ELLIOTT HEARS R&D RESEARCH STORY

Redeye Given New Status

The office of Project Manager for the Redeye Air Defense Guided Missile System is being established at the U. S. Army Missile Command, the Army Materiel Command in Washington announced today.

The change from the Redeye's present status as a Commodity Office to the Project Manager concept will become effective Apr. 1.

E. K. Charlton, a native of Nashville, Tenn., who was acting Commodity Manager, has been named acting Project Manager.

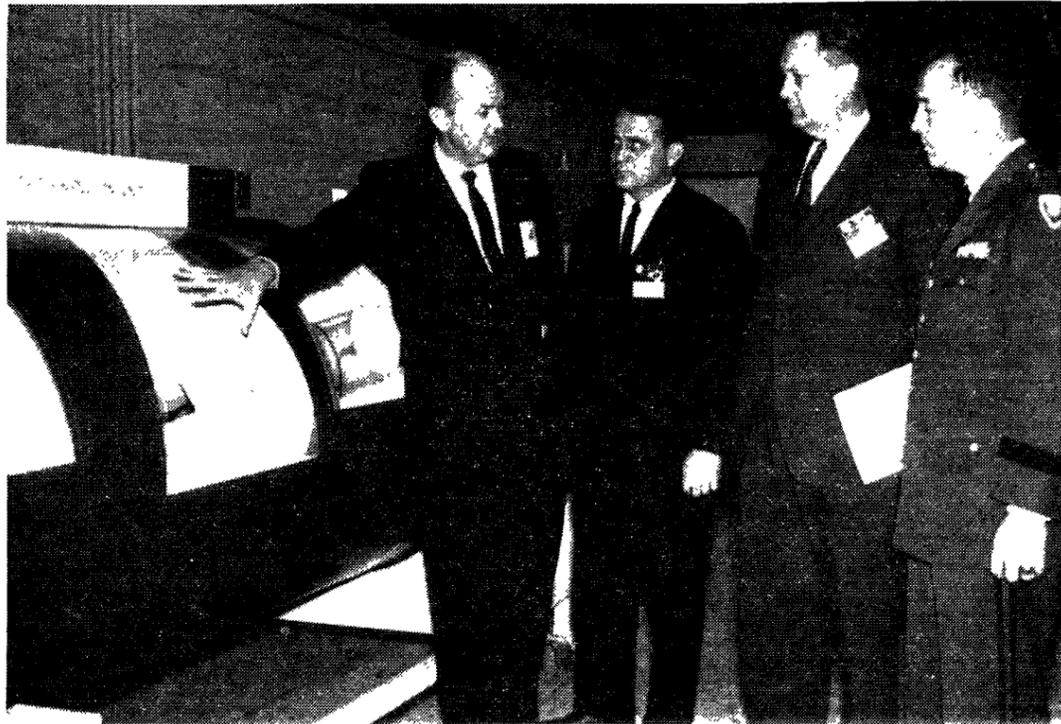

Redeye thus joins six other project managed systems under control of the Army Missile Command. General Dynamics of Pomona, Calif., is the prime contractor.

Under development as a man-portable, shoulder-fired weapon to provide combat troops with the capability of destroying low-flying aircraft, the Redeye System is expected to go into production in the near future.

As evidence of the Army's interest in this new system, which will provide troops with "close-in" support, only weapon systems of prime importance are put under project management.

This includes such criteria as: mission criticality of the weapon system to the defense of the United States, urgency of getting the weapon into the hands of using troops on an expedited basis, interest in the weapon (by Congress, Secretary of Defense, Secretary of the Army, Chief of Staff, etc.), and high dollar unit or total cost of the weapon.

The Project Manager is delegated full authority and is responsible for all development and planning of his program. This includes all phases of research, development, procurement, production, distribution and logistical support to provide a balanced, economical and effective system.

Scientists Show Work Progress

Before beginning his day-long series of hearings and demonstrations the Representative — accompanied by Rep. Pat M. Martin (R-Calif.) and several staff members

Well Done!

At the conclusion of his hearing here Monday afternoon, Congressman Carl Elliott told me he had been impressed and pleased by the Missile Command presentation made to his select committee investigating government research.

I would like to give my personal well done to all of you who had a part in this fine program for our congressional visitors.

—told officials and news reporters why his Select Committee was interested in the expenditure of research and development funds.

They account for a major portion of the government budget. For example, Congressman Elliott said, government research and development programs this year will cost the taxpayer $15 billion—or 15 cents out of every tax dollar.

This sum is greater than the annual budget of every government department with the exception of the Department of Defense. It's seven times as much as is spent in conducting foreign policy included. (See CONGRESSMAN on Page 2)

Cadet Appler To Tell Area About 'Point'

Cadet Donald E. Appler of the U. S. Military Academy will be in Huntsville March 17-18-19, to confer with young men and their parents about requirements for gaining admission to West Point, it was announced today.

Cadet Appler, a 1961 graduate of Huntsville High School who is now in his third year at West Point, will meet with all interested parties in the Huntsville High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday March 17.

