Canada-U.S. Share Lance Test Success

Canada and the United States joined hands last week to fire successfully the Army's newest battlefield missile, Lance.

In a development test at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., Lance was fired from a tactical version of the system's lightweight launcher, developed by Hawker-Siddeley of Toronto.

Army officials said the test represents an important step in the development of the surface-to-surface missile system.

Hawker-Siddeley has been selected by the Army to develop the lightweight launcher, an integral part of the system. The company is working under an incentive sub-contract to the Ling-Temco-Vought's Aerospace Michigan Division, prime contractor for Lance development.

The Canadian Department of Defense Production is funding the launcher development in accordance with the U.S.-Canadian Production sharing program.

The firing was conducted by LTV, with the support of Army personnel. The U.S. Army Missile Command directs the Lance program from headquarters at Redstone Arsenal, under Col. W. E. Mehlinger, Project Manager.

The lightweight launcher is an important feature of the highly mobile Lance. It is de-

Missilemen Attend Tech Panel Today

Six employees from the Missile Command Research and Development Directorate's Army Inertial Guidance and Control Laboratory are attending the Ninth Quarterly Meeting of the Army Technical Panel on Inertial Guidance Tuesday and Wednesday at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

The group will be headed by Jess Huff, Laboratory Director, and will include H. L. Pastrick, who will be chairman of the Panel; W. E. Grunwald, J. P. Leonard; W. H. Ewart; and T. G. Wetheral.

The Panel is only one of several activities of the Army Inertial Management and Technology Center whose basic mission is to centrally monitor and evaluate all Army research, development, test and evaluation activities in inertial guidance systems and com-

River Patrol Rescues Two In Accident

Two Decatur area men were injured in a boating accident on the Tennessee River west of the Whitesburg Bridge Thursday when their boat swerved into the shore and collided with a tree on the bank.

A Redstone Arsenal river patrol boat was in the area when the accident happened and came to the assistance of the injured men. They were taken by Army ambulance to the Post Hospital. One of the men, Airman Third Class Charles K. Phillips, 18, of Trinity, who is stationed at Hunter Air Force Base, Ga., underwent surgery for internal injuries and is reported to be in satisfactory condition.

His companion, Lyle Stanridge, 19, of Moulton Dr., Decatur, was transferred to Decatur General Hospital after emergency treatment at the Army Hospital.

Redstone Accident Rate More Than One Per Day

The Military Police believe they could just about whip traffic accidents and injuries on Redstone Arsenal if they could get motorists to buckle their seat belts, tighten their brakes and rivet their attention on what they're doing. Especially the last.

The Provost Marshal's Office has just completed a survey of the causes of Arsenal accidents — an average of just over one a day — and the answer is people. And not all of the people who are involved in accidents are like the citizen who locked fenders with an Army sedan on Highway 431 recently. His age was 93.

The largest number of accidents last year was caused by people who refused to yield the right-of-way. Out of 320 reported collisions, 61 resulted from two motorists staking claim on the same piece of road at the same time. In fact, most Arsenal accidents were spontaneous in nature. That is, they happened on the spur of the moment and did not result from a clear-cut cause such as speeding or driving

Planning is now underway for an Arsenal-wide safe driving campaign in an effort to reduce the accident rate. All Federal and contractor organizations whose employees use the Arsenal highway network are participating in the campaign headed by the Army Missile Support Command Safety Office.

while intoxicated. "Tailgating" — or following another car too closely — caused the second highest number of accidents, a total of 54. From there, the most banged fenders and (See ACCIDENT on Page 3)

Missile Pioneer Receives Army 'Outstanding' Award

A missile pioneer who more than 20 years ago conceived a guidance system that led to the Army's Nike air defense missile systems has received one of the Army's highest civilian awards.

The Outstanding Civilian Service Medal last week was presented to J. W. Schaefer of Bell Telephone Laboratories by Col. I. O. Drewry, Nike-X Project Manager, Redstone Arsenal, on behalf of Gen. Frank S. Besson, Commanding General of the Army Materiel

Command. The medal is the highest that can be given without specific approval by the Secretary of the Army.

Schaefer is credited with envisioning the command guidance concept. It has been used in every Nike system from the now retired Nike Ajax to the Nike-X missile defense system which is being developed to destroy attacking ballistic missiles. The Nike Hercules which is the country's primary missile defense against enemy bombers also uses command guidance.

The guidance system enables a warhead-armed interceptor missile to be steered electronically to its target by ground based radars and computers.

Schaefer received the medal for his contributions to the Nike-X system as Director of the Bell Laboratories Kwajalein Field Station on the Kwajalein atoll in the Pacific. The Kwajalein Test Site is the major testing range for the Nike-X system.

Fortune, men say, doth give too much to many; But yet she never gave enough to any. —Sir John Harrington

What Is Safety?

Safety is a habit!

It is the habit of fastening a seat belt every time you sit in a car. A habit so instilled that it is fastened naturally, without thought. It is the habit of completely stopping at every stop sign regardless of the hour or how clear the field of vision. It is the habit of performing maintenance inspections according to the procedures established by experts; the habit of resisting short cuts to save time or because of a momentary inclination toward complacency.

It is the habit of being safety conscious; of taking precautions. It is the habit of expecting the worst turn of events in any situation—a child darting out from behind a parked car as you are driving down the street—another driver not yielding the right of way. It is the habit of gingerly checking your brakes on icy roads or during wet weather so that you will know what braking action to expect and can make necessary allowances.

