Colonel Cooke Cuts Ribbon, Data Processing Begins in Comp Center

Machines Will Be Moved When New Quarters Are Built

A new computer to solve scientific and engineering problems for Army missilemen was activated Feb. 1.

Col. Thomas W. Cooke, Commander of the Army Ordnance Missile Support Agency, officiated at a short ceremony placing the computer—an IBM 7090—in operation as a part of AOMSA's Computation Center.

The data processing system will be a part of the facility serving the Army Ordnance Missile Command's operations.

Thursday's event marks a major step in the plan to replace the Army's computation facilities at Redstone which were among those transferred to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Marshall Space Flight Center in a realignment of missions in mid-1960.

The new scientific data processing machine—capable of almost one million operations per second, is coupled with a second, smaller system which acts as an input-output booster. The smaller unit prepares data for insertion into the larger system. Although its primary use is to increase input-output capabilities for the larger computer, the smaller unit is also a complete computer system and may be used from time to time to solve problems which do not require the extreme speed and complexity of the larger unit.

Installed in temporary facilities, the new computer will be moved into AOMSA's new Computation Center now under construction on Martin Rd. later this year. About 19 scientific programs are already scheduled to be run on the new system this month, according to Joseph B. Bennett, Chief of the Computation Center.

Seven full-time operators will be employed. The new laboratory will be staffed with 30 persons when brought up to full strength, Bennett said.

Zeus Checks Out in Low Altitude Test at WSMR

Missile Is Guided Through Violent, Controlled Maneuver

The U. S. Army fired all three solid fuel stages of its Nike Zeus anti-missile missile while guiding it through violent controlled maneuvers at relatively low altitude today in a test at White Sands Missile Range, N.M.

The two solid fuel rocket motors of the missile's main propulsion system fired in normal sequence. Ignition of the third stage motor occurred as planned later in the flight and far up range from the point in the southeast corner where the missile had been launched.

The Zeus was controlled in flight using ground elements of the missile defense system. Nike Zeus is the only active defense against ballistic missiles in advanced development in the Free World.

ROCKET SOCIETY FROM WEST POINT VISITS ARSENAL

Thirty U. S. Military Academy cadets have returned to classes after a four-day trip to Redstone Arsenal, home of the Army's missiles.

Members of the West Point chapter of the American Rocket Society, the cadets were the fourth group from the banks of the Hudson to make the annual Arsenal tour.

Cadet Nicholas R. Hurst, son of Brig. Gen. Richard M. Hurst of Redstone Arsenal is president of the West Point chapter.

Gen. Hurst is deputy commanding general for ballistic missiles at the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

The cadets started their tour at Redstone Friday morning, getting a look at some of AOMC's research and development laboratories where missile designs are evolved and tested.

They spent the afternoon at the Marshall Space Flight Center, and were briefed at the Ordnance Guided Missile School on Saturday.

The Army's young men said that a look at the modern Army's missiles gives them a valuable portion of their professional training.

BLOODMOBILE

The Red Cross Bloodmobile is in Bldg. 7110 today from 8:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. for its monthly visit to the Arsenal.

JOINT CRUSADE, HEALTH AGENCIES CAMPAIGN BEGINS

G. N. Brown Named To Head Fund Drive

A consolidated drive to raise funds for the Federal Service Joint Crusade and the Federal Service Campaign for National Health Agencies will get under way at Redstone Arsenal on Feb. 19, it was announced Monday by drive chairman G. N. (Gus) Brown.

The announcement came following his appointment as chairman by AOMC Headquarters. The Federal Plans Coordinating Committee had selected Brown to serve as drive chairman at a recent meeting.

The committee also designated Feb. 19 to March 30 as the period for the local drive. The nation (See GUS BROWN on Page 2)

Hawk Undergoes Value Analysis

An old-fashioned falconer would be more than slightly interested to learn that it is possible to make an annual savings of $17,000 on a hawk.

But then he would have been disappointed to learn that it is a Hawk missile and not a hunting bird that is having its cost reduced.

VOTE

The first half of the ballots are being counted for representatives on the Civilian Welfare Fund Council, according to the election chairman Enoch P. Sparks.

