business Bureau offers this advice: "Be sure you are dealing with a reliable company."

If not sure, consult someone in

HONOR MISSILE STUDENT—

PFC. Daniel W. Hund was named honor student during graduation ceremonies recently at the U. S. Army Ordnance Guided Missile School. Hund was top man in the Nike Acquisition Radar and Computer Repair Course. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Hund of 1114 S. Virginia Ave., Clarksville, Ind. His wife, Nancy resides at 1609 Bank St., Louisville, Ky. He entered the Army in August of 1960, taking his basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and also attended the U. S. Army Signal School at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. before his assignment to the Missile School. He is slated for an assignment at Okinawa as a missile repairman. Hund is a graduate of Jeffersonville (Ind.) High School, class of 1956.

OLD FASHION? — Curly Leslie Parrish, star of "Portrait of a Mobster," shows that a girl with the right measurements can look provocative even in an old fashioned bathing suit of the 20's.

whom you have confidence—your banker, insurance agent or a finance company of repute in your community.

Here are a few things to beware of: fast talkers with flowery promises, contracts, insurance, finance charges, interest rates, misleading advertising and misrepresented merchandise to name a few.

Most salesmen are ethical. But there are some who will jump at the chance to take advantage of inexperience. No matter how friendly a salesman may seem, be skeptical until you are satisfied of his integrity.

And remember this: no matter what a salesman tells you, it is the written terms of the contract which determine the rights of the parties.

You must be sure all matters on which you rely are in writing and that the contract is filled out completely before you sign. Above all, read and understand your contract. If you do not understand certain portions of it, ask questions until you get a satisfactory answer.

Here are some protective steps advised by the Better Business Bureau. Follow them and chances are you will get a square deal.

First, be sure you are dealing with a reliable company.

Second, never sign blank contracts.

Third, require the dealer to give you a complete listing of every single item that is included in the contract you sign describing how much and what kind of insurance (fire, theft, comprehensive, collision, life, health and accident or other) and your classification on collision, other charges and the finance charge.

Fourth, get a copy of all papers you sign and be sure they are like the originals.

Fifth, be sure you receive copies of all insurance policies even though they may be mailed to you later.