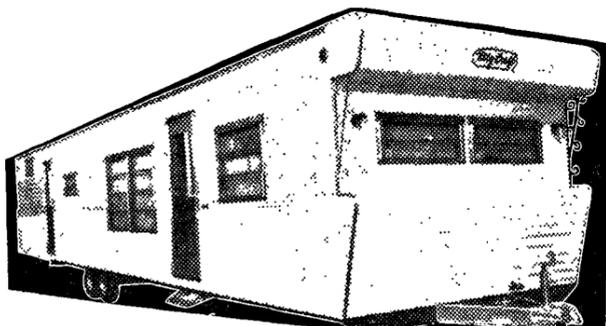

The list goes on and on.

The inclination to relax a safety habit is often very strong, especially if it appears to be insignificant. However, consider the driver who had a habit of checking behind his car before he backed out of his driveway. After years and years of practicing this habit, can you imagine his trembling relief when one time he found a small child innocently playing in the sand behind his rear wheel? You can be sure that he will be eternally grateful for establishing that safety habit.

Pastrick will begin the Panel discussion on technical matters with a second year progress report on the Army's Inertial Guidance and Technology Center.

Grunwald and Leonard will join representatives of other Army Agencies in a review and preview on Army Fiscal Years 65 and 66 inertial component and system research and development.

Incorporating management information into the Army's inertial guidance management technology data file will be Ewart's discussion topic, and Wetheral's subject is fluoric missile control systems.

The medal was presented on Schaefer's reassignment to Bell Laboratories Holmdel, N.J., installation where he will be Director of the Data Communications Laboratory.

The reassignment will take Schaefer away from the Army's Nike projects which he has been involved in nearly continuously for the past 20 years. He proposed the command guidance concept in August 1944 while serving as an Army Lieutenant at Frankford Arsenal.

Leaving the Army, he returned to Bell Laboratories which subsequently became responsible for development and design of the air defense Nikes.

The citation said the medal was given "for exceptional and meritorious performance of duties as Director of the Bell Telephone Laboratories' Kwajalein Field Station and for exemplary conduct as a resident of the Kwajalein Test Site during the period August 1963 to July 1965." He directed the activities of the Nike-X System contractor in the detailed planning for and performance of test operations necessary to implement the Nike-X test program objectives.

His active participation in community affairs contributed immeasurably to the successful achievements in the Nike-X Test Program, and to the successful transfer of the Kwajalein Test Site to Army control. For his outstanding technical contributions and for exemplary conduct, he has reflected great credit upon himself, the Bell Telephone Laboratories, the Nike-X Project Office and the Army.

TO ALL PERSONNEL OF THE U. S. ARMY MATERIEL COMMAND:

The establishment of the U. S. Army Materiel Command on 1 August 1962, merged some 700 years of collective experience of the former Technical Services into an organization with the purpose of providing timely, effective, and coordinated materiel support to the combat soldier.

As we celebrate our third anniversary, this goal is being realized. The AMC record is one in which we can all take pride. Our techniques and procedures have been streamlined. During these three years, we have exceeded goals in development, production, and delivery of materiel. Significant savings have resulted from improved contracting techniques, and from the outstanding efforts made by each of you to "do more with less," and "do it right the first time."

Our support for the soldier in the field—from Korea to Berlin, from the Dominican Republic to Vietnam—is on schedule. The weapons, equipment, and supplies we are providing are worthy of the men who use them. This is no time, however, to rest upon our laurels. As the pace quickens, the mounting demands upon our skills and experience must be met by each of us with determination, dedication, and with a real sense of urgency.

I wish to express my personal appreciation to each of you for your continuing loyal support. I am confident that the Army Materiel Command will continue to live up to its highest expectations and to accomplish all assigned missions. The soldier in the field expects no less; we shall not disappoint him.

bruised egos accrued to people who backed up without looking (43), misjudged clearance (25), failed to maintain control of their vehicle (24), failed to observe traffic (20), failed to stop for a stop sign or signal (13), and either made an improper turn or drove too fast for conditions (11 each).

Maj. Dale Hamilton, Jr., the Acting Provost Marshal, believes the solution to traffic accidents is more driver courtesy and a lion tamer's attention to what is happening in front, in back and on both sides.

Since most accidents happen to people on the way to and from work when the traffic is the heaviest that is the time to be especially heedful, according to the MPs.

Says Major Hamilton, shaking his head, "we've watched women driving in heavy traffic in the morning with one hand while looking in the rear view mirror and applying lipstick with the other hand. And, it's not only women," he adds quickly. "Men have been seen shaving on their way to work."

His nominations for discourteous driver of the year go to people who don't use deceleration lanes properly, pull out and pass long lines of traffic, drive so slowly they open up big gaps in the traffic flow, come to an almost complete stop while making a turn, and ignore Yield Right-of-Way signs.

Maj. Hamilton says, "A driver who intends to turn where there is a deceleration lane should enter the lane at its beginning."

"But, there are times to drive as if you owned the road," says the MP chief. "One of them is when you are in heavy traffic flow and some soul is waiting to pull into the traffic from a side street. If you stop, you may do him a favor, but you may also send some hapless driver 15 or 20 cars back piling into the stopped vehicle in front of him."

If you were tagged for a moving traffic violation last year, yours was among 1,953. A total of 862 (nearly half of all violations) were written for speeding 10 to 14 miles over the limit. Speeding 15 MPH or more over the limit accounted for 180 citations. And you can get a ticket for going less than 10 miles over the speed limit, as 90 motorists found out.

The next most frequent offense was ignoring Yield or Stop signs or signals. Four hundred and eighty-one motorists took a losing chance on this one. It's not recorded how many also ended up in the accident statistics cited earlier.