Prospective applicants and their parents from all city and county high schools and from the various (See CADET APPLER on Page 3)

2 Pershings Fired From Fort Wingate

The Army Monday successfully fired two Pershing ballistic missiles from Fort Wingate, N. M., to impact points within the sprawling White Sands Missile Range, N. M.

First firing came early Monday morning with the second being launched at midafternoon. Soldiers from the 1st Missile Battalion, 81st Artillery, handled the firings under near-tactical conditions as (See PERSHING on Page 3)

SPACE CRAFT AWARDED LANCE CONTRACT

A Huntsville small business firm, Space Craft, Inc., has received a contract funding work to be done in connection with the Army's new Lance ballistic missile system.

Space Craft, working as a subcontractor to Ling-Temco-Vought's Michigan Division, received a contract for $52,690.87, for telemetry calibrators and $43,550 for relay switching units.

The items called for in the contract will be a part of the Lance system, currently under priority development by the Army Missile Command.

Executive Committee Gains Insight Into Joint Fund

Members of the Executive Committee for the 1964 Joint Fund drive on the Arsenal gained a deeper insight into the workings of the National Health Agencies Monday when they met with an official of the Alabama Coordinating Committee for the six national organizations.

Mrs. Frances Balthrop, of Birmingham, Executive Secretary for the state committee, came here to discuss the preliminary plans for the upcoming drive in support of the National Health Agencies and the Joint Crusade.

She was accompanied to Redstone by Mrs. Virginia Wrigley, also of Birmingham, who is chairman of the Heart Association for Alabama. They met with Col. Henry Katz, Chief of Staff for the Missile Command, and Stanley Wilkins, installation coordinator for fund raising campaigns, in addition to the committee members who will direct the 1964 campaign.

Gustavus Brown has been named chairman of the campaign for the third consecutive year, Abner McNaron is the executive secretary and Merlin Berg has been designated finance and reports chairman.

The Joint Fund Drive will be conducted over a four-week period starting Mar. 16. The campaign has been reduced to four weeks this year after having been conducted for six weeks in recent years.

The visiting officials gave a detailed presentation of the mission and aims of the health agencies represented in the drive. They also expressed the gratitude of each of the national organizations for the response of Arsenal personnel in previous years.

Col. Katz told the visitors that the Arsenal is pointing toward the objective of 100 per cent participation in the campaign. He optimistically stated that, "We are going to turn in the finest report ever this year."

Brown announced that final plans for the drive had been developed and that the vice-chairman for each organizational component had been designated.

He added that the vice-chairman would administer the campaign (See JOINT FUND on Page 3)

Rocket Ruminations

"Of all the griefs that harrass the distrest, Sure the most bitter is scornful jest."
—Samuel Johnson

Fatal Lesson

Last Wednesday's accident on Redstone Arsenal resulted in the death of a young lady employed here who had every reason to think that not more than a third of her life had been lived.

It was a tragedy we all regret and it should serve as a pointer for the necessity of more individual driving safety consciousness for each of us.

The facts and common sense tell us the story. Thousands of us drive many miles to and from our work each day. We are always in a hurry and fighting traffic. Regardless of how effective our safety campaigns are planned and executed, they can be no better than we individual drivers make them.

Each of us should resolve to review the rules of the road in general and our Redstone Arsenal traffic regulations in particular. Constant vigilance is the only way tragedies like last week's accident can be avoided.

Citizenship Is Yours—Will You Care For It?

A man from a foreign country torn by tyranny came to the United States to work and build a home—to become an American citizen.

Ten years later, he made a trip to Washington. The first morning he walked from the White House down Constitution Avenue to the Capitol. At the entrance to the Capitol he asked the police officer on guard very timidly, "Is one permitted to enter the Capitol and look around?"

