Secretary Announces Changes

IT WILL HAPPEN HERE—Maj. R. H. Vareen, Operations Officer, Army Missile Support Command, points to the apron of Redstone Army Airfield where major activities are planned for Armed Forces Day, May 16. In the center is Lt. Cmdr. Thomas Kerr, Navy Representative, and Maj. William Lentz, Ordnance Guided Missile School representative to the Arsenal Armed Forces Day Planning Committee. (Story on Page 3).

DOD Cut Back Won't Affect Us

Defense Department plans announced Friday to close several military installations and consolidate the functions of others will have no adverse effect at Redstone Arsenal.

An element of the Army Missile Command, Watertown Arsenal, located in a suburb of Boston, Mass., was included among installations to be inactivated according to the announcement by Defense Secretary McNamara.

Activities at Watertown Arsenal under the Missile Command's control are to be phased out over a period of years. Personnel are to be given the opportunity to transfer to other Defense installations. The Arsenal is to be inactivated by September 1967. It will be turned over to the General Services Administration for disposal.

Facilities at Watertown Arsenal are designed primarily for the production of a variety of military hardware. A portion of the Arsenal (See DOD CUT on Page 3)

Consolidates To Eliminate Duplications

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Friday announced 63 actions to consolidate, reduce, or discontinue Department of Defense activities in the United States and overseas. Fifty-five of these actions affect military activities in 29 states. The remaining eight affect overseas activities.

When completed, the actions will produce annual savings of $68 million and reduce personnel by 10,056 without in any way reducing military effectiveness.

The actions resulted from the accelerated studies of Defense installations directed by President L. B. Johnson in December.

The 63 actions place primary stress upon consolidation of related activities within and among the military departments and the Defense Supply Agency (DSA) in order to reduce overhead costs and facilities. The principal actions are as follows:

Consolidation of field contract (See CHANGES on Page 4)

AUSA Striving To Triple Membership Of Tennessee Valley Chapter In 1964

An all-out campaign aimed at more than tripling present membership will be kicked off Tuesday by the Tennessee Valley Chapter of the Association of the United States Army. The 1964 membership drive will start with a dinner meeting at the Redstone Arsenal Officers Club.

Chapter President John Hatch said that a concerted three-week drive would be conducted among six special interest areas. The drive will be headed by J. A. Muller of the Army Missile Command.

Co-chairmen and the areas they cover are: Maj. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Army Missile Command; Lt. Col. John R. Bond, Nike-X; Gene Morgan, Huntsville merchants; Cecil Fiquette, industry; Reavis O'Neal, Ordnance Guided Missile School; Jack Balch, Marshall Space Flight Center and National Guard units.

The campaign kick-off will be made at a regular dinner meeting of the Chapter at the Officers Club. Maj. Gen. William P. Yarbrough, Commanding General of the John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center at Ft. Bragg, N. C., will be the speaker.

Gen. Yarbrough will head a six-man team of special warfare experts who will explain and demonstrate the techniques of guerrilla and counter-insurgent fighting in limited conflicts and under all types of climatic and geographic conditions.

This program is another in the series that the Chapter has presented covering the many facets of the Army—the different units, their mission and their responsibilities in assuring the Army is capable of meeting and repelling

Legal Staff Readies For LawDayUSA

Law Day USA will be observed at Redstone Arsenal next Friday with a series of events.

The Federal Bar Association's Explorer Chapter will be hosts to lawyers and civic leaders at Redstone Arsenal for coffee at the Squirrel Hill Officers Club and a tour of the Arsenal Friday morning. Guests will include members of the Bar in North Alabama and Southern Tennessee.

After the tour, a mid-day banquet is planned at the Squirrel Hill Club where awards in the essay contest sponsored by the Huntsville-Madison County Bar Association will be awarded three students from local schools. The subject of the essay is, "Why Respect the Law?" The cash prizes are $50, $35, and $15.

The principal speaker at the luncheon will be Representative Armistead I. Selden, (D. Ala.).

Thursday night at 6:30 p.m., Bob Jones on Station WHNT-TV, Channel 19, will present a panel of civic leaders who will discuss the meaning of law to them. Special guests on the television panel will be Maj. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commanding General of the Army Missile Command; Dr. Wernher von Braun, director of the Marshall Space Flight Center, Homer (See LEGAL STAFF on Page 3)

Savings Bond Boosters Set Sights On Minuteman Flag

Setting their sights on a Minuteman Flag unfurled on the Post flagstaff, Arsenal officials set Friday for the opening of the annual Savings Bond promotional drive.

The promotion will get underway with a kick-off rally at the Rocket Auditorium at 9 a.m. Col. D. A. Marcelle, Installation Finance and Accounting Officer and Chairman of the Savings Bond Executive Committee, has invited all organizational chairmen, sub-chairmen and canvassers to the rally as well as a number of local and state civic leaders.