Mr. Sparks said that every employee should vote for a representative from his organization and for one representative at large. The ballots are to be turned in to time and payroll clerks in each organization and will be tallied by the election committee. Results will be published when all results have been determined.

NCO at Cape Canaveral Is Trained by the FBI

He's Only Non-Com To Take Course for Special FBI Agents

Standing guard over the Army's missile program at Cape Canaveral, Fla., is a sergeant who holds a unique diploma in law enforcement.

M Sgt. Leonard D. Jones, Jr., Noncommissioned Officer for Security for the Army Ordnance Missile Command at the Cape, is the only military enlisted graduate of the FBI's National Academy in Washington, D. C.

A veteran military policeman, Jones graduated from the three-month FBI course in November, 1961. After completion of the course, he returned to his job of guarding the security of Launch Pad 30, where the Army is conducting research and development firings of its Pershing missile.

The Pershing, a two stage ballistic missile with selective range, is the only missile currently being tested at the Cape by the Army.

Besides his FBI diploma, Sgt. Jones has a good background in security work. He was an MP with the 701st MP Battalion from 1952-59. This unit patrols the grounds of Fort Knox, Ky., where the Nation's gold vaults are located.

During the Korean War, Sgt. Jones led reconnaissance patrols on scouting missions deep inside enemy lines.

In his courses at the Academy, Sgt. Jones received the same training as the FBI's special agents. Only five other military personnel, all officers, have taken this course.

Feeling the course would help his Army career, Sgt. Jones wrote to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who endorsed his request. After Maj. Gen. Paul J. Butchers, Pro (See SERGEANT on Page 2)

In a congratulatory letter pledging support to the drive, AOMSA Commander Col. Thomas W. Cooke announced the appointment of James B. Ellis as AOMSA Project Officer.

The Federal Service Joint Crusade raises funds for the operation of three agencies: the American-Korean Foundation, CARE, and Radio Free Europe.

Agencies gaining support through the Federal Service Campaign for National Health Agencies are: the Muscular Dystrophy Assn., National Multiple Sclerosis Society, National Assn. for Retarded Children, National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., United Cerebral Palsy Associations, Inc., American Cancer Society, American Heart Assn., and the Arthritis and Rheumatism

ZEUS

Controlled blasts of rocket exhaust from the motor would be used, if required, to get the Zeus missile's warhead within killing distance of its ballistic missile target.

Evaluation of the third stage operation was but one of today's test objectives. Others included further study of the defense weapon's main propulsion system, structure, aerodynamics and guidance and control system.

The firing was another in the development test series being conducted under the management of the U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal, Ala. Firing tests are underway at White Sands and at two sites on the Pacific Missile Range, Pt. Mugu, Calif., and Kwajalein Island in the Central Pacific.

