

General Talks To Kiwanians

Members of the Huntsville Kiwanis Club were treated to several "firsts" Monday night by Brig. Gen. H. P. Persons Jr., Deputy Commanding General, Air Defense Systems, Army Missile Command.

This was General Persons' first public speaking engagement since he was assigned to the Missile Command. In addition to his presence at the civic club's meeting, General Persons gave the Kiwanians a premier showing of "This Is Redstone Arsenal," a new movie produced by the Army Missile Command.

Among the guests present for the meeting was U. S. Senator John Sparkman, who has just returned to Huntsville from Washington. Senator Sparkman is a member of the Kiwanis Club.

General Persons discussed the recent Army's reorganization and how it affects the Army Missile Command and Huntsville. In speaking about his assignment here, General Persons spoke highly of the personnel connected with Redstone Arsenal. He said that never before in any previous assignment had he ever seen as much enthusiasm about jobs and accomplishments as he has seen among personnel of the Army Missile Command. This enthusiasm is contagious, readily spreading to newcomers on the staff.

In addition, he told the business and civic leaders that the recent Army reorganization had given the Army Missile Command an increased workload and important missions which will carry far into the future.

He showed the movie following his speech. The picture tells the story of Redstone Arsenal's capabilities and its place in the community's economic and civic life.

NCOs Will Conduct Parade

Brig. Gen. H. P. Persons will be the Reviewing Officer at the NCO parade tomorrow afternoon on the Arsenal parade field.

Four men will be honored as retirees after more than 20 years Army service. They are: Lt. Col. Lynn J. Garrett, Capt. Vincent G. Donlon, SFC Russell Pullen, all of the Army Missile Support Command, and SP7 George Hill of the Missile Command.

Sergeant Major Samuel S. Sumner will be Commander of Troops with M/Sgt. Ronald Bachman his adjutant.

Traditionally, the NCOs conduct the final parade of the year without an officer staff.

Officials Foresee Successful UGF Campaign Results

This year's United Givers Fund campaign has entered its fourth week at Redstone Arsenal. Campaign officials emphasize that generally donations continue to be encouraging.

Contributors have achieved a fourth week total of 76 per cent pledged of the Fair Share potential for those organizations reporting.

A total of 82 per cent of the military, civilian and contractor personnel are participating in this year's campaign.

Drive officials have commended the Procurement and Production Directorate of the U. S. Army Missile Command by pointing out its pledge of more than 98 per cent of its Fair Share Goal. The directorate reached this figure by 99 per cent participation.

MEDICS INSPECT HELICOPTERS—A Medical Inspection Team from Third Army Headquarters at Fort McPherson, Ga., recently visited facilities of the Directorate of Research and Development, Army Missile Command. One of the many uses of an Army helicopter is described to the group by W. W. Newman, Deputy Director of the Ground Support Equipment Laboratory. The laboratory is responsible for certain aircraft armament programs. The inspection team was headed by Col. S. W. Caldwell, and included Lt. Cols. B. A. Hart, V. L. Thorm, and A. E. Komerad, and Maj. R. H. Gillespie.

Lt. Col. Gay Adds Missile Responsibility

Lt. Col. Frank C. Gay has been assigned as Product Manager for Honest John/Littlejohn. The two product managed offices were combined recently under Land Combat Systems, Army Missile Command. Col. Gay was manager of Honest John prior to the change.

A native of Warren, Pa., Col. Gay has been at Redstone Arsenal since May, 1959, coming here after three years with Allied Land Forces, Central Europe.

He entered active military service in May, 1941, completing his basic training with ORTC, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland. Other assignments have been in the Office, Chief of Ordnance, Washington; Headquarters, Central Command, Yokohama, Japan; Letterkenny Ordnance Depot, Pennsylvania; and Los Angeles Port of Embarkation.

He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, holding a BA degree in business administration. He was a member of Sigma Chi social fraternity in college, and is a member of B. P. O. Elks.

Col. and Mrs. Gay are parents of two daughters: Leslie Diane and Laurie Ann.

Incentive Awards Chief Attending National Meeting

Franklin H. Holmes, Chief, Incentive Awards Branch, Civilian Personnel Office, is representing the Army Missile Command at a national meeting of suggestion program administrators which began Oct. 21.

The New York meeting is sponsored by the National Association of Suggestion Systems, a non-profit organization founded to strengthen suggestion activities for its members in government and industry.

During the three-day conference, suggestion program administrators representing government and industry in the United States and Canada will present technical papers and recommendations to increase employee participation, expand supervisor support, and improve the administration of a suggestion program.

Holmes has managed the Suggestion Program at Redstone Arsenal for the past eight years. He is a graduate of the University of Alabama where he received his Bachelor of Science degree with a double major in industrial management and general business. While attending the University, he was active in many campus functions and was instrumental in organizing the Alabama Student Chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management.

Col. Drewry Will Present Lectures On Nike Zeus

Col. Ivey O. Drewry, Jr., Project Manager for the Nike Zeus Anti-Missile Missile System at Redstone Arsenal, will take part Oct. 29 in the Army's Second Project Manager's Course at Ft. Lee, Va.

His presentation will be on the subject of Zeus Management and will include background on project initiation and history; place of the Zeus in the overall defense picture; Nike Zeus concept of defense; system management and organization. He will also discuss the present status and typical problems of his project. The Nike Zeus is the Free World's only anti-missile missile in advanced development.

The Project Manager's Course has been established at Ft. Lee by the Department of the Army. The first series of instruction was held in July, and the present 30-day course started on Oct. 8. Col. Drewry's presentation will cover a two-hour period.

A native of Birmingham, Col. Drewry came to Redstone in July, 1962. He reported here after serving as Senior Ordnance Advisor to the First Republic of Korea Army. His previous service includes: Commanding Officer, Picatinny Arsenal; Detroit Arsenal; Office, Chief of Ordnance, in Research and Development Division and as Chief of the Guided Missile Branch, Industrial Division and as

Routine Rebadging Ends October 31

The Provost Marshal has issued a reminder to everyone that the rebadging of all employees at Redstone Arsenal, whether they work for vendors, contractors or the government, is scheduled to end on Oct. 31.

After that date the old badges will not be honored by the perimeter gate guards and individuals will have to obtain permits to enter the installation.

Badging is done in the Identification Section, Bldg. 3421. A completed badge request card is required before a new badge can be issued.

MEN AND MISSILE . . . JUSTICE . . . DEFENSE—Men of the Department of Justice are shown with a full-scale model of the U. S. Army's Pershing missile, currently in advanced stages of development and being managed from Army Missile Command Headquarters at Redstone Arsenal. Deep behind the scenes these men play an important role in the Army's missile programs. When requested, they augment the investigations of other government agents and are frequent visitors at Redstone Arsenal. From left to right they are Clyde E. Whitson, Marion B. Hummel, and William H. Lee, Special Agents for the FBI, Macon L. Weaver, U. S. Attorney, Northern District of Alabama, Glenn H. Hearn and Ernest H. White, Other Special Agents, FBI.

