Savings Ceremony Set

Cost Reduction Week will be observed Aug. 22-26 at the U. S. Army Missile Command, with civilian and military personnel being challenged to make fiscal year 1967 a record savings year.

Gen. Frank S. Besson, Jr., Commanding General of the Army Materiel Command, parent agency of the Missile Command, will be at Redstone Arsenal for a Cost Reduction ceremony. On Thursday, Aug. 25th, he will speak to a group of approximately 450 people, representing various elements of the Missile Command and Nike-X Project Office, which also will be participating in the week-long observance.

August 22-26 was designed by Gen. Besson as Cost Reduction Week throughout the Materiel Command, which has responsibility for providing the Army with weapons and equipment.

To attain total awareness of Cost Reduction Week and the goals set for fiscal year 1967, each of the 450 who hears Gen. Besson will return to his area and "pass the word," according to Horace M. Williams, Missile Command Cost Reduction Coordinator.

While at Redstone, Gen. Besson will see displays of some of the Missile Command's projects where costs of operation were reduced. He also will tour several of the research and development laboratories and test ranges where rocket and missile firings are conducted.

Scheduled to participate in the Cost Reduction ceremony on Aug. 25th are Maj. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commanding General, Missile Command; Brig. Gen. Clarence C. Harvey, Jr., Deputy Commanding General, Air Defense Systems; Brig. Gen. Edwin I. Donley, Deputy Commanding General, Land Combat Systems; and Col. I. O. Drewry, Nike-X Project Manager.

Scout Roundup To Kick Off At Support Command

Col. J. N. Jean, Commander of the U. S. Army Missile Support Command, will be host Aug. 17 to a kick-off meeting of the 10th Annual Fall Roundup of the Tennessee Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America. The meeting will be held in Redstone Arsenal's Picnic Area One.

John H. Goodloe, Council President, said that the annual fall program is to round up former members and recruit new members to Scout units after the summer vacation months.

Col. Jean has been appointed Council Roundup Chairman and will direct the 1966 "Rugged Road Roundup." Goal is to recruit more than 2,000 new Scouts between Sept. 1 and Dec. 1 in the nine counties of North Alabama which make up the Council.

The program for the Aug. 17 meeting will be opened with a concert by the 55th Army Band. Robert Haskins, Scout Executive, will participate on the program which will include an introduction of eight technical representatives (See SCOUT on Page 3)

Metrology Center Named To Honor Maj. Gen. Cone

The U. S. Army Missile Support Command's new Metrology Center at Redstone Arsenal will be named in honor of the late Maj. Gen. John M. Cone who was Commanding General of the White Sands Missile Range, N. M., at the time of his death.

Col. J. N. Jean, Commander of the Support Command said that an official dedication of the $1,456,400 building will be held on Sept. 15. Ground was broken for the building in 1965, by Maj. Gen. John G. Zierdt, Commanding General of the Army Missile Command.

Among the guests at the dedication will be the widow and son of Gen. Cone.

TOW, Army Mule Drop To Desert

TOW and an Army "Mule" rode a parachute to earth from clear skies over Yuma Proving Ground, Ariz., Friday in the first air drop of the missile assault weapon.

All test objectives were met, the Army said.

TOW is the Army's newest heavy anti-tank/assault weapon system and is now in advanced production engineering. The "Mule" (M-274) is a four-wheeled vehicle, one of several on which TOW can be mounted.

Contracts Go To Hughes, RCA, Raytheon Company

Another milestone along the road leading to development of the Sam-D air defense system was passed this week. Three companies—Hughes Aircraft Co., Fullerton, Calif., Radio Corporation of America, Moorestown, N. J., and Raytheon Company, Bedford, Mass.—were chosen to conduct a five-month Contract Definition Phase of spelling out in detail their proposals for a missile system capable of simultaneously acquiring, tracking, identifying and destroying multiple air-supported targets.

The contracts awarded the companies by the Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., are for $2,500,000, Raytheon; $2,974,995, RCA; and $3,024,532, Hughes.

The three prime contractors were picked from among four who originally submitted SAM-D proposals, which have been evaluated over the past few months. (See SAM-D on Page 3)

Col. Raymond C. Bishop Joins Staff At School

The U. S. Army Missile & Munitions Center & School has added a new member to its evergrowing staff with the assignment of Col. Raymond C. Bishop as Director, Air Defense Department, Directorate of Individual Training. Col. Bishop will direct the instruction, training and maintenance of the U. S. Army's Hawk and Nike Air Defense Systems and the $75 million dollar school.