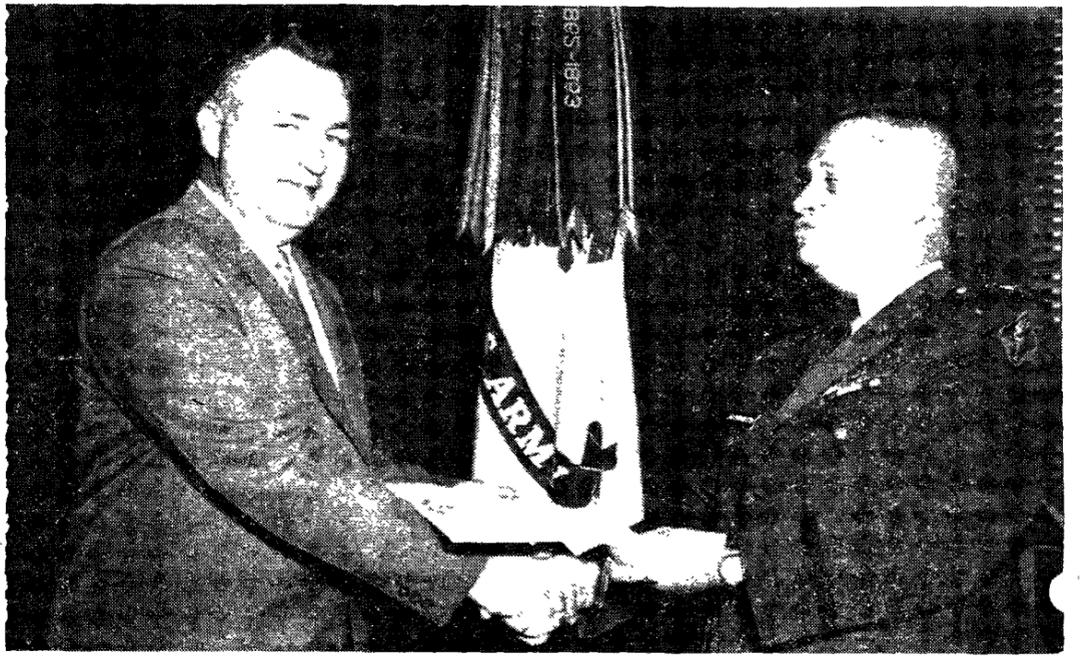

Major ground elements of the system, including radars and data processing equipment, are undergoing testing at these and other locations.

A team of five AOMC men in the Field Representative Office at the Raytheon Co. in Andover, Mass., found that such a savings could be made in their Value Engineering Analysis course at Northwestern University at Boston, Mass.

The five men, Robert G. Stimson, Roger J. Bauer, Edward J. Skrobiszewski, Sidney D. Gantman, and Winfred E. Sutton, took the Hawk ground equipment as their class projects to cut costs. The $17,000 represents an annual savings that will be realized by applying their class work to the Hawk program.

They were graduated Jan. 23, and received their certificates from their chief, Lt. Col. L. J. Julian.

Scouts and Orphans Plan To Become Pen Pals Soon

A little good can go a long way, and continue to produce benefits for both sides.
 Last Fall, Redstone Boy Scout Troop 234 collected nine boxes of used clothing on the arsenal and sent it to the Han Kuk Orphanage, Seoul, Korea, an idea fostered by their assistant leader SF Don Petilon, who had served in Korea and knew of the need.

 Recently, a letter arrived from the First Sergeant of Headquarters Company, U. S. Eighth Army expressing appreciation for the packages of clothing, and describing the orphanage.

 Members of the Headquarters Company "discovered" the orphanage in 1952. This was during the Korean conflict and the orphanage was in dire circumstances. Since that date almost 10 years ago, the orphanage has been supported by the men of that company.
 There are 106 children there ranging in age from two to 17 plus one boy and four girls age 18.
 The letter also made a suggestion that might pay off for the Scouts personally and foster international relations.
 Many of the children in the orphanage are studying English and would welcome an opportunity to start corresponding with the Scouts.
 The address is Han Kuk Orphanage San 5, Yeaching Dong Chung-Ku, Seoul, Korea.

Little Theatre to Present 'Arsenic and Old Lace'

The Huntsville Little Theater will present its second production of the season Feb. 9-10 at Huntsville High School.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. "Arsenic and Old Lace" by Joseph Kesselring is considered one of the classic comedies of the American theatre. It was first produced in New York in 1941 and starred Josephine Hull, Boris Karloff and Alyn Joslyn. "Arsenic and Old Lace" tells the story of the Brewster family and particularly Abby and Martha Brewster. These two charming little old ladies consider it their duty and mercy to put lonely old men out of their misery by serving them some home made elderberry wine with just a pinch of arsenic.

All goes well until their nephew

Mortimer finds one of their gentlemen in the window seat. From that point the plot unfolds into one of the most hilarious situations ever staged.

In the role of Abby Brewster is Farley Miller. Miss Millers is a Systems Analyst with General Electric at Redstone.

Mortimer Brewster will be played by Tom Yarbrough. Yarbrough is a veteran actor with HLT having won awards for his direction and acting. He is a past president for HLT and works for NASA as a mathematician.

Tom Melton portrays the real villain in Arsenic and Old Lace as Jonathan Brewster, the Boris Karloff part on Broadway.