The Redstone Rocket

The Redstone Rocket is published weekly, on Wednesdays. The publisher will receive editorial content for publication in the Rocket only through the Information Office, Army Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal, Ala., Bldg. 5250, Room A-136, Extension 876-4161.

All advertising copy and payments therefor are received by Mrs. Zillah T. Heath, Huntsville, Ala., P. O. box 346, telephone 534-4701, as representative of the publisher. Advertising deadline—both display and wanted—is noon of Friday before publication.

The Redstone Rocket is distributed free of cost to personnel at Redstone Arsenal. Mailing rates for the Rocket are $5.25 a year, or $2.89 for six months, tax included. Mailing arrangements may be made with the publisher, P. C. Box 520, Hartselle, Ala.

United Nations Day, 1962

Today marks another milestone in the history of the United Nations.

In honor of this occasion, President John F. Kennedy has issued a proclamation declaring this day, October 24, 1962, as United Nations Day to be observed throughout the United States.

The President's proclamation is set forth in these clear, concise words:

A PROCLAMATION

By The President Of The United States Of America

"WHEREAS the United Nations' vigor and effectiveness have increased over the years; and

"WHEREAS the United Nations has become the principal forum for open discussion of world affairs; and

"WHEREAS the United Nations is now an effective instrument against hunger, illiteracy, disease, and despair; and

"WHEREAS the United Nations is a main avenue for cooperation in the peaceful uses of outer space; and

"WHEREAS the United Nations' peacekeeping potential provides a key to world disarmament; and

"WHEREAS the United Nations' activities have been beneficial to the national interests of the United States; and

"WHEREAS the United Nations' authority depends on the moral and financial support of the worlds' nations and people; and

"WHEREAS the General Assembly of the United Nations has resolved that October twenty-fourth, the anniversary of the coming into force of the United Nations Charter, should be dedicated each year to making known the purposes, principles, and accomplishments of the United Nations:

"NOW, THEREFORE, I, JOHN F. KENNEDY, President of the United States of America, do hereby urge the citizens of this Nation to observe Wednesday, October 24, 1962, as United Nations Day by means of community programs which will demonstrate their faith in the United Nations and contribute to a better understanding of its aims, problems, and accomplishments . . ."

VIBRATIONS CREATE PROBLEMS—Dick Bibb, physicist in the Test and Evaluation Laboratory, Directorate for Research and Development, runs a vibration test on missile components. If the engine revs to a point that creates a sympathetic vibration in some portion of a missile, the system is reworked. If it weren't, the missile would probably tear itself apart before it reached the target.

Missileman Financed College Studies By Ferrying Airplanes For Dealer

With his eyes on the stars, Richard "Dick" Bibb drifted into military by way of airplanes and oil fields.

Bibb began with the airplane while he was studying physics at the University of Alabama where he earned his B.S. degree and went on through several relocations and jobs to become a missile "engineer."

Bibb's job, which came about when he was assigned by the Martin Orlando plant to a field team at Redstone Arsenal, is titled instrument development engineer. Martin's team was working with the Army Ballistic Missile Agency men developing the Pershing, a reliable workhorse soon to be in the hands of tactical units.

Now in the Systems Coordination Section of the Test and Evaluation Laboratories, Directorate for Research and Development at the Army Missile Command, Bibb finds most of his energy directed at problems on the Pershing, but as a member of the section he also becomes involved in special problems of instrumentation, engineering, development, design and analysis.

Pershing has been his concern for four years.

The section is responsible for the purchase of instrumentation systems for other laboratories in the Test and Evaluation area, and the men in the section work on solutions of unusual or difficult measurements, monitor installation of equipment by contractors, accept it when technically okayed. They also act as consultants.

When new electronic data systems are ordered, Bibb and the men in his section work with the contractor to assure that specifications are met and that the factory modifies according to the need.

They then have the responsibility of overseeing the installation before handing it over to the Test Operations branch to use.

They are waiting now for a telemetry ground station and Microsadic system which will automatically record Pershing flight data in a form suitable for use with the 7090 Computer.

While in the Air Force from 1946-49, Bibb was a jet aircraft mechanic, later had Aviation Cadet pilot training.

When he returned to Tuscaloosa and started studying physics, he also went to work for an aircraft dealer ferrying equipment, new and used. Some of his experiences with the equipment were hair-raising—

Sometimes he would carry his parachute aboard a commercial airliner. Hostesses frown on the practice. It has an adverse psychological affect on nervous air passengers.

One day he went after a plane which the dealer had traded for a motorcycle sight unseen. Bibb found the plane at the edge of a field (surrounded by tall grass and weeds. An air mechanic nearby informed him that he didn't know whether the machine had gas or not. He'd only worked at the field a year.

After preflighting the ship himself, Bibb took off for Tuscaloosa. With throttles wide open from Chattanooga, he waved up at the people visiting Rock City. The climb had not lifted him above Lookout Mountain in the twelve miles he had progressed.

He married the former Miss Jean Homan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Homan of Druid Hills in Tuscaloosa.

Degree in pocket, Bibb and his family took off for the oil fields in South Louisiana where he worked around-the-clock on call as a field engineer for more than two years.

Then, he decided to return to his first-love and moved to Marietta, Ga., to work in an Engineering Test Laboratory of an aircraft plant. After two and one-half years in Georgia, the family moved to Florida where the people they met talked about where they had been or where they were going—not about staying.

When the opportunity to return to Alabama was offered, they accepted. They came to Huntsville in February, 1960.

The Bibbs have two daughters, Becky, 7, and Margaret, 4. The family now lives at 413 Graycroft Drive, Huntsville.

They like the secure feeling of belonging in this bustling North Alabama town.

SOCIAL SECURITY SYSTEM EXPLAINED

The working of the Social Security system was explained to some 100 career officers and non-commissioned officers of the Ordnance Guided Missile School here last week.

William Boulton, manager of the Huntsville Social Security Office, explained the pension and welfare fund at an hour-long presentation in the Post Theater last Wednesday.

All military personnel were urged to send in forms to national headquarters of the Social Security Administration to check the status of their accounts. The forms can be obtained from the local office, he said.

Military personnel have participated in the old age plan since 1955, he pointed out. An error in data processing has caused incorrect amounts to be credited to Army personnel for the year 1959, he said, urging that individuals initiate correspondence to correct their permanent records.

The first divisions of the directorate to reach their individual dollar goals were the Procurement Division and the General Support Systems Division. Both divisions chalked up 100 per cent participation and 100 per cent of the Dollar Goal pledged on the first day of the campaign.

Contributions collected at the four-week point totaled $102,962.58. Not all pledges were paid during the third week of the campaign. This year's Fair Share Goal is 80 per cent of one day's pay for employes of Redstone Arsenal.

