Glenn Crane Is Promoted To Colonel

He Is Chief of Project Development For Nike Zeus

The Army's project chief for development of the Nike Zeus anti-missile missile system has been promoted to Colonel.

Brig. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commander of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, presented silver eagles to Col. Glenn Crane today.

Col. Crane, Deputy Commander ARGMA for Ballistic Missile and Space Defense, has been chief of the Zeus project since July, 1960. He succeeded Gen. Zierdt when the latter left the vital post to move up to command of ARGMA.

A University of Missouri graduate, Col. Crane has had more than a decade of experience in missile development encompassing almost all of the Army's major missile projects.

He entered the Army soon after receiving his degree in electrical engineering in 1941. He served overseas during World War II in Africa, Sicily, Italy, France, and Germany and was awarded the Bronze Star Medal in Germany in 1945.

His assignments in missile work began after a three year stint as an ROTC instructor at the University of Oklahoma which ended in 1949. Succeeding tours of duty included Chief of the Systems Test Division of the Army's White Sands Missile Range and resident ordnance officer at the Bell Telephone Laboratories in Whippany, N. J., then engaged in development of the earlier Nike air defense missiles, Ajax and Hercules, which proved principles now being applied to Nike Zeus.

Col. Crane was assigned to the Army Ballistic Missile Agency's west coast office in 1955 after service in Paris with Dr. Von Karmann. (See CRANE on Page 2)

NEW RECORD

Blood donations during the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile last Wednesday topped the previous record set during the June visit by 14 bringing the new total to 990 pints.

A year ago in August a record of 922 was set during the visit of the Bloodmobile.

EAGLES FOR ZEUS CHIEF—Brig. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commander of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, pins the silver eagle of his new rank on Colonel Glenn Crane, ARGMA Deputy Commander for Ballistic Missile and Space Defense. Mrs. Crane pins something more familiar on her husband, the Army's project chief for the Nike Zeus anti-missile missile system, at promotion ceremony in Gen. Zierdt's office.

Safe Drivers Here Receive Recognition

Two hundred and eighteen Army civilian employees at Redstone Arsenal have received the Nation's highest distinction for safe motoring — the National Safety Council's Safe Driver Award.

It was the second year in a row for 168 of these drivers. Fifty others qualified for one year of safe driving.

To be rated as a safe driver, the operator must log a total of 8,000 consecutive miles or go 12 consecutive months without a preventable accident or traffic violation.

This is the second year that the Army Ordnance Missile Command has participated in this program. Last year 341 awards were given out. Transfer of personnel to the Marshall Space Flight Center has lowered the total number of drivers.

Highest number of two-year awards went to the Transportation Division of the Army Ordnance Missile Support Agency with 91, while the Post Engineer, AOMSA led in one year awards with 20.

CID Program AOMC Team Is Explained Inspects Redeye Plant

There is a current shortage of U. S. Army enlisted criminal investigators, according to the Office of the Provost Marshal General, Department of the Army.

Local commanders have been requested to point out to interested and eligible personnel some of the advantages offered by the Army's Criminal Investigations Program.

Proficiency pay is scheduled to be authorized soon for CID personnel in Military Occupation Specialist category 953. Personnel will be proficiency tested during November, 1961, and as soon as test results can be correlated, "pro-pay" will be authorized.

Due to the present shortage of investigators, 20% of the 953's will be allowed to receive this pay, as compared to only 10% for all other Military Police MOS's.

The two-year college requirement for criminal investigators is proof of the importance the Army places in these specialist ratings.

It is relatively easy for soldiers to establish this educational level. The successful completion of Army rocket and missile experts left Redstone Arsenal Aug. 9 for Pomona, Calif., where they will conduct an inspection and review of the Redeye missile program.

The group will be led by Maj. Gen. Francis J. McMorrow, Deputy Commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

The Redeye is a shoulder-launched, infrared homing, guided missile which may be carried and operated by one soldier. It is designed for front line use as an air defense weapon against low-flying enemy aircraft.

Under the technical supervision of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency, General Dynamics Corporation's Pomona, Division is prime contractor for development of the weapon.

The visit is to be a periodic inspection in the Redeye program with the prime purpose being to insure that the foot soldier is provided with a weapon which will meet the Army's requirements.

The team will present AOMC, weapon system manager, with the current status of the Redeye development program.

Other than Gen. McMorrow, those to take part in the inspection (See REDEYE on Page 2)

Col. Collins Conducts Tour for Gen. Collins

Gen. James F. Collins, Commander in Chief of the United States Army, Pacific, visited the Army Ordnance Corps installation on Kwajalein Island recently.