Bobby Patterson will appear as Teddy Brewster, the Brewster bro-

'2nd Time Around' Will Play Feb. 8

"Second Time Around", a musical satire on the Reserve Callup, will be presented at the Service Club at 8 p.m. on Feb. 8.

After playing at Fort Bragg, N. C. for over a month, the show was invited to tour the Third Army Area.

Under the auspices of Special ther who thinks he is Teddy Roosevelt and helps his aunts with their gentlemen by burying them in the cellar. To Teddy the cellar is Panama and the gentlemen are yellow fever victims. Mr. Patterson who works for Brown Engineering at Redstone has been in more HLT productions than any other actor.

Mel Beaver, a member of the 55th Army Band at Redstone, will be seen as the Rev. Dr. Harper in Arsenic and Old Lace. He comes from Chicago and was last seen in the Redstone production of Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter.

Bill Edwards, who works in the Control Office at AOMSA will be seen as Officer Brophy. Ray Tyler of the Quality Division at NASA will be Officer Klein. Ray comes from Birmingham and this is the first time he's taken part in a play. Al Olson, of Chrysler, will portray Officer O'Hara. He is a member of HLT's Board of Directors this year.

In the very funny role of Dr. Einstein is Frank De Rosa. De Rosa is making his debut in Arsenic and Old Lace. He has had experience in high school and studied public speaking in college. He is a Procurement Analyst with AOMC.

Others in the cast of Arsenic and Old Lace are Joan Moyers as Martha Brewster the other half of the zany Brewster sisters. Carol Lowery as Elaine Harper. Phil Banks as Mr. Gibbs, Dudley Powell Jr., as Lt. Rooney and Dr. Tom Smith as Mr. Witherspoon.

Tickets for Arsenic and Old Lace are on sale at Busann's Shoes downtown, Book Store, Universal Photo Shop, Parkway City, and the Public Library. Reservations for parties of ten or more can be made by calling 536-7169. Tickets can be obtained from any HLT member as well. They are $2.00 adults, $1.50 for students and enlisted personnel and their families.

Services, the show is presented by members of the 310th Military Police Battalion, an activated Reserve group from New York. Conceived at a time when Reservists and National Guardsmen were headlined throughout the nation's press as "those griping Reservists," the show was written as a musical answer to the callup. It demonstrates that a soldier can laugh at himself and do his job.

Several members of the MP Battalion wrote the dialogue and musical numbers during off-duty hours immediately after their activation.

Throughout most of the show, nine versatile MP's march, bounce and twist through an hour of fast-paced musical comedy as they belt out a medley of hit tunes dressed with original lyrics. The show is narrated by PFC. Charles Weiss, its producer.

Musically accompanying the chorus and narration is a five man combo which includes guitar, piano, bass, drums and coronet. One of the show-stopping high points of "The Second Time Around" is the doleful entrance of Pvt. Robert Ochs and the execution of his hilarious monologue, "T'was the Week Before Christmas."

The show is scheduled to tour other installations in the Third Army Area and has been re-written for radio and television. It will be broadcast over "The Army Hour."

Sports Advisory Meet

The Redstone Arsenal Sports Advisory Council meets on the second Tuesday of each month. The next meeting will be at the Service Club, 1330 hours, Feb. 13. Baseball, softball and tennis will be discussed. Schedules, circulars, the Third U. S. Army tournaments, and the Redstone Arsenal Sports Program for 1962 will be discussed and explained.

Unit Commanders are urged to select a member from their unit for the Sports Advisory Council. All units are invited to be represented at the Council meetings. A member will not just answer the roll call of units, but will be able to convey his units ideas and suggestions for a better sports participation to the Sports Branch, Special Services Division, who will act in the best interest of personnel at Redstone Arsenal. Some good comes from every meeting, and the purpose of the Council is for the betterment for military personnel stationed at Redstone by more activity and higher morale.

Military personnel are reminded to keep track of Daily Bulletins and the Rocket for the coming bowling roll-off.

The roll-off is planned for the second week in March. This year it will cost the bowler 30c per line and each bowler will bowl 20 lines.