Col. Marcelle said that a person-to-person canvass would be conducted throughout the Arsenal over the next several weeks with an overall goal of 90 per cent participation in the payroll deduction plan for buying U. S. Savings Bonds.

He added that the theme of the canvass is "the security of the nation and the security of the individual," or just plain "Operation Security."

Maj. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commanding General of the Army Missile Command, will be the principal speaker at the kick-off rally. The ceremonies will be concluded with the latest Treasury Department film, entitled, "Mr. Ed."

In commenting on the objective of the promotion, Col. Marcelle stated, "An overall participation in the payroll deduction program by 90 per cent of the personnel on the Arsenal will entitle us to fly the coveted Treasury Department Minuteman Flag."

"Actually," he added, "this objective is well within reach, but it will take a good deal of dedicated effort on the part of the organizational workers."

Col. Marcelle based his comments on the latest figures available for the participation in the program. At the end of March 67.5 percent of the military personnel and 71.1 per cent of the civilian work force of the Missile Command, the Missile Support Command and the Nike-X Project Office were purchasing bonds (See SAVINGS BOND on Page 3)

COYOTE SLAIN ON ARSENAL—S/Sgt. J. L. Smith, Redstone Arsenal Game Warden, holds up a dead female coyote which he killed early last Wednesday at the base of Weeden Mountain on Redstone Arsenal. The coyote, relatively rare in Alabama, was trapped by the Game Warden who is cooperating with Madison County in a rabid fox extermination drive. Two other coyotes were killed more than three years ago when hit by cars on Redstone. Sgt. Smith said the dead coyote has been turned over to the Wheeler National Fish and Wildlife Refuge at Decatur.

Free Election, Secret Ballot Underlie Our Political System

If we were to choose a single scene and symbol to illustrate political freedom in America it would be this: The time: Election Day.

The place: A neighborhood polling place. It could be a private garage in your block; maybe the nearby school; maybe the fire station.

There would be an American flag in sight somewhere to give the place a special distinction on this day. There would be perhaps four or six of your friends, neighbors, or acquaintances sitting at a table.

The key furnishings of the room would be some sort of private enclosures—some as simple as a curtained shelf; others as elaborate as a voting machine.

Enter John Q. and Jane Public.

They each receive a ballot and retire separately to the curtained voting booths. There, alone with their consciences, they mark their ballots; fold them; turn them in or drop them into the ballot box—their private judgment, if they so choose, known but to them alone.

To tens of millions of Americans, this scene is so familiar as to seem commonplace.

But to 10 times 10 millions, and more, elsewhere in the world, this little drama of the free election and the secret ballot is unknown.

Many of them have never known an authority other than one imposed on them. The idea of a voice in choosing their leaders is inconceivable. In many places, we must concede, it may be presently impractical due to political immaturity.

But there are other places where advanced and intelligent people are denied this right Americans hold dear.

They may be permitted by their leaders to go through the motions of popular elections. But their freedom of choice is usually between a single hand-picked slate of candidates, or the often dangerous alternative of simply not voting at all.

The clue to our little drama of the free election and secret ballot rings out like the clear notes of a prelude in the opening words of the Constitution:

"We, the people of the United States . . ."

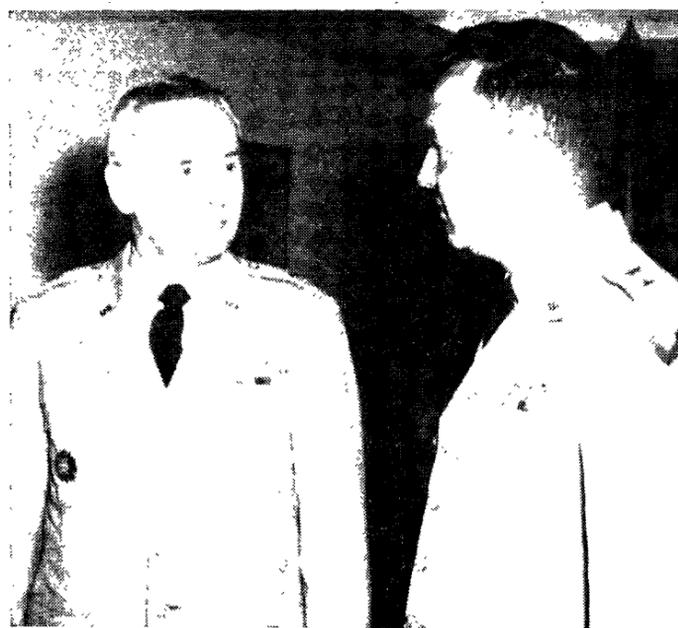

Ours is a nation of laws, and the determination of those governing rules rests primarily in the hands of the people.