Personnel Administrators Hear H. A. Fitzgibbon

In addressing members of the Huntsville Chapter, Society for Personnel Administration, last Wednesday at the Redstone Arsenal Officers Club, Mr. Henry A. Fitzgibbon, Special Agent-In-Charge, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Birmingham, urged all law-abiding citizens to take a more active interest in law enforcement activities and to give greater support to authorities in the apprehension and trial of criminals.

Fitzgibbon stated that crime is increasing at a rate five times that of the population increase and that one out of every five families is affected in some way by crime.

He continued, "there were one million nine hundred twenty thousand serious crimes committed last year." "Also, there were one hundred fourteen law enforcement officers killed and fourteen thousand injured in making arrests during the same period."

Fitzgibbon said that criminals will generally avoid communities with efficient law enforcement agencies and where there are courts with reputations of dealing severely with repeated offenders.

The Program Chairman, William Breen, Brown Engineering Company, introduced the speaker. Luther Adams, Missile Support Command, presided over the meeting attended by approximately 50 personnel management representatives from local industries and government agencies.

Contract Awarded Martin Company

A $33,236,680 contract was awarded to the Martin Company, Orlando, Fla., to cover additional work on the Pershing ballistic missile system, the Department of the Army has announced.

The work will be done at the company's Orlando plant.

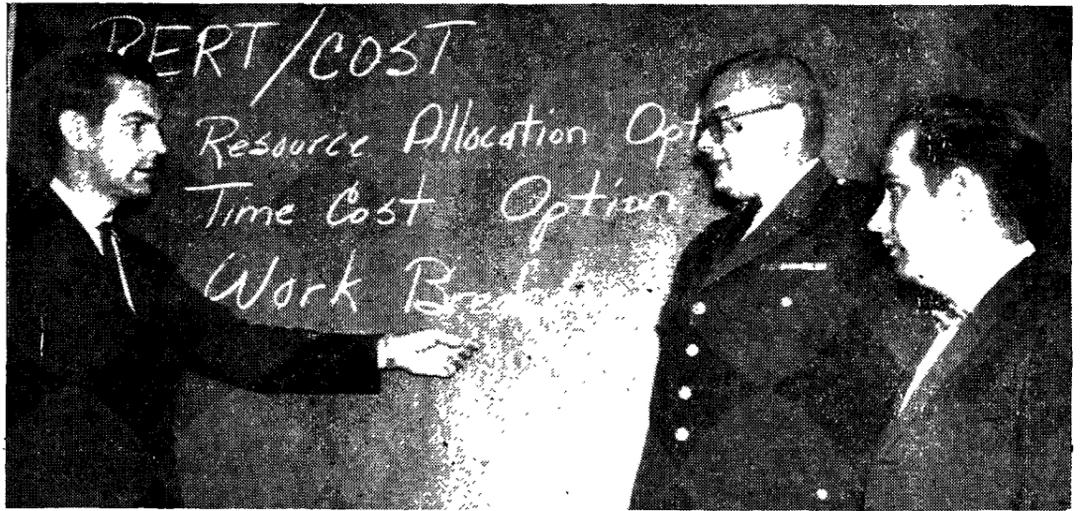

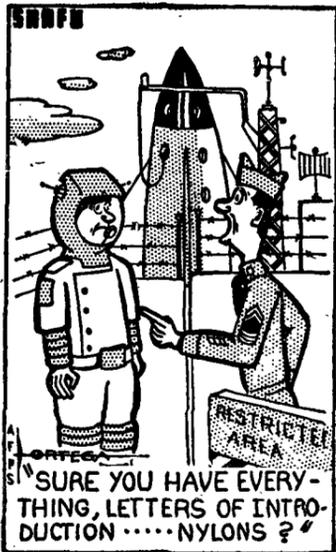

Pershing, a two-stage, solid propellant ballistic missile, is under the project management of the Army Missile Command. The Pershing is being developed to replace the operational Redstone.

The Birmingham Procurement District will administer the contract for the Army.

Ewart Represents Command At Design Conference Today

The Eighth Conference on the Design of Experiments in Army Research, Development and Testing at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, Washington, will have representation from Redstone Arsenal.

Wade Ewart, Chief, Engineering Requirements Coordination Office, Research and Development Directorate, will represent the Army Missile Command at the two-day conference which is scheduled to open Oct. 24.

CONDUCTS MANAGEMENT COURSE—Robert W. Abel, industrial engineer from the Army Management Engineering Training Agency, Rock Island Arsenal, explains a point on "Critical Path Scheduling" to Lt. Col. R. F. Kriz, Control Officer, Army Missile Support Command, and C. F. Lewis, Comptroller Office, both of Redstone Arsenal. Mr. Abel conducted a twelve hour course this week entitled "Project Planning and Control Appreciation," which outlines a system of coordinating manufacturing progress in the missile industry. One hundred and six management personnel from Army Missile Command elements attended. The course was sponsored by Personnel Training and Development Division of the Civilian Personnel Office.

MARS OPERATORS HONOR GENERAL

Maj. Gen. Herbert L. Scofield, Deputy Chief Signal Officer, Department of the Army, was an honored guest at the Midwest Amateur Radio Convention, American Radio Relay League, held in Cleveland, Ohio, on Oct. 13.

In his address to a large group of Army, Air Force and potential Navy MARS members, General Scofield related the advantages of MARS membership to the individual amateur and the value of the MARS program to the military service.

He stated, "Under present circumstances, where needs of civil defense may some time in the future assume tremendous proportions, the benefits (of MARS) to the nation would be incalculable. Under the conditions of great chaos and confusion of a nuclear attack, it is the individual who is well trained and well equipped, self sufficient and dedicated, that will get many messages through.

The success or failure of our mission and our survival could conceivably hinge on one individual passing a single, fateful message—and doing so in time. That individual might be you."

Conference Called To Discuss Nike Supply Systems

The Army Missile Command will be host to a Continental Army Command Conference concerning supply systems for the Nike family of missiles Nov. 6-7 at Redstone Arsenal.

The conference begins at 8:30 a.m. in the Auditorium of the Missile Command Headquarters building.

Tom Coleman from the Supply Management Division, Directorate for Supply and Maintenance is the coordinator.

Between 50 and 65 representatives from all elements of the Army concerned with missiles will take part.

RECOGNIZED BY SAFETY COUNCIL—The drivers of the Directorate of Research and Development were recently presented safe driving awards by the National Safety Council. Lt. Col. H. E. Attaya, Jr., executive officer of R&D made the presentation. The men were commended for driving Army vehicles full time without

Thiokol Employees Receive Insurance Safety Plaques

The Travelers Insurance Company last week presented two safety awards to Thiokol Chemical Corporation—Alpha Division. The Employee Accident Prevention Award symbolizes a constantly improving accident record and outstanding achievement in reducing accidents to employees over a period of five years. The Motor Vehicle Award recognizes an accident record below the national average for company operated vehicles over a five year period. The company's overall accident rate is one-third that of the National Chemical Industry and one-sixth of the All Industry National average.