Col. Bishop comes to Redstone from the Office of the Defense Attaché, American Embassy at Rome, Italy. His many and varied assignments during 26 years of service have included tours in Europe, Alaska, Korea and Japan.

HOW DO WE SPEND IT?????—The O'Brien family happily ponder what to do with it as Specialist 4 Joseph W. O'Brien drops some of his bonus money into his wife's purse. O'Brien, of Mobile, Ala., reenlisted for six years and collected $7,557.50 under the Army's new Variable Reenlistment Bonus Program. The bonus given to O'Brien, an Electronic Technician with the 200th Ordnance Detachment in the US Army Missile & Munitions Center & School, is reputedly the largest VRB ever paid at Redstone Arsenal, Ala. O'Brien collects $2,500 cash and the rest in equal installments for the next five years on his date of reenlistment. According to O'Brien "a good deal of the money will be put away for the children's education." Pictured above are (from L to R) O'Brien holding Joey, his wife Mary Jane, Jeffrey and Teresa.

'Log' Unit Thanks Huntsville For 'Adoption'

Members of the 93rd Evacuation Hospital in Viet Nam became honorary citizens of the City of Huntsville last week under "Operation We Care."

LONG BINH, South Vietnam—"Deepest appreciation" was expressed today to the citizens of Huntsville, Ala., by Lt. Col. Walter C. Gordon, Jr., of Albany, Ga., commanding officer of the 93d Evacuation Hospital here, an element of the U. S. Army's 1st Logistical Command, for the city's expression of support by "adopting" the medical unit.

The "adoption" resulted from a letter received by Maj. Gen. Charles W. Eifler, commander of the 30,000-man 1st Logistical Command, from the Huntsville Chamber of Commerce noting the city's interest in sponsoring an American unit in Vietnam.

General Eifler felt the 93d hospital team would be "most ideal for such a sponsorship because of its combat support mission, and its dedicated service to the sick and wounded of the American forces." For this reason, he selected the hospital and forwarded his recommendation to Rocket City where it met with an immediate warm reception.

A native Pennsylvanian, but a man who now calls Huntsville home, the general claimed the city's offer 'was just the kind of thing I'd expect from the people in my 'home town.'

Receiving the news at the hospital, Colonel Gordon said "the generosity of the people of Huntsville will go a long way in boosting the morale of both staff and patients, especially during holiday periods when the desire to be with loved ones will be the greatest.