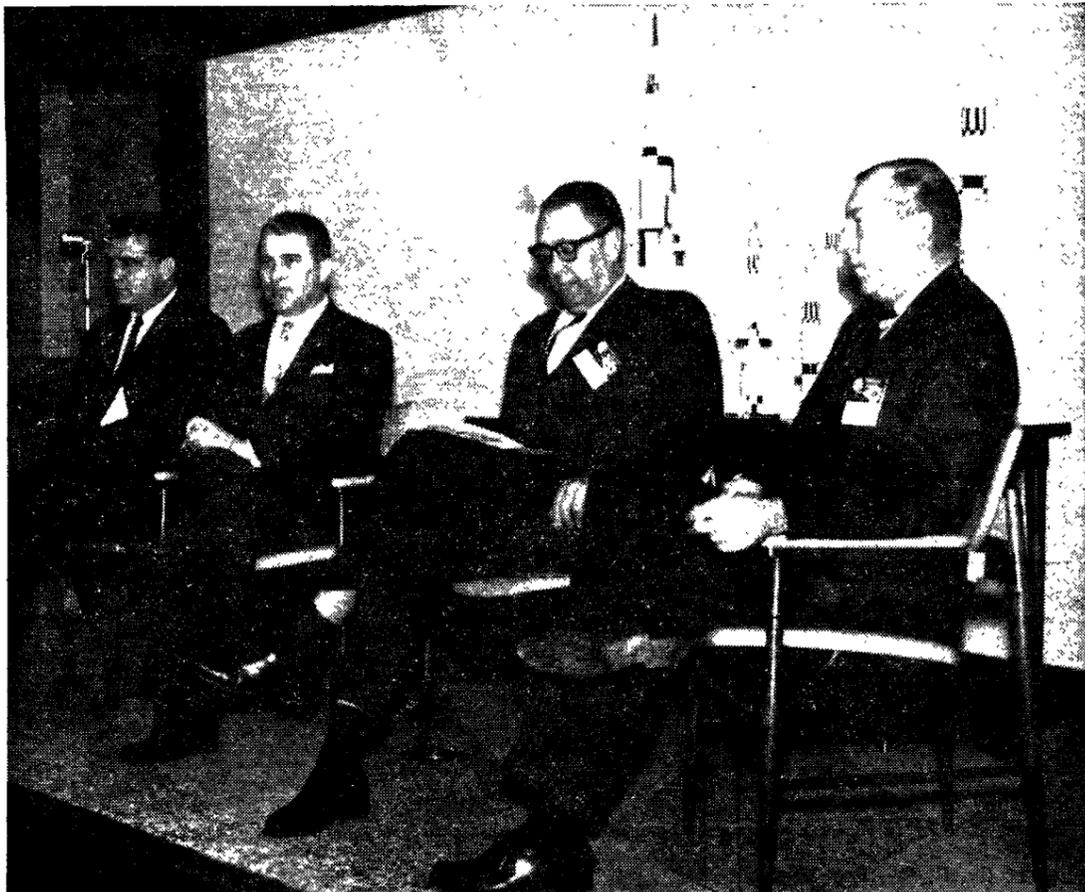

The policeman's answer, short and to the point, is one of his fondest memories. "Hell, yes!" he said. "Walk right in. Don't you know it's yours?"

This was a man who had lived on both sides of the fence—a man time and again surprised that the freedoms Americans enjoy actually do exist. It's a good bet, too, that this man does not take his freedom and his citizenship lightly. It's "his" and he'll take care of it.

But how many Americans do we hear and see daily who treat their citizenship as if it were a glass of warm water? Citizenship demands certain responsibilities—things that call for our time and effort, not daily indifference.

First of all, good citizenship calls for a knowledge of our heritage and institutions—an awareness that the freedoms we enjoy actually DO exist. It calls for a vote on election day, pride and work in civic affairs, support of schools and churches and synagogues, brotherhood, proper observance of patriotic holidays, care and concern for public facilities and, when the time comes, proud service in the Armed Forces.

"A nation of individuals willing to face their responsibilities and aware of their civic, religious and community duties," wrote J. Edgar Hoover, "will make for a nation living together in decency, honor and mutual respect."

ing foreign aid, three times as much as is spent on veterans benefits and services and three times as much as goes to all agricultural programs, the Democratic Congressman said.

During the hearings the committee members heard from Maj. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commanding General of the Army Missile Command, and other Missile Command personnel directly involved with Army research and development at Redstone, including Col. Daniel F. Shepherd, Director of Research and Development.

He also heard from Lt. Col. James C. Miller, Jr., Chief of the Future Missile System Division of the Directorate of R&D, and John L. McDaniel, Technical Director for R&D.

At a series of morning hearings the Committee members discussed space research and development with Dr. Wernher von Braun and his staff from the Marshall Space Flight Center.

Demonstrations during the day included a tour of the Marshall Center's Saturn fabrication facilities. The committee members also saw captive firing tests of two Nike Hercules solid propellant motors the Army had been aging for several years to determine the effect on their performance.

The hearings began with a discussion of the Marshall Center's R&D program by Dr. von Braun. Later the committee members heard from other Marshall officials including W. R. Kuers, Director of the Manufacturing Engineering Laboratory and Dr. Walter Hausermann, Director of the Astrionics Laboratory.

A motorcade tour was also conducted through the Saturn I and Saturn V test areas.

Rep. Elliott's group also heard from Dr. Frank A. Rose, President of the University of Alabama. Dr.

Rose told the group that the University Center at Huntsville will provide instruction to more than 2,000 persons this year, a large part of this instruction being in the scientific and engineering fields for Redstone Arsenal personnel.

The committee members also heard from Dr. Rudolph Hermann, Director of the University of Alabama Research Institute.

At the conclusion of the hearings the investigating group visited the University Center as well as firms which had built plants in the Huntsville area to do missile and space research.

During a Monday morning news conference Rep. Martin told newsmen the Committee "was not against anything." He added "We're interested in seeing that we get a dollar's worth of goods for a dollar spent."

Meeting his colleagues in Huntsville was Rep. Bob Jones (D-Ala.) who said "a fine spirit of cooperation existed between the government agencies" at Redstone.

Rep. Elliott said his committee was also investigating R&D funds spent by the Department of Defense, Department of Commerce, Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Department of Agriculture.

The missile fired by the soldiers was developed by the Army Missile Command's Pershing Project Office. Col. Edwin I. Donley is Pershing Project Manager.

Primary purpose of the firings, under the overall cognizance of the Continental Army Command at Fort Monroe, Va., and conducted by elements of the Army Artillery and Guided Missile Center, Ft. Sill, Okla., is to develop and maintain troop proficiency with the Pershing system.