A total of 116 improperly registered vehicles were tracked down. Only four people, however, were issued tickets for reckless driving.

What are your chances of having an accident while driving your car on Redstone Arsenal? The answer is about one chance in 17,000 each day. However, about one vehicle out of every 162 will be involved in an accident this year.

Unfortunately, these figures are like saying one out of every two children in the United States is Chinese because half of all children born each year are Chinese.

According to the MP's, your chances of an accident are pretty much in a direct ratio to how much you use the 330 miles of Arsenal roads.

For example, while the military account for only about 16 per cent of the Arsenal's "population," military drivers were responsible for 37.1 per cent of the accidents last year. This is by no means an indictment of military drivers as poor drivers, but is instead an indication of how much time they spend driving on Redstone Arsenal, according to the Military Police.

Civilian drivers (Army and Marshall Space Flight Center Civil Service employees) account for 38.4 per cent of all accidents, and contractor personnel account for 24.5 per cent according to an accident breakdown.

After a day at work, drivers are fatigued, their reaction time is slower and they are in a hurry to get home. These are some of the factors that account for the fact that your chances of being in an accident are 60 per cent better between the hours of 4:00 and 5:00 in the afternoon than for any other hour. Nearly a quarter of all accidents happen during that hectic hour. The second riskiest hour is between 7:00 and 8:00 a.m. No accidents were reported last year between the hours of 4:00 and 6:00 a.m.

The five most hazardous locations for traffic accidents currently are: Patton Road at Holiday Plaza Shopping Center; the intersection of Goss and Patton Roads; Rideout Road from Gate 9 to Highway 20; the Main Gate; and the intersection of Martin Road and Rideout Road.

And, in case you haven't heard, the MP's have jurisdiction from Gate 1 to Bob Wallace Avenue on Patton Road, and that means they can give you a ticket there just as they can inside the Arsenal gates. If you are involved in an accident on that stretch of street, MP's should be called to perform the investigation.

As frequent as they are, the number of traffic accidents per 1,000 cars has steadily declined over the past three years on Redstone despite the fact that the number of cars has increased.

One reason for this may be the initiation of the traffic point system. Under the system, a traffic violator can accumulate from one to twelve points for each violation. With the accumulation of 12 points within a two-year period, the violator loses his driving privileges for a period of six months. The violator's supervisor or commanding officer may recommend a lesser period of suspension for a lesser number of points. There are 6 offenses for which the maximum number of points are assessed. (See point assessment list.)

Since the point system went into effect, a total of 89 people have lost their driving privileges for accumulating the maximum number of points. Four people had to scrape their decals off twice and one individual who never quite adjusted lost his three times.

The point system alone has not resulted in the reduction of accidents. Other things that have helped include road improvements, automatic signals, use of radar and assignment of more enforcement personnel.

1st Lt. Mike Thompson, an Arkansas attorney who heads up the Operations Branch of the Provost Marshal's Office, says he has 25 full-time men on traffic control and can call in others if needed.

These men control the coming and going of some 40,000 guided missiles each day through 9 gates. (The 40,000, by the way, represent only about 2/3 of the vehicles registered on the Arsenal. Vehicle registration personnel believe their next count will show some 52,000 cars, trucks and motorcycles with decals.)

signed to combine with a self-propelled tracked vehicle, thus making the entire unit self-contained and self-sustaining. For helicopter operations, the lightweight launcher and missile can be removed from the tracked vehicle and can accompany combat troops being transported by Army helicopters; or they can be dropped by parachute.

Once on the ground, the missile on the launcher can be moved into position or towed cross country by truck or other light vehicles.

The launcher is equipped with everything needed to check out, aim and fire the missile.

Lance is being designed to provide fire support, both nuclear and non-nuclear, to infantry, armored and mechanized divisions. It is the Army's answer for a hard-hitting weapon that is rugged, reliable, simple, mobile and accurate.

The first Army missile to use pre-packaged storable liquid propellant, Lance will have substantially greater range and accuracy than the Honest John which it will replace.

For accuracy, Lance relies on a new modified inertial guidance and control concept which was conceived by the Missile Command's Research and Development Directorate.

Summer Students Given Orientation And Tour

Last week the Summer employees hired under President Johnson's Youth Opportunity Campaign program toured the Army Missile Display area at Redstone Arsenal, received a civilian Personnel orientation, and were welcomed as employees by Maj. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commanding General of the Army Missile Command.

Also on the stage to welcome them was the director of Civilian Personnel, Jack McConaha, along with Col. Thomas W. Cooke, Commander of the Army Missile Support Command, and James Blackburn, Chief of the Employment and Services Division in Civilian Personnel.

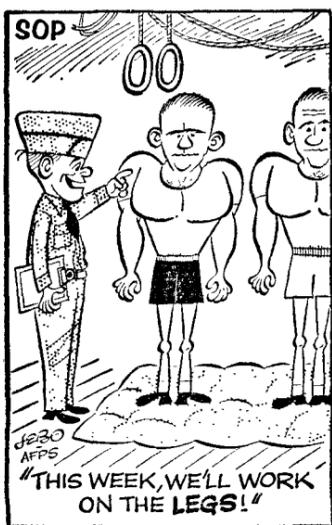

Among those conducting the orientation were John S. Hinkle, CPO Director of Training; Lawrence Williams of the Training Office and Blanche Elrod, who has handled the placement of the YOC's in offices and laboratories spreading from the Arsenal's boundaries.

None are classified as skilled. Almost all of them plan to continue academic progress. They range in age from 16 through 21, and their employment stops in the Fall when most will return to school.