Robert C. McGill, Supervisor, Engineering and Loss Control Division, The Travelers Insurance Company, who presented the awards, stated that this was the first time to his knowledge that any company had been eligible to receive both awards simultaneously.

J. W. Wiggins, General Manager, Thiokol's Alpha Division, accepted the awards for the Huntsville Plant and emphasized that safety achievement must reflect both management attitude and the cooperation of every employee in "thinking safety."

Col. Thomas W. Cooke, Commander, Army Missile Support Command, congratulated Alpha Division employees for attaining these records and said that the "eligibility to receive both awards reflects not only an ability to prevent accidents, but also an ability to accomplish anything through teamwork."

Experimental New Cafeteria Opens

An experiment with a modern self-serving snack bar on Redstone Arsenal will bring changes in food service here if proved successful. A bank of hot and cold drink dispensers, sandwich and hot food dispensers and candy machines is being installed in a brightly colored and well-appointed room in the Army Missile Command's new Computation Building. There are tables and chairs provided for comfort of personnel eating there.

If this model is successful, the smaller and more expensive to operate snack bars in other buildings will eventually give way to the new system.

These are the plans of the second largest retail business in the world which has a role in the daily lives of personnel at Redstone Arsenal.

Career employees who are forced to leave the Government, as in the case of reduction in force, after they have served at least 25 years, or after a minimum of 20 years if age 50 or over, are entitled to annuity benefits immediately, even if they are under 62.

REDSTONE GROUP VISITS ERIE—A group of 22 representatives from the Directorate of Supply and Maintenance of the Army Missile Command were recent visitors at Erie Army Depot, Port Clinton, Ohio. Leading the contingent was Col. Robert Van Wert, Director of the Directorate and a former Director for Supply Operations at Erie. Purpose of the tour was to familiarize Missile Command personnel with operations of a distribution depot. Erie was selected as a typical installation of this type. The two-day visit was spent mainly in classroom instruction in the stock control and

AN OMISSION
In a recent Rocket story concerning the M72 LAW system, the name of Earl R. Edmondson was inadvertently omitted from the group having had a part in the weapon's development. Edmondson was intimately associated with the development of the LAW system from its inception until duties of project engineer were taken over by Ray Turner incident to a re-organization within the command.

Southeastern Business Firms Receive $660,000

Business firms in the Southeast received more than $660,000 during September to cover awards and purchases of goods and services at the Army Missile Command.

Items purchased support the Army's missile and rocket programs.

Other business, totaling $134,885, was placed with companies in New York, Illinois, Indiana and Canada.

Huntsville companies had the largest share of Alabama business, $367,792. More than $200,000 was spent with Birmingham concerns. The remainder of the Alabama awards, totaling approximately $72,000, went to firms in Decatur, Gadsden, Brewton, Florence, Paint Rock, Athens, Albertville, Guntersville, and the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa.

Almost $22,000 worth of awards were placed in Tennessee. These awards do not include those made for a million dollars or more to procure guidance missiles, rockets and related equipment from companies throughout the United States.

Among the items and services purchased are photo, automotive, building and office supplies, machinery repairs, laundry, food, rental on business machines and tuition. The tuition paid the University of Alabama represents government assistance for Missile Command personnel enrolled in graduate courses essential to their jobs.

The Army segments responsible for administration of the awards are the Purchasing and Contract-

Sports by Handy

By SFC Robert Handy

An opportunity to keep up with the world of sports is offered members of the Armed Forces, by the Chicago Tribune Newspaper of Chicago. This paper has one of the biggest coverages of sports in the newspaper business. And the best of the deal is that it does not cost, but is a gift subscription for six months from the public spirited citizens of Chicago.

Those who wish to take advantage of this offer should send requests to Mr. Thomas A. Dixon, assistant circulation manager, Chicago Tribune, Chicago 11, Illinois, giving full service address. There are no strings attached to this offer and the world news is right at your door-step daily.

Football

On Oct. 16 at the new football field a mock war instead of a football game took place between the Crusaders and the Knights, or so it appeared to me.

The game was hard fought between two evenly matched teams. The Knights came out on top with a score of 12-6. Penalties for both teams kept the scoring down, for the penalties came at crucial moments of the game. A crowd of 300 spectators watched the officials do a good job in keeping the game under control. Many of the players, including the coaches, think that the rougher the game and the rules and regulations ignored, the better the game. They are wrong, if rules are broken their conscience should hurt.

The Army standard for any sport is the same as colleges or pro-sports good clean play. Football is one sport that, once out of hand, can be injurious to all concerned, not only physically, morale suffers too. Players follow the example set by coaches and sometimes, ruin a good sport.

In Army football, not only the players and the coaches are blamed. Bad tactics reflect on the unit. Teams in the Redstone Football League should work together as a team to preserve sportsmanship in every unit. Football has been extended into November. The schedule follows:

Crusaders vs. A-Bombs, Oct. 30, 7 p.m.

A-Bombs vs. Knights, Nov. 6, 7 p.m.

Knights vs. Crusaders, Nov. 13, 7 p.m.

Sports Car Buffs

By Ray Mosling

Coming up on Oct. 28 is the sixth annual "Rallye Royale" conducted by the Bon Heur Club in Florence, Alabama.

Rallymaster Dr. John Hardiman and his assistant, Jim Baker, have promised that this rally will be comparable to previous rallies conducted in Florence, that is, brisk and tricky.

The six-hour event will be run on paved roads over 90% of the route. Duplicate trophies will be awarded to the first three finishing driver-navigator teams at a dinner meeting after the rally.

Starting time will be 9:30 a.m. at Singleton's Bar-B-Q (near Howard Johnson's) located on Highway 43 and 72 in Florence, Ala. See you there!

Of the more than 9 million public employes at all levels of government, only about 27 percent are on the Federal payroll.

CLASSMATES TALK BUSINESS AND OLD TIMES—Maj. Gen. J. B. Lamperty (center), Director of Military Construction, Office of the Chief of Engineers, Washington, visited the Army Missile Command Friday. In the absence of the Commanding General, Maj. Gen. F. J. McMorrow, and Deputy Commanding General H. P. Persons, he was officially greeted by the Chief of Staff, Col. F. L. Furphy (right) and Col. H. J. Katz (left). It was a class reunion of sorts. All three were graduates of the U. S. Military Academy, Class of '36. Other classmates at Redstone, not shown in the picture, include Gen. Persons and Col. Thomas W. Cooke, Commander of the Army Missile Support Command. During his visit to Huntsville, Gen. Lamperty addressed the Society of American Military Engineers and inspected construction projects being accomplished by the Army Corps of Engineers at Redstone Arsenal, and the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center.

Materiel Command Information Officer Given Commendation

Lt. Col. Robert J. Coakley, Information Officer for the Army Materiel Command, Washington, has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for doubling circulation of the Army Information Digest and increasing the public's knowledge of the Army. The medal was presented by Brig.