We vest this power in the hands of an elected Congress and a Chief Executive.

In this enormous grant of power over our lives and fortunes, Americans have deemed it important that the process be conducted in freedom and in secrecy.

We burnish it and keep it intact for succeeding generations by going to the polls on election days and voting, and by resisting encroachments on this basic freedom.

DIRECTOR—Brig. Gen. John A. Goshorn, Director of Procurement, Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Installations and Logistics, visited the Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal Monday. General Goshorn and a number of officials from the Department of the Army and Department of Defense spent most of the day discussing the Missile Command's production and procurement functions. Here at a meeting in the office of General Zierdt are, left to right: General Goshorn and Maj. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commanding General of the Missile Command.

Super-Fast Rocket Used In New Nike-X Missile Tests

A rocket three times faster than a rifle bullet is being used to test materials for the Army's new Sprint anti-missile missile.

The rocket is the Squirt, a free-flight vehicle propelled by 14 small rocket motors.

It is being flown at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., as part of the Nike-X ICBM defense system development program.

The Nike-X Project Officer at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama, describes Squirt as "a test bed for candidate materials for Sprint."

However, the Project Officer is quick to note, Squirt is only a convenient vehicle for materials tests. It does not duplicate the Sprint in design or flight characteristics.

A major function of Squirt is to find out more about the aerothermal effects (air friction heating) encountered by super fast missiles such as Sprint. The Sprint will be the highest acceleration guided missile ever developed by the Army. It is being developed to intercept 17,000 mph ICBMs after they have re-entered the earth's atmosphere.

The Project Officer said a limited number of Squirt flights are scheduled to test various construction and insulation materials on the nosecone of the test rocket.

Squirt was designed and is being flown by the Martin Company which is the Nike-X subcontractor for the Sprint missile. In designing the experiments Martin works closely with Bell Telephone Laboratories which is responsible for the design and development of the Nike-X system.

Twenty-three feet in length, the Squirt gets its boost from a bundle of seven Recruit rocket motors.

Alarms Ring At Staggered Intervals Until Next Fall

At the Army Materiel Command, people will go to work on Eastern Daylight Time.

At the Army Missile Command at Redstone, people will go to work on a normal schedule.

But that doesn't apply to everybody working at Redstone Arsenal. The office staffs and instructors at the Ordnance Guided Missile School will be on a Central Daylight time schedule even though they don't move their clocks. Their workday begins at 7 a.m. and ends at 3:30 p.m.—a schedule in effect since last Monday.

The Nike-X project is also on fast time, going to work at 7 a.m. The Joes are going to have to call the Sams on an adjusted schedule until the country is colored by Fall.

At burnout the booster package falls away and the rocket gets an additional kick from a cluster of seven Cherokee rockets. Both motors are manufactured by the Thiokol Chemical Corp. and are "off-the-shelf" hardware.

Not only is the rocket itself built largely of parts readily available to missile men, but the launcher is a modified version of an existing above-ground launcher used to put up other research rockets used in the Nike-X program.

A Nike Zeus System Missile Tracking Radar already installed at White Sands tracks the Squirt for data purposes.

The Nike-X Project says the Squirt supplements data gained from wind tunnel testing of the Sprint design by providing a "Sprint environment," i.e., a high speed missile travelling in the earth's atmosphere.

any threat to the peace of the Free World.

In calling for an all-out membership campaign Muller said that a successful drive will boost the Tenn. Valley Chapter into the No. 1 spot among the 121 AUSA chapters spread across the country.

The local chapter held the honor of being the largest chapter three years ago when it had a membership of approximately 4,500.

Muller said that the Chapter had a primary objective of expanding the Army image in the North Alabama-South Tennessee area.

"We intend, through this drive," he added, "to foster within the area a greater understanding of the Army and its needs."

The Association of the United States Army is a voluntary, educational and non-profit organization of American citizens who manifest their interest in a strong Army to advance the security of the country.

While military participation is essential, of equal importance is the participation of the civilian element of the community. Officers are selected from this civilian membership.

Since its inception, the AUSA has worked successfully in many areas to accomplish its aims and objectives. Numbered among these has been the determined efforts to foster a better understanding of our Army's role.

It has led the fight to emphasize the need to maintain the Army's strength and to modernize the weapons and equipment, and it has worked for a build-up of our military airlift and stressed the need for an effective missile defense program.

At the present time the national organization is working toward the realization of a number of objectives which will further the Army's readiness posture.

One of the objectives which has special interest on the local scene is to urge for early production and deployment of an effective anti-ballistic missile defense.

The Ordnance Guided Missile School had an even better record with 90 per cent of the civilians and 72 per cent of the military participating.

The Minuteman Flag is awarded to any organization with an assigned strength of 1,000 or more that attains 90 per cent participation in the program.