The highest six will be selected for the bowling team to represent Redstone Arsenal at Ft. Rucker in April. More details will come later or check the Redstone Arsenal Bowling Lanes in Bldg. 3619.

The Sports Car Buffs

By Pat Patterson

Let's take a quick rundown on past events here in this area as a starter this week.

Five Counties Rallye

The Mid-South Region of SCCA held their Five-Counties Rallye on Jan. 21st with two cars from the Florence group attending. The event covered 250 miles in the Memphis, Tenn. area and the reports I have on it so far indicate there was more mud than pavement during the event. When the final results were in, the team of Dr. and Mrs. Hardiman from Florence were in first place as well as the winning team which also included the other car from Florence, A. Lynch and Pete Waldon. I asked Dr. Hardiman at the SCCA meeting about the event and he stated they were just lucky but I rather discount this for they have been consistant winners in every event they run and show no signs of letting up this year. I am sure you will see their names in the winners circle many times in the future.

SCCA Meeting

The Tennessee Valley Region, SCCA met at Reg. Exec. Dick Heckman's home Saturday night January 27th with some 35 people in attendance. Most of the meeting covered the 1962 racing season in our area. We have two races scheduled, the first in early June and the latter in September. It appears that we will sponsor our own races this year, which means everyone will need to help in every way possible to make a big success. If any readers are interested in assisting in any way, would you please contact this writer. Flagmen, timers, pit stewards, you name it we can use all the help we can get.

Other than the race discussion there was a debate of a sort on whether or not to continue the Championship Trophy. There are some who feel it does nothing but create hard feelings between those vying for it. However the only ones who seemingly felt this are those who never turned in points throughout the year. It's too bad there are always those who complain about activities they never participate in.

After the meeting Dr. Hardiman showed movies taken at our races in September and a Gymkhana in the parkway.

Economy Run

The day after the meeting the first event of 1962 was put on by the TVR-SCCA. Under the guidance of Jack Jones, Bill Mitchell and Tom Bethea the Annual January Economy Run travelled over approximately 125 miles of Alabama and Tennessee Highways with the MG-Midget of Flurry and Geiger obtaining the best MPG with 40.6 while the Walden-McKnight MGA was 2nd with 39.4 and the McClain-Patterson MGA was 3rd with 38.2 MPG.

In the Power Efficiency Index, all pre-run predictions were correct as Phil Mellor loaded his Valiant to the hilt and came out on top with a factor of 16.8 followed by the Graves-Graves MB 190 Diesel with 15.9 and the Hardiman-Hardiman TR-3 with 14.8.

In the combined index the Graves MB 190D took the honors followed very closely by the Hardiman's TR-3 and the Walden-McKnight MGA.

TAC Meeting

The Twickenham Auto Club met Thursday night at George's Restaurant. Under the direction of Vice-Pres. Vick Baucom most of the meeting was a discussion of a new meeting place. This was the last meeting at George's but no location has been selected for future ones.

Coming Events

In future events! This coming Sunday the February Folly Rallye of TVR-SCCA will be in the Florence area. Rallymaster Jim Baker informs me that registration begins at 12:30 p.m., at the

Births at Post Hospital

Seven-Points Shopping Center in north Florence with an entry fee of $3.00 per car.

The first car will be off at 1:40. Duplicate trophies for driver and navigator will be awarded on the per cent of the entry list. It should be a good one. See you there.

Gymkhanamaster Tom Moore informs me that the TAC Gymkhana scheduled for Sunday the 18th is firm all the way at this writing. He also guarantees everyone an exacting test of car and driver. He asked me to inform everyone that all Detroit iron is welcome and that the course will be wide enough to accomodate them all. Normal classes will be run. I will have more details next week.

Motion Picture Cameramen Have 'Go Anywhere' Job

They Record Missile Progress From Idea To Successful Tests

Motion picture men from the Post Signal's Motion Picture Laboratory, AOMSA, are among the pioneers in recording the Nation's race for space.

They are also expert in documenting industrial technique which accurately records the Army's forward steps in missilery.

A crew of motion picture and television men were aboard the Navy ship, when the first nose cone was shot into space and safely recovered.

They were aboard another ship for the first orbiting satellite to be put into the sky from the United States.