Purpose of his one-day visit to the Nike Zeus test site was to familiarize himself with the Kwajalein operation where components of the Nike Zeus system are being installed.

Gen. Collins was briefed at Kwajalein by Col. Matthew B. Collins, Jr., Chief of the Pacific Field Office of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency.

He toured the sites of the acquisition radar, target track radar, missile track radar and the launch cells during the morning and after lunch flew to the island of (See COL. COLLINS on Page 2)

AOMC Civilian Scientists Receive R and D Awards

Civilian scientists of the Army Ordnance Missile Command came out on top when the Army announced Research and Development Awards today.

Of 22 awards honoring teams and individuals among the Army's more than 22,000 civilian scientists, AOMC rocket and missile experts were singled out for eight of the selections.

AOMC had nominated 10 of its most outstanding scientists.

Announced by Lt. Gen. Arthur Trudeau, Army Chief of Research and Development, it was the first time for the awards which were established to give annual recognition of scientific and engineering achievements by Army civilian employees.

Seven of the high Army scitific awards went to individuals and teams of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency and the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal, the other to a physicist at White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico.

ABMA individuals were honored as follows:

Jess B. Huff, Jr., of ABMA Research and Development Operations (709 Adams Avenue, Huntsville) was recognized for his outstanding contributions to ballistic missile guidance technology since 1953, especially in connection with the Redstone, Jupiter and Pershing missile system development programs;

Greatness of America Is Told in Her Cities

One reason service people have an appreciation of their Country's greatness is that over the years they get to travel around it. For them the "purple mountain majesty above the fruitful plain" is much more than a line from a song—it is heartfelt experience intimately bound up with one's feeling of what it means to be an American.

Yes—the country's natural majesty is immense and we are rightly stirred by it. But it was no less majestic when the only Americans were Indians. If today we look for symbols of what almost 200 years of democratic government have wrought we find them in our great cities "from sea to shining sea."

Who of us can look at the towers of lower Manhattan soaring skyward without telling himself, "this man made miracle is America and I am a part of it." Who can visit the nation's capital—that huge factory of government where free men sent to office by other free men make their laws and defend their liberties—without feeling, almost hearing, the hum of a giant, and knowing that we are in the capital of the free world?

It is this sense of greatness and strength and energy, which we get from our cities and their millions of people, that is embodied in the heritage we are privileged to defend. It is a living, pulsing thing; it is a continuation of the revolutionary fire that brought the nation into being. "We dare not forget today that we are the heirs of that first revolution," President Kennedy has said. But how can we forget when the creations of its spirit are all round us?

Washington, New York, Chicago, San Francisco—the dynamics of these and other cities are the national heartbeat. A people that raised them on islands, hills and prairies is capable of any sacrifice, any exertion, to keep faith with their proud, indomitable spirit. (AFPS)

The building served as a hospital for Huntsville Arsenal during World War II and has been occupied by Ordnance as laboratory and office space since the missile program was centered at Redstone Arsenal in 1951.

Hospital services were established here in February, 1956, when the Army designated the 35-bed infirmary an Army hospital.

In June, 1959, the capacity was increased to 75 beds with obstetrical, pediatrics, x-ray, gynecology and surgical service added. tions (Route 2, Decatur) for significant contributions in scientific and engineering leadership since 1956, primarily in connection with Littlejohn and Honest John missile system development programs.

The awards for scientific achievement by employees of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency were made to teams.

One of the teams was composed of Niles C. White (1302 Lowell Drive S. E., Huntsville) and Harry S. Williams (1101 Bluefield Avenue, S. E. Huntsville), both of Research and Development Operations and both chemists.

The team achievement cited was formulation of a new solid propellant rocket fuel with excellent temperature and environmental capabilities.

The other ARGMA award went to a three-man team made up of William B. McKnight, a physical scientist (Route 2, Somerville), Lonnie N. McClusky, an electrical engineer (Toney), and Gene H. Widenhofer, a mechanical engineer (6500 Sheri Drive, S. W., Huntsville).

The award said the three were responsible for a thermal imager which produces moving images in the absence of any illumination. All are ARGMA Research and Development Operations employees.

The White Sands physical scientist honored was William A. McCool.

He was cited for developing principles and demonstrations by simulation technology the practicality of a Transfer Function C efficient Analyser which is needed for analysis of missile inflight control components.

The award stated that such a device would permit essential component characteristics to be derived directly from measured component input-output data in a time frame sufficiently short to support real time test analysis.

Actual presentations of all of the awards will be made later at a time to be announced by local commanders.