Organizationally the Support Command has a present participation of 80.3% among the civilians and 74.4 per cent for the military. The Missile Command has 66.9 and 57.4 respectively and the Nike-X Project Office stands at 46.8 and 38.7.

workload is missile related work for the Missile Command.

The missile related functions at Watertown will be transferred to the Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal and personnel connected with these functions may be given the opportunity to transfer with the job. It is predicted now that the change will have little, if any effect on Missile Command activities.

HAYES WILL MAKE MISSILE LAUNCHER

A firm fixed price contract of $1,360,333 has been awarded to Hayes-International Corporation in Birmingham for Sergeant missile components, the Army Missile Command announced Friday.

The competitive procurement contract, which calls for guided missile launchers, was negotiated and executed by the Missile Command's Procurement and Production Directorate. Balance of the administration will be turned over to the Birmingham Procurement District.

Sergeant is a highly reliable, single stage, surface-to-surface ballistic missile system capable of carrying either nuclear or conventional warheads.

The system is managed by the Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal under Col. J. Mort Loomis Jr., who is Project Manager. Sperry Utah Co. is prime contractor.

Holy Week Observances Scheduled By Orthodox Churches In This Area

This is Holy Week for millions of Eastern Orthodox Christians. Easter will be celebrated next Sunday, May 3.

Resurrection Services at the Arsenal will be held at the Redstone Arsenal Post Chapel at 9:30 a.m. May 9. The Greek Orthodox Churches in Nashville, Birmingham and Chattanooga have issued an invitation to all personnel here to attend services this week on Holy Thursday, Good Friday and midnight services Saturday.

Mighty Missile Muscles Will Join Marching Bands Armed Forces Day

Voting Rules And Leave Spelled Out

Administrative leave hours have been established for Army employees planning to vote in Tuesday's Alabama Primary Election.

Civilian Personnel regulations stipulate that where the polls are not open at least three hours before or after an employee's regular hours of work, he will be granted an amount of excused leave which will permit him to report three hours after the polls open or leave work three hours before polls close, whichever requires the least amount of time off.

As an example, Madison county polls open at 8 a.m. and close at 6:30 p.m. If an employee's hours are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., he may be excused at 3:30 p.m. as this will allow him three hours before polls close. If the eligible voter were to make application for leave in excess of that amount of time off, the excess would be charged to annual leave.

Employees are also reminded that opening and closing hours of polls in Alabama vary. In cities using voting machines, polls are open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., except in those cities where closing times are set differently by local legislation. In Madison County polls will remain open until 6:30 p.m.

In counties using paper ballots, polls will be open between 8 and 9 a.m. and will close by 5 p.m. Polls in cities with population of 5000 or more in those counties will remain open until 6 p.m.

Everybody loves a parade and a steady stream of marching bands and Army missiles will flow throughout downtown Huntsville May 16 as the city and the Army Missile Command stage their Armed Forces Day Celebration.

At least 16 North Alabama bands will march in the parade, which begins at 9:30 a.m. There will also be troops from Redstone Arsenal, Army and National Guard units, Marines and the Naval Reserve from units in the Huntsville area.

The Missile Command will also flex its muscles with some 14 different missile systems and drones scheduled to be on exhibit.

This parade will launch a full day of activities as Redstone Arsenal will swing open its gates to the public at 12:30 p.m., for its once-a-year open house.

Bus Schedule Is Expanded

As a convenience to personnel at the Ordnance Guided Missile School and the Army Missile Command commercial buses into downtown Huntsville began a daily schedule Monday, Apr. 27.

Buses will leave from Building 3433, the Military Police barracks in the troop area, Monday through Friday at 5:15 and 6:15 p.m. Return trips to the Arsenal will start at Holmes and Washington Sts. in downtown Huntsville at 10 and 11 p.m. Bus fare is 20 cents.

Saturday and Sunday service will continue as usual with buses leaving the Arsenal on the half hour and picking up return passengers in the downtown area on the hour. The last bus from Huntsville leaves at 11 p.m. during the weekend schedule.

Especially prepared exhibits will be on display on the Arsenal at the Francis J. McMorrow Missile Laboratories, the Ordnance Guided Missile School and the Redstone Army Air Field. Signs will guide visitors to these areas.

Maj. R. H. Vereen, Operations Officer of the Army Missile Support Command, says efforts are being made to have several types of aircraft on display, including possibly an Air Force F-106. But no definite arrangements have been made as yet, he said.

One event which should prove popular is a mass parachute drop by members of Company B, 20th Special Forces Group of the Alabama National Guard. Nearly 100 men are scheduled to jump at Redstone Field.

In addition, skydiving exhibitions are planned where the jumpers delay opening their chutes by "free falling" thousands of feet and then landing in a prescribed area.

