

Army Receives First Pershing Tactical GSE; Gen. Persons And Project Manager Accept It

The Army accepted delivery today of the first items of equipment for its new Pershing ballistic missile system, destined for use by Army tactical units.

Thousands of employees of the Martin Company were scheduled to attend an outdoor ceremony marking the turnover at the Orlando, Fla. plant of the prime contractor, weather permitting.

Brig. Gen. Howard P. Persons Jr., the Army Missile Command's Deputy Commanding General for Air Defense Systems; Col. Oliver M. Hirsch, Deputy for Land Combat Systems and Pershing Project Manager, and Col. William J. Macpherson, Commandant, Army Ordnance Guided Missile School, were among the official participants.

Delivery of these first tactical items was one month ahead of the target date set four years ago. Troops at Ft. Sill, Okla., and at OGMS will receive this first tactical hardware.

In remarks prepared for the brief delivery ceremony, Col. Hirsch called the event "a significant achievement for the Army and the entire contractor team." The project manager praised the singleness of purpose demonstrated by all members of the Pershing team since initiation of the development program early in 1958.

Pershing is a two stage, solid fuel ballistic missile with a range of several hundred miles. Development of the highly mobile field Army support weapon has been directed by the Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal, an element of the Army Materiel Command.

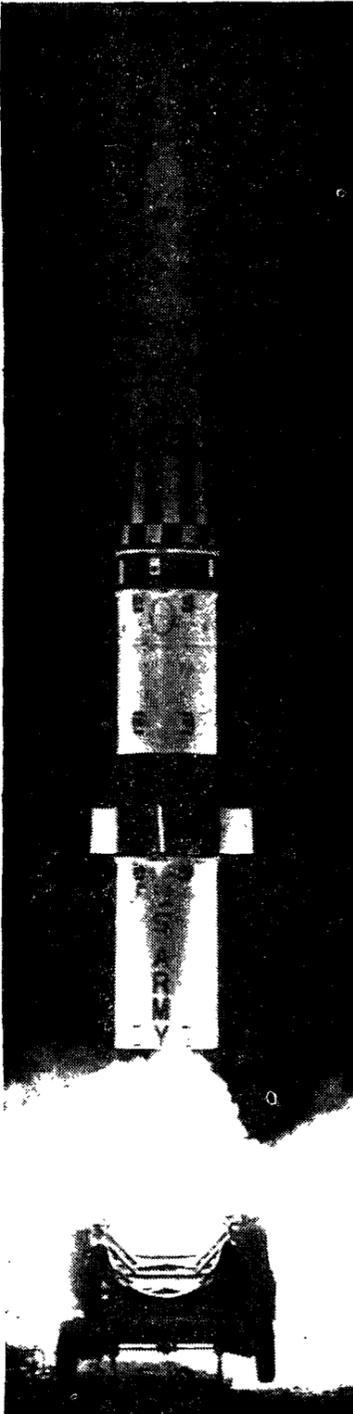

Training of ordnance support units at OGMS and artillery units at Ft. Sill has been underway for some time.

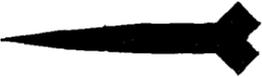

The Army's Birmingham Procurement District administers the Pershing contract. Col. R. B. Sell, District Commander, and key members of his staff participated in the ceremony today.

Members of Col. Hirsch's Pershing project team attending with him from Redstone included Lt. Col. R. J. Schofield, Chief, Systems Support Division, and James M. Brown, Technical Assistant for Engineering Division.

On hand from the Army Missile Command's Cape Canaveral operations were Lt. Col. Melvin D. Clark, Director, Army Tests, Maj. Billy G. Walker and Capt. Darrell H. Vicknair.

Sergeant Joins Ranks In First Troop Firing

Our Sergeant joined the Army's proud ranks Wednesday as the nation's press looked on at White Sands Missile Range in an eventful day featured by:

1. The first firing of the solid fuel ballistic missile by an Army tactical unit—a shot described as "right in the pickle barrel."

2. Announcement that the Federal Republic of Germany has purchased the Sergeant system and will deploy it in Germany for the defense of NATO.

Maj. Gen. Francis J. McMorow, Commanding General, Army Missile Command, and Col. John E. Aber, Sergeant Project Manager, had major roles in the day-long program attended by more than 100 newsmen, high-ranking Department of the Army officials, German representatives, Army user units, the contractor team and a host of civilian dignitaries headed by Gov. George D. Clyde and U. S. Sen. Frank E. Moss of Utah.

The Sperry-Utah Company of Salt Lake City is prime contractor for the Sergeant system which is managed by Col. Aber and his staff here.

Sergeant, which an official Department of Defense statement said will be deployed overseas "early next year," was featured in demonstrations of its air transportability and quick reaction time.

The troop firing stole the show. Soldiers of Battery A, Third Missile Battalion (Sergeant), 38th Artillery from Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, sent the missile on its way. Newsmen and observers some 300 strong, broke into applause and cheers as the missile leaped from its mobile launching station and flashed up range, vanishing within seconds with only a snowy trail of vapor to mark its passage.

Immediately afterward, A. Tyler Port, representing Secretary of the Army Cyrus R. Vance, made this announcement:

"The Federal Republic of Germany has purchased the Sergeant missile system and will deploy it in Germany for the defense of NATO by early 1963. The purchase of Sergeant, like the purchase of Nike and Honest John, is part of the German effort to meet its agreed NATO force goals. German officers and enlisted personnel have been receiving training in the use of the Sergeant system at Army installations in the United States since 1961."

Pershing Scores A 1st In Cape Off-Pad Shot

The Army successfully fired its Pershing ballistic missile from unprepared sandy ground at Cape Canaveral, Oct. 22.

The firing marked the first time a ballistic missile has been launched at the Cape on the Atlantic Missile Range (AMR) from anything other than the concrete and steel pads built to give missiles a smooth and stable take-off surface.

Col. O. M. Hirsch, Pershing Project Manager at the Army Missile Command, said the missile was fired from its erector launcher as it would be in a tactical situation after airlift by helicopter to an unprepared firing site.

The tactical ground support equipment performed the countdown with all power supplied by the tactical primary power pack. The countdown was monitored from the blockhouse.

Pershing and its ground support equipment was positioned on a

Civil Defense Outlines Plans For Huntsville Area

This is a joint announcement by the Huntsville Office of Civil Defense and officials of Redstone Arsenal and the Marshall Space Flight Center. Civil Defense emergency planning is a fluid function, based upon latest information and changing situations. Previously it was determined that mass evacuation was the solution to minimize the effects of nuclear attack. Further study has revealed that mass evacuation of areas not considered to be primary target areas is not advisable. The Huntsville area is not considered to be a primary target area (Repeat) the Huntsville area is not considered to be a primary target area; therefore in the event of a probable or actual nuclear attack, Huntsville Civil Defense and Redstone Arsenal plans provide for:

a. All persons in the Huntsville area proper are to proceed to their homes or previously arranged or prepared shelter sites by the most direct route. Redstone Arsenal employees (military and civilian) (Department of the Army, Marshall Space Flight Center, Contractors, and lessees) would be permitted to leave their work areas at specified time intervals for the purpose of proceeding to their homes.

b. Parents may drive to school to pick up their children, or walk, if practical. Children having to remain at school will be provided for by school authorities.

c. Traffic will be reduced to those vehicles essential to the emergency operations.

d. Official instructions will be announced over local radio and TV stations.

e. Numerous free publications on individual and family preparedness are available at the local Civil Defense Office, 104 Gates Avenue, SW, in downtown Huntsville.