Sojourners Combine Picnic and Business

A combined picnic and business meeting was held by the Redstone Chapter No. 353 of the National Sojourners recently at the Redstone Dock recreation area.

During the business meeting, Capt. Clarence W. Goldey, Bryn Mawr Lodge No. 325 of Minneapolis, Minn., became a new member of the local chapter.

The Americanism committee chairman, Grady Pepper, announced that Madison County public schools had been presented 37 50-star American flags during the

At the Service Club

Are you in the mood for something "different" to do? Are you bored with the same old round of movies, pool, ping-pong, and swimming? This sort of thing seems to happen near the end of every summer—you want something fresh to think about, some "new" fun to be had. Well, with this in mind, we planned a few unusual programs for the coming week.

We'll start the week off, though, with an old regular—the Wednesday night Dance Classes. The classes will meet at 1900 hours in the Large Lounge as usual. We'll be starting a new course soon, so keep in touch with us if you'd like to join.

On Thursday night, after the Shutter Club meets at 1800 hours, the Huntsville Civic Combo will present a Musical Concert at 2000 past year. He also volunteered to serve for another year as chairman of the same committee. The group plans to distribute copies of the American Constitution and the Declaration of Independence to the Madison County schools during the coming year.

hours. Dr. Francis Roberts will give a few interesting anecdotes on the history of Huntsville during intermission, and on the whole, it should be an evening of slightly different entertainment. Remember, that's on the 17th, at 2000 hours.

Friday evening's schedule will begin with a Chess contest at 1800 hours, followed by Show Rehearsals at 1830 hours. Then at 1900 hours, Tid-Bit Snacks will be served.

On Saturday, a Badminton and Croquet Party will be held at 1400 hours. Then at 1800 hours, there will be an Ice Cream Patio Party. It won't be necessary to sign up for this one.

Sunday morning Coffee Call will be held at 0930 hours, when hot coffee and donuts will be served from the kitchen. Then at 1530 hours comes an extremely unusual program. We plan to have a Dog Show out on the Patio, with prizes for the most outstanding dogs. If you're the proud owner of any breed of dog—just so he has four legs and a tail, be sure and bring him down. He may be a prize winner. The weekly Record Dance will begin at 1900 hours on Sunday night under the theme of Juke Box Serenade.

Our Monday night Evening of Games will begin promptly at 2015 hours.

Tuesday night the Bridge Club will meet at 1930 hours in the small lounge. Then at 2000 hours, we'll have a three-act comedy, "Papa Was A Preacher," opening the curtains in the main lounge for a one-night stand. I urge that you attend this performance, because it's really going to be funny.

HISTORY
The Bermuda Street Dance on the 3rd was somewhat hard on shoes, but worth a worn sole here and there.

Winners of the Post-Wide Bridge Tournament were first place, Sp/5 Tom George, Co. A OGMS; 2nd place, Pfc Everett Meigs, Hq & Hq USABMA, and third place, Sp/4 Alex Schleber, 227th Ord Det, Pfc Tom Close, Co A OGMS, and Sgt Jean Vitrich, French Air Force. Congratulations!

FUTURE
August is by no means dead and done with. We have a host of "fun" activities still in store, including a watermelon party and a picnic to Guntersville, so pick up one of our schedules from the Show Case in the lobby and keep up with the programs. See you soon? —Margaret

Bell, Book and Candle To Be Produced Aug. 18

An illustrator from the Industrial Division of ARGMA, a beautiful blond secretary from Chrysler Corp., two employees of Brown Engineering and the wife of an ARGMA employe, make up the cast of the play "Bell, Book and Candle."

The play will be seen at the Russel Erskine Hotel this weekend and will be presented by the Fantasy Playhouse. Tickets may be purchased at the hotel box-office or through Mrs. George Munro Robinson.

Directed by Jo Linger, the play will be given in the full-round Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 18 through 20.

Curtain time for all performances is 8:15 p.m. The modern sophisticated comedy by John Van Druten concerns a family of witches.

A beautiful blond with brown eyes, Carol Livingston, plays Gillian Holroyd, a witch with extraordinary powers. Carol, a secretary at Chrysler, has appeared in several plays in Huntsville and worked with The Children's Theatre of Oak Ridge, Tenn. Most recently she handled the roles of Madge in "Picnic" and Nancy in "Angle Street."

Playing opposite Carol will be Tom Melton as Shep Henderson, the man upstairs, who falls quite literally under Gillian's brother (A warlock, the masculine for witch). Wayne is a versatile young man dividing his theatrical time between acting and directing.