Gen. F. P. Campbell, AMC Chief of Staff.

He was editor of the Army Information Digest from 1958 until July 1, 1962.

Col. Coakley was information officer for the Army's Manhattan Project which developed the atomic bomb. During World War II he served with the 16th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron in Europe and with the XXIII Corps. He was commanding officer of the 7th Division Tank Battalion in Korea before his Digest assignment.

Tech Writers, Illustrators To Meet Here

The Huntsville, Alabama chapter of the Society of Technical Writers and Publishers (STWP) will be hosts to the Third Annual National Seminar on Technical Communications Nov. 8-9 in the Hotel Russel Erskine.

Theme of the seminar, is Communications, Spanning Time & Space.

The program is designed to present and integrate ideas and differing viewpoints of three groups concerned with communication of technical information: the scientist or engineer who generates the information; the writer, illustrator or lecturer who presents it, and management who is dependent upon the information. Nationally distinguished authorities in each field will participate in the presentations and discussions.

An added feature of the 1962 seminar will be a technical art exhibit. Competition is open to industrial, educational, and government organizations, as well as individuals.

Renowned art experts will judge the exhibits. Highlight will be the Technical Art Exhibit Awards Dinner. The exhibits are expected to remain on public display in Huntsville for about a week. A survey indicates this is probably the first time a technical arts exhibit has ever been held outside one of the major metropolitan centers.

The seminar committee goal is to provide a means for participants to improve effectiveness and broaden knowledge of technical communication responsibilities.

Toastmistresses Mark Founders Day Wednesday

Celebrating founders day and the 25th anniversary of International Toastmistress Clubs, the Huntsville Toastmistress Club at a banquet Wednesday night at the Holiday Inn honored Mrs. James O'Donnell, Second Vice President of the International Toastmistress Clubs, and Mrs. Eleanor Wood, ITM Southeastern Regional Supervisor.

Mrs. O'Donnell presented the plans of the International Toastmistress Clubs for observing this occasion and issued an invitation to the Huntsville Club to attend the festivities later this month in Lynwood, Calif.

Mrs. Wood presented greetings from the Southeastern Region, discussed plans for expansion into foreign countries and invited the Huntsville Club to attend the Rocket City Toastmistress Club's tea commemorating the silver anniversary and the Regional meeting in New Orleans in June.

Mrs. Rhoda Stambaugh, Toastmistress of the evening, introduced members of both the Huntsville BPW Club and the hostess club, who presented the skit entitled "Parliamentary Procedures." The participants were: Cora Carr Briskey, Audrey Buford, Regenia Fuller, Helen Hann, Koki Hardenburgh, Mary Jane Hearn, Rhoda High, Louise Rodgers, Delli Wiginton, and Gere Wyss.

The next regular meeting will be Nov. 7.

Be careful! that charming girl you'll be dancing with on the 28th may be in reality a creature from the twilight zone, bent on doing some witchery thing to your heart. Mark your calendar to expose yourself to these dangers. Also look over the Service Club schedule for the preceding week and join us for some of the programs.

On Wednesday, Oct. 24 we have our weekly dance class in the main lounge starting at 7 p.m. On Thursday, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. is Card Night. Come down, check out cards, and enjoy an evening in the retreat of our cool lounge.

Friday night, is the night for the Pool Contest. It gets under way at 8 p.m. So come all you pool sharks and enter the contest. Prize will go to the winner.

Saturday night also spotlights a contest, Chess. Play begins at 8 p.m. Prizes will be awarded the winner.

Conjure hallucinations to celebrate the super-natural surrounding Halloween. October 28 arouse from your sleep, hop your brooms and ride to the Service Club kitchen for donuts and coffee at 9 a.m. Before turning in your broom include a trip to the Broomstick Ball at 8 p.m. An unusual assortment of characters will gather for the costume dance. Costumes aren't required, but those who come in costume have a hilarious time. So find yourself a disguise.

We will have prizes for the two best-dressed characters. Don't think that you will be an oddity in costume. You'll be an oddity without one. From previous scouting, we find several people have planned their costumes. So we'll look forward to seeing you on the 28th at 8 p.m.

The 29th is set aside as Game Night. Games will begin at 8.15 p.m. We have an interesting selection of prizes. So come down and join. Always happy to see new faces.

Tuesday, Oct. 30, we have a practice dance session. If you have taken dance lessons and would like to practice, this is your chance.

Miscellaneous

Pvt. Tom Patterson, PFC Jerry Marsolek and PFC James Myers

spent Saturday afternoon and Sunday decorating the Service Club for the Halloween Costume Dance. We wish to thank these boys for their time, work and effort. It is successful. People are now in the mood for the Halloween Costume Dance.

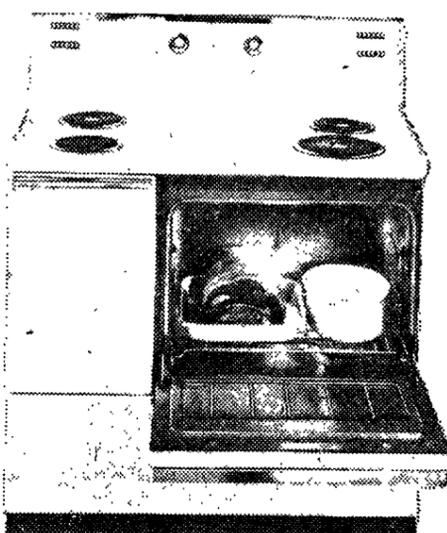

See ya' at the Service Club.

Symphony Tickets On Sale In Town

As the time nears for the first of four concerts this season by the Huntsville Civic Symphony, reminders are appearing all over town. Habitués of eating places in town will notice announcements of the concerts and the subscription prices on all the tables. And posters with the same information are sprouting in numerous shop-windows.

In the climax of the campaign for subscriptions, the Executive Board of the Huntsville Civic Symphony, meeting at the home of Mrs. Stephen L. Johnston, urged that all those interested in purchasing subscriptions do so soon. Mrs. Johnston mentioned that those persons buying either patron or sustaining memberships would have their names listed in the programs of the concerts, and that their contributions would be considered tax-deductible.

On Tuesday, Oct. 23, an open coffee will be held at the home of Mrs. T. E. Dilworth, Jr., 1305 Cleermont Drive, S.E., at which all tickets sold up to that time by the members of the Ladies' Guild, the orchestra itself, and the Board of Trustees, will be tabulated.

Tickets are available at both Arnold Hornbuckle Record Shops, at the Book Shop, and at Traylor Music Company, as well as from members of the connected organizations.

The first concert, featuring Bela Urban, the Hungarian-born violinist, in Bruch's Violin Concerto in G minor, will take place on Monday, Nov. 5, at 8:15 p.m. at Huntsville High School.