The highly mobile Pershing is a two-stage, inertially guided missile capable of carrying a nuclear warhead within a range spanning 100-400 nautical miles.

Two of our 50 states believe an individual has matured enough to vote at age 18: Georgia and Kentucky.

First time voters wait another year to vote in Alaska.

The rest of the United States consider 21 the year of maturity.

Natives of Guam can participate in election of members to the legislature, the district and assistant district commissioners at age 18 and registration for absentee ballots is part of voting procedure.

Only Armed Forces Personnel and Civilians attached to the Armed Forces can vote by absentee ballot in the Virgin Islands, but voters do not participate in national elections. In Puerto Rico there is no absentee ballot. Since 21 is the minimum age, some Puerto Ricans are 24 before they vote.

Registration occurs every four years.

Qualifications for voting differ from State to State. For instance in Alabama a voter must be 21 on the date of the election, must have resided in the State a year, in the county six months and in the voting precinct 3 months. He also must be able to read and write the U. S. Constitution in English; be of good character; be a good citizen; be registered; pay $1.50 poll tax unless he is over 45, blind, deaf, or served in World War I, WWII or was in service before January 1955 in the Korean conflict. Registration is permanent and is done in person. Armed forces personnel and their wives, veterans in Veterans Administration Hospitals, persons confined to bed at home or in a hospital supplying a doctor's affidavit may all apply for an absentee ballot.

Other Alabamians whose names are on the Board of Registrar's list before March 1 can vote an absentee ballot by going in person to the County Registrar's office between 20 and 5 days before an election. Deadline for acceptance of the ballot is the day of election.

At the opposite end of requirements for voting is Alaska. Individuals who reach their 19th birthday on election day, who live in the State one year and spend 30 days in the election district, and who can read or speak English are eligible to vote. Deadline for the Alaskan ballot is a postmark by election day. Not only that, anyone physically disabled or unable to go to the polls because of inaccessibility of the polls can vote an absentee ballot.

Deadlines of states accepting absentee ballots vary in hour of acceptance. Those with deadlines on the day of election are: Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Delaware, District of Columbia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Those requiring absentee ballots on the day before the election are California, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and New Mexico.

Idaho makes an exception for Armed Forces, merchant marine, federal employees outside the U.S. and civilians attached to the Armed Forces by accepting absentee ballots until the polls close on election day. The State requires that the voted ballot must be returned by registered or certified mail.

In Louisiana the ballots must reach the issuing official in time for delivery to the Commissioner of Elections on election day and in Maine the military, merchant marine and federal employees have two more hours grace than others. Their ballots are accepted until 5 p.m. on election day whereas the others must have theirs in by 3 p.m. in municipalities with more than one election district.

In Missouri, ballots are counted until 6 p.m. on the day after election day. Nebraska accepts ballots until 10 a.m. on Thursday after election day as long as the postmark is before midnight of the day before election.

New Mexico requires absentee ballots to reach the Secretary of State in time to be forwarded to county clerks by noon of the day before election.

New York requires the Armed Forces and their families to have their ballots in by noon the day before election and others by 5 p.m. on the Friday before election.

North Carolina's deadline is noon on Saturday preceding the election. In Oklahoma the votes must be in on Friday preceding Tuesday's election; and to be counted in Pennsylvania it must be postmarked no later than election day and reach the County Board of Elections by 10 a.m. on the second Friday following the election.

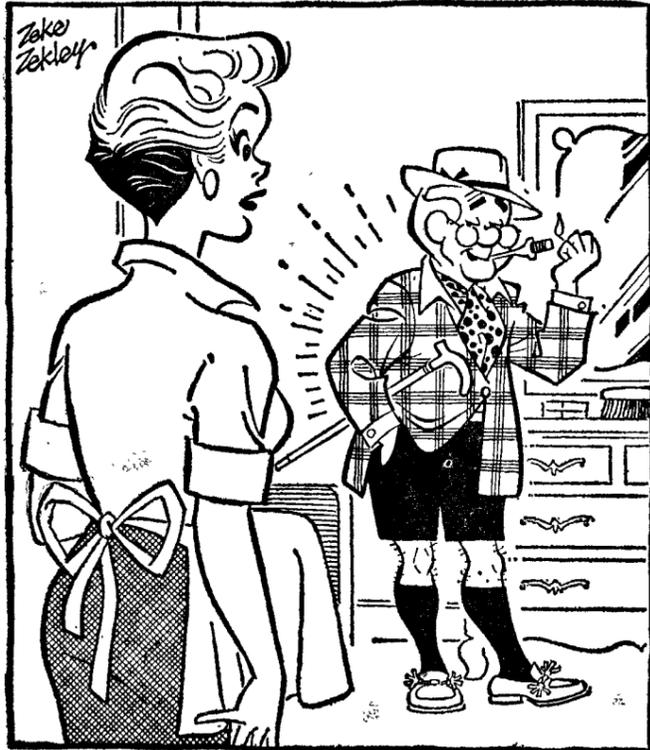

Washington sets an election day postmark which must reach election officials no later than 10 days after a primary or 15 days after a general election.