Wayne and wife Nancy are both members of the Fantasy Playhouse organizing group.

Redlitch, the writer who published the book on magic, will be played by Bobby Patterson.

For his role as Polo in the Auburn production of "Hatful of Rain," he received a best-actor award and for Robish in "Desperate Hours" a best supporting actor award. Bobby is an illustrator for Brown Engineering Company.

The third witch of the Holroyd family is Aunt Quennie who, according to the script, came into it rather late in life and has limited witch powers but enjoys to the fullest the ones she has. She will be played by Eleanor Hicks Wood. She worked with both the Amarillo, Tex., Little Theatre and the Huntsville Little Theatre. She is one of the organizers of the Fantasy Playhouse and is serving as its first president. For Reba, in a "Visit to a Small Planet", she received a best supporting actress award. She is the wife of L. K. Wood of the Nike Hercules Section, Industrial Division, ARGMA.

"Bell, Book and Candle" is being presented by the Fantasy Playhouse as a fund-raising program to help launch the season of three children's plays. The theatre organized to bring children's drama to North Alabama. The organization chose a storybook Castle as its symbol. The workshop is called the Tower.

Plans are to incorporate music,

Wayne Lacy will handle the direction. The play will have eight adult roles and approximately 20 children's parts. The play will be presented on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1st at Huntsville High School.

Anyone interested in appearing in the play or working with the group is invited to the readings. Other plays planned are "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves" for December and "Alice in Wonderland" to be produced in the Spring.

The Sports Car Buffs

This week we are going to deal primarily with rallies and more particularly with the up and coming 3rd Annual Rallye De Noir, sponsored by the Tennessee Valley Region, SCCA.

Rallies are not a spectator event and therefore I can suppose that there are quite a few readers of this column who do not have the slightest idea of what a rally is, so lets start off by taking you on a hypothetical rally to give a clearer meaning to the event.

You have heard that there is a rally this Sunday, and being interested in motor sport, you show up at the starting line of an afternoon event being sponsored by the local Sport Car Club. The first thing you see when you arrive is a table with a large gathering. Getting out of your car, you wander over and see a sign, "Registration-Rally Dritte."

Behind the table is a smiling young lady who hands you an entry form to fill out. This completed, you pay the entry fee and receive a copy of the General Instructions. Looking around, you see a couple of people you know have rallied before, so you go over to discuss the instructions you have just received. After covering these with your friends, you find they contain all the information needed to participate in the event. (The usual Who, How, Why, What, When and Where of the newspaper reporter). They will tell you how the event is to be run and everything necessary except where you are going.

Car Number 7

The registrar has told you that you are Car Number 7, that your departure time is 1:06 P.M. This means that the cars are leaving every one minute. You see the cars start to line up and you fall in behind Car No. 6 to wait your start time. As this is your first event you have none of the fancy equipment, computers, speed calculators or the like that you see in the other cars for all you have with you is your navigator, pencils and paper and the wristwatch that was given to you last Christmas by a loving aunt. These are all that are absolutely necessary, but you decide that if you like this event and plan to run more, you are going to have to get some additional items. For if the majority of the rallyists have them there must be a reason.

As you move up in the line towards the starting line, a worker comes over and tells you that you have two minutes and hands you a set of route instructions. With butterflies in your stomach, you and the navigator huddle over these to see if you can find out where you are going. The first instruction tells you that you are to leave the parking lot and turn right proceeding with an average speed of 24 miles per hour. Your navigator figures the distance that you should travel each minute at the average speed and then you are off and away on your first venture into a new sport.

Cruising Speeds

Having completed the first instruction your navigator tells you that you are supposed to turn right at the third traffic light and change your average speed to 31 MPH. As you count the lights, the navigator is busy making his computations for the new average speed. At the third light you find that you have travelled two miles, which according to your navigator, should have taken you five minutes and that you are right on time.

You make the turn and continue following instructions and at a bend is a Check Point. You pass the flag. The worker there calls out 'Mark,' which means your arrival time is noted.

At the table your time is entered on your route card and a new starting time is given for the next leg. This is the general rule for the remainder of the event. Being a small Sunday afternoon rally, you find the third checkpoint this end of the route. After checking in, you and your navigator head for the Coffee Shoppe where all the contestants are verbally re-running the event and waiting for the organizers to compute the scores.

When the results are in, you find that you have placed 5th out of 13 cars. Not bad considering this was your first event. Enthused, you head home, vowing to obtain some more equipment before you ever run another, but run you will.

Of course, there are many other facets to rallying but this will suffice to give you a little insight into the workings of the Sports Car Rally. Enough, I hope, to possibly bring you out to try your hand at one of the small local events.