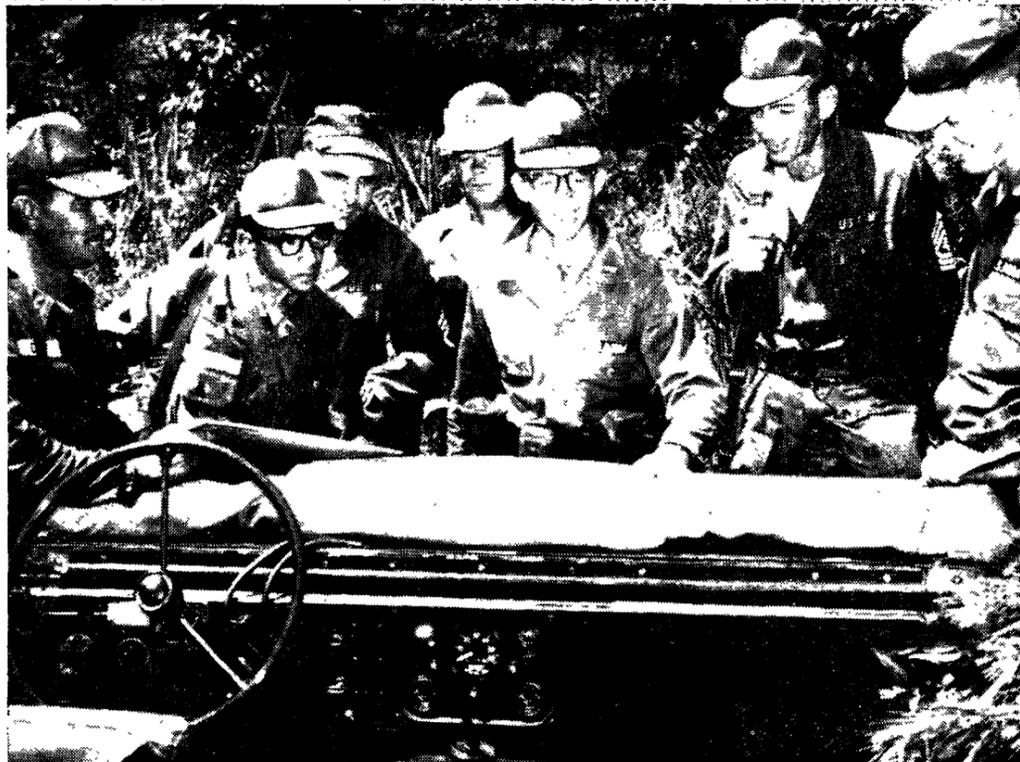

"The finest medical care in the world isn't all that's needed by a wounded soldier half way around the world from his family. He also needs to know somebody cares. You may be assured, when you remember him, he will always remember Huntsville.

"I further promise," the commander added, "whatever cards, letters, gifts or mementoes we receive from you will be shared with our patients." Colonel Gordon, soon to complete his Vietnam tour of duty, accompanied the hospital to the embattled Republic on its deployment last fall.

Originally stationed at the former home of the 1st Infantry (Big Red One) Division at Ft. Riley, Kans., the hospital followed the Red One into combat in Vietnam, arriving at its present location early last November. Today its 165 doctors, nurses and officers and more than 230 enlisted specialists, including several native Alabamians provide skilled and modern medical care to the American soldiers of the 1st Infantry Division, 25th (Tropic Lightning) Division and the 173d Airborne Brigade, as well as Australian and New Zealand combat forces.

The record of the hospital has been outstanding since its first patients were admitted on December 1, 1965. Beginning with a handful of tents pitched in a sea of mud, surrounded by enemy snipers, the hospital today is a large complex which boasts 72 semi-permanent buildings on its 35 acres of graded and improved land.

"We have admitted nearly 7,000 soldier patients since we began operations," the doctor-commander claimed, "with an overall mortality rate of less than one-half of one per cent, lower than the war's average, a record of which we are proud and will strive wholeheartedly to improve further."

NEW OUTFIT—Capt. Richard L. May, center, commanding officer, 522d Ordnance Company, briefs his staff during the unit's "baptismal" field training exercise at Redstone Arsenal. The 522d was activated at the U. S. Army Missile & Munitions Center & School in June 1965. The unit specializes in ammunition and maintenance support for the Army's tactical forces. Observing the proceedings is Capt. Alan L. Judson (behind Capt. May), Chief, Ammunition Division, advisor to the unit during the training.

The site near the Francis J. McMorrow Missile Laboratories was chosen for low radio frequency interference and because it has a low seismic shock frequency.

Gen. Cone assumed Command at White Sands in August, 1965, and died of a heart attack in March, 1966. He had previously been Commanding General of the Supply and Maintenance Command from 1962.

No stranger to Alabama, Gen. Cone commanded the Anniston Ordnance Depot from 1959-1960.

He earned the Bronze Star Medal and the French Croix de Guerre during World War II. His European-African-Middle East Theater Campaign Ribbon bore five bronze stars. At the time, he was Ordnance Officer attached to the IX Corp Tactical Air Command. He also served in the Far East and in Germany.

Gen. Cone, a 1937 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, was originally commissioned a Field Artillery Officer. He transferred to the Ordnance Department in 1939. Among his assignments was a tour as Chief of Plans and Programs Division in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance.

Mrs. Cone is from New Orleans, Louisiana. Their son, John M. Jr., is a Lieutenant in the Signal Corps, stationed in Arizona.

the desert floor is part of the Army's program to develop an air-drop capability for the weapon system. Friday's drop was made from an Air Force transport plane flying at 1,500 feet.

The entire package, weighing about 1,900 pounds, included the vehicle, the TOW launcher and six missiles.

The TOW program is managed by the U. S. Army Missile Command. Robert P. Whitley is Acting Project Manager. Hughes Aircraft Company is prime contractor.