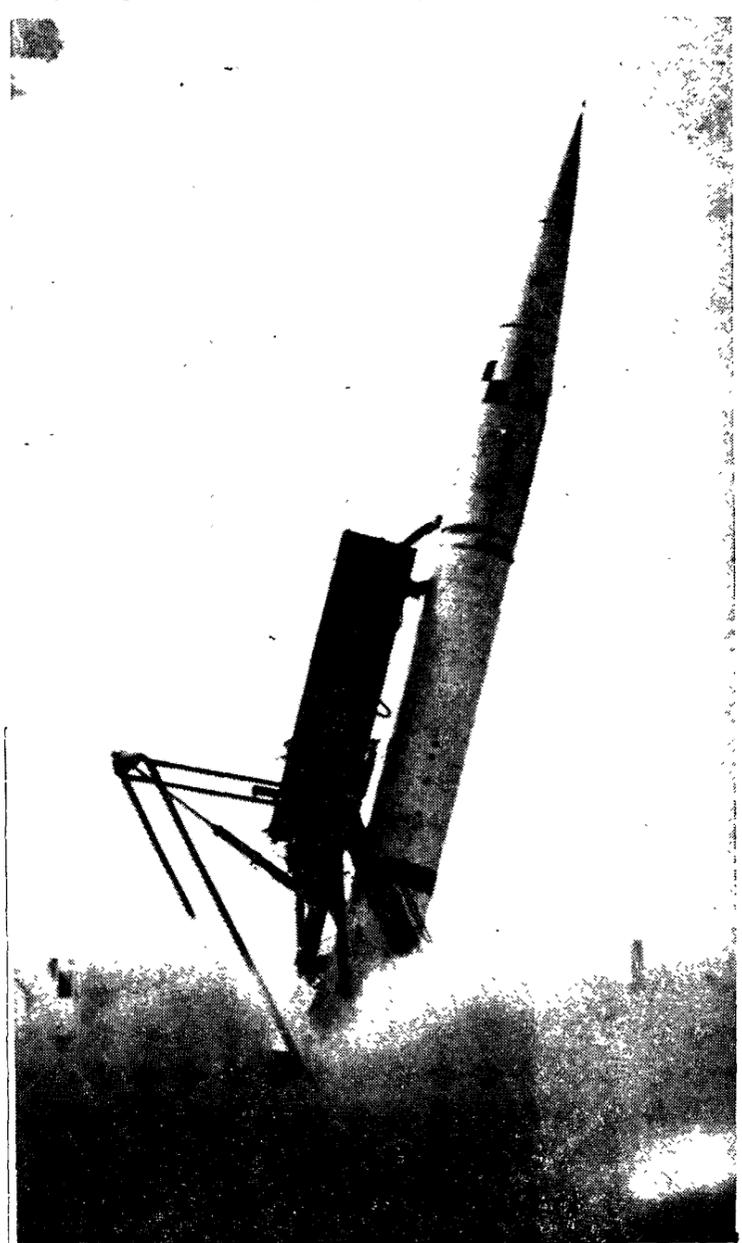

f. Civil Defense is the responsibility of every citizen. Individuals must be capable of caring for themselves (and their families) and should take such precautionary measures as knowing the warning signals, pre-stocking of canned foods, storage of water and improvising a shelter area within their homes.

Japanese Thank OGMS Staff for Missile Training

The deputy chief of staff of Japan's ground defense agency, Lt. Gen. Shinobu Takayama, visited here Friday and Saturday to thank Col. William J. Macpherson, commandant of the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School for training given to the first Japanese missile support detachment which finished classes and started home last week.

He was accompanied by Lt. Col. Shinshichi, Japanese Liaison Officer of Fort Bliss, Texas.

Gen. Takayama was honored at a reception and dinner at the Redstone Arsenal Officers Club Friday evening.

HEADING FOR THE BARREL—The first Sergeant to be fired by an Army tactical unit clears its launcher at WSMR last week during a national press tour. Announcement on the results of the shot said the missile landed right in the proverbial pickle barrel.

The Redstone Rocket

The Redstone Rocket is published weekly, on Wednesdays. The publisher will receive editorial content for publication in the Rocket only through the Information Office, Army Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal, Ala., Bldg. 5250, Room A-136, Extension 876-4161.

All advertising copy and payments therefor are received by Mrs. Zillah T. Heath, Huntsville, Ala., P. O. box 346, telephone 534-4701, as representative of the publisher. Advertising deadline—both display and wanted—is noon on Friday before publication.

The Redstone Rocket is distributed free of cost to personnel at Redstone Arsenal. Mailing rates for the Rocket are $5.25 a year, or $2.89 for six months, tax included. Mailing arrangements may be made with the publisher, P. O. Box 520, Hartselle, Ala.

Two Important Contributions

In rapid fire fashion, two Army Missile Command weapons projects have made important and well-timed contributions to the defense of the United States and the Free World.

Last week I was a highly pleased observer at the first firing of our Sergeant ballistic missile by an Army tactical unit. Working under the extreme pressure of having the nation's press looking over their shoulders, soldiers of Battery A, Third Missile Battalion, 38th Artillery, put the first round they ever fired squarely on target.

Today the first items of equipment for our Pershing ballistic missile destined for use by Army tactical units are scheduled to be turned over to the Army by the contractor—one full month ahead of schedule.