3rd Rallye De Noir

As I mentioned at the start of this column, I would be talking about the 3rd Rallye De Noir, the annual all night rally conducted by the Tennessee Valley Region, SCCA to be held August 26-27.

This event is considerably larger in scale than the hypothetical run we just took you through. It will start from the parkway lot at Parkway City at 8:00 p.m., Saturday night. The event will be run in three sections with a rest stop of around an hour between each. There will be one or more controls within each section.

In talking with the organizers, I am sure that this is going to be an event well worth attending, from a standpoint of the trophies offered, if for nothing else. These include the Drivers & Navigators trophies for the first three overall winners team winners, best finishing ladies car and a hard luck trophy for the driver and navigator of the car deemed to deserve it.

Besides these, there will be a trophy for the first finishing car of each of the following Marques: Saab, Volvo, Triumph, Jaguar, Porsche, Volkswagen, MG, Sprite, Austin-Healey, Corvair, Corvette, Ford (domestic or foreign), Dunlop Tires and the best placing Husband-Wife team.

Naturally, not too much can be said without going into too much detail, however if any of you readers are interested in either running this event or finding out a little more about it either a phone call to this writer or a note or card to the Rally Secretary will bring you a copy of the General Instructions. Address all correspondence to Miss Penny Libbe, 3022 Thompson Circle, Huntsville. General instructions are available at this writing and give complete information regarding the running of the event.

Oops!

Due to a typographical error in last week's column I feel that I should give you more information concerning the U. S. Grand Prix. The event was originally scheduled for November of this year at an announced site, has been moved to the Watkins Glen Grand Prix Course, in Eastern New York State and will be run on Oct. 7. Further information will be given as it becomes available.

One last word before we call it quits for this week. I mentioned before that we had a job of selling to do; selling ourselves, our cars and our sport to the public. This has again proven true. This past week when two different instances took place, one good and one bad. On the bad side of the ledger

All-Stars Defeat Union Grove

The Redstone Arsenal All-Star baseball team made a successful debut by defeating Union Grove 4-1.

The team, coached by Sgt Mike Campbell, looked impressive in their first game.

Strong pitching by Sp/5 Ken remarks were heard in a local establishment about a sports car that was seen in the "we-small hours of the morning" dragging with a domestic car on a local highway. He lost and so did every other sports car driver in the area.

Good Samaritan

On the credit side, I received a phone call from an employee on the Arsenal stating that he had read this column and had a comment to make. It seems that he was off to the side of the road with a flat tire when one of our sports car club members pulled up to see whether he could help. It just so happened that his spare was also flat, so the SCC driver took this gentlemen tire in to have it repaired and returned it to him.

This took him quite a ways out of his way but it certainly did create a very favorable impression on this particular individual. These are just two of many incidents that take place every day. The word gets around whether you want it to or not.

Remember, "Be Safe, Drive Safe and Be Courteous." Your actions will help further our cause more than all the words in the world.

Hunsicker, who worked three innings and gave up only two hits, and Pfc Bob Cohen, who worked the remaining four and gave up only two hits highlighted the game.

The All-Stars scored all four of their runs in the first inning on two hits, a walk, a hit batman and two errors.

Union Grove scored their lone run in the fifth when their pitcher J. Smith singled, stole second and third and scored on an error. The All-Stars picked up seven hits off Pitcher J. Smith.

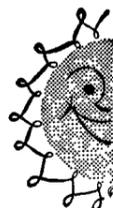

CO. A, OGMS ELIMINATES USAG

For the second straight game, Co A surprised a favorite team this time Hq USAG; the league first half winner, was the victim, the score was 9-2. The loss eliminated Hq USAG from the tournament.

Co A rapped Hq USAG's pitcher, SFC Ed Waldrop, for 13 hits including five doubles. Sp/5 John Goltz pitched a four hitter. The lone run scored against him was a home run off the bat of Pfc Bill Gawron in the sixth inning.

Sp/4 Ken Kilmore had two of the four hits off Goltz.

Sp/5 Ken Hunsicker had a perfect day at the plate getting two singles and a double in three appearances at bat.

University of Maryland Program Aids Servicemen

Membership in the Armed Forces no longer is an automatic road block to aspirations for a higher education, and the serviceman's oath to defend his country no longer cancels out his chances for a college diploma.

It might have been largely true 15 years ago, say two deans of the University of Maryland's University College, Drs. Ralph J. Klein and Stanley J. Drazek. But today, they point out, more than 250 American universities and colleges offer off-duty, classroom-type courses at military installations or on their regular campuses which are within commuting distance.