The Missile Command's Test and Reliability Evaluation Laboratory, under the test team leader concept, is responsible for the air drops. Many other elements of the U. S. Army Materiel Command are participating, as well as representatives of the Combat Developments Command and Hughes Aircraft.

Prior to actual air drops, controlled impact drops were conducted at both Redstone Arsenal and at Yuma. Equipment was dropped onto concrete from a height of more than 12 feet. These tests provided data on such things as proper tie-down procedures and the ability of equipment to withstand ground impact forces.

Air drops will determine, among other things, required rigging and

A native of Hattiesburg, Miss., he is the son of Mrs. R. J. Bishop. He is a graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi, receiving a B.S. degree in education in 1937. In 1963, Col. Bishop received his M.A. degree in Personnel Administration from George Washington University. Prior to entering the Army, he was a mathematics teacher and athletic coach at Biloxi High School, Biloxi, Miss.

Commissioned a second lieutenant in the Coast Artillery in 1940, Col. Bishop participated in five European campaigns plus the landings in Normandy.

Col. Bishop, his wife Lynette, and their three children, Barbara, James and Candy live here at Redstone Arsenal. Barbara is a graduate of the Mary Washington College of Virginia University, James is a sophomore at La Grange College, La Grange, Ga., and Candy will enter the sixth grade here at Huntsville.

derigging procedures. In later drops, soldiers will move in on the equipment, derig it and emplace it for simulated firings.

Yuma Proving Ground's Air Testing Branch handles the critical job of rigging the equipment, provides instrumentation and coordinates air drop requirements in support of the tests.

Adaptation of the TOW to the Army Mule was accomplished by the Ground Support Equipment Laboratory of the Missile Command's Research and Development Directorate.

TOW is being developed for infantry troops to use against tanks or field fortifications. Combining a lethal warhead with high accuracy at both close and long ranges, the missile system is effective against moving or stationary targets.

In tests at Redstone Arsenal, TOW gunners have scored direct hits on tanks more than a mile away.

In operation, the TOW gunner obtains a telescopic sight picture of the target, then launches the missile which follows his line of sight. For moving targets, the gunner tracks the target with his sight, thus generating signals that correct the missile's course.

Weighing about 160 pounds, the TOW launcher breaks down into units for easy handling and may be carried by troops and fired from a ground emplacement. Or, it may be mounted on a variety of vehicles.

Following the five-month period, if no further definition effort is needed, one or more of the three will be picked to receive development contracts.

SAM-D (Surface-to-Air Missile—Development) is being planned for a continental and battlefield air defense role in the 1970's, against low, medium and high flying aircraft, and short range missiles. It eventually will replace the Nike Hercules and a portion of the Hawk air defense systems, both operational in the United States and overseas.

A SAM-D battery will be a highly mobile firing unit mounted on either tracked or wheeled vehicles. Mobile launchers each will carry several of the single-stage, solid-propellant missiles in launching-shipping containers. A multi-function phased array radar will perform all of the functions for which several radars are required in other missile systems. In operation, a single radar will detect and track targets, and issue guidance commands to the defensive missiles, which will be armed with either nuclear or non-nuclear warheads. A Battery Control Center will coordinate firing operations within the battery and serve as a communication center.

The Navy is participating in development of SAM-D, with Defense Department intentions of having a weapon system fully acceptable to the Army's needs and containing components that could measure up to the environmental conditions found aboard a ship at sea.

Several subcontractors will be connected with SAM-D Contract Definition Phase. Teamed up with Hughes is Douglas Aircraft Co., Santa Monica, Calif., and Food Machinery Corp., San Jose, Calif.; with RCA—Beech Aircraft Corp., Wichita, Kan.; and Raytheon—Martin Co., Orlando Div., Orlando, Fla.

The SAM-D Army-Navy Project Office at the Army Missile Command is responsible for technical supervision of the advanced air defense system. Col. Edward M. Dooley is SAM-D Project Manager. Navy Capt. William A. Arthur and Charles A. Cockrell, an Army Civilian, are his deputies.

Firm DOD Policy is to meet maximum enlisted manpower requirements through voluntary enlistments. Reliance on draft is only for residual numbers required from month to month.