At OGMS, visitors will see at least four of the Army's missile systems, including the Hawk, Sergeant, Pershing and Nike Hercules.

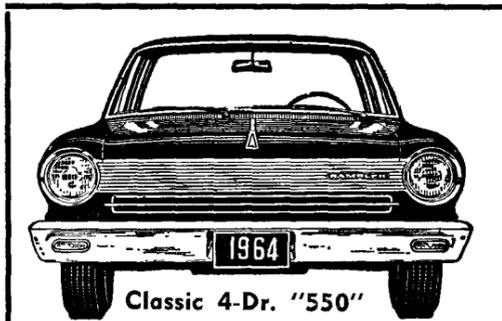

Many different activities will be on display at the Francis J. McMorrow Laboratories, among them, such missiles as the Redstone, Sergeant and helicopter displays. Plans also call for an eight-minute film showing the choppers firing small rockets.

Maj. Vereen said that mobile snack facilities will be available at all three display sites. Bleachers which will seat more than 1,000 people will be erected at the airfield and a huge tent, complete with picnic tables and seats, will provide shade for hundreds more.

Many of the Missile Command's directorates will have exhibits in the Airfield hangar as well as the Navy and International Business Machine Corp.

Open House at the Arsenal will conclude at 4:30 p.m.

administration offices in 29 cities where there are now two or more separate offices operated by the military departments and DSA. The decision to consolidate these field offices is one result of a study initiated in August 1962 and known as "Project 60."

It has examined the organization and procedures of the military services and DSA for supervising the performance of contracts after they have been awarded. The three military services and DSA currently maintain 150 offices employing more than 20,000 people to do so.

These offices are responsible for performing a large variety of services including material inspection, quality control, production expediting, payment of contractors, industrial security, property accountability and disposal.

Over the next two years these activities will be organized as a common support service to all Department of Defense procurement offices as well as to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. It is expected that the consolidation in the 29 cities, plus the reduction in overhead staffs, will result in a reduction of more than 1,800 personnel with annual savings of $18.8 million.

Secretary McNamara said that the consolidated offices would not include specialized groups such as the construction inspectors of the Army Corps of Engineers and the Navy Bureau of Yards and Docks; the Navy supervisors of shipbuilding; and the plant representatives of the Army, Navy, and Air Force who are directly concerned with plant level supervision of prime contracts for major weapon system programs.

JOINT TERMINAL

The Army and Navy will establish, effective July 1, 1964, a joint terminal command at Oakland, Calif., to manage all ocean terminal services at this port. By achieving the most efficient utilization of the combined terminal facilities and organizations, it will be possible to realize annual operating savings of $3 million. A reduction of 300 personnel is anticipated. Joint Army and Navy studies of other port terminals are continuing to ascertain whether opportunities exist elsewhere.

The Army has made a comprehensive examination of its arsenals and identified excess capacity. As a result, the major part of the facilities of Watertown Arsenal will be transferred to GSA for disposal by September 1967. The Army Materials Research Agency remains at Watertown. Annual savings of $5.3 million are anticipated and personnel reductions of 1,849.

DEPOTS CLOSED

A nationwide study of 14 ammunition storage depots by the Army reveals an excess storage capacity of 3.8 million square feet, equal to two depots. During the next three years, the Sioux Ammunition Depot at Disney, Neb., and the Army Black Hills Ammunition Depot at Igloo, S. D., will be inactivated and transferred to GSA for disposal. Annual savings of $6.6 million are anticipated and personnel reductions of 797.

The Defense Supply Agency has completed plans to consolidate at Columbus, Ohio, all systems planning for the use of automatic data processing equipment by DSA supply centers. A reduction of 200 personnel now engaged in these functions throughout the nation and an annual savings of $2 million will result.

Two other major inactivations planned, which total will produce annual savings of $6.1 million are: (A) Naval Auxiliary Air Station, New Iberia, La., by January 1965; and (B) Fort Lawton, Seattle, Washington by July 1967.

The eight overseas actions will not be announced until a later date, after the governments concerned have been consulted. The areas affected are Europe and the Western Hemisphere. No NATO forces are involved. When completed these actions will produce annual savings of $21 million and personnel reductions of approximately 3600 spaces, mainly military.

RELEASE PLANTS

In addition to the above, two industrial plants will be released for sale, four East Coast seaplane facilities will be closed, and facilities reductions will be made at 13 U. S. locations. In total, these remaining 19 actions will produce annual savings of $4.7 million.

When added to other actions announced since 1961, the 63 actions contained in this announcement will result, when completed, in:

696,000 acres of real estate released for non-defense use;

61 industrial plants, with commercial potential made available; for sale to American industry;

81,600 personnel positions eliminated;

$551 million in annual operating savings.