SUMMER STUDENTS MEET THE GENERAL—Youth Opportunity Campaign summer employees of the Army at Redstone Arsenal gather around their bosses prior to an orientation program on their jobs. Maj. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commanding General of the Army Missile Command (shown in left center) spoke to the group at the Army Exhibit Area auditorium. Standing with Gen. Zierdt are Col. Thomas W. Cooke, Commander of the Army Missile Support Command, and Jack N. McConaha, Chief of the Army's Civilian Personnel Office. Army elements at Redstone have employed 133 of the young men and women participating in the President's summer Youth Opportunity Campaign.

AT SCHOOL

Four Army Missile Command employees are taking a one-week course in the use of computers and scientific management logistics this week at the Army Logistics Management Center in Ft. Lee, Va.

They are: Thomas Beasley and Gerald W. Myers of the Supply and Maintenance Directorate; Boyett J. Hennington, Directorate of Production and Procurement and James B. Ellis, Assistant for Logistics.

Judge Advocate Offers Legal Assistance Here

Incoming students at the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School, as well as active duty and retired personnel of all services and their dependents in this area, are entitled to make use of the legal assistance available at Redstone Arsenal, it was emphasized here this week by Lt. Col. George C. Eblen, Staff Judge Advocate.

Service members and dependents are offered a variety of professional legal services including advice and assistance in preparing income tax returns; applications for citizenship; information on immigration and passports; advice concerning divorce, marriage, adoption, civil damage actions, insurance, indebtedness and other contracts; advice concerning sale or lease of real property; notary public services; and execution of wills and powers of attorney, he said.

Available legal services, free of charge, include almost everything a civilian attorney can do, Col. Eblen said, except appearance in a civilian court or before an administrative agency. The legal assistance officer covers only the fields listed above and does not cover military justice or such administrative matters as finance and personnel activities.

However, Eblen said other counsel is available in his office in connection with many areas.

He stressed that the confidential relationship between client and attorney that is normal in civilian life also applies to the Soldiers Advocate or Legal Assistance Officer.

A legal handbook for military personnel is available without cost at the Office of the Staff Judge Advocate in Building 5250 or through company and unit commanders in the Missile School area, it was pointed out.

Naval Reserve To Offer Four Training Courses

The Huntsville Naval Reserve Officers' School has announced that four courses for Navy, Marine and Coast Guard Reserve Officers have been scheduled for the school's 1965-66 academic year beginning September 1.

The courses are Space Technology, National and International Security Organization, National Strategy in the Cold War, and Counterinsurgency. They will be offered at the Naval Reserve Training Center, 203 Leeman Ferry Road, each Wednesday from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m.

Eligible Reserve Officers interested in participating in this training program should contact the school staff at the Naval Reserve Training Center any Wednesday evening for further information.

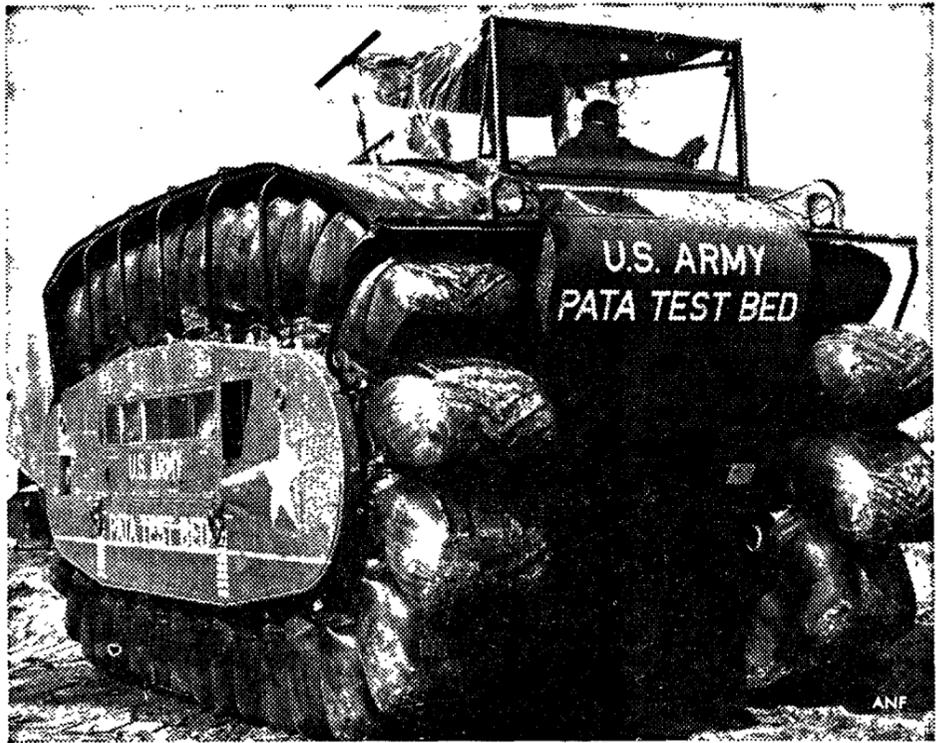

NETHERLANDS ATTACHE VISITS

The Air Force Attache of the Netherlands visited the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School Monday and Tuesday for an orientation of the school and a visit with Air Force students from his country.

Col. Robert Hofstede flew in from Washington Monday morning and stayed through Tuesday afternoon.

While at the school, he visited the various missile systems laboratories and classrooms and saw the Television Division and the Army missile display area.

He was entertained Monday evening at dinner at the Redstone Officers' Open Mess.

Little League Playoff Series Opens Next Week

A highly successful Redstone Little League season will come to a close next week with a playoff series matching the winners of the first half of the split season with the second half winners.