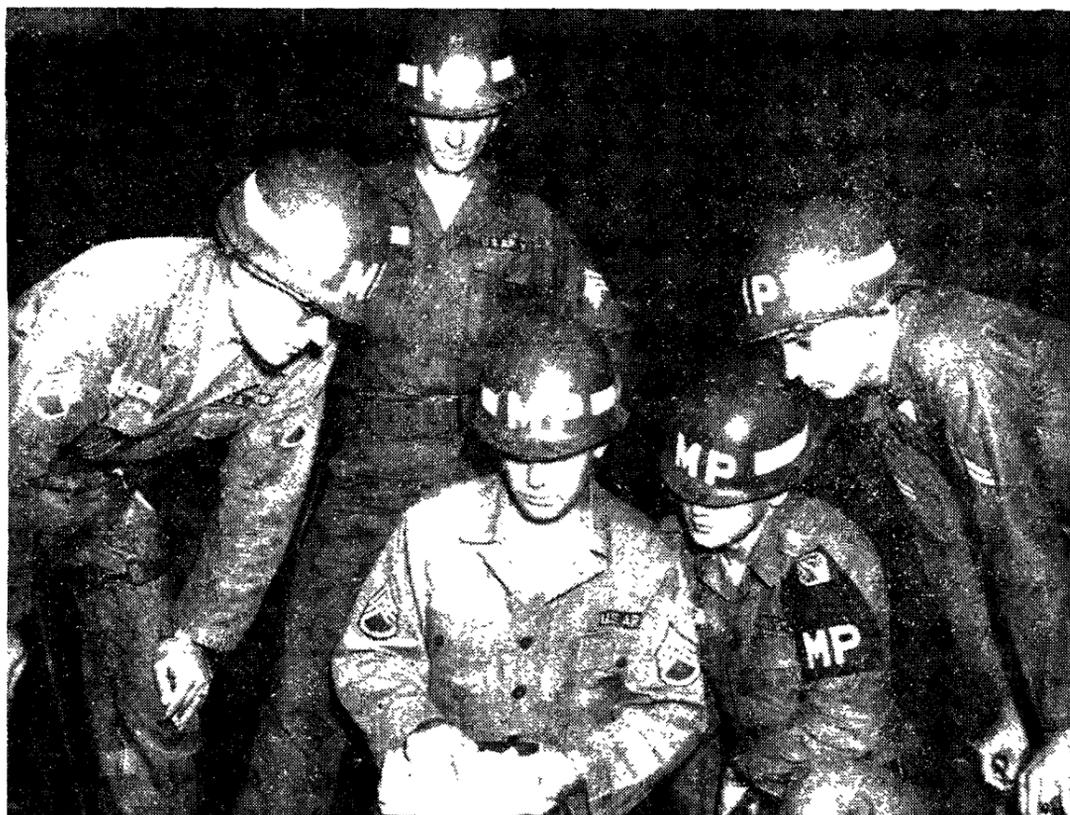

These two fine weapons in the user's hands will give the Army major improvements in firepower and mobility.

Watching soldiers demonstrate the Sergeant system gave me a feeling of personal satisfaction that I want to share with every man and woman of the Army Missile Command. The men who have Sergeant know how to use it. I am equally sure that the same can be said of the troops who have the Pershing.

Col. John E. Aber, Sergeant Project Manager and his staff, and Col. Oliver M. Hirsch, Pershing Project Manager and his staff, have done well. Their weapons systems reflect credit on themselves, this command and the Army.

In one way or another, every member of the Army Missile Command has made some contribution toward fielding these weapons. The soldiers we exist to serve have confidence in our products and their ability to use them.

MP's Maintain Training For Peace And For War

Most people at Redstone Arsenal have their thoughts on missiles flying through the air, but one important unit is firmly bound to the ground.

This is the 291st Military Police Company, which is normally responsible for all sorts of details from directing traffic during the end-of-work rush to guarding the perimeter gates at this headquarters of the Army Missile Command.

Even while the MP's are carrying out their everyday duties they are also undergoing around-the-clock field training for work connected with any possible war-time alert. The 291st is slated to be the central communications center for defensive forces in case of an alert on Redstone Arsenal.

In addition to the usual emergency equipment, they will have dosimeters, which are pencil-sized instruments which warn the carriers when radioactive fallout is heavy and it is time for the people to take cover.

The MP training program includes every phase of passive defense that might be encountered during an enemy threat or attack. At the sound of an alert, the men will be ready to man traffic control points to evacuate military families from living quarters and civilian workers from offices to the now-unused ammunition storage bunkers area on the Arsenal.

The usual Infantry tactics and arts of map reading, night driving, living in the field, repelling guerrillas and rendering first aid are included in the passive defense readiness training.

The 291st MPs are part of the Army Missile Support Command commanded by Col. T. W. Cooke. This is an element of the Army Missile Command.

Blood Bank Receives 562 Pints

Something of a record was established at the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile last week, and 562 pints of blood were sent to the Blood Center at Birmingham from Redstone Arsenal.

Wednesday's visit was also a farewell. Lt. Col. George Grace, chairman of the Arsenal blood program and CWO George Dye who has handled the logistical problems were on duty officially at the Bloodmobile for the last time.

Their duties as coordinators for personnel and equipment will be assumed by Lt. Col. Allen Dallas as chairman and WO Frank Welsh. Both men were oriented during the Wednesday visit and briefed about the administrative work connected with the Arsenal blood program.

The rotating military trophy was awarded the 32nd Ordnance Detachment at the Unit Training Command Ordnance Guided Missile School.

NEWSMAKERS—These men made news at the Sergeant press tour last week. Left to right during the Sergeant troop firing are Maj. Gen. J. F. Thorlin, CG, White Sands Missile Range and host for the program; A. Tyler Port, who represented the Secretary of the Army, and Col. John E. Aber, Sergeant Project Manager. Mr. Port announced that the Federal Republic of Germany has purchased Sergeant and will deploy it in NATO's defense.

THE MEN AND THEIR MISSILE—Maj. Albert Kuehne, who will command the Federal Republic of Germany's first Sergeant missile unit, and Lt. Col. Frederick C. Spann, commanding officer of the 3rd Missile Battalion (Sergeant), 38th Artillery, exchange congratulations during the national press tour at White Sands last week. Col. Spann's men conducted the first Sergeant firing by an Army tactical unit—a shot described smacking down "right in the pickle barrel."

slight slope to the left of the concrete pad where the missile has been fired during previous R&D firings.

The blast from the missile's first stage solid fuel motor stirred a cloud of dust and sand as Pershing roared into the night sky and streaked out over the Atlantic Ocean on a long range mission.

Brilliant flares were ejected from the missile's warhead after powered flight ended to aid in tracking the nose cone. Preliminary data available immediately after the nose cone impacted in the pre-selected target area indicated that all test objectives had been met.

The Martin Company, Orlando, Fla., Division, is prime contractor for the Pershing under the technical supervision of the Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal. Personnel from both organizations participated in the firing, another in the continuing series of the Pershing development program.

SERGEANT

Responding to a newsman's question at a press conference which concluded the day's events, Col. Aber said warheads for the missiles purchased by the Federal Republic would be controlled in accordance with U. S. law.

Earlier in the day, Gen. McMorrow, representing Lt. Gen. Frank S. Besson Jr., CG of the Army Materiel Command, had outlined AMC's project management concept with special attention to Sergeant. Tracing the missile system's development the General said in part:

"I think it is a tribute to all concerned with the Sergeant program that the system met its Army Readiness Date. That date, specified early in the development cycle, is the time set far in the future when the Army says in effect 'on X day in X year, Sergeant will be ready for the first tactical unit—the troops who will use it in the field . . ."

"That date becomes almost sacred to the Army as the development program proceeds. All our planning is predicated on it. For Sergeant the date was June 30, 1962. Sergeant kept its date with the Army."