WIVES' SCHEDULE FULL

More than twenty Fall activities will be offered for member-participation on Tues. Sept. 6, when the Redstone Arsenal Officers' Wives Club opens the new year with a Welcoming Coffee at 10 a.m. in the ballroom at the Officers' Open Mess.

Those wishing to join the club and sign up for scheduled classes prior to the coffee may do so in the interim. Prospective members should mail a check for $3.00 dues, payable to the Officers' Wives Club, to Mrs. A. O. Wiklund, 56 Bomford Dr., Redstone Arsenal, including full name, return address, phone number and husband's unit details. Membership cards valid through May 31, 1967 will be returned by mail.

Classes will be held weekly at the Officers' Open Mess unless otherwise noted. Husbands of members are eligible to take the ballroom dancing course; their children may take children's ballet, charm and/or cotillion; husbands, children and bona fide houseguests are eligible for all tours sponsored by the wives club.

Members already planning to join the cake decorating, oil painting or dressmaking courses are advised to contract early the appropriate committee since essential equipment must be purchased in advance. This applies also to the children's ballet classes.

Other classes to include Antiques, Square Dancing and Slim 'n Trim, will be offered during the Winter according to popular demand.

Following is a handy guide listing contacts for all Fall activities.

BALLROOM DANCING (Arthur Murray) for adults, Mondays for 10 weeks 8:15 p.m.-9:15 p.m. starting with a complimentary lesson on Sept. 19, Mrs. P. E. Comeaux, 877-4541; Mrs. C. Holmes, 539-2575; Mrs. M. J. Vaccaro, 536-4875. Chairman: Mrs. J. Swearingen, 534-8967.

BOWLING begins Fridays 9 a.m. to noon in mid-September at the Special Services Bowling Lanes. To join the League as a permanent team player or as a substitute, call Mrs. P. J. Lanphear (President), 536-0493; Mrs. S. R. Baen, 877-5536; Mrs. C. R. Crantford, 877-4658.

BRIDGE groups meet as follows: Duplicate Bridge, Mondays at 9:30 a.m. Reservations (Mrs. F. B. Goodman, 837-0270) are required only if a partner is needed. The group does not play for Master Points. Mrs. Goodman is accepting names for a Duplicate Bridge lessons course which she will be teaching free of charge. The Party Bridge groups meet Thursdays 10 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Reservations are necessary. Mrs. W. Thomas, 881-8851 will be the chairman from September onwards.

A HAT FOR A HOBBY—These members of the Redstone Officers Wives Club have turned fun and a hobby into attractive hats for all occasions. The Club sponsors a Hat Making Group among other activities of interest to members. Left to right are Mrs. Melvin Sweat, Mrs. Delmer Groves, Mrs. D. F. Knapp, chairman for the group, and Mrs. J. P. Mooney.

THE LAST TOUCHES—Mrs. E. J. McGinnis, left, chairman for the Ceramics Group of the Redstone Officers Wives Club, places greenery and candles in the elegant centerpiece she made as a member of a previous ceramics class. Mrs. P. E. Comeaux, center, and Mrs. S. R. Baen, arrange fruit in another completed piece. Mrs. Comeaux will start ceramics classes this year, and Mrs. Baen has studied the art here and in Washington, D.C. while her husband was stationed there.

SPORTS

Push Ball Proves Popular With 4th ETD Trainees

People enjoy themselves in different ways but can you imagine as many as 50 men pushing, batting, or tossing around an object five feet tall, 15 feet in circumference weighing 15 pounds—and getting a thrill out of it?

The men of the 4th Enlisted Training Company did, as they introduced the sport of "push ball" to the U. S. Army Missile and Munitions Center and School last week.

Long popular at colleges as a means of controlling traditional rivalry between freshmen and sophomores, push ball appears at first glance to be nothing short of mass mayhem.

But Capt. Lee W. Eberhardt, MMCS Athletics and Recreation Officer, says the game not only implements the sports and physical training programs at the School but advances the "mass participation" concept he is introducing to the sports program.

To start the game, the nearly round, air-filled "ball" is placed on the 50-yard line (the field of play is the same size as a football field). The two teams line up opposite each other about five yards from the ball. The referees' whistle ignites a mass "charge" at the push ball as the players try to get it across their opponents goal line for six points.

Following a six-point goal, the ball is placed on the defending team's five yard line. The scoring team then tries to push it across the goal line for the extra point.