British Accent Is Familiar To Redstone Tower

You can imagine what the reaction of control tower operators across the country is when a voice, unmistakably British, gives the call sign of a U. S. Army plane and requests landing instructions.

Their first thought, naturally, is that a practical joker is having a bit of fun.

"And they usually come right back at me—imitating a British accent!" says Squadron Leader Alexander (Sandy) Cobban.

But Squadron Leader Cobban is no practical joker. He is a Royal Air Force Officer, the equivalent of a major, who is assigned to the Mauler Project Office of the Army Missile Command.

With his present assignment, Sandy—as he prefers to be called—doesn't get to "fly as much as I would like" but he still manages to make frequent trips with pilots of the Redstone Arsenal Aviation Branch.

"Just enough, really, to get in required flight time and to keep from getting too rusty," he says.

Ironically, although he flew jets and high speed aircraft in his homeland, Cobban is not yet checked out in Army planes such as the L-23 and the Otter. Consequently, he serves as co-pilot on his jaunts here although he expects to complete check out in the near future.

Trained as a jet pilot in England, Cobban flew the "Swift" FR-5, a fighter reconnaissance type aircraft, on high speed, low level missions with the 2nd Tactical Air Force in Germany from 1956 to 1960. He competed twice in Royal Flush, a NATO reconnaissance competition, winning once.

His love for flying however, is far removed from his boyhood ambitions.

Born near Liverpool in 1932, Sandy attended Epsom school, near London, where he planned to become a doctor, following in his father's footsteps. But he gave up the idea after leaving school and took up farming, specializing in sheep and dairy farming.

After a couple of years, however, Cobban returned to school where he got an agricultural degree from the University of Wales.

At this point, fate stepped in and took Sandy from his first love—farming—to his second love—flying. He was drafted!

Deciding he wanted to get his feet off the ground, Sandy underwent pilot training from 1953 to 1955. From this point, until 1960, he was based with the tactical reconnaissance squadron in Germany.

He was "grounded" in 1961, he explained, because "we have two flying tours and then we must serve a tour of ground duty." This, incidentally, was the beginning of his missile experience.

Assigned as a squadron commander in East Anglia (East England), he commanded a "Bloodhound" surface-to-air missile squadron "which is much the same as your Nike group."

It was probably because of this experience, Cobban thinks, that he was sent to the United States in April, 1963, where he was integrated into the Requirements and Analysis Division of the Mauler Project Office.

He was assigned here under a NATO Standardization Agreement—or quadripartite agreement—which is a working pact among the countries of Britain, Canada, Australia and the United States. His work, in every respect, is identical to that of an American officer.

Sandy, while quickly admitting that he, his wife and two children are thoroughly enjoying their tour here (which should last about 2½ years), recognizes "there are a few differences!"

"The cost of living here is much higher," he grins, "although living conditions are much more comfortable—such things as central heating and air conditioning. We also like the climate here tremendously. In England, you know, the weather is so unpredictable you don't know what it will be like from one day to the next."

Another difference, he says, is public transportation.

"It is easier to get around in England," he pointed out, "even in the small towns because we have more public transportation. And we have more sidewalks over there for people who like to get out and walk."

Command, Cobban makes frequent flights with pilots of the Aviation Branch "to keep up my flight time and to keep from getting too rusty." Sandy was trained as a jet pilot in England.

Sandy, who has flown over most of the United States, says one of his most interesting experiences here came last year when he spent a week in South Carolina, where he watched Army and Air Force maneuvers in operation "Swift Strike 3."

"It was very impressive," he praised.

Another unusual outing, he recalls, came when he was playing golf on a small course near Death Valley and a tremendous dust storm blew up.

"It was so furious—and blinding," he said, "that I got lost on about the sixth hole and I had a heck of a time finding my way back to the clubhouse."

Sandy, his wife Margaret, daughter Sarah and son Simon, have made many friends here.

"Sarah, a fourth grader, already has a southern accent," Sandy laughs. "And you know something, I find that I can no longer recognize an American accent. I can quickly spot a British accent though," he said.

What does he think of the Beatles?

"I haven't even seen them," was the answer.

Swishers Fell Rockets

Coming from behind late in the second half, the Huntsville Swishers won over the Redstone Rockets, 106-91, in an excellent display of speed and ball handling. Jim Campbell and John Lee led the way for the Swishers when they netted 24 and 23 points respectively.

With an eleven point deficit at the half, the Rockets came storming back to tie the game, only to lose it in the final minutes. Frank McMillian was high for the Rockets with 27 points, followed by George Weidemann with 18 and Jim Baker with 12.

In their debut for this season, under the coaching of Lt. Watkins, the Rockets showed a strong competitive spirit.

Cop Unit Level Title

Getting off to an early lead in the first half and maintaining the lead throughout the remainder of the game, Headquarters AMSC handed B Co. STC a 71-59 defeat, thereby winning the RSA Unit Level Basketball Title.

George Weidemann, Jim Baker, and Melvin Anderson were the main threat for AMSC, pouring in a total of 54 points amongst them, while Willis Kilpatrick and Keith Robson supplied the bulk of the opposition for B Company, scoring 20 and 12 points respectively.