The spotlight was on Sergeant as a weapon in the hands of troops who know how to use it during the demonstration that preceded the missile firing. Troops of the Third Battalion's Battery B ran through a flawless emplacement exercise that took the highly mobile system from road march into firing position. Newsmen were obviously impressed with the new weapon's shoot and scoot capabilities.

At the Range airfield, the troops ran through a simulated unloading of the Sergeant launching station from an aircraft, underscoring the air transportability features of the weapon.

Major participants in the industry team which did so much to make the Sergeant system a reality also received recognition during the day.

Thiokol Chemical Corporation's Alpha Division facility in Huntsville, where the Sergeant's solid fuel rocket motor was developed, had two representatives on the tour—W. M. Savelle, manager, program requirements, and Jack F. Neal, assistant to the general manager.

Attendees from Col. Aber's Sergeant team included Maj. Richard M. Brunson, who heads the Sergeant field office at Sperry Utah; John Hand, Chief of the Test Division and Alan M. Lederman, Chief of the Operations Office.

CWO Donald G. Cloud, Sergeant Technical Officer from the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School at Redstone was another member of the official party.

Arsenal's Emergency Plans Outlined

GENERAL

1. General: As a result of the current world situation, a considerable amount of public interest has been aroused in relation to emergency actions and protective measures. Redstone Arsenal's emergency plans have been coordinated and are in agreement with civil defense procedures established in the communities surrounding the arsenal.

2. Purpose: The purpose of this document is to apprise the addressees of the emergency actions which are planned for Redstone Arsenal in the event certain emergency situations occurred.

3. Policy: In consonance with the new national concept regarding nuclear warfare, the arsenal's population will go to their homes or shelters, if available, rather than participate in a mass evacuation of the Huntsville area in the event of a probable or actual nuclear attack.

4. Scope: The provisions contained within this document are applicable to the entire population of Redstone Arsenal.

PROCEDURE

5. In the event it is known that a nuclear attack is probable or has actually occurred the following actions will be implemented.

a. Notification:

(1) The arsenal's air raid warning system will be utilized to alert the arsenal's population.

(2) The radio will provide announcements relative to existing conditions on a continuing basis.

b. Movement:

(1) Priority Movements — Immediately upon the sounding of the alert signal the following will proceed to their assigned positions:

(a) Emergency Operating Force personnel

(b) Government school busses
(c) Civilian employe members of Civil Defense Police

MASS EVACUATION

(2) Mass Evacuation — To provide for an orderly evacuation of the Arsenal by personnel who reside off-post and to prevent congesting of the roadways adjacent to the installation, evacuation will be accomplished in the following manner:

(a) Upon Sounding of Alert Signal personnel who reside south and west of Huntsville will proceed to their homes after picking up their car pool members.

(b) Thirty Minutes After Sounding of Alert Signal all remaining personnel will proceed (after picking up their car pool members) along normal everyday exit routes.

(c) Successful Evacuation of the Arsenal will depend upon compliance with the above evacuation procedures and failure to do so will endanger yourselves and others and cause separation from families.

SCHOOL CHILDREN

c. School Children (at school at time of alert) — School children (who reside on the Arsenal) attending schools in surrounding areas will be picked up at the schools and returned to the installation. School children who do not reside on the Arsenal will be allowed to (1) walk home if they live near the school, (2) be picked up by parents or guardians, or (3) remain at school under the care of the faculty. (Government busses will pick up the Arsenal's school children.)

d. Government Quarters Personnel will follow instructions previously disseminated.

6. Protective Measures to consider in Survival against radioactive fallout

a. Preconstructed fallout shelters.

b. Basements.

c. Hallways located in the centermost part of a building.

d. Mattresses placed over and around table and similar objects to form an improvised shelter.

e. Areas which are away from windows, doors and other openings.

f. Prestockage of a two-week's supply of food, water, medicines, and other essential items.

g. Emergency power, heat, lights, etc.

h. Battery operated radio.

7. Detailed Civil Defense literature can be obtained from the Huntsville-Madison County Civil Defense Office located at 104 Gates Avenue, S.W., Huntsville, Alabama.

Lloyd Jones Gets $1190 for Ideas

An electronics instructor at the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School here is considerably richer today for showing the government how to save at least $140,000.

Lloyd R. Jones, 47, of 322 Crestview Ave., Athens, Ala., received U. S. checks for $1,190 under the Army's suggestion awards plan. Col. William J. Macpherson, Missile School commandant, held a special ceremony to honor Jones with one of the largest cash awards ever made to a civilian employe at Redstone Arsenal.

Jones got his winning idea working with expensive electronics equipment used to teach students how to test circuits and parts of the powerful Nike Hercules air defense missile.

The equipment was crammed into one console, around which only a few—students could stand at the same time. Crowding permitted use of the equipment only 60 percent of the time.

Jones proposed separating the parts of the console. He used materials from the salvage yard to do it. The rate of use of the equipment rose at once to a full 100 percent. Furthermore, the Army was able to increase the number of students in its missile classes without having to buy more equipment. Army auditors calculate the savings at $140,000.

Jones was born in Meriwether County, Ga., and attended the University of Georgia's Center in Columbus. He has 16 years of ser-

CIVIC SYMPHONY OPENS SEASON

The season's first concert of the Huntsville Civic Symphony, Russel Gerhart, conducting, will be given on Monday evening, Nov. 5, at 8:15 p.m. at the Huntsville High School.

The Hungarian-born violinist Bela Urban, will be the featured soloist in Max Bruch's Violin Concerto in G Minor.

The program will also include Bach's Chorale Prelude "Wacher Auf, Ruft Uns die Stimme," Robert Schumann's Symphony No. 1 in Bb Major, and Aram Khachaturian's Concert Suite.

Season memberships for all four concerts are still available and may be purchased from either of the Arnold Hornbuckle Record Shops, the Book Shop in the Russel Erskine Hotel, Traylor Music Store, or any member of any of the orchestra-connected organizations.

The second concert, to be given on Jan. 14, 1963, will feature Alison Nelson and Harry Neal, Australian-American duo-piano team in Felix Mendelssohn's Two-Piano Concerto. This concert will also include the Symphony No. 1 in C minor by Johannes Brahms.

The third concert of the season will feature Lucile Jennings as harp soloist, the first harpist ever to have appeared with the Symphony.

The final concert will be the Annual Pops Concert, and will have as its soloist Thomas Gay, Huntsville pianist.

Bela Urban, though born in Hungary, came to the United States at an early age, and received most of his musical training here. He has concertized extensively in the United States and abroad, and now is on the faculty of Florida State University.

BRITISH MILITARY ATTACHE IS VISITOR

Maj. Gen. John M. McNeill, Commander of the British Army Staff and British Military Attache to the British Embassy in Washington, D. C., visited Redstone Arsenal Oct. 24.

He was welcomed by Brig. Gen. H. F. Persons, Deputy Commanding General for Air Defense Systems, Army Missile Command.