Nor is the serviceman or woman stationed overseas forgotten. In nearly every area of the free world, through University College, the University of Maryland operates in cooperation with the services. In the Caribbean theater, courses are offered by Florida State University.

At some 200 teaching centers in 22 countries on four continents, as well as at military installations in Maryland and the District of Columbia, University College today offers undergraduate, resident credit courses, says its Assistant Dean, Dr. Klein.

Each year, he adds, more than 20,000 overseas students in uniform enroll in courses in such subject fields as business administration, philosophy, economics, English, sociology, foreign languages, history, psychology, mathematics, speech and education. Courses which require extensive laboratory facilities are not offered overseas.

"University of Maryland teachers and students have clad themselves in fur-lined parkas to attend classes at Air Force bases in Greenland," says Dr. Drazek, University College Associate Dean.

"American history has been taught to Army and Air Force students in West Berlin, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain. On the other side of the world, in Korea, similar courses are being offered

Company B Wins Baseball Tourney

Co. B eliminated Hq., UTC to win the Redstone Arsenal Baseball Tournament, 10-1.

The win was the fourth straight with no losses in tournament play. SP4 Bob Schlett, pitcher for Co. B, got all the runs he needed in the first inning as his teammates scored six runs on four hits and four errors.

SP5 Ron Norton led off with a single and moved to second on PFC Bill Cyphers sacrifice bunt.

He scored as Sgt. John Schillo doubled. After Lt. Robert Woods reached first on an error, a two-base error by the second baseman on PFC. Don Laverenz grounder scored both Schillo and Woods.

PFC. Leroy McElhinney singled in Laverenz with the fourth run in the inning.

PFC. Bob Schafer reached first base on an error and came home when SP4 Bob Schlett doubled.

Hq UTC's Sgt. James Meachum led off their half with a double after PFC John Raudensky struck out. Meachum scored on PFC. John Lloyd's single.

Schlett fanned the next two batters and snuffed the rally.

Hq UTC was no threat after the first. Schlett allowed four more hits in the game.

just south of the 38th parallel."

Dr. Klein and Dr. Drazek, who have a combined 23 years of educational experience with members of the Armed Forces, think the thousands of service people who enroll for courses are motivated by a desire for increased knowledge for cultural, occupational or military self-improvement.

Another objective, they say, may be to work for a degree. A third motive is to prepare themselves for post-retirement careers.

"Quite often all three goals may play an important role in an individual's mind," says Dr. Klein. "And frequently an immediate goal may develop into a long-range program.

255th Wins Intramural Softball Championship

The Unit Training Command Intramural Championship Softball Game was played Friday night at 6 PM at Redstone Arsenal.

Going into the championship game, defending their faultless record was the 255th Ord Det, champs of the National League with a 9-0 record. The 256th Ord Det, captured the American League pennant with a 9-2 record.

The 255th, behind the leadership of their pitcher, Lt Robert Wendt, won the championship by a close margin—14 to 12. It was a nip and tuck game all the way with both ball clubs rallying alternately.

The 256th, after giving the champs a 5 to 0 margin in the first inning of the game controlled the last four innings by outscoring the 255th 6 to 1.

At the close of the game, Lt Col Raymond Hansotte, Commander of the Unit Training Command, awarded the Championship and runner-up trophies. The most valuable player trophy, also awarded by Col Hansotte went to Lt Wendt.

Servicemen Cautioned Check Buying Habits

UNCLE SAM is considerably worried today about the flow of gold from his bank account into foreign government vaults.

And he intends to do something about it.

Servicemen and their families serving aboard figure into the overall picture because they are one source foreign governments tap to get dollars with which to buy gold.

But it must be remembered in your dealings with foreign friends that a tactful and sensible approach must be adopted. For example, they understand about currency restrictions because they have had them too. An explanation on your part as to why your government is taking the action it is will pave the way for better relations.

The balance of payments problem has been going on for some time. It was forcefully brought home to servicemen in November, 1960, by the presidential order directing a cutback in the number of dependents allowed overseas.

Although the order was later rescinded, the problem still remains.

It is estimated that in 1960 servicemen and their dependents spent $845 million abroad. This is a considerable amount of money when multiplied over a period of years.

Our government depends on a number of items to bring money in. Included are exports, foreign investments in the United States, income from investments abroad and travel in the United States by foreign nationals.

The dollar outgo includes military spending abroad, imports, foreign aid, American investments abroad, etc.

Your government must do something to make its books balance, or at least to get them into better focus monetarily to keep the value of the American dollar "as good as gold."