Since 1961, the General Services Administration has made substantial progress in the sale of excess Defense installations and has obtained, through such sales, $71.5 million in proceeds which have been returned to the Treasury.

ACTIONS PHASED

The 63 actions announced Friday will, as in the past, be phased over the periods of up to 3½ years in order to minimize the impact on employees and communities, as well as to reduce close-out and relocation costs. All career employees whose jobs are eliminated will be offered other job opportunities. Normal attrition in the work force will provide job opportunities for considerable numbers of those affected by the civilian personnel reductions. By careful advance planning, and an extensive use of hiring freezes, additional job opportunities will be made available for the others involved in the cutback.

If the new job offered an employee requires a move to another Defense installation, the moving expenses involved will be borne by the government. To assure the widest opportunity for new jobs, retraining programs for skills required within the Defense Department will be established when necessary at government expense. The services of the Department of Defense Office of Economic Adjustment will be available to help communities find new payrolls.

ARMY IMPACT

A complete listing of Army installations involved in Friday's announcement follows:

Oakland Army Terminal, Oakland, Calif. Combine terminal functions of Oakland Army Terminal and Oakland Naval Supply Center under joint command by July 1964. Personnel reduction of 300 civilians. Annual savings $3 million.

Germans Fire Pershing From Hueco

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N. M.—Federal Republic of Germany soldiers last week successfully fired two Army Missile Command developed Pershing ballistic missiles.

Operating under near tactical conditions, the German Battalion became the first non-U. S. unit to fire the Army's powerful two-stage Pershing. Both missiles were launched from Hueco Range, near Fort Bliss, Texas, into preselected areas on White Sands Missile Range.

The firings were both a test of the missiles' performance when used by soldiers in the field, and culmination of the training the German troops have received to date at Fort Sill, Okla.

The Pershing was developed by the Army Missile Command's Pershing Office, under the direction of Col. Edwin I. Donley, Pershing Project Manager. The solid-fueled missile system will be deployed to Europe, according to an announcement made late last year by the Department of Defense.

Last week's firings, supported by elements of the First Field Artillery Missile Brigade of Fort Sill, were monitored by instrumentation at White Sands Missile Range.

The Pershing is the long ballistic right arm of the Army, with a range of 100-400 nautical miles. Prime contractor for the system is the Martin Co., Orlando, Fla.

Welfare Council Will Sponsor Softball Teams

Organized softball activity for civilian employees—both the male and the female types—became more of a reality last week when the Redstone Employee Softball League was organized under the sponsorship of the Civilian Welfare Fund Council.

Organizations from every corner of the Arsenal were present for the meeting in Building 5250 with at least ten of them signifying an intention of fielding a team in the Men's Division. Four teams filed for entry in the Women's Division of the League.

Delbert Williams, of the Pershing Project Office, was elected president of the combined organization and Jesse Evans, of the Procurement and Production Directorate, was selected to fill the position of vice-president.

Other officers elected were Billy Joe Lowery, Finance and Accounting, who will be the league secretary, and Marie Sexton, of the Army Missile Support Command, treasurer.

In designating members of the operating committees, Williams stated that there was still a lot of work to be done before the first ball is pitched. He asked them immediately to draft ground rules for league play and a schedule.

He added that original plans were to start play by mid-May, but that it would be better to hold up action for a week or two to insure for a smoother operating organization.

The league president named Evans to head the schedule committee and selected Ron Melton, AMSC and Bill McLane, of the Structures and Mechanics Lab, to serve with him. Lowery will head up the Rules Committee which also includes J. E. Simpson, of Supply and Maintenance, and Don Goble, of Consolidated Supply.

Williams selected Miss Sexton and Caleb Burgoyne, also of Pershing, to assist himself on the

The first three innings were scoreless for the officers, but in the fourth they scored four runs and continued the rally with five in the fifth.

Company C scored in the second, rallied for one in the sixth and one in the seventh. At the top of the seventh the officers scored again giving them a 10-8 lead. Company C mustered another run in the top of the ninth and the game ended 10-9.

Two 'Itty Fishies Swim In The Pool

When Nike-X missile builders on Kwajalein Island aren't busy with their anti-ICBM system you may find some of them down by the pond feeding their pet Humuhumunukanukaapus.

In case you didn't know, a Humuhumunukanukaapus is a fish. For obvious reasons the ones on Kwajalein have been nicknamed "Little Oscar" and "Big Oscar."

Caught in the nearby lagoon, they now live, apparently happily, with some 300 other tropical species in a quiet pool made by damming up run-off water from a building air conditioner.

time for this group is also 6:30 p.m. and it also includes all personnel, either on active duty or retired.

Since the lane has no baby sitter, the Special Services staff has suggested that parents make arrangements to have children under 10 cared for at the nursery or at home while the parents bowl.