Redstone Park took the first half crown while the Rockets are leading the second half race with a one game lead over the Ajax. The playoff series will be a two out of three set.

The only disheartening note on the season was the inability of the Arsenal youths to win in their first entry in the area Little League tourney held in Huntsville last week.

The Redstone All-Stars dropped an 11-2 nod to the Continental League All-Stars on Thursday and were edged by the Southern League Stars, 10-9, in the consolation game on Friday.

Although they were on the short end of the score in each game, the post team played good ball in both games. Manager Marv Lucas said that he was exceptionally proud of the boy's play and that he expected the Arsenal team to be a stronger factor in area Little League activity in future years.

Gary Miller and Johnny Neil were the leading Redstone hitters in the two games while Kevin Donley turned in the outstanding pitching performance.

Miller collected two home runs and a triple while Neil added one over the fence blow in the second game. Donley came on in the third inning of the second game and pitched shutout ball the rest of the way.

In Four Days 30 Awards Amassed By Pistol Team

The Redstone Arsenal Pistol Team returned from the four-day South-Central Regional Championship Matches held in Memphis, Tennessee in July with the lion's share of the awards. The team won a grand total of 30 awards during the four day tournament.

Leading the team in individual awards was 1Sgt F. H. Gurecki with eight first place and two second place awards in the expert class. Also firing in the expert class was 1/Lt W. E. Murphy with six first places and 1/Lt W. S. Greenlee with two first place and three second place awards. In the master class 1/Lt J. M. Degen gathered three first place and two second place awards and M/Sgt R. F. Kreps added one first and one second place awards.

week, 15-7, 11-15, and 15-4.

The team is part of the OTD League, which also has teams from Supply and Maintenance Directorate, MICOM, and other squads made up of instructors and students in the department.

The program is under the direction of Lt. Don White.

In the team matches the Redstone shooters won the first expert award in the 22 caliber team match and beat all the other teams to win the 45 caliber Service Pistol Championship on the final day of the tournament. The local shooters competed with teams from the Air Force, Army Reserve, National Guard, Marine Corps, and Kentucky State Police.

The present squad is the finest

REDSTONE NETTER SEEKS ARMY TITLE

Lt. Perry Fisher opened his bid for the All-Army tennis championship yesterday in San Antonio, Tex., where he is competing as a member of the 3rd Army team.

The Calibration Center officer and former Cornell University netter, earned the right to compete for the Army championship by taking second place in the Third Army tournament. His conqueror in the Ft. Stewart meet, Sp. John McGill, and Capt. Scott Allen, both of Ft. Benning, are also entered in the All-Army tournament.

The tournament opened yesterday and will be concluded on Sunday.

pistol team that Redstone Arsenal has ever had, as evidenced by the number of trophies brought back from matches all over the Third Army area.

Unit Level Softball Race Tightens

With three weeks to go in the regular season play, the line up for the double elimination playoff tournament of the Unit Level Softball League is rapidly taking shape.

The playoff will pit the eight top teams together for the post championship won last year by B Company of the Student Training Command. The tourney will start on August 17.

The Officers, leaders of the league race since the first of the season have suddenly found themselves in a tight race after dropping their second loss to ETC in last week's action. Their 15 wins gives them a game and a half bulge over the Support Command.

The 1st ETC team indicated in their win over the Officers that they mean to capture the crown. The OGMS team has only dropped two but has been the victim of the rain and as a result has five games to make up.

The second place Support Command team has been coming on strong in recent weeks primarily through the efforts of their pitching staff of Gene Cagle, Tom Terry and Hal Pond.

Cagle turned in the outstanding performance of the season last week when he limited C Company to two hits for a 1-0 win. Later in the week Terry had his chance and he turned in a 7-4 decision over 3rd ETC.

Three other teams who seem to have clinched berths in the playoffs are, the defending champions from B Company, the Military Police and A Company.

The remaining two spots appear to be up for grabs with 4th ETC, C Company and Hqs Co, STC, having the best chance.

HOME RUNS BY THE DOZEN—PFC. Siebert Lusk takes a hard look as he awaits the pitch—a look that has been paying off for the 291st Military Police Company of the Unit Level Softball League. The hard hitting Military Policeman has connected for an even dozen home runs in 17 games this season. The long-ball specialist hails from Matoaka, West Virginia.

follow those applied last year. Two hunters will be allowed to occupy each of 50 blinds with shooting allowed only from the blinds.

Atkenson has stated that locations of some blinds will be shifted this year to allow hunters who desire to hunt ducks a better opportunity. Most of the blinds in use last season were placed in fields for goose shooting.

A significant change this year will be a limit of 15 Shells per hunter. Atkenson said the limit was being imposed in an attempt to put some control on high shooting. Numerous hunters complained last year that inexperienced gunners were firing at birds beyond range.

Dates for the hunt will be from the opening day of the state season—which has yet to be set—until the end of the year. Shooting will be prohibited on Sunday and Thursday of each week and on Christmas Day.

Persons desiring to apply for hunting permits must submit applications in writing between September 15 and September 25. Atkenson warned that applications received before or after those dates would not be considered. He said that a drawing would probably be necessary to assure an equitable allocation of permits.

Applicants should not submit hunting license or cash. Permit holders will be required to present their licenses at the control point on the refuge on the day of the hunt.

Ramsdell's Gem Leads Rockets To Even Split

The Redstone Rockets will be trying to put their record on the winning side of the ledger this week with a trio of games at Linton Field against three independent teams of this area.