And they were again at sea when the two monkeys, Able and Baker, pioneered a journey into space and back again for the Army and Navy.

In the beginning, all motion picture and television work was handled by Army Signalmen, military and civilian. Later, a contractor was given the responsibility of handling many phases of the work.

In the field, however, a motion picture cameraman from the Signal Office is on hand when a missile motor undergoes a test. The function or fizzle is recorded for documentation.

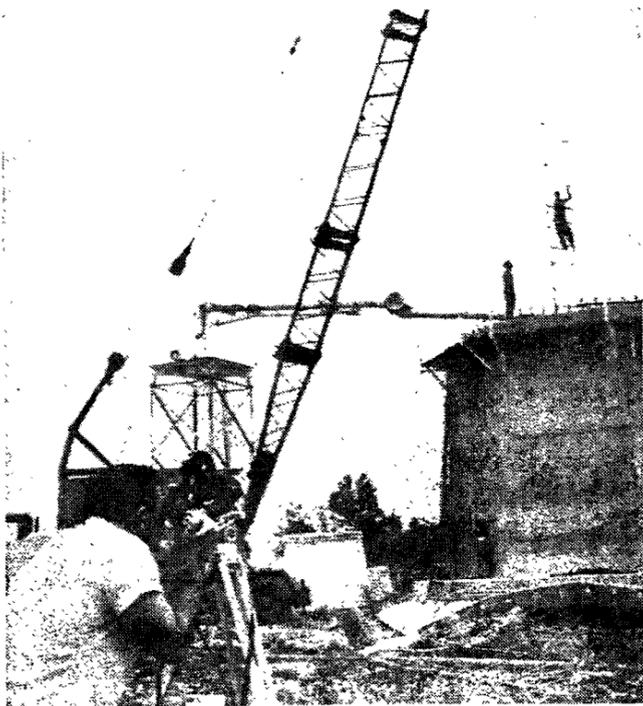

Cameramen work in the shops and laboratories where the many phases of missile development are underway. Both basic and applied research laboratories use their services to record reaction of components as well as systems for guided missiles.

Production, direction, cameramen and script writers work for continuity and a ruthless editorial section often leaves a camera or sound man's favorite footage on the cutting room floor.

with 20 years as a Navy photographer, is in charge of the motion picture contracts.

Harvey McCreary, a native of North Alabama, supervises the field units which handle the camera work.

The motion picture cameramen have used the Signal equipment on sites from Southern California to Northern New England. Army photographers have accompanied the Navy ships over the Atlantic missile range and in the Caribbean.

They'll not be on the first space ships to the moon, but their grandchildren will undoubtedly be regaled with tales of pioneering to make moon trips possible.

Canas Conference Begins on Monday

A Canas conference will be held in the Post Chapel Social Room on Feb. 12-13. The conferences will begin at 7 p.m. each evening.

Father Forrest Macken, C. P., will share his wide-spread experience. He is a member of the National Board of the Family Life Bureau in Washington, D. C.

Father Macken has programmed and conducted numerous Canas Conferences in many states, including places like Fort Knox. For eight years he has been intimately associated with organizing the Christian Family Movement, and has contributed various chapters to different books on marriage and the family.

He served as an advisory editor of the magazine Marriage, and is on a committee for preparing priests in marriage counseling.

His different postgraduate studies in Europe and America include specialized work on marriage and the family. Father Macken also conducted Canas Conferences overseas for Armed Forces personnel.

The Canas Conference brings together groups of married couples for presentations and discussions of an integrated approach to married and family life.

The themes of the two evening conferences will be "Husband and Wife" and "Parent and Child."

The Post Nursery will be open from 6:30 p.m. during these conferences.

Four Nations Represented At Graduation Exercises

Four classes with men from as many nations were graduated from the U. S. Army Ordnance Guided Missile School Friday (Feb. 2) and were addressed by Capt. Daniel K. Malone, now the Army Ordnance Missile Command's Research and eDevelopment Project Officer for the Redeye Missile.