FATAL ACCIDENTS ARE NEARLY 3 TIMES HIGHER AT NIGHT. PLAY SAFE: (1) DRIVE AT REDUCED SPEEDS; (2) DIM LIGHTS FOR APPROACHING VEHICLES; (3) KEEP WINDSHIELD AND WINDOWS CLEAR FOR GOOD VISIBILITY.

BE EXTRA CAREFUL DRIVING AT NIGHT

Night driving calls for that "something extra" both in car handling skills and in observance of safety precautions.

The warning comes from the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies which says that the death rate in fatal accidents per million miles driven is about three times greater at night than during daylight hours.

Don't bet your life against these statistics by failing to be extra careful at night, the ACSC advises. Driving mistakes made in daylight do not invariably lead to accidents, nor do errors made fater dark; but at night, there is more chance of serious injury.

At The Service Club

By: Brenda Hanson

In May we begin by walking softly. We end on a whirl at the Maypole Dance. However, even though the earlier programs are not fancy, there's a fertile field of fun. Read the schedule and take your pick:

Tonight at 8 p.m. we'll have a pool contest with prizes for the winners. Tomorrow night it's bridge competition at 7:30 p.m. and Friday night there'll be games galore.

Saturday afternoon Pete Reiss will conduct dance classes, teach new steps and smooth out troublesome ones. The classes will break at 2:30 p.m. for coffee—and everyone is invited to join the coffee klutch. In fact the kitchen crew will be busy in the evening, too, serving birthday cake for the May birthday party scheduled at 8 p.m.

Sunday morning coffee will be ready at 9 a.m. At 8 p.m. dancing to records begins.

Game night on Monday promises to yield a couple of practical prizes to the lucky winners.

We'll furnish the cigars and cards for smoker poker Tuesday night at 8 p.m. All we need is poker players—you!

MISCELLANEOUS

Those who missed the folk singing contest, missed a good show. Group winners, the Talismen, and vocalist Robert Henderson will represent Redstone Arsenal in the Third Army contest at Ft. Gordon, May 4-9. Last year we took the top trophy and we're crossing our fingers. Bring that trophy home, boys!

The Talismen are Richard Czaplinski, Less Duncan, Ronald Wilson and James Barrick.

To each of the winners—congratulations!

HIGHWAY ZOO

The KANGAROO

This is the jumpy jerk who drives by leaps and bounds—from one stop to another. At the first faint glint of green at a stop light—whoosh! He's off like a rocket! This bouncer, like the real kangaroo, sometimes carries his young with him. The kid in the pouch is safer!

Danish Officer Wins AUSA Award For Second Time

A lieutenant of the Royal Danish Air Force set a new academic record at the U. S. Army Ordnance Guided Missile School last Friday.

1st Lt. Erik V. Hansen of Copenhagen became the first of 32,500 graduates of the Missile School to win the outstanding student award of the Association of the U. S. Army for the second time.

The award is given only to students who average 96 or better. Only 102 awards have been made to date. Japanese students have won 32 of them.

Lt. Hansen scored 97 in the Nike-Hercules supervisors course and received a special plaque from John E. Hatch Jr., president of the local AUSA chapter, at a ceremony in the Post Theater presided over by Col. William J. Macpherson, OGMS commandant.

Lt. Hansen won the same award here in 1962 in an air defense weapons course.

He was among 48 students from Denmark, France and the U. S. who received diplomas. The graduates included 11 U. S. Marines.

The high Army award was also won by Pvt. Alexander J. Murawski of McKee's Rocks, Pa. He averaged 96 in a guided missile maintenance course.

Brig. Gen. Robert E. Coffin, assistant commander of the 2nd Infantry Division at Fort Benning, Ga.; told the graduates that missiles are replacing aircraft as prime weapons of war.

Experience gained in vast war games throughout free Europe has led the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to revise its defense plans to give missiles a leading role among all other means of fire support, he said.

Cited as high men in other classes were Marine Pfc. Richard A.

Rogers of Madison, Wis., and Army Pvt. Leonard G. Snodgrass of Anchorage, Alaska.

Separate winners will be designated from defense agencies, non-defense agencies with 5,000 or more employees, and smaller agencies with less than 5,000 employees.

Three maximum awards of $25,000 have been granted since 1954. All have gone to scientists or engineers.

Dental Health Tips

(ANF)—In the scramble for the $235,000,000 annual dentifrice market, tooth paste advertising generally has turned increasingly to therapeutic claims. Even chewing gum, which in itself adds sugar to the decay-causing process, has claimed tooth cleaning efficiency. These claims usually draw on some part of the currently accepted theories of what leads to dental disease and rarely does the artful wording include a direct statement that can be labeled as false. However, the conclusions they invite can rarely be supported and in some cases can be actually detrimental to dental health.