Braham Springs was here for a game last night and on Friday evening a team from Patoek, Ala., moves in for a 7:30 engagement. On next Tuesday the Decatur Life Insurance nine will offer the opposition for another 7:30 game on the Redstone diamond.

The Arsenal nine has been on the losing end of the score in four of their six encounters to date, after splitting a pair of games last week. On Tuesday the locals looked like world-beaters in taking a well-played 5-1 decision from the American Legion Post 351 of Huntsville.

However, on Friday they looked altogether different in dropping a 12-5 game to the Arabian Knights of Arab.

In the winning effort Bob Ramsdell turned in a brilliant performance as he scattered six hits and struck out ten Legion hitters for the win. His defense backed him up with their first errorless game of the season.

After a pair of scoreless innings the Rockets broke the game open with a four run outburst in the third giving Ramsdell all the lead he needed. The locals added a single counter in the fifth and the visitors finally broke the Ramsdell spell with a run in the final frame.

Pete Carruthers started the winning rally with a single, and after Al Alvarez also singled, Bob Seegar doubled off the left field wall to chase two runs home. Irv Lyles kept the rally going by reaching on an error and Dave Rosado singled to plate Seegar.

Lyles took third on the safety and scored the fourth run on Dave Herb's sacrifice fly.

The final run tallied on Seegar's second double and another Rosado single.

The Friday night game was a different story as the Knights started right off with a trio of runs in the opening frame and added another three in the third.

Mike Stuart started on the mound for the Rockets but just didn't have it this time. Seegar came in from his left field position to do the pitching after the second three-run outburst. Although the two Rockets combined for twelve strike outs, they were hit freely by the visitors.

Carruthers and Alvarez collected five of the seven Redstone safeties and between them scored all but one of the runs.

Ronnie Mann went all the way on the hill for Arab and fired third strikes past 14 Rockets while walking three.

Wildlife Refuge Sets Waterfowl Control Limits

Controlled waterfowl hunting will be permitted again this year on Wheeler National Wildlife Refuge according to a recent announcement by Thomas Atkenson, refuge manager.

The hunt for geese and ducks, held last year for the first time, resulted in a kill of more than 1,000 Canada geese and approximately 500 ducks.

Garden Club To Hold Show

The Redstone Arsenal Officers Wives Garden Club is sponsoring a flower show Aug. 12 at the Redstone Officers Open Mess for members of the Wives Club.

Deadline for registering to enter one of the seven categories is Aug. 2. Handling the registration and the class to be entered are Mrs. John Thompson, 877-5558; Mrs. G. R. Wetzel, 877-4267; Mrs. T. L. Richards, 877-5767; and Mrs. J. M. Loomis, Jr., 877-5931.

Displays will be open to the public between 1 and 4 p.m.

The theme is around the world with flowers and the six categories include:

Class I—In a Japanese Garden, using fresh flowers and rocks;

Class II, Antarctica, will be interpretive arrangements with white flowers;

Class III, South of the Border, will be interpretive arrangements of fresh flowers or plants;

Class IV, Safari to Africa will allow arrangements of fresh flowers and/or fruit;

Class V, Scenic Southwest, will have dried arrangements; and Class VI, In a European Curio Shop, will be interpretive arrangements of fresh flowers to enhance accessories.

In addition members may arrange an exhibition table with one place setting on a square table.

The flower show is free.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO US—Members from all the Special Services activities from the Craft Shop to the Workout Facility were on hand to celebrate the 25th anniversary of Special Services Friday afternoon. Among the "guests" in the Post Service Club ballroom were Lt. Thomas F. Cleveland, Special Services Officer, the bowling lane staff, and office staffs as well as members of the Service.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER PLANNED

Employees of the Comptroller and Director of Programs and Finance and Accounting Center are having a testimonial dinner at the Redstone Officers Open Mess at 6:30 p.m. July 29 to bid farewell to Col. William J. Newman, who is retiring from Military service.

Col. Newman's tour as Comptroller and Director of Programs of the Missile Command climaxes a long and illustrious career in the Military service.

Col. D. A. Marcelle will be welcomed as the new Comptroller and Director of Programs and Lt. Col. Milton Jones, newly assigned Chief of Finance and Accounting Center, and Finance and Accounting Officer for the U.S. Missile Command complex will also be an honored guest.

All friends of Col. Newman and those who have been closely and professionally associated with him are cordially invited to attend the testimonial dinner and to welcome the newly assigned officers.

Members and wives of professional associations with which Col. Newman is affiliated are also cordially invited.

Reservations may be made with J. L. Edgar 876-2840 or J. N. Beaver 876-1423.

BIRTHDAY PARTY—Special Services is 25 years old this month and the staff lined up for birthday cake on Friday afternoon because they had to work while the enlisted men had a Special Services birthday party that evening at the Service Club. The Service Club staff members (l to r) Betty Hansen, Molly Patterson, Director; and SP4 Albert Jones are behind the service table. Getting her cake is Norma Short, librarian while Nelda Ellet and Iva Heflin await their turn.

Toastmistress Inducts Two New Members

Mignonne Groetzinger and Eileen Hennessee were inducted into the Huntsville Toastmistress Club last week with Mrs. Noel E. Donlin, the vice-president, administering the oath.

Toastmistress is a training organization dedicated to developing the art of leadership as well as the art of speaking. The effective training program is realized by individual practice through a variety of program assignments and speaking situations. The more advanced members are available as guest speakers to other civic or social organizations on request. Interested program chairmen may contact Mrs. John H. Haire, 536-6922.

At the last meeting Miss Marian Hocker presided. Grace was given by Mrs. Donlin. Topicmistress for the evening was Mrs. Alice Faye Earnest. Mrs. R. P. Hearn was voted best topic speaker. Lexicology was presented by Mrs. Enoch Nilsson.