CITED BY GOVERNOR — Miss Ginger Poitevint, a junior in home economics at Auburn University, has received a certificate of appreciation from Gov. John Patterson for her representation of Alabama and her home town of Huntsville.

UNTANGLES SCHEMATICS—Willie Zena, (left foreground), engineer from Paris, reads the schematic that came with the ENTAC antitank missile acquired from the French government by the Army Missile Command. His explanation of the drawing is translated from French into English and talked onto tape by Joseph L. Watson in the Maintenance Division, Directorate for Supply and Maintenance. Zena was sent to the United States with three other engineers from Puteaux Arsenal to help translate the missile's documentation. William Claus (left) and Robert W. Sams, both of the Maintenance Division, follow the translation.

Language Creates Barrier Which Missilemen Hurdle

Language differences may prove a barrier in some places, but not at the Army Missile Command.

U. S. Army missile experts at Redstone Arsenal ran into trouble when they started working with the French-developed ENTAC missile. This is a solid propellant, wire-guided missile which the United States purchased from the French government to replace the SS-10, an older missile also developed by France.

Basic use of the ENTAC is in support of Infantry as an anti-tank missile. The name is a contraction of the French identifying description, Engin Teleguided Anti-Char.

Schematics and instructions that came with the weapon were in French, creating more than a little difficulty for U. S. Army missilemen charged with operation and maintenance of the Entac. To overcome this problem, four engineer-technicians familiar with the weapon were sent from Puteaux Arsenal near Paris to the Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal. The four are now working with Missile Command personnel to document the entire system in English.

One of them, Willie Zena of Paris, is working with men in Field Maintenance, Directorate for Supply and Maintenance, where Joseph Watson acts as translator. Watson is a warrant officer in the Directorate and was once assigned at the Ordnance Guided Missile School. He is a fluent linguist in French. Zena and Watson are tape recording instructions for use by U. S. technicians and troops.

Zena is a 31-year-old graduate from Franklin School in Paris who served his obligatory military service in Germany and Algeria. He has been working with missiles for six years. His wife and daughter, Francine, 3, remained at their home in Paris.

The top-ranking man in the French group is Maj. Robert Voin, Director of Production at Puteaux. He has been in missilery for the past five years, transferring from the Armor Branch of the Army where he was also schooled in anti-tank weapons.

A veteran of 14 years in the Army, the Major is a native of Paris and has settled his family at Versailles. Unlike Zena, he speaks English fluently, as does the only girl in the group, Miss Yvonne Guerin, an engineer who studied at the French Institute of Armament.

Born in Paris, Miss Guerin lives there now and commutes to Puteaux where she has been employed for the past seven years. Miss Guerin and Zena both expressed pleasure and surprise at the variety of outside activities that have been arranged for them during their free time in Huntsville.

So did Georges Cestac from Terbes in the south of France. He has a three-year-old daughter, Catherine, and a 12-year-old son, Jean. Mrs. Cestac and the children are in Paris where they now make their home. Cestac is a graduate from the Technical College of Haute-Garonne.

Watson picks up the group in the morning and takes them to their jobs. Maj. Voin, Miss Guerin and Cestac work in the Directorate of Production and Procurement, and Zena in Field Maintenance where Watson is employed.

Watson says he is harder pressed explaining a baseball game in French than in interpreting scientific data from French into English. The Frenchmen are bewildered by nine men standing around on a field apparently doing nothing.

Miss Guerin spoke for all of them in stating her pleasure at the hospitality extended to the group by individual families. This is the first trip to America for any of the French.

They have enjoyed the novelty of drive-in movies which the French don't have, and side trips to Panama City and the Smoky Mountains. They are scheduled to complete the translated documents and schematics this week.

Post Library

By Jean L. Hoffman

On non-fiction lists, one of the top titles in September was Rachel Carson's "Silent Spring," which is considered to be a far cry from her previous standards of literary performance, namely, "The Sea Around Us," and "Under the Sea Wind." However, Book-of-the-Month decided to make the book the October BOMC choice and Miss Carson's work is a careful, convincing case against the indiscriminate use of pesticides. With these sultry Indian Summer days, we recommend "The I Hate to House-keep Book," by Peg Bracken. This is written in the same humorous and down to earth style as her "The I Hate to Cook Book."

Male patrons will enjoy "In-Laws and Outlaws," by the author of Parkinson's Law, as well as Bennett Cerf's "Riddle-De Dee," and Shirley Jackson's "We Have Always Lived in the Castle," ready soon. Look Magazines' older volume on "The Decline of the American Male," by Paul Popenoe is a brief treatise by an authority.

New novels added this week are John Master's "To the Coral Strand;" and James Jones's "The Thin Red Line," reported not to be worth the paper it is written on, but destined for the best-seller lists, and thus a rather sad commentary on the reading tastes of the American public. Jones's book however, is said to have the power and some of the emotional lift of his previous success, "From Here to Eternity."

Other new fiction titles are: J. B. Priestley's "The Shapes of Sleep;" Edwin Lanaam's "No Hiding Place;" Igor Sentjere, "The Torrents of War;" Frank Swinerton's "Death of a Highbrow;" William Golding's "The Inheritors;" Barriault's "Conference of Victims;"

New non-fiction titles added this week are Francis William's "Dangerous Estate," the anatomy of newspapers, just in time to salute National Newspaper Week; Albert Einstein's "Ideas and Opinions;" Bertrand Russell's "Fact and Fiction;" H. W. Gabriel's "Twenty Steps to Power, Influence Over People;" Alfred Mander's "Logic for the Millions;"

"Non-Com's Guide," 1962 edition; "The Officer's Guide," "The Ft. Riley Cavalry School Manual of Horsemanship and Horsemastership;" "Selected Writings of Thomas Aquinas;" Ann Lander's "Since You Ask Me;" Alan Moorehead's "The Blue Nile;" Bergere's "Automobiles of Yesteryear;" Larjar's "Best Cartoons of the Year 1962;" O'Leary's "Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo;" "An Inexpensive Science Library;" a Selected List of Paperbound Science Books;" Wheeler's Practical Administration of Public Libraries;" Ralph Wood's "Treasury of Friendship;"