Perhaps a listing of some of the things a dentifrice will not do—according to the American Dental Association—will help dispel some common myths. A dentifrice:

- will not give all day protection with one tooth-brushing.
- will not substitute for regular toothbrushing.
- will not provide an invisible shield giving unlimited protection.
- will not substitute for professional treatment.
- will not kill enough bacteria to effect any significant reduction in decay acid production.

A dentifrice containing fluoride will reduce the decay rate, but the mere addition of fluoride to a tooth paste does not make it decay preventive. Fluoride is frequently rendered inactive by common tooth paste ingredients and only one popular brand has to date received the coveted official American Dental Association recognition as decay preventive. Only clinical studies over a period of time will show if other brands have licked the fluoride breakdown problem.

(This is the first of six ANF articles on dental health. Prepared by Lt. Col. F. J. Carr, Dental Officer, Ft. Campbell, Ky., the series has been approved for publication by the Office of the Surgeon General, U.S. Army.)

KEEP YOUR GAS PILOT ON THIS SUMMER

Instead of turning off the pilot in your heating system, just cut off heat by setting the room thermostat in its lowest position. In most cases, keeping your pilot on costs little more than the monthly minimum of $1.50. For this small price you'll get big returns in economy and service!

● Prolonged life for your heating equipment.
 The small amount of heat from the gas pilot keeps your heating equipment dry during the summer. This means protection from corrosion and adds extra years of life to your equipment.

● Instant heat at your command. You can rid your house of occasional summer dampness by using your heating system for an hour or so. And you can readily control temperatures on the chilly mornings and evenings of early fall.

● No delay next fall. When cold weather returns, you can simply reset the thermostat to desired temperature. There'll be no inconvenience of waiting your turn to have the pilot lighted.

TO ATTEND INDUSTRIAL COLLEGE—Charles W. Sandlin, a civilian employee of the U. S. Army Missile Command, has been selected to attend the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. Sandlin is Deputy Chief and Technical Director, Engineering Division of the Procurement and Production Directorate.

Charles W. Sandlin Named To Attend Industrial College

A civilian employee of the U. S. Army Missile Command has been selected to attend the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. Charles W. Sandlin has the distinction of being the first civilian from the Missile Command to attend what is recognized as the highest level in the educational field within the Department of Defense. A graduate of Auburn University with a BS Degree in Civil Engineering, Sandlin is Deputy Chief and Technical Director, Engineering Division of the Procurement and Production Directorate. He has been at Redstone Arsenal since 1951. Sandlin will join three other civilians in the 10-month course who were selected from approximately 30 nominees throughout the Department of the Army.

The mission of the Industrial College is to provide key personnel with a general background of knowledge of the economic and managerial aspects of national security in their broad political, social, scientific and military context.

To be eligible for the school, personnel, among other things, must demonstrate a potential for advancement in the Department of the Army, must show ability to master complex subject matter quickly and an appreciation of the problems involved in economic, political and business planning and operations of the Army.

Electrical Safety Course Studied By Workers On Post

More than 90 electrical workers at Redstone Arsenal have completed a special electrical safety course designed to keep them up to date with advanced techniques and equipment.

Most of the personnel taking part in the course are employed by the Army Missile Support Command's Post Engineer, officials said.

The training sessions were conducted by the Army Materiel Command's Field Safety Agency, headquartered in Charlestown, Ind., in cooperation with the Training and Development Division of the AMSC Civilian Personnel Office.

Instructors for the course from the Field Safety Agency included William H. English, Gomer C. Sturgill, and Robert B. Henry.

The course was coordinated by Lawrence Williams of the Training and Development Division, and Bill Cook, of the AMSC Safety Office.

"Constructive discontent" of employees has led to outstanding improvements in Federal Government operations through the incentive awards program.

Deaf, Blind Briefed By Missileman

TALLADEGA, Ala. — The U. S. Army Missile Command accomplished another first here Monday to add to its growing lists of achievements.

Maj. Wallace H. Hastings of the Future Missile Systems Division of the Army Missile Command's Directorate of Research and Development told the story of the Army's achievements in missiles and space to nearly 200 blind students of the Alabama Institute for the Deaf and Blind. Major Hastings used missile and space age sound effects recorded on tape to emphasize points throughout his talk.

It was the first time such a presentation had been made to blind adult and youthful students at the institute.

Major Hastings, a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, covered the progress of missile and rocket development and space exploration from World War II to the present.

Among the various sound effects used by Major Hastings were the sounds of the German V-2 rocket, the Army's Nike Ajax, Russia's Sputnik I and II satellites, the United States' Explorer I, and the voice of Astronaut Shepard as he reported the sights from his space capsule during his brief flight through space.

Prior to Major Hastings address, blind adult and youthful students at the Institute got some feel for the shapes of modern Army missiles and rockets by handling scale models displayed for this purpose.