Honor ceremonies were held near the Troop area on post.

Gen. McNeill conferred with the British Liaison Officer, Lt. Col. William Graham, and the Canadian Liaison Officer, Maj. G. A. Wood, during his stay.

The following day he was welcomed and briefed at the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School by Col. William J. Macpherson. He departed Thursday morning.

Football

Due to unforeseen circumstances, the Post Football League will not be extended as previously planned. The last game of the season in league play was between the Knights and the A-Bombs. The Knights took the "short championship" by defeating the A-Bombs 28-6.

At the end of the first quarter, the Knights were ahead 12-6, and at the half the score was still 12-6.

Both teams played heads up ball for the entire first half, and only the breaks put the Knights ahead. During the second half the Knights caught fire and scored 16 more points to make the score 28-6 in favor of the Knights.

The A-Bombs made a push toward the end of the game, but to no avail, due to the superior defense of the Knights.

The Championship of Redstone Arsenal for 1962 goes to the Knights. With still a month to go, plans are being made to organize a Post team and play other Post teams. At least one game will be played with Ft. Knox, Ky., the afternoon of Nov. 17, and a game to close the 1962 season will be played on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22.

Keep an eye open for information in the Daily Bulletin, Posters and the Rocket.

Basketball-Volleyball

With the opening of the gym in Bldg. 5663, only a few days old Oct. 29, it is suggested that all units look through their personnel and come up with a basketball team or a volleyball team. Remember that basketball and possibly volleyball will be open in the first week of December, which only gives about one month for practice.

It takes long hours and plenty of practice to make a good team, so an early start won't hurt any unit. Unit Commanders are urged to back up a team and give a little push to organize a team. Most alibis about sports at Redstone are "the unit don't back us, or we can't get the time off."

Now is the time for units to use sports as a physical buildup. Unit Commanders should book teams.

Bowling

With the chilly weather driving people inside, one sport that can accommodate all ages and sexes is bowling. At present the alleys are just getting warmed up for the coming season which will last until the early part of April, 1963.

Even at this early stage, "shocks" are jumping all over the Redstone Arsenal Bowling Lanes. In the E. M. Mixed League held on Friday nights, Erna Metcalf took command of the game and rolled a 205 game. The only time she ever came so close to the number was back in the school days, or at the most it was the average of three bowled games.

The "bumps" and the "wiggles," the "groans" and the "body English" that Erna put into her 205 game reminded one of the old burlesque days. It was through her efforts that her team took two points instead of losing the usual four points.

Of course, her team being in last place did not put any pressure on her "ballet" bowling.

The standing of the week for the various teams bowling at the Redstone Arsenal Lanes are as follows:

Sports Car Buffs

By Ray Mosling

Sports car enthusiasts in attendance at the Twickenham Auto Club meeting held on Oct. 25 at Clark Steadman's Restaurant elected new Club officers for the forthcoming six-month term.

Club officers elected for this term are: President—Bill McClain (Consolidated Systems Corp.), Vice President and Activities Chairman—Gene Salyer (Consolidated Systems Corp.), and Secretary-Treasurer—Peggy Neal (Southerlin Blue Print Company). I am certain that these new officers will do an excellent job for the Club and for the advancement of the motor sport in this area during their term of office.

Other business conducted at this meeting was the semi-annual presentation of the Twickenham Auto Club's perpetual trophies for Sportsmanship and Competition. These awards are presented to the Club members who accrue the most points under the Club's point system for the respective awards.

Winner of the Sportsmanship award for the period of April through September, 1962, was John Schlosser (NASA). The Competition award for this same period was presented to Ray Mosling

ENGINEERS TO MEET

The Alabama Section of the American Society of Civil Engineers will hold a special one-day meeting in Huntsville on Friday, Nov. 2.

During the morning speakers from the Marshall Space Flight Center will give talks on the Space Flight Center, the Saturn space vehicle, and various civil engineering aspects of our space program. A tour of the NASA Museum, the NASA Fabrication Lab. and the NASA test Stand Area during the afternoon has been arranged.

The meeting will close with a banquet at which Konrad Dannenberg, Deputy Director of the MS-FC Saturn Systems Office will speak. A special ladies program has been arranged.

(Thiokol).

Also at this meeting, the Club was pleased to welcome two new members who have been putting on a pretty fine show at local rallies recently. The Club members wish to welcome Bill Mohr (Boeing) and John Broell (also Boeing) to the membership.

Coming up next weekend on the 4th is the Alabama Sports Car Club Autocross to be held near Weogufka, Alabama (about 170 miles from Huntsville). The two-mile dirt closed-road course will be set up and operated in a manner similar to SCCA races, and SCCA competition classes will be used. Anyone interested in further details and in joining the caravan of Huntsville enthusiasts going to this event can make arrangements by calling this writer at 536-8373 after 6 p.m.

Returning from an inspection trip aboard the U.S.S. Battleship Alabama, State Sen.-Nominee John M. Tyson of Mobile, center, is shown presenting an Alabama flag to retired Navy Capt. J. G. Thwing of Seattle, Wash., right, Alabama's West Coast representative in the campaign to return the famous battleship to Mobile as a state shrine. At left is retired Rear Adm. M. E. Eaton of Mobile, under whom Capt. Thwing formerly served. The Alabama flag was the gift of Alabama Gov. John Patterson, who has named a 23-member committee to save the U.S.S. Alabama from the scrap heap. The battleship now lies at anchor in a Navy moth ball fleet near Seattle.

DANE WINS U. S. ARMY HONORS AT MISSILE SCHOOL

Much missile maintenance and test work is now automated, but the missile technician has a larger responsibility than ever before for giving more individual attention to his job.

This advice was given by Maj. Michael J. Dooley, chief of the Hawk Branch of the OGMS Department of Individual Training, to 45 graduates from six nations who received their diplomas Friday morning at the Post Theater.

Missile technology is moving so rapidly that each specialist needs to keep abreast of the changes through personal study and adapt his field manuals to accommodate the changes, Maj. Dooley said.

CWO Erik V. Hansen of the Royal Danish Air Force received the outstanding student award of the local chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army at the graduation exercises. He averaged 96.8 in the Nike supervisor course.

The Army salutes the UNITED STATES STRIKE COMMAND on its first anniversary, October 1962. The unified command, under the leadership of General Paul D. Adams, U. S. Army, is composed of forces of the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC) and the Tactical Air Command (TAC). STRIKE lives up to its name and fulfills its mission—Swift Tactical Reaction In every Known Environment.

He was the first Dane to receive the award, which was presented by Karl A. Woltersdorf, vice president of the Tennessee Valley Chapter.

Honor graduates were PFC Bruce E. Kniss in Corporal Ground Guidance Repair; PFC James A. Budd in Nike Acquisition Radar and Computer Repair; and Pvt. William T. Davis in Corporal Ground Handling Equipment Repair.