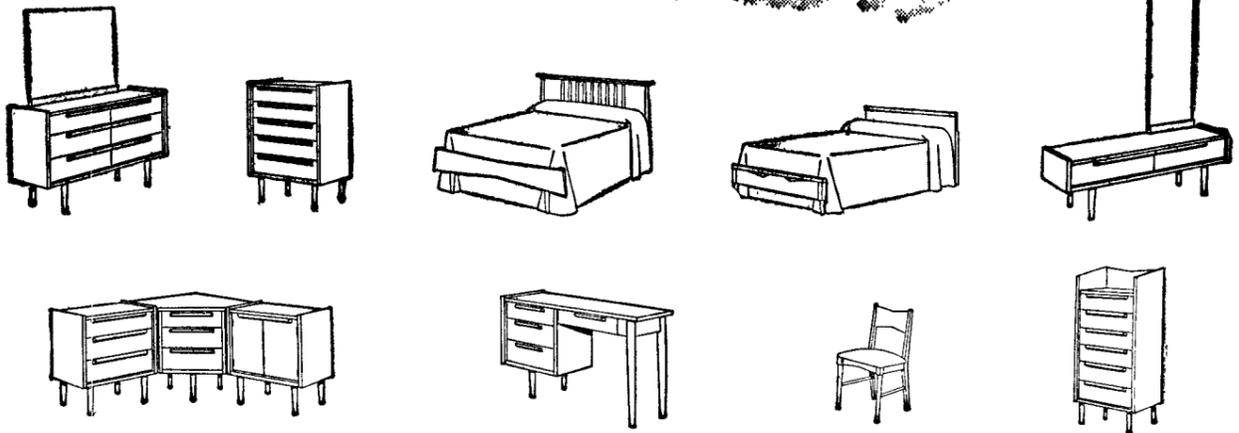

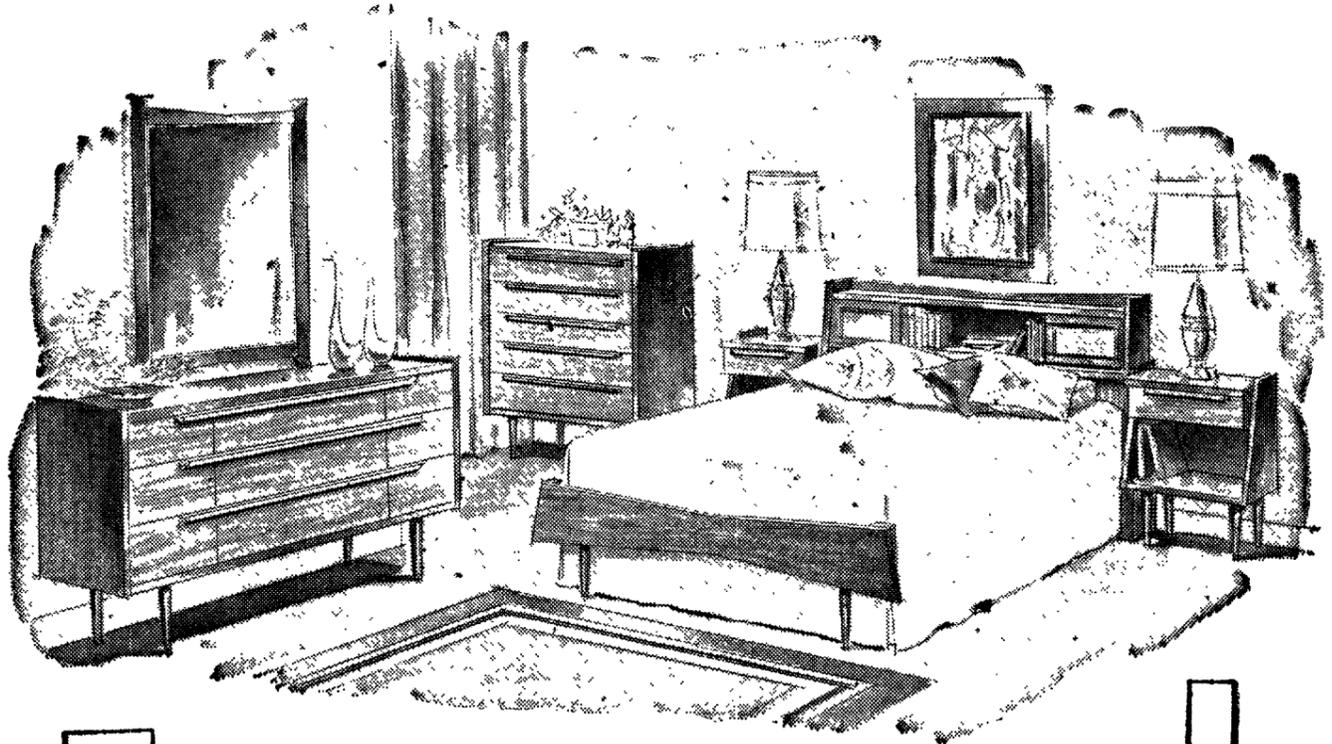

Biographies are W. C. Field's "Follies and Fortunes;" "The Rothchilds;" Manchester's Portrait of a President;" and Robert Graves' "Lawrence and the Arabian Adventure."

Two Contracts Let For Work On Hercules

The award of two contracts totaling $13,458,389 to cover further work on the Nike Hercules guided missile system was announced Thursday.

The Douglas Aircraft Company received a $9,761,439 award for manufacture of components and shipping kits for the Nike Hercules. The work will be done at the company's plant in Charlotte, N.C.

An award for $3,696,950 went to the Western Electric Company for other items to be used in connection with the Nike Hercules system with work to be done at Winston-Salem and Charlotte, N.C., and Syracuse, N.Y.

Nike Hercules, an air defense guided missile now on guard around key cities and defense installations in the United States, is under the project management of the Army Missile Command.

The Birmingham Procurement District will administer the Douglas contract, and the New York Procurement District the Western Electric contract for the Army.

Town, American-Hungarian Relief, and the United States Government.

Mr. Dohanos was born in 1907 in Lorain, Ohio. To augment the family income he sold newspapers after school. The first drawings he ever made were copies from calendars and he was surprised when he found he could sell them. The encouragement this gave him decided his future.

Due to his personal experience with tuberculosis, Dohanos has devoted more time to the fight against TB throughout the years than any other figure in his field. In 1960 he was named Honorary Christmas Seal Chairman by the National Tuberculosis Association. In this capacity he visited almost every major city in the United States.

In 1962 he created four paintings for the National Tuberculosis Association to be used in their school health education program. These paintings have been used by more than 2300 state and local TB associations for school health posters.

Stevan Dohanos has just been re-elected national president of the Society of Illustrators and is a member of the American Watercolor Society, the Artists and Writers Association, and the Dutch Treat Club of New York City.

STEVAN DOHANOS

Dohanos To Talk To Illustrators

Stevan Dohanos, renowned cover artist and illustrator for the Saturday Evening Post, will be in Huntsville November 8 as guest speaker for the Technical Art Awards Banquet, which is to be held in conjunction with the Third Annual Seminar of the Society of Technical Writers and Publishers.

Arrangements are being made for a meeting with the 36 civil service illustrators currently enrolled in the Famous Artists Commercial Art Course as a part of their Career Development Program. Mr.

Dohanos has graciously agreed to include all the illustrators on the Arsenal in a special presentation, tentatively scheduled for 10:00 a.m., Thursday, November 8, in Building 5250 Auditorium. This action is being coordinated with Mr. John Heath, SMIDW-PTD, and the illustrator supervisors of the various Directorates.