The Redstone Rockets will play host to Huntsville Brick and Tile on March 4, at the post gymnasium at 7 p.m. All are welcome to attend the game.

Little Leaguers To Register

Redstone Arsenal's Sports committee is planning the junior baseball season for 1964.

Registration of military dependents will be Saturday, Mar. 7 at 1 p.m. on Field three at the corner of Goss and Hughes. Dependents in Redstone Park will be registered at the Park athletic field.

Age limits are between the eighth birthday Mar. 7 and the 18th by Sept. 1.

The Sports Committee is aiming at a six team league of Little Leaguers, (8-12 years old); two colt and pony league teams, possibly three.

Additional volunteers will be needed to serve as managers, coaches and officials. S/Sgt. Lenz is handling the details. His phone number is 877-3865.

Boy Scouts Commend R. S. Miner

R. S. Miner, of the Shakedown Control Office, Supply and Maintenance Directorate, Army Missile Command, has been commended by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America for his enthusiastic participation and contributions to the recent training seminar at the Arsenal.

Miner, from Norfolk, Va., represents part of the Navy team participating in the Project Shakedown now in progress at the Army Missile Command. Project Shakedown is a coordinated effort of all the military services to specifically reduce the number of items in the Federal Supply System through disclosure of duplications and identification of interchangeable or substitutable items.

Since his assignment here, Miner has been active in all Boy Scout activities and is currently serving on the Commissioner's Staff of the local Tennessee Valley Council of Boy Scouts.

CARL M. HAMMOND

Hammond Named Contract Chief

Carl M. Hammond has been named Contract Negotiator for the Huntsville Plant of Thiokol Chemical Corporation's Alpha Division, in an announcement by J. B. Galloway, Huntsville Plant Manager.

The appointment was effective Mar. 1. Hammond replaces R. G. Moran who transferred to Thiokol's Space Booster Plant to assume the duties of Director of Finance and Administration at the Brunswick, Ga. facility.

In his new position, Hammond will be responsible for all contract negotiations between Thiokol's Huntsville Plant and missile and space system prime contractors, the armed services, and the Atomic Energy Commission. He will negotiate the details of contracts with prospective customers, and monitor all Huntsville Plant contracts from the proposal stage through negotiation of the completed contract.

Hammond has been with the Huntsville Plant since February, 1963, as Assistant Contract Negotiator. He has in excess of eight years experience in the field of procurement and government contract work. Prior to joining Thiokol, he was Contracting Officer and Contract Negotiator in the Procurement and Production Directorate, Headquarters, Mobile Air Materiel Area, Brookley Air Force Base.

He is a graduate of Troy State College with a degree in Business Education.

JETS Chapter Chartered At Councill High

The Councill High School Junior Engineering Technical Society Chapter was presented its national charter last week in a ceremony held before a student assembly.

The Junior Engineering Technical Society, popularly known as JETS, is a national organization in which industry, government, technical associations, and educational institutions work together to encourage and assist scientific programs at the high school level.

H. G. Fields, Councill's principal, accepted the charter from John S. Hinkle, Army Missile Command's Civilian Personnel Office, and Chairman, Madison County Advisory Committee for JETS. Miss Delores Anderson, president of the newly formed organization, presided over the assembly.

In addressing the students, Hinkle said, "The JETS program provides opportunities for those who have aptitudes for mathematical and scientific subjects to better prepare for an engineering or scientific career, and offers many types of scientific experiences, including professional assistance of men actively engaged in scientific fields."

"In addition," he said, "the program should promote and encourage scholarship and proficiency in night from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Friday, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. is designing and helping make costumes.

Sunday, 7 to 9 p.m., is teen-age dramatics night.

Anyone interested in these fields is invited to attend these sessions high school subjects as prerequisites for college engineering courses and should aid the student in the discovery and appraisal of his abilities, aptitudes, and interests."

Melvin Kelly, science teacher, together with faculty members, Howard M. Roper and H. D. Comer, sponsors the JETS Club. Student officers are: Miss Delores Anderson, president; Miss Carol Ann Wilkins, vice-president; Miss Mary Clarke, secretary; Ronnie Conley, treasurer; Miss Linda Porter, reporter.

In addition to Hinkle, members of the local JETS Advisory Committee taking part in the chartering program were: Matthew Weber, Thiokol; James Dowdy, MSFC; Phillip Mason, University of Alabama Huntsville Center; Wally Armstrong, Brown Engineering;

Lemmon McMillan, Huntsville Area Contractors' Association; and Earl Dotson, SPACO, Inc.

At The Service Club

By: Brenda Hanson

Activities at the Service Club during the month of March should reach new heights of gaiety, if the schedule is any criterion and this coming week should be one of the best.

Following the policy, "All work and no play", the Service Club has again conceived a weekly schedule complete with talent, dancing, music and all around fun for those who wish to escape the dullness resultant from that old adage.

Tuesday night, there is a Dance Instruction Class where one may learn the rudiments of any dance from plain waltz to a fancy tango. In case you are an accomplished dancer already, however, you may take advantage of the game room, music room or TV room which are always at your disposal.