The action is rugged and almost continuous with four, five-minute playing periods, but the men seem to like it. One of the perspiring players whose team had just received their first taste of push ball said, "It surely is different, but I like it." Another said, "I could do this everyday, it's fun." Still another added, "It's pretty rough out there, but it's great."

Capt. Eberhardt, also the commanding officer of the 4th Enlisted Training Company, said that push ball will be played mostly during the cooler months, "When there is a slack period in the other MMCS sports programs."

Midge Clisson Hits To Win

Golfers in the group sponsored by the Redstone Arsenal Officers Wives Club played an all-irons competition on the Arsenal course last Wednesday.

Midge Clisson and Jo Donley tied for low gross with a 48. Midge was hitting in all classes of competition. For low net she scored one stroke over Joy Pyle's 38 and in low putts tied with Blanche Kaiser with 14 each.

Keg League Slated For Enlisted Wives

Opening round action in the Thursday morning Enlisted Wives' Bowling League is scheduled to begin Sept. 8 at Redstone Arsenal Lanes. Play begins at 9 a.m.

This league is open to all military dependents, active or retired.

For further details, call Ann Weiner at 877-4155.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE A WEATHER BALLOON? —Men of the 4th Enlisted Training Company introduce the sport of "push ball" to the Army Missile and Munitions Center and School early this week as part of their physical training program. The object is to "push" the ball across the opponents goal line but here things seem to get a little "out of hand."

DPO Holds Lead . . .

Comptrollers Grab Second Place

Tuesday Games

Some of the wives must have felt concern for the safety of their husbands; many of the players probably thought they were ducks in a shooting gallery!

That's how lively action was in the Civilian Softball League last week as line-drive basehits, like shots from a machinegun, sprayed over, around and through fielders at the Civilian Recreation Area diamond. Hitting was the name of the game.

When the slugfests had ended, Data Processing remained solidly entrenched in first place, banging out 21 hits enroute to a 13-4 victory over S&M Lab. Leading the onslaught were Gary Mann, Les Gilreath and Bob Hall with three hits each. Just for good measure, winning pitcher Bud Smith notched a strikeout, a rarity in slow-pitch softball.

The win was the sixth for DPO during the second half race and the fifteenth straight since the team lost one decision early in the season.

In other games, Documentation defeated G&C Lab 21-13, Pershing bombed Comp Center 31-12, Finance & Accounting stopped Propulsion Lab 22-16, Comptrollers nipped Communications 22-19, and Procurement and Production won by forfeit over Nike-X.

Comptrollers, tied with Pershing for second place, blasted 37 hits to overpower Communications and remained in the running for the second-half crown. Wielding hot bats were Harold Jacobs with five hits, followed by Al Johnson and Bob Wilson with four each. Jim Bishop got the decision.

Pershing kept pace by shelling Comp Center with 31 safeties. Jay Allen with five hits and Fred Thomason with a three-run homer provided the main support for winning pitcher Jim Daily. Jim Bunnell was a defensive standout, making several long, running catches in centerfield.

Finance & Accounting erupted for 10 runs in the fourth inning to break open a tight game and get the nod over Propulsion Lab. Leading hitters were Les Cieutat who had four, one a homer; Jack Willis with four; David Bobo, winning pitcher, with three; Russell Ward with three, including a homer. In addition, Ward hit another drive well over 300 feet which was caught. But the ball was hit so deep in centerfield that two runners tagged up and scored after the catch.

Harold Curtis stroked a bases-loaded homer, Phil Kirby added a three-run round tripper and Sid Sapp chipped in with four hits to spearhead Documentation past G&C Lab. Curtis, who plays short field, also was a defensive standout.

Thursday Games

Rain and wet grounds wiped out most of the action Thursday night.

In the only game completed,

Finance & Accounting finally snuffed out a seventh-inning rally to defeat Pershing 13-9.

F&A went into the final inning leading by a comfortable 13-3 margin, only to see Pershing battle back and send six runs across the plate. But F&A stopped the rally at this point.

The loss knocked Pershing out of a tie for second place with Comptrollers in the second half race.

Providing the power for F&A were Jack Willis with four hits, one a two-run homer; Les Cieutat with a three-run homer and a two-run triple, and David Carter with three hits, including a double and triple. In addition, Willis was a defensive star. Johnny Johnson was the winning pitcher.