In his commencement address to the students from the U. S., France, Greece, and China, Capt. Malone pointed out that "missiles are highly complex but you are highly trained. Never doubt your capability." He also urged the men to "increase your knowledge and skill to keep up with increasing complexity."

Three honor graduates were chosen from the 34 students completing the courses. They were Cpl. Chun-Hsiung Chen, Taipei, China, Pvt. Jon G. Clopper, Mt. Rainier, Md., and Pvt. James A. Romanowski, Chesterland, Ohio.

A 1955 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, Capt. Malone received his Infantry Officer Basic Course and Ranger training at Ft. Benning, Ga. He served three years at Mannheim, Germany before coming to Redstone Arsenal.

'Oneness' Is Guiding Force

ONE ARMY IN ACTION—The principal of unity, of "oneness," is the guiding force in the structures of our government and national defense. The concept of "oneness" is not new in the U.S. Army; in fact, it is older than the nation and the Army. The militiamen and the volunteers of the Colonial Army in 1775 understood and followed this concept in all national emergencies since those early days, the security of our nation has been the overriding force that has unified our Army. Never before has the United States been confronted with a threat of such magnitude as that which international Communism poses today. This threat, together with efforts of the leaders of the separate components, has added new emphasis to the ONE ARMY concept; and has resulted in a unity of purpose never before experienced in peacetime among the components of the United States Army.

Transistor Circuitry Studied by AOMC-NASA Employees at Arsenal

Some 80 Army Ordnance Missile Command and Marshall Space Flight Center employes began courses in transistor training under the Civilian Personnel Office Personnel Development Division Monday.

Those attending the two courses, entitled Introduction to Transistors and Transistor Circuitry, will use a mobile laboratory provided by Frankford Arsenal and parked on the Arsenal.

Both courses are 80 hours dura-

A number of classes are scheduled and will be continued until July 6.

Frankford Arsenal equipped two such mobile labs and dispatched one to Chicago and the other to Redstone.

The courses are being coordinated by Cecil Campbell of the Mar-

Servicemen feel better about borrowing from HFC

Servicemen know HFC best... and borrow from HFC with confidence. Why? Because HFC serves the largest number of servicemen (over 100,000)... through the greatest number of offices (over 1,150)... located near most military bases. Every HFC office is staffed with specialists who understand the money problems of servicemen and always give fair, understanding help.

At the Service Club

Dances are scheduled this week to celebrate Valentine's Day. Some listed Men have their wives or a special friend in the Huntsville area. If that special person is here, bring her to our Valentine dances this week. The Huntsville and Birmingham hostesses will attend also.

The Enlisted Men's Council will meet at 1330 hours today to discuss the February and the March programs. Come with some good ideas for future Service Club events.

The Beginners' Dance Classes will start at 1800 hours tonight. At 2000 hours the advanced students will meet in the main lounge for their dance instructions. Sgt. Frank Gutierrez is doing a fine job teaching these classes. Stop by the club tonight if you would like to participate.

A Card Party will begin at 1930 hours on Thursday, February 8. Thirty minutes later, the 310th Military Police Battalion from Fort Bragg, North Carolina will present the "Second Time Around," an original musical comedy. Mark your calendar for Thursday, February 8 at 2000 hours for a delightful evening of entertainment.

Our monthly Chess Contest will take place on Friday, February 9 at 2000 hours. I know that there are plenty of chess players around. Come out for the contest and win a prize.

Many of you have asked me about a Bridge Contest. On Saturday, Feb. 10 a Bridge Contest will be held at 1830 hours.

Coffee and Donuts will be served on Sunday, Feb. 11, at 0930 hours.

The theme for the record dance Sunday evening is the Valentine Hop, which will begin at 1900 hours. Prizes will be awarded for the twist contest and other dance contests.

Game night is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 12 at 2015 hours.

The Queen of Hearts Ball will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 13 at 1930 hours until 2300 hours. Tommy Martin and his orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion with a floor show presented during intermission. The dance will be semi-formal or formal. The Enlisted Men must wear a coat and a tie or a Class A Uniform to be admitted to the dance.