Wednesday night, a shuffleboard contest is on the agenda at 8 p.m. Prizes will be given to the winner.

If you are among those who enjoy a good bridge game with all the incumbent of heavy duty thinking, then you best get in the bridge club which meets Thursday at 7:30 p.m. If you would like to learn bridge, instructions will be given. However, if you do not believe yourself capable of competing, you possibly could pick up a few points on the game by kibitzing.

Friday March 6, we will have slides and movies. If you have pictures of places you have visited, share them at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served at 8 p.m.

Saturday, the regular coffee hour will be at 2:30 p.m. Small games, including parchessi, monopoly, sorry, clue, chess and various other games are offered during the evening.

Sunday morning, coffee and donuts will be served at 9 a.m. If you awake in the morning with a bad drudge feeling, force yourself out of the bed, come down for a good cup of coffee and some fresh donuts. Sunday evening, we have a slight revision in the program. The featured event is a card party at 7:30. Prizes will go to the winners. Bridge, hearts or pinochle are on the agenda. Refreshments will be served at 8 p.m.

Monday is game night. We now have two grand prizes. Come try! Who knows, you might be the lucky one.

MISCELLANEOUS:

An event you will not want to miss is the Spring Fashion Show on March 13. "Jeans" will furnish the models and fashions. Buddy Curry will furnish the organ music. Make your plans to attend.

Our schedule is designed to fit the majority of tastes. There is at least one item which particularly interests you, so why not come out and enjoy yourself.

Students See What Goes On In Command

Twenty-six students taking part in the Army Missile Command's cooperative education program last week saw a variety of test equipment used in developing missile systems.

The group visited three research and development laboratories during the first tour of the year for students who work at the Missile Command on alternating school terms.

Included in the group's orientation were the Ground support Equipment Laboratory, the Electromagnetics Laboratory, and the Inertial Guidance and Control Laboratory, and other facilities.

Under the Cooperative Education Program, students alternate attendance at school with periods of employment, until entering the

General Dynamics Receives Funds For Mauler Study

Award of $1,000,000 went to General Dynamics Corp, Pomona, Calif., for feasibility validation of the Mauler Missile System.

The Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal has overall responsibility for development of the Mauler System with Col. B. R. Luczak as Project Manager. General Dynamics of Pomona is the prime contractor.

Work on the contract will be performed at the Pomona facility of General Dynamics Corp. The cost plus fixed fee contract will be administered for the Army by the Los Angeles Procurement District.

Mauler is being developed as a compact, highly mobile weapon which will use solid-fuel, radar-guided missiles to destroy short-range tactical missiles and rockets and high performance tactical aircraft that bomb, strafe, harass or reconnoiter near forward battle area positions.

The program is administered by the Missile Support Command's

Civilian Personnel Office through the Training and Development Division.

General Dynamics To Do Work On Redeye Missile

The Army last week announced the awarding of a $1,475,000 contract to General Dynamics, Pomona, Calif., for continued research and development of the Redeye surface-to-air guided missile. The Redeye is managed by the Army Missile Command with E. K. Charlton as Acting Commodity Manager. General Dynamics, Pomona, is the prime contractor. The Los Angeles Procurement District will administer the contract for the Army.

The Redeye Missile System is designed as a man-portable, shoulder fired weapon to provide combat troops with the capability of destroying low flying aircraft.

GEORGE KARABATSOS

Jaycees At Tooele Honor Karabatsos

A member of the Sergeant team at Tooele, Utah has been awarded the 1963 "Distinguished Service Award" by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He is George Karabatsos who was selected for his work with youth groups and athletic tournaments.

Karabatsos is first vice president of the Tooele Jaycees.

He was born in Tooele and went through school there, later attending the University of Utah.

He has been on the Missile Command payroll, stationed in his hometown, since October, 1959.

The Karabatsos have three children: Gregory Guy, 5; Peggy Ann, 3; and John Andrew, 2.

Lowery Schedules Talk To Engineers

The North Alabama Chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers will meet at 6 p.m. Mar. 9 at Dale's Restaurant.

The program will be highlighted by a presentation on "Efficiency—Government Vs. Industry" by Robert C. Lowery, Director of Programs for the Army Missile Command. Prior to this assignment he was Deputy Comptroller of the Army Ordnance Missile Command.

Lowery came to Redstone Arsenal in 1950 from the Pittsburgh Ordnance District where he held positions of Comptroller and Chief, Management Engineering Office. Before his Civil Service career he was an Industrial Engineer and Assistant to the Executive Vice President of a steel company in Pittsburgh, Pa. He also served as college instructor in the Department of Engineering at Geneva College, Beaver Falls, Pa.

A native of Wooster, Ohio, Mr. Lowery attended Wooster College and later Ohio State, graduating "cum laude." He holds BSBA and MBA degrees in business administration and is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, the honorary fraternity in business administration.