Mrs. Joseph C. Moquin served as Toastmistress and introduced the term theme, "Happiness is being a Toastmistress." The speakers were Miss Hocker, educational; Mrs. J. N. McConaha, autobiography; Mrs. Barbara Ray, impromptu and Miss Dollie Wiginton, extemporaneous. Miss Wiginton was awarded the best speakers cup for her speech "Replies in 65."

The lead evaluator was Miss Nell Curtis. She was assisted by Mrs. Rhoda Stambaugh and Mrs. R. P. Hearn. Tellers were Mrs. Joseph Duchac and Mrs. George E. Ford. Mrs. Rhoda B. High served as timer, Mrs. Wayne Gough as grammarian.

Guests for the evening were Miss Claudelle Griggs, Mrs. Robert Coulter, Mrs. Jack Morrow, and Mrs. Rodney Chamberlain.

The next meeting will be Aug. 4.

Lt. Col. Thompson Tells Of Preventive Dental Care At Kiwanis Meet

At The Service Club

By BETTY HAYES

Did you have some good times at the Service Club this month? The South Sea Island Magic Dance and the Chuck Wagon Supper are only two of the activities which I hope that you will long remember.

Don't be discouraged, however, if you missed the big activities in July. We have planned a variety of programs for August, which are guaranteed to be fun-filled events. A sneak preview into my little red book shows a watermelon cutting and a show by the Union Barrack-Ades as two special treats. but wait a minute—let me tell you about the programs for this week.

Why not enter our two contests this week! A checker contest will be held tonight at 8 p.m., and a chess contest will be conducted on Friday evening at 8 p.m. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of these contests.

On Thursday evening join us in the small lounge for card kapers at 7:30 p.m. Let's see if you have the winning score for your favorite card game.

Play smoker poker with us on Saturday evening at 8 p.m. Cigars and cigarettes will be furnished for those who participate.

Coffee call will begin on Sunday morning at 9 a.m.

Disc Jockey Bob Radke promises to play your favorite record requests for the August Whirl Sunday at 8 p.m.

If you saw the performance of the Union Barrack-Ades last August, you won't want to miss their show which will be held on Monday, Aug. 2, at 8:15 p.m. This hour and a half show will include dancers, musicians, and vocalists. Don't forget to mark your social calendar for this event!

Bridge anyone! Tuesday evenings at 7 p.m. have been designated as bridge night at the Service Club. Join us this Tuesday in the small lounge.

Cleon Roberts, Med Det, had the lucky service number for July. On your next visit to the Service Club check to see if your number is the lucky number on the August program.

The chuck wagon supper proved to be a big success. Around seventy-five guests were served buffet style in a western setting. Since you enjoyed our western meal for July, we promise to serve you an equally delicious meal at the pot luck supper in August. Check this column each week for more information on this program and other events.

See you at the Service Club.

WEST POINT INSTRUCTORS—Seventeen instructors from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point did their homework at Redstone Arsenal Monday. They were guests of the Missile Command for a round of detailed briefings on the Army's missile programs. These included briefings on Pershing, Lance, missile intelligence, Nike-X, TOW, MAW, SAM-D, future missiles, laser research, and research and development facilities. The group was to spend Tuesday at the Marshall Space Flight Center. Here during a lull in the briefings, are John Wlodarski of the TOW Project; Col. E. C. Cutler, Jr., Professor and Head of the Department of Electricity at the Point; Capt. William Fiorentino of the Nike-X Project Office; and Lt. Col. W. W. Chandler, Associate Professor of Electricity.

Maintenance Support Vital To Fighting Man Pilot Says

Whether it's repairing helicopters shot down by the Viet Cong or missiles in the field, the role of the maintenance support men is one of the most vital in the Army, according to Lt. Paul A. Henze, a veteran Army pilot of the war in Viet Nam.

Henze, who was flying two planes when they were knocked down by Communist ground fire in Viet Nam, drew this parallel during an address to four graduating classes at the U.S. Army Ordnance Guided Missile School Friday.

Henze is presently assigned as an instructor in maintenance at the Army Aviation Center, Ft. Rucker, Ala.

Included in the graduating classes were 31 U.S. enlisted men and two enlisted men from Denmark.

PFC Walter E. Shave, Jr., was awarded a plaque as the outstanding student graduate for maintaining a 96.6 grade average. The plaque was presented by the Association of the U.S. Army.

The other honor graduate named was Pvt. Wilbur A. Weder.

Army Takes Care Of Family, Deflects Hardship Of A Sudden Overseas Move

The orders said he had only 16 days before reporting to Ft. Benning. From there he would be sent to Viet Nam.

For a man with a wife and seven children, this is not very much time in which to arrange one's affairs.

And this was the situation faced by CWO-2 Chester Green only a few days ago at the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School.

It generally takes longer than 16 days to move to a new area and find suitable housing, much less make arrangements for leaving a family behind and providing for it.

But Green was fortunate for Third Army headquarters in Atlanta, which administers some 100 installations in seven Southeastern states, had anticipated his problem. With the assistance of the Secretary's Office at the School, he found suitable quarters for his family on another Army base in the Third Army area. This was done under a special provision allowing military personnel with a hardship to transfer their families to bases where there exists a surplus of housing, and such housing was available at Ft. Stewart, Ga.

If he had not been able to locate military housing, the warrant officer would have had to find a residence in the civilian economy, a distinct financial hardship to a serviceman going overseas.