MISCELLANEOUS:

Pvt. Gary Swartz, 2nd ETC, is a handy person to have around; not only did he hold down the office while Molly prepared the sandwiches and tid-bits for the "Sunday Night Snack," but he helped serve and clean up afterwards.

Pfc Bob Cardillo from the 510th Ord Det, and Pfc Bob Erdle from the 517th Ord Det have done an outstanding job as "disc jockeys" for the Sunday Night Record Dances. They are really good, and I predict they will go places in the "record spinning world" one of these days.

We understand that Sgt Leon Hawkins and his friend, Pfc Smithy, will soon be leaving. We'll miss these two men when they depart from Redstone.

Farewell to the 277th Ord Det and the "Three-No-Notes" — Walter, John and Jerry . . . the guitar playing lads.

Everyone seemed to enjoy dancing to the music of Clifford Barnes at the Snowflake Ball.

Sixteen companies were well represented this month for the Post Wide Pool Tournament. Pfc Marvin Weaver, 3rd ETC, was the first place winner while SP/4 Walter Seymour, 55th Army Band won second place. Pfc Weaver was awarded an individual trophy, and Lt. Schule, 3rd ETC Company Commander, was also awarded a company trophy. I would like to thank SP/5 Richard Ankrom for doing a fine job of running the tournament.

Our big events for February will not end with the Queen of Hearts Ball this week, because we still have three big activities to look forward to: A Pot Luck Supper, Washington's Birthday Party, and the Flash Gordon Stomp.

See you at the Service Club.

THE OLD CHINA HANDS by Charles G. Finney (Doubleday, 258 pp. $3.95).

There hasn't been anything quite like this since Col. John Thomason wrote "An a Few Marines." It may not be absolute fact; as the author notes in his acknowledgement, Gen. Sherman, when his attention was called to inconsistencies in historic fact, thought it over and then commented to the effect that "Well, dammit, they're MY memoirs, and I'm going to let them stand as written."

Finney was a private in the 15th Infantry for a couple of years during the "Can Do" Regiment's 26-year stay in Tientsin, China. What he has produced is a series of vignettes which (1) point up the morale value of the regimental system and (2) make every soldier who didn't serve in Tientsin with the 15th envious, even admitting that nostalgic recollection three decades later may not paint quite a true picture.

The caliber of officer personnel is indicated by the roster of March 1927, which included among others, George C. Marshall, Joseph W. Stillwell, James R. Pierce, T. S. Timberman, Mathew Ridgway, Phillip E. Gallagher and George Honnen, among others. Hayden L. Boatner and John R. Deane also served later.

The Commanding General of the U.S. Army Forces in China during Finney's time were Brig. Gen. Joseph C. Castner, "an enormous man, big of bone and big of belly. He looked like a fat but very muscular giant towing two pigmies — his aides—behind him. He wore the sloppiest, droopiest campaign hat to be seen in the entire regiment, an unpressed O.D. shirt, khaki breeches faded almost white, spiral puttees and enlisted men's shoes. From the right side of the leather belt that encircled his great belly an army pistol flopped in its holster . . ." He was 60, the oldest Army man in China, and he walked the regiment off its feet.

Tientsin was an international city and policed by troops from many countries; the Royal Scots, who claim an organization back to Caesar's conquest of Britain, the Italians, the Japanese.

The 15th had quite a history of its own. One of Finney's squad mates, an Arkansan, joined it because his grandpappy had praised it so highly. Turned out grandpappy had fought against it, under Forrest, at Shiloh.

It was, in Finney's time, almost a Foreign Legion. E Company spoke 18 languages and G Company 35. G Company's first sergeant was named "Wrhviac, and, though he only spoke nine languages, he could pronounce anything, even if it was written in Sanskrit."

Although related in light tone, the pride of belonging to a fine outfit shines through every page and through 30 years of separation—a fine tribute to a fine regiment.

STALLED ON SHIELDS ROAD—An abandoned truck and trailer stand in mute testimony to the high water level in the Tennessee River last week. The Post Engineer crew used boats from this point to reach the water treatment plant where work went on as usual. Since this is a little-used road in the wintertime, it creates no traffic hazard. Shields Road is the access road to the boat docks and picnic area.