During his wartime service in the Army, he saw duty in Panama, South America and the Pacific

SHAKEDOWN REPRESENTATIVES — Representatives participating in Project Shakedown met at Redstone Arsenal recently to study techniques and methods for reducing the number of items in Federal supply, combining duplications and interchangeable substitute items under a single name in the Federal catalog. All the Armed Forces are working together to accomplish this. C. E. Apostolakis greets George Lucas, Chief of Shakedown for the Oklahoma City Air Materiel Area. In the background (left to right) are W. Owens, a Navy representative, R. Bowman and Ernest E. Wokaty, Oklahoma City.

Theater. At present, he instructs the Army Signal Officer Career Course in the U. S. Army Reserve and holds the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

Lowery is active in various civic and professional organizations. In addition to serving as President of the Huntsville Chapter of the Federal Government Accountants Association, 1962-63, he is a member of Kiwanis International, the American Ordnance Association, and Elder in the United Presbyterian Church and a Mason. At present, he is Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 306 in Huntsville, a member-at-large on both the Madison District and the Tennessee Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and is Chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Parent-Teachers Association at the Whitesburg Junior High School.

TWO EMPLOYEES DIE IN WRECKS

Two Missile Command employees lost their lives this past week as a result of two separate automobile accidents.

They were Miss Elizabeth Lou McCullough and Mrs. Marie H. Wallace.

Miss McCullough was employed as a secretary in the Future Missile Systems Division of the Research and Development Directorate and Mrs. Wallace in Supply Operations of the Supply and Maintenance Directorate. Miss McCullough lived at Town Creek, Ala., Mrs. Wallace's address was 2017-A Franklin Street, S. E., Huntsville.

The accident in which Miss McCullough was fatally injured occurred on Redstone Arsenal last Wednesday at approximately 5 p.m. near Building 4488. Mrs. Wallace's death followed an early Sunday accident near Memphis, Tenn.

Others injured in the accident on the Arsenal in which Miss McCullough died were:

Jewel McGuyer, 20, of Rt. 2, Tusculumbia, Marshall Space Flight Center, suffering laceration of the right eyebrow; treated and released.

Sarah K. Culver, 31, of Leighton, Ground Support Laboratory, Missile Command; fractured pelvis, taken to Huntsville Hospital.

Betty Lowery, 21, Leighton, Comptroller and Director of Programs, Missile Command; laceration of left leg; treated and released.

Hubert Chatillon of France, and S/Sgt. Robert J. Cotant and Privates Leslie B. Weigart, Roy F. Leitner and Donald J. Spence of the United States.

Col. William J. Macpherson, OGM commandant, joined Gen. Compagnon in stressing the long friendship between the United States and France.

Local Scientist Publishes Two Computer Papers

Roger A. MacGowan of the Army Missile Command Computation Center had two computer articles published in the February issues of two computer journals.

An article entitled "The Corporate Computer Executive of the Future" was published in the February issue of the Journal of Data Management, which is the official publication of the Data Processing Management Association.

Another article entitled "Small Scientific Computers Versus Data Communications Systems in a Large Computer Environment" was published in the February issue of Computers and Automation magazine. This article compares the costs of using a small computer with the costs of using an input device connected by telephone lines to a remote large computer.

MacGowan has also published two other computer articles recently. One article entitled "Corporate Policies for the Computer Executive" was published in Data-mation, and an article entitled "Solution of Business Problems on a Scientific Computer" was published in Data Processing for Management.

"Trooping the line" with Gen. Walt, was Col. William J. Macpherson, OGMs commandant (background, right).

DIFFERENCES OVEREMPHASIZED FRENCH GENERAL TELLS GRADS

Differences between this country and France are being over-emphasized, the French Military Attache to the United States told 77 graduates of 10 courses Friday at Ordnance Guided Missile School graduation ceremonies in the Post Theater.

Brig. Gen. Jean Compagnon said, "There are some divergencies between our countries: nuclear power, Common Market and Southeast Asia. But these differences only concern the means and never the aims. The common purpose is the defense of the free world."

Thirty-four French graduates and interpreters and 49 U. S. enlisted men heard Gen. Compagnon quote President Charles de Gaulle of France as saying: "The Atlantic Alliance is an elemental necessity."

Six honor graduates were named: Capt. Bernard Verove and WO

Nickersons Traffic Fatalities

Col. and Mrs. John C. Nickerson were victims of an automobile accident Sunday night near Alamogordo, New Mexico.

Col. Nickerson was stationed at Redstone Arsenal during the late 1950's.

The accident which claimed the Nickersons' lives also injured two of their sons, Danny and Henry. Their injuries were reported to be not critical and they were hospitalized at Fort Bliss, Texas.

The Nickersons are survived by two other children, a daughter, Jeanne Carol, and a son, John C., Jr.

A double funeral service for the Nickersons will be held Thursday at 2 p.m., Chapel No. 4, Fort Bliss, Tex.

The bodies will be at Casner & Maxon Funeral Parlors, El Paso, until the time of the service.

The family requests no flowers, and designated St. Clement Parish School for memorial donations.

leased. Curtis N. Larry, 33, Rt. 1, Sheffield, MSFC, possible broken right hand, multiple scalp lacerations, multiple bruises; taken to Huntsville Hospital.

All the injured were treated at Redstone Army Hospital before being released or transferred to Huntsville Hospital.

Nov. 7, 1942 — American forces began landing in French North Africa with support of British naval and air units.