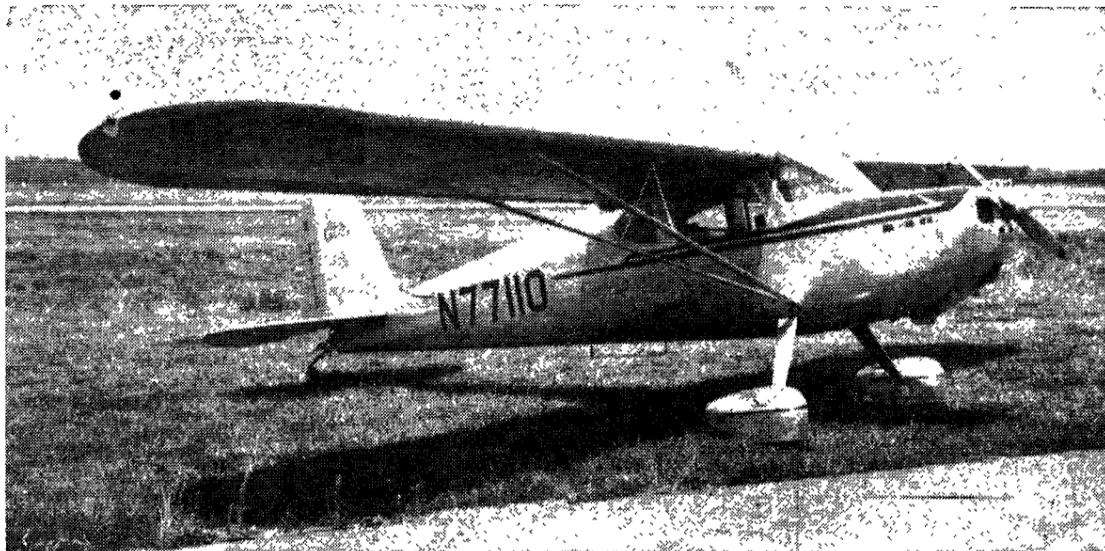

It has asked servicemen and their families serving abroad — and those about to go there — to help solve this problem. Not do it all, just help.

As a start it has been suggested that each enlisted man and woman serving abroad put the money they draw in foreign duty pay into U. S. bonds — and do it before they learn how to spend it.

Although officers do not draw foreign duty pay, they too are urged to set aside a certain amount for the purchase of bonds.

In addition, if servicemen and their dependents would concentrate to a greater degree on buying American made goods or products and develop to some extent a sales resistance on costly foreign items they would be helping to solve the problem.

ATTAYA DEFINES MISSILE SUPPORT

Ordnance officers should regard the missiles they support as a "personal responsibility which can never be delegated," Lt. Col. Henry E. Attaya told graduates of the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School Friday.

The executive officer for research and development operations at the Army Rocket & Guided Missile Agency spoke to seven officers completing the Ordnance Guided Missile Officer course in Field Artillery missiles at an informal ceremony Friday morning. He was introduced by Lt. Col. D. W. MacFeeters, chief of OGMS operations.

The graduates, all of whom were immediately assigned to duties at OGMS and other Redstone Arsenal agencies, included: Capt. Cicero Council, Jr.; Lts. Bruce S. Packard; Ronnie J. Barber, William P. Locklear, John W. Milne, Matthew F. Pitner III, and Carl M. Shepard.

Since July 1960 he has been Associate Director of the Research Laboratory of the new Army Ballistic Missile Agency.

Shortly after arrival in this country he began teaching in the Graduate Program of the University here.

By invitation Dr. Lehnigk presented papers at the AGARD meeting of NATO, Paris, in 1957, and at the First Congress of AFAC, Moscow, in 1960, and at the International Meeting of Mathematicians at Innsbruck, Austria, 1960.

He published papers in internationally recognized scientific journals.

Dr. Lehnigk married the former Elizabeth A. Heise of Fallersleben.

Dr. Hans Sperling, a native of Stolp, received his Ph.D. from the University of Marburg in 1957, where he had also served as a Graduate Assistant in Mathematics.

In 1958 he worked as a physicist at Frankfurt, Germany and conducted research in the field of particle accelerators.

He came to Huntsville in 1958 to join the Aeroballistics Laboratory with the Army Ballistic Missile Agency. Since July 1960 he has been Scientific Assistant to the Director, Aeroballistics Division, Marshall Space Flight Center. He has been teaching in the

POST LIBRARY

By Jean L. Hoffman
Asst. Librarian

To be alive in such an age! With every year a lightning page Turned in the world's great wonder book Whereon the leaning nations look.