Also completing courses were Major Pierre LePennec, Capt. Oystein Linge of Norway; Lt. Rudolph C. Maldeghem of Belgium; Lt. Elbert Van De Beek of The Netherlands; and Mr. Leif Moller, civilian engineer from Denmark.

NCO Wives Sponsor Two Halloween Parties

The NCO Auxiliary sponsored a Halloween party for the children of their members on Saturday afternoon and held a costume party for themselves and their husbands on Saturday night.

Winners among the children were Denise Boschuck, daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. William Boschuck was a first prize taker; Margert Louise, daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Eugene R. Louise, second; Catherine Burt, daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Joseph Burt, third.

In another group Teddy Wymore, son of Sgt. and Mrs. Gerry Wymore, was first; Souses Covington, daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Covington, second; and Carl McMillion, son of Sgt. and Mrs. Carl McMillion, third.

In the third group, Harriet Messick, daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Ivy E. Messick took third; Donnie Neil, son of Sgt. and Mrs. William F. Neil, second; and Buster Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Powell was third.

The club was decorated for the occasion. Mrs. John Sloan told fortunes. Mrs. William F. Lowery was the mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Ivy Messick was co-hostess.

Leftover candies were taken to the Harris Home.

First prize at the Auxiliary party in the evening went to Mrs. Louis DeMichele. And again S/Sgt. and Mrs. John Sloan took home a prize. After the party was over and the games all played, members joined the dancers in the main lounge of the club.

Mrs. Leech Tallies 9100 Points At Party Bridge

Mrs. Robert Leech tallied a score of 9100 in four progressions at the Monday Night Party Bridge Club meeting at the Squirrel Hill Officers Club last week.

Holding beautiful hands, Mrs. Leech had two grand slams during the course of the play in addition to numerous little slams. She bid her slams and was not doubled, making her scores on straight plays without setting anyone.

Other winners were Mrs. E. M. Krembs, Capt. Martin Salzman and Col. Frank Moore.

Five tables were in play during the evening. Mrs. Krembs handles reservations to play with the group.

SODALITY TO MEET

The Catholic Women's Sodality will breakfast in the Chapel Social Room Friday, Nov. 6, immediately following the 9 a.m. Mass.

Mrs. F. J. McMorro, the new spiritual development program chairman, will conduct the meeting after breakfast.

The Rocket nursery will be open.

At the Service Club

By Brenda Hanson

For about a week now, I've been consciously ignoring those Christmas candles and glittery balls on display downtown right beside the pumpkins and Halloween masks. If this "Get an early start" spirit keeps growing at its present rate, I predict that in a few short years we'll have one continuous holiday that lasts for three months, and will be climaxed by the night St. Nick comes down on his witches broom to chase the Thanksgiving turkey.

Therefore, this week at the Service Club is dedicated to sweeping away the leftover goblins and restoring order and sanity for a brief interval of non-holiday spirit before the turkeys and holly wreaths take over.

The first events of the week are the weekly dance classes. These dance classes are taught by Mr. Virgil Norris, who is an excellent instructor, and I'm sure you would profit by coming out and taking advantage of these free lessons. The beginners class begins at 1900 hours and the advanced at 2000 hours.

Thursday's feature attraction is card games at 1930 hours. Could be hearts, pinochle, poker. So come and have a challenging evening of card playing.

Friday night's pace will begin at 2000 hours with a Chess Contest. Come by and enter, a prize will be given to the winner.

Saturday! You can amuse yourself at 2000 hours with Smoker Poker in the game room. Prizes and cigars will be given to the winners. Of course, all the other small games and club facilities will be available for your use also.

Sunday, Nov. 4, Coffee Call will get the day off to a good start bright and early at 0900 hours. We'll have plenty of hot coffee and donuts too, so come by and join us for coffee. The weekly record dance will get under way at 2000 hours. The theme for the Dance is Autumn Serenade. Our D. J.'s Pfc Jim Budd and Pfc Robert Perry will be spinning the lively disc. So come by the main lounge and dance with your favorite record.

Monday, Nov. 5, we will spotlight the evening with designated games beginning at 2015 hours. Two grand prizes will be given.

First on the agenda for Tuesday, Nov. 6 is Popular Numbers at 1800 hours. If you have a request come by and we will be happy to play it for you. Then at 2000 hours is Kitchen Kapers. Come by and enjoy your favorite snacks with us.

The Ft. McClellan Service Club sent us a dilly of a variety show on Oct. 20. We were treated for two hours of dancing, singing, and comedy, plus an interesting magician act. The show was enjoyed by all.

Sneaking a peep at Betty's notebook of upcoming programs, I see several items of more than passing interest. For just a fast rundown of things you might not like to miss, try the "Ronnie Bartley Re-

Garden Club Meeting Set One Week Early

The Redstone Arsenal Officers Wives Garden Club is meeting a week early in November to avoid conflict with the Thanksgiving Holiday.

The Group will meet at 7:45 p.m. at the Squirrel Hill Officers Club on Tuesday, Nov. 13.

Mrs. T. G. Neilson will demonstrate how to make Christmas wreaths. Members have been asked to bring wreath forms which may be purchased for a nominal sum at local florists and magnolia leaves, either dried or green. Hickory nuts, gum balls or whatever the individual prefers.

Cotton Picker Ball Planned

A Cotton Ball, built around the romance and gaiety of the Old South, will be a highlight of this November's activities at the Redstone Arsenal Officers Open Mess. Scheduled on Nov. 10, the Cotton Ball will feature dining, dancing to the weave of the weevil, and the selection of a Boll Weevil Queen. Door prizes will be given. The November party, under the sponsorship of the Army Missile Support Command, is being directed by Capt. Betty Hoffman, project officer.

The event will begin with a Happy Hour slated from 5:30 until 8:30 p.m. in the Hawk Room, the Redstone Room and the Chey When. A buffet dinner will be served in both the Hawk Room and the main dining room, beginning at 6 p.m.

Cost of the dinner will be $1.50. The menu will feature fried chicken, roast, ham, sweet potatoes, baked potatoes and pumpkin pie.

Dancing will begin at 8:30 p.m. Dress will be cotton pickin' clothes or informal, Capt. Hoffman says.

Salary Reform Tied to Better Manpower Use

Upon signing the Federal Salary Reform Act providing higher pay for 1,600,000 workers, President Kennedy called on Federal employees to produce more and their agencies to make better use of manpower.

If his manpower utilization program is firmly carried out, "tens of thousands of Federal jobs . . . either could be eliminated or would not have to be added to present numbers," the President said.

Calling the pay reform measure "the most comprehensive and significant salary revision in nearly 40 years," the President said it should help to reduce turnover, attract more capable people into Federal service, improve employee morale, and thereby make an important contribution to increased productivity.

Civil Service Commission Chairman John W. Macy, Jr., emphasized that the new law "is not just another pay raise, but rather a reform measure, long overdue which will have immediate and long lasting impact on Government administration and programs."