Dohanos is a designer and a consultant on art projects. He has designed Christmas cards, rugs, fabrics, wallpaper and commercial insignia.

He gives his time and talent to worthy causes such as national and civic organizations. He has designed posters and stamps for the Red Cross, the Community Chest, the National Cancer Association, Boys

SERVICEMEN!
WHERE YOU GET THAT LOAN CAN MAKE A BIG DIFFERENCE!

Under the G.A.C. plan, everything is arranged on your terms. You're in command! You choose the loan plan—even the amount and dates of payment.

Besides, it's smart to establish your credit with an organization that has offices from coast to coast; and in addition, maintains a World-Wide Loan Service especially designed for U.S. military personnel stationed overseas. The moment a G.A.C. Credit Certification Card is issued to you, your credit goes wherever you go.

Carl H. Irwin, Supervisory Inspector, Chief of Staff's Office; Milton E. Wickliffe, Supply Officer, Consolidated Supply Division; Kenneth R. Hertha, Program Analysis Officer, OGMS.

Sustained Superior Performance

Flora Findeisen, Secretary, Office of Deputy CG, BM; Roy L. Langley, Instrument Maker; Helen A. League, Clerk; Marie W. Linkins, Clerk-Typist, Dir. of R&D.

Certificate of Achievement

Lou A. Berry, Procurement Clk; Bona A. Allen, Mail & File Clerk, Dir. of Proc & Prod.

Suggestion Awards

Group Award — Claude A. Bennett, Andrew Bishop, Jack Brightwell and Larry Turnipseed, $25 each—this suggestion resulted in the use of a device to simplify the calibration of certain items of Type 4 equipment of the HAWK Missile System and eliminate hazardous connections. This joint suggestion has intangible benefits in the minor-broad category.

Shirley B. Reynolds, Directorate of Research & Development, $20 award—this suggestion resulted in an emergency telephone being installed in the elevator in Building 4593.

Shelby C. Cole, Publication Br., Adjutant Division, $35 award—this suggestion resulted in all publications of same item be packed together, other than large amounts of an item where more than one box is needed. Also colored liners of cardboard will be used to separate items within the box. The estimated savings for the first year is $627.

Grace B. Bailes, Redstone Depot, $20 award—this suggestion resulted in decks of aperture cards intended for overseas Units being shipped from Picatinny Arsenal and Chrysler Corporation direct to the receiving Units instead of coming through Redstone Depot first. The estimated first year savings is $393.

John F. Mickielson, OGMS, $25 award—this suggestion resulted in the installation of safety steps for RGR's, Illuminators, and CW Acquisition Radar. The idea has intangible benefits in the minor-limited category.

Loyd McNatt, Post Engineer, $15 award—this suggestion resulted in a 3/16" hole being drilled into the side of door closer 44V at the time of installation. This will prevent water from accumulating in the closer. The estimated first year savings is $200.

Raymond N. Thornhill, Post Engineer, $25 award—this suggestion resulted in the installation of 1/4" water regulating valves in a by-pass around the 4" water regulating valves on the Chrysler Air-Temp Chilled Water Systems at Building 5681. The modification will provide a better and more efficient stabilized operation. The estimated first year savings is $500.

Raymond N. Thornhill, Post Engineer, $25 award—this suggestion resulted in the two chilled water systems in Bldg. 112 being repiped so that when one of the systems is inoperative the other system will function properly. This idea has intangible benefits in the minor-limited category.

James T. Zuccarello, Consolidated Supply Division, $15 award—this suggestion resulted in the fabrication of a container to catch EAM paper during burster operation. The estimated first year savings is $203.

Charles W. Weeks, OGMS, $25 award—this suggestion resulted in ORDHB-GMS Form 42 being revised. The weight factor for each written exam, Performance Test, and Graded Practical Exercise is placed on the form in addition to the percentage previously reflected. The idea has intangible benefits in the minor-limited category.

Max Garrison, Calibration Center, $10 award—this suggestion resulted in a block of wood or some other suitable material being mounted in the case cover of the Universal Adapter, FSN 4935-0083. This block will support the adapter when the case is in carrying position. This joint suggestion has intangible benefits in the minor limited category.

ARMY HONORS JAPAN'S PIONEER MISSILE 'MEN'—The Commander of Japan's first Anti-Aircraft Guided Missile Maintenance Detachment, Lt. Col. Shiwaku Takayuki of Tokyo, (left), receives a special award for excellence from Col. William J. Macpherson, Commandant of the U. S. Army Ordnance Guided Missile School at Redstone Arsenal, Ala. The week-end ceremony marked the departure of the pioneer Japanese missile technicians for their homeland after a year's training at the missile school.

When a man buys clothing he needs somebody to talk to

Regardless of how far automation may go, there are certain things that can be done only by people.

One thing you can't get at a discount is sound advice about your right color, model and fabric in a suit of clothes.

Other things that don't come in piles on a counter (or in rows on pipe racks) are:

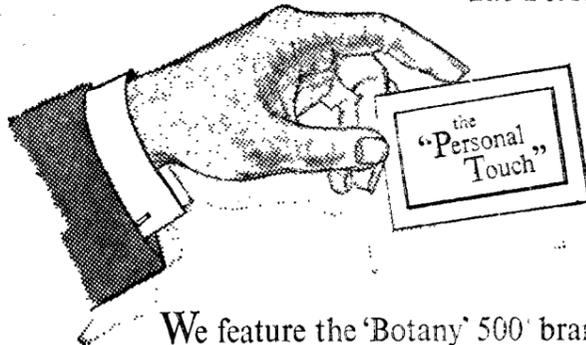

Counsel on what goes with what in shirts, ties, socks and so on.

Alterations by expert tailors that make a suit, sport jacket, pair of slacks or overcoat fit you correctly.

Sympathetic ears for exchanges or adjustments if something goes wrong.

Other endless niceties and courtesies that are summed up in the words,

"The Personal Touch"

If you're tired of chasing the elusive combination of savings plus comfort-fit-and-quality, come in for a friendly try-on of a suit.

We feature the 'Botany' 500 brand because its maker, Daroff of Philadelphia, provides the same "Personal Touch" in tailoring as we maintain in the retailing of everything we sell.

Lt. Tucker Named Aide To General

Lt. James H. Tucker has been named aide de camp to Brig. Gen. H. P. Persons, Commanding General for Air Defense Systems, Army Missile Command.

Lt. Tucker received a bachelor of science degree in industrial management from Georgia Tech in June, 1961, and entered active Army service in August.

At school he was active in the Phi-Delta Theta social fraternity. Prior to assignment at the Missile Command in December, 1961, Lt. Tucker graduated from the Ordnance Officers Orientation Course and the General Supply Course at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

His first assignment here was as assistant Special Services Officer. He was transferred to the Protocol Office and then assigned as Gen. Persons' aide.

In Mobile he attended the Murrell High School for two years and transferred to the Marlon Institute at Marion, Ala., for his last two years of college preparation.