When Green asked for assistance, Lt. John R. Strack, assistant secretary at the school, called through to Third Army headquarters in Atlanta to see what was available. It happened that Ft. Stewart had several houses available. Other Army areas, if Green wished, could also furnish a list of bases with surplus housing, as it turned out. But he elected to move Mrs. Green and the seven children to the base in southeastern Georgia, near Savannah.

Transportation and moving costs were provided for by the Army and CWO Green was ready to depart for his new assignment, with the assurance that his family was being taken care of.

The system which relieved the warrant officer's hardship is a program under which all bases with a surplus housing situation notify the Department of the Army. In some cases the figures are misleading, such as at some Army schools or training centers where there is a large turnover of personnel occasionally resulting in a few houses being open for a few days.

But in cases where actual surpluses exist, with the permission of that base military dependents can be transferred to available housing under the hardship provision.

In such cases, military personnel must request assistance, according to the Missile School secretary. But from there, every effort is made to accommodate their needs.

If so desired, on the same space available system, dependents can also be moved to other Army areas within the continental United States, the Secretary said.

Dr. Schilling Is Honored By Academy

Dr. Martin Schilling, Raytheon vice president, engineering and research and acting general manager of the Research Division, has been elected an Active Member of the New York Academy of Sciences.

Academy members are internationally known scientists representing every field of investigation.

Schilling, whose primary fields are physics and electronics, joined Raytheon in 1958, coming from Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala. At Redstone, he received the U. S. Army's highest civilian honor, the Exceptional Civilian Service Award, for his work in missile development.

Among other organizations to which Schilling belongs are: the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, the American Physical Society, American Ordnance Association, Association of the U.S. Army and the Armed Forces Communications Electronics Association.

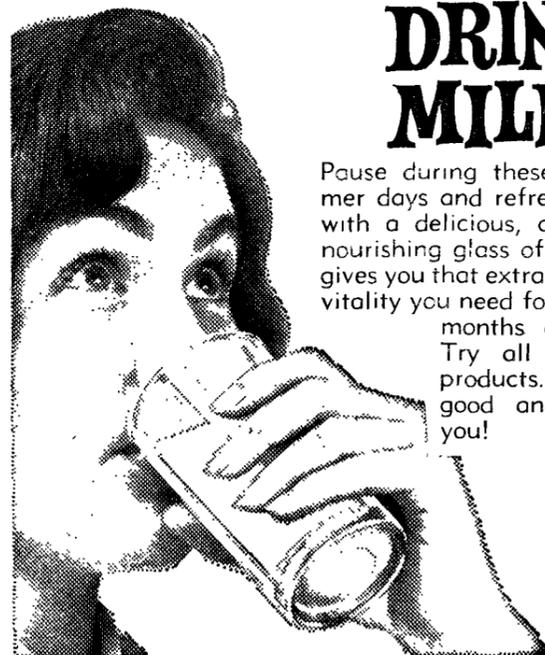

He holds a master's and a doctor's degree in applied physics from the Institute of Technology, Hanover, Germany.

DOUBLE BARS—Col. Robert Allgeier, assistant for Operations and Security in the Army Missile Support Command, pins the bars of a captain on Patrick Barney, a former executive officer for the 291st Military Police Detachment at Redstone Arsenal. Capt. Barney was on leave between assignments in Korea and at Ft. Gordon, Ga., where he is now. The captain asked his former "boss" to pin the new bars on him.

MARY GRADY

has just returned from St. Louis, Mo., where she attended The National Hair Dressers and Cosmetologist National Premiere of new Fall Hair Fashions.

Presented At The

Chase-Park Plaza Hotel

While there she studied the new look "The Lively Curl Look" hair fashion style introduced by the Official Hair Fashion Committee. It is a complete swing away from the severely slick styles of other seasons.

So-o-o, girls will have curls this fall! What's more, they'll be lively curls. Now, your hair is a soft and airy curly top, lively, young and free, but also highly feminine. It's a fun style that is extremely practical. It retains its playful fun with tumbling and tossing curls. In profile, there is a soft rise at the top crown area increasing as it moves forward.

The hair is now being tapered rather than blunt cut. The hair must be cut by a professional expert . . . vital too is the professional permanent waving putting body and movement into the hair at places where it is needed. Your coiffure must have lively curls and a lively design, but in the right places. A fashion note is the blending of several tones of hair colors into a single shade to give a soft halo effect near the face.

COL. FERGUSON SLATED FOR PENTAGON POST

Lt. Col. Mildred M. Ferguson, secretary of the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School, has been assigned to duty at the Pentagon and will report Aug. 2 to the Office of the Director there.

She served as secretary of the School for more than two years after returning from duty with the Military Advisory Assistance Group in Korea. As secretary of the School, a position equivalent to adjutant at other military bases, Col. Ferguson was in charge of administrative and personnel matters.

Col. Ferguson is a graduate of the University of Mississippi. She first entered the Army in 1943, taking her commission in May of that year.

Lt. John R. Strack has been named acting secretary.

A CENTURY OF SERVICE 1865-1965

"Daddy feels like that every payday."

TWO GENERALS—Maj. Gen. Kenneth G. Wickham, Commanding General of the Combat Service Group of the Combat Development Command visited the Army Missile Command the past week. Here Maj. Gen. Wickham confers with Brig. Gen. C. W. Eifler, Deputy Commanding General of the Missile Command for Land Combat Systems. During his one day visit Maj. Gen. Wickham received a briefing on the Command's role as a National Inventory Control Point for Army missile materiel. He also talked with Col. Erwin Graham, Commandant of OGMS; and Col. Frank J. Wasson, Chief of the Combat Development Command's Missile Support Division at Redstone Arsenal.