As a first step in achieving comparability between Federal and private-enterprise salaries, the new law provides an average increase of slightly more than 11 percent for postal employees and about 10 percent for persons under the other three major pay systems. The adjustment is provided in two steps, the first effective in October 1962 and the second on January 1, 1964.

The reform measure is based on two principles — comparability of Federal salaries with those of private enterprise for the same level of work, and internal alignment of salaries to provide equal pay for equal work and pay distinctions in keeping with distinctions in job responsibility and performance. The salary levels of the four major statutory pay plans—the Classifications Act, the Postal Field Service Compensation Plan, the Foreign Service Act, and the Medical-Dental-Nursing Salary System in the Veterans Administration—are to be interrelated.

Other key features of the law include:

- Annual review by the President of findings made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics survey. From these findings, the President will recommend action to Congress for keeping Federal pay comparable with industry.

- Minimum 2-rate increase for persons promoted from one grade to another.

- Elimination of "longevity steps" and creation of 10 within-grade rates from GS-1 through 10, 9 rates for GS-11 through 14, 8 rates for GS-15, and five rates for GS-16 and 17.

- Standardization of waiting time between in-grade rate increases for all grades: 1 year in each of first 3 rates, 2 years in each of next 3 rates, 3 years each in remainder.

- Requirement that employees work be up to an acceptable level of competence to receive within-grade rate increases.

- Authorization of "merit" rate increases, maximum of 1 per year, for excellence.

- Provision for higher pay for shortage-category employees.

Post Library

By Jean L. Hoffman

A timely new title is Eugene Burdick's "Fail Safe," a suspense story with a thermonuclear scare-head. Now appearing in the Saturday Evening Post, it is slated to be the November Book-of-the-Month selection.

For men only we recommend Outdoor Life's "Complete Book of Hunting," by Clyde Ormond, which includes a hunter's field guide to waterfowl and upland birds as well as "The Hussy's Handbook," an old book new to Post Library. Written by Helen Brown Norden it is a "Baedeker to the Boys."

"Spy in the U.S." by Pawel Morat is the factual account of a former Communist agent's ability to elude the FBI and to use innocent American citizens to gather information in New York, Washington, Baltimore, Chicago, New Orleans, of tremendous value to his country. Due to security reasons, the book was withheld from publication for more than a year after he defected from the Communist camp.

Women will delight in two new Sunset books entitled, "The Art of Flower Preservation," and "How to Grow African Violets."

An up-to-date edition of Dorothy Draper's "Decorating Is Fun" includes the following statement in the Preface: "As long as you value courage and imagination and a zest for living, today's decorating is for you, and it really is the best fun in the world!"

"Griffin's Way," is Frank Yerby at his best—in a story told against the background of a land torn with conflict in the days following the Civil War when the Glu Klux Klan planted fiery crosses on every hill, and terror reigned.

"Charles," a biographical novel by Victoria Lincoln gives evidence of her fascination for Charles Dickens over a period of years. Dickens through Victoria Lincoln's eyes were unmistakably a genius, though often thoughtless and petty. Seen beneath the dazzling light of his literary successes, Dickens had a tragic personal life.

Number two on the best-seller list is "Seven Days in May," by the team of Knebel-Bailey (on order). According to their exposes, the Pentagon is a den of hideous monsters. Like Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, they have portrayed big-time politics in Washington, each author trying to out-do the other in incredible tales.

Other titles added by Chief Librarian Anna Lee Farrar are: "Foreign Affairs and You," (Berding); "The Promises Men Live By," (Scherman); "Creative Money Management for the Executive," (Unterman); "Conservation in the United States," (Highsmith); "On the Tiger's Back," (Ajao); "Economy in the National Government," (Douglas); "The Secret War," (Gramont); "100 Million Lives," (Fryklund); "Field Book of Nature Activities and Conservation," (Hillcourt); "Sea Shells of the World," (Abbott);

"Return to the Wild," (Carr); "Transistor Circuit Handbook," (Garner); "Radiation Uses in Industry and Science," (Brownell); "Aeronautics and Astronautics," (U. S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration); "Comic Art in America," (Becker); "The Mathematical Magpie," (Fadiman); "The Brereton Diaries; the War in the Air in the Pacific," (Brereton); "The Incredible Tale (Gerald Johnson); "The Land of Beginning Again," by Julien Hyer.

With the impending world crises one is reminded of Arthur Schlesinger's article in Saturday Review (July 14, 1962), "The One Against the Many," in which he stated "after half a century of total intellectual control—after half a century of formidable construction and growth—the Soviet Union is still afraid to expose Communist ideas to competition and challenge."

United Givers Fund Drive Is Near End

Redstone Arsenal's annual United Givers Fund received a boost this week when the Procurement and Production Directorate chalked up 100 per cent participation within the directorate.

This report was made too late to be reflected in this week's box score.

Officials expressed satisfaction with the campaign, which will end on Nov. 2. Generally donations continue to be encouraging, they said.

Executive UGF Chairman H. R. Lowers pointed out that the Procurement and Production Directorate is to be highly commended. "This week," he said, "the Procurement and Production Directorate was the first large organizational segment, except Rohm & Haas, to go over the top with 100 per cent fair share. Considering all aspects of our drive this year, this is a tremendous achievement."

Contributions have reached a fifth week total of 79 per cent pledged of the Fair Share potential for those organizations reporting. A total of 87 per cent of the military, civilian and contractor personnel are participating in this year's campaign.

Contributions collected at the four-week point totaled $116,625.35. Not all pledges were paid during the third week of the campaign. This year's Fair Share Goal is 80 per cent of one day's pay for employees at Redstone Arsenal.

ALLEN PRESENTS PAPER

Henry C. Allen, a chemist in the Propulsion Laboratory of the Research and Development Directorate recently presented a paper at the Joint Army-Navy-Air Force Conference on Elastomer Research and Development in San Francisco. The conference was classified, with attendance by invitation only. Title of Allen's paper was "Crystallinity in Solid Propellant Binders."

Federal agencies forecast over the next five years at 27 percent retirement rate for 11,490 positions identified as targets for their executive development programs.

Three Honored At Retirement

Three men were honored at a Retirement Parade and Review last Friday at Redstone Arsenal.

Brig. Gen. H. P. Persons was the reviewing officer. The first parade at which he officiated at Redstone Arsenal is also the last parade scheduled for 1962.

The three men honored during retirement ceremonies after more than 20 years of active Army service are Lt. Col. Len J. Garrett, Capt. Vincent G. Donlon and SFC Russell Pullen.

In keeping with tradition at the last parade of the year here, the troop commanders and staff were sergeants.

Sergeant Major Samuel Sumner was the commander of troops with M/Sgt. Edgar R. Slayton, M/Sgt.

Roland Martin and SFC Arthur Parrow completing the staff.