Angela Morgania "Today" "America: Too Young to Die!" by Major Alexander de Seversky is an impassioned plea for action now . . . action designed to implement America's air power. Seversky, former Russian ace aviator, will be remembered for his amazingly accurate prophecies in his previous works: "Victory Through Air Power," and "Air Power: Key to Survival." In his summary Major Seversky states: "Let me repeat: we are still the greatest industrial nation on earth and we still have the necessary creative brain power and the superior technological know-how to regain world leadership. But it is imperative that we make fundamental changes now, no matter how deeply they cut through sentiment or tradition . . . And in conclusion: "In a world where force is still the final arbiter among nations, only by organizing our entire defense effort into a single, homogeneous whole, in compliance with the military axiom of unity of command, can we gain aero space supremacy . . .

Leadership . . . men of stature instead of status . . . shades of Vance Packard whose "The Status Seekers," "shook up" many in 1959 "The Waste Makers," is still proving popular to Post Library Patrons. For our military patrons we heartily recommend Ernest Dupuy and Trevor Dupuy's joint effort entitled, "Brave Men and Great Captains," with a foreword by Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin. Gen. Gavin, writing in 1959 stated that: "It should provide a basis for understanding the peculiar qualities of American leadership and thus for projecting those qualities into the future to meet the challenge that will certainly be ours in the coming decade."

Professor Arthur Lovejoy's philosophical interpretation of Kant, Bergson, is to be found in his recent "The Reason, The Understanding and Time."

One out of three persons in the U. S. is watching his weight, according to surveys. This continuing concern about excess pounds has brought increased interest in books on diet and weight control, ac-ording to Anna Lee Garrar, Chief Librarian. Frequently requested are two recent publications "The Sienderella Cook Book," by Myro Waldo and "Good Health and Common Sense," by Dan Alexander. Movie and TV star Bob Cummings also gives advice about nutrition, diet and health in his "Stay Young and Vital," which topped the best-seller lists last spring.

A number of other excellent books are available including Gayelord Hauser's "Be Happier, Be Healthy," and his older work entitled "Look Younger, Live Longer." Patrons are also referred to a recent issue of Look Magazine. For our younger contingent who are prone to enjoy hot fudge sundies and lollipops, we recommend A. A. Milne's story of the stout bear, to be found amid the enchanting pages of his "When We Were Very Young."

Young adults may enjoy books about famous combat planes and war aces. Some recent titles are "The Aces," by Frederick Oughton and William Mitchell's Memoirs of World War I, an eye-witness account of our first war in the air by the father of American air power, Gen. Billy Mitchell. Older titles designed to intrigue are "Reach for the Sky," by Paul Brickhill, the story of Douglas Bader, legless ace of the Battle of Britain and "Seven Came Through," by "Capt. Eddie" Rickenbacker, chairman of the Board, Eastern Airlines whose life has been both adventurous and spectacular. Another account of the rescue of Rickenbacker and his companions from the waters of the Pacific is "We Thought We Heard the Angels Sing," by Whittaker.

New titles for your lighter moments are Eddie Cantor's "The Way I See It," "Call Me Mrs..." by the Berenstain's, "So What Else is New," by Hy Gardner, celebrated columnist who offers hilarious proof that people are their own best enemies . . . "The New Yorker Album 1950-1955 includes four thousand cartoons as well as forty covers. Andrew Loomis' has a new work, "Fun With a Pencil." Subtitle is "How Everybody can Easily Learn to Draw" On the humorous side also is Sara Kasdan's novel, "So It Was Just a Simple Wedding."

Hesketh Pearson, resident of London, is the author of many highly successful biographies — Bernard Shaw — Oscar Wilde — Dickens and Disraeli. Richly rewarding entertainment, written with perception and thorough documentation is her new work "The Marrying Americans," which describes the marital gold-rush of such famous alliances as Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough, Jeanette Jerome and Lord Randolph Churchill.

Rediscovered after nearly fifty years, W. Somerset Maugham's "The Magician," is a thriller in both subject and treatment. His many followers who recall his "Razor's Edge," "Of Human Bondage," and others will find Mr. Maugham at the height of his form in this medico-science-fiction "Mystery of the Haunted Pool," by Phyllis A. Whitney is a spine-tingler for the high school crowd

For nature lovers "The Bird Watcher's Guide," by Henry Collins is profusely illustrated. Amateur photographers will love the section on how to photograph birds.

Fiction favorite candidate is Guy Bolton's "The Olympians," which relates a tender and poignant ac-