On the reviewing stand with Gen. Persons were Col. F. L. Furphy, Army Missile Command; Col. T. W. Cooke, Army Missile Support Command; Col. William Macpherson, Army Ordnance Guided Missile School; and Lt. Col. Hans Finck, German Air Force. The German troops led the parade, following the 55th Army Band.

Modern Soldier Is Educated Man

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The men of the modern United States Army have achieved the highest level of education and professional competence in the Army's 187 year history.

The years since the Korean War have been highlighted by modernization of the Army's weapons and equipment. The way in which Army manpower has kept pace with the resultant complexity is best illustrated by the achievement of higher levels of education. In FY 1952, for example, 34.1 per cent of Army enlisted men were high school graduates but by FY 1962 this total had increased to 59.0 per cent. These figures compare very favorably to the national level of 26.3 per cent.

During the same period the level of college graduates among Army officers rose from 45.8 per cent to 50.2 per cent, far above the national total of 4.5 per cent. Almost twenty per cent of all Army officers have completed graduate study, again exceeding the nation-wide total of 2.3 per cent.

These statistics reflect a variety of causes, the primary ones being the increased attractiveness of an Army career to higher caliber personnel and the efforts of both enlisted men and officers to improve themselves. During FY 1962 more than 12,000 Army personnel studied on their own time to complete high school credits. At the same time over 27,000 enlisted men and officers studied at the college level. Their efforts resulted in the award of 547 bachelor's degrees and 232 graduate degrees during the year.

Today's soldier is rewarded for excellence in his military specialty with proficiency pay and by increased opportunities for advancement. The Army's own school system produces highly trained specialists in subjects ranging from armored vehicles to Nike Zeus missiles but many soldiers are not content to end their training with graduation. In FY 1962 almost 47,000 soldiers participated in off-duty training aimed at supplementing Army schools and increasing their proficiency.

Competence with modern weapons is not gained overnight and can best be maintained by professional soldiers. Before the Berlin crisis of 1961 the Active Army had reached a level of 83 per cent Regular personnel. Now that the Reserve and National Guard units have been released this percentage has returned to about the same level.

Increased career attractiveness has also resulted in growing numbers of volunteer enlistments. In 1958 the Army enlisted 78,268 men and women but by 1962 this yearly total had increased to 127,068. In 1962 the number of Regulars (52.8 per cent of these eligible) who reenlisted in the Army was above the overall Department of Defense average.

The ideal Active Army would be composed entirely of highly trained Regulars who habitually reenlist whenever they are eligible. The Army school system can provide the high state of training. Given further increases in career incentives the Army will continue to move toward the ideal.

CAB AND AIRLINES OFFICIALS TOUR

Civil Aeronautics Board officials and representatives of a number of civilian airlines personnel visited Redstone Arsenal last week following a CAB hearing in Huntsville.

The visit to Redstone Arsenal was jointly coordinated through the Army Missile Command and the Marshall Space Flight Center. Officials of both units participated in the tour.

Col. Thomas W. Cooke, Commander of the Army Missile Support Command, welcomed the group to Army facilities and presented the film, "This is Redstone Arsenal." Dr. Werner von Braun served as welcoming official for NASA.

The tour of Redstone Arsenal followed a hearing at which Maj. Gen. Francis J. McMorrow, Commanding General, Army Missile Command, and Col. Earl F. Otto, Post Transportation Officer, testified on behalf of the Defense Traffic Management Service.

Testifying on behalf of the Marshall Space Flight Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration were Dr. von Braun and William Morrow.

Serving as official examiner for the CAB was Merritt Ruhlen. Other officials included Clement T. Mayo, general counsel for the Defense Traffic Management Service and Carl F. Paul, Jr., general counsel for NASA.

The board is considering Delta's application for jet flights from Huntsville to the Pacific coast. If the CAB rules favorably, it is tentatively planned for the jets to utilize the airstrip on the arsenal, as the Huntsville-Madison County Airport cannot accommodate them at present.

New Ala. History Now on Market

ALABAMA MOUNDS TO MISSILES is a new illustrated history of the state. The book covers the major events in Alabama's past and uses more than 100 illustrations and photographs as well as text. The authors of ALABAMA MOUNDS TO MISSILES state that their goal is an "absorbing as well as new approach" to Alabama history.

Helen Morgan Akens of Huntsville and Virginia Pounds Brown of Birmingham are the book's authors. Illustrator is Madison, Alabama, artist Don Davis. Introduction is by Dr. Charles Grayson Summersell of the University of Alabama. Dr. Summersell, head of the university's department of history, reviewed the work in progress and calls the finished product "a fine achievement" and "extremely interesting and well written."

In gathering material for the book the authors and their representatives interviewed thousands of people and traveled throughout the state. Authentic accounts were selected after a review of the most important books and source material about Alabama. More than 200 events were considered and 900 photographs and illustrations reviewed before the final selections were made. First-hand reports from specialists ranged from David L. DeJarnette at Mound State Monument to Dr. Werner von Braun at the state's rocket center.

The Strode Publishers of Huntsville began distribution of the $4.95 history October 15.

Under the Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance program, employees who retire on an immediate annuity either for disability or after 12 years' Federal service receive life insurance coverage free into retirement, but not accidental death and dismemberment protection.

The Civil Service Commission and 10 Federal agencies are cooperating in a project to forecast Government's manpower needs in shortage-category occupations. Agencies taking part include Agriculture, Commerce, Air Force, Army, Navy, HEW, Interior, FFA, NASA, and VA.

Engineering Services Contract Given Sperry

An award of $9,001,357 to the Sperry Rand Corporation for continuation of engineering services on the Sergeant missile system was awarded last week.

Work will be performed by the Sperry Utah Company, a Division of Sperry Rand, at its Salt Lake City, Utah, plant.

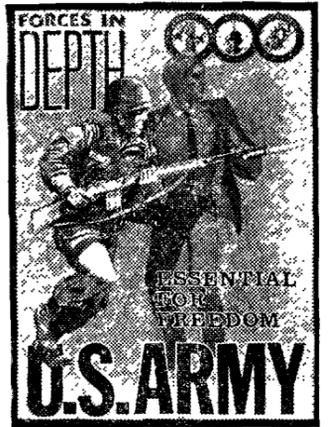

Sergeant, a solid fuel ballistic missile, is designed to replace the Army's operational Corporal.

The Sergeant program is under the project management of the Army Missile Command.

The Los Angeles Ordnance District will administer the contract.

MANPOWER NEEDS

The Civil Service Commission and 10 Federal agencies are cooperating in a project to forecast Government's manpower needs in shortage-category occupations. Agencies taking part include Agriculture, Commerce, Air Force, Army, Navy, HEW, Interior, FFA, NASA, and VA.

"U. S. ARMY — FORCES IN DEPTH." This poster, the second in the FY 1963 series, is being displayed on U. S. Post Office trucks throughout the month of October. Featuring the Army's Reserve Components, it pays tribute to their past accomplishments and their ability to maintain their combat readiness now and in the future.