In the only other change in league standings, Documentation won by forfeit over Nike-X which had dropped from the league.

Elsewhere, the rain might have been a life saver for league-leading Data Processing.

Communications was ahead of DPO, 13-4, going into the fourth inning when rain halted play. DPO has won 15 straight games since losing one early in the season.

Army Spends $30.9 Million For Supplies

The Army Missile Command spent $30.9 million last month to support the Army missile programs, but all the orders were not just for small items of hardware, laboratory supplies and equipment, paper and pencils.

They also included such things as literature for the Post Chapel religious services, safety goggles, room deodorant, and coveralls.

The total amount represents hundreds of awards, none of which was for a million dollars or more. Approximately $1.5 million went to firms in the Southeast, and Huntsville's share was $907,000. Other Alabama cities received more than $270,000.

The remainder of the orders was spread among companies nationwide.

The awards are executed by the Army Missile Support Command Purchasing and Contracting Division and in the Missile Command Procurement and Production Directorate.

Girls Find Work Creates Urge To Travel

Secretaries throughout the United States usually come into their offices expecting to hear a "good morning" from fellow employees, but two young ladies at Redstone Arsenal may hear "Guten Morgen", "Buenos Dios", "Bon Jour", "Ohaio", or any of 20 other greetings when they arrive at work.

Betty Osborne and Cathey Cowley work at the Missile and Munitions Center and School's Foreign Liaison Division.

A Fayetteville, Tenn., resident, Betty is a secretary to Lt. T. F. McDonald, Acting Chief of the Foreign Liaison Division. She has worked here for a year and a half. Her many duties include taking dictation and helping or directing foreign personnel with questions or problems to the "right place."

Cathey, from Kelso, Tenn., is a graduate of Peabody College in Nashville. She does the in and out processing, keeps the files and makes identification cards and security badges for the foreign personnel.

• Army boxing trials are underway at Ft. Bragg, N. C., in preparation for the interservice tournament scheduled for March 29-April 1 at the Navy's Little Creek, Va., Amphibious Base. Thirty-nine soldiers are competing for berths on the All-Army team which will be coached by Pat Nappi, mentor of five Army interservice-championship teams.

How important are their jobs? Lt. Col. Richard Rheim, (USA-Ret), until recently the Chief of the MMCS Foreign Liaison Division said, "As these foreign students first real contacts, the impression the girls make will remain with these people throughout their stay here. It isn't everyone who can handle these jobs."

Dealing with such a wide variety of nationalities, customs, etc., a few problems are bound to arise in their work. Betty said, "When I first began it was very difficult for me to take dictation from the foreign students." Cathey added, "I didn't know just what to say or when to say it."

Do the ladies like their work? Both answered yes. Betty said, "Just by talking to so many people, I feel that I know a little more about the world."

Does travel seem more enticing to Betty and Cathey now that they've gained more knowledge about so many countries, customs and their people? Cathey commented, "I've always wanted to travel, but now, more than ever, I'd like to travel world-wide." Betty quickly added, "If I could visit some of these countries, I'd be on the next plane."

Just what are the people like from those far-away places? The girls didn't hesitate with their reply. They said, "They're just about like us."

IT'S NOT THAT FAR—Two attractive employees at the Army Missile and Munitions Center and School, "map out" countries they would like to visit. Betty Osborne, left, and Cathey Cowley claim that since working at the MMCS Foreign Liaison Division, they have become doubly interested in foreign travel.

Missile Displays Draw Travellers From Afar

Almost 10,000 persons—mainly from out-of-state—toured the U.S. Army Missile Display Area during July, indicating the increasing tourist interest in the attraction located off Jordan Lane near Bob Wallace Avenue.

By actual count, 9,874 persons signed the Display Area guest register and a big majority of them listed home addresses away from Alabama. Every state in the Union except Montana, Nevada and Rhode Island was represented. The Commonwealth of Puerto Rica was there too.

Foreign visitors were logged from West Germany, Denmark, Canada, India, United Kingdom, Switzerland, Italy and Turkey.

Personnel at the Army Missile Display Area say they have many more visitors than their records show because people frequently do not take the time to sign the guest book. The area, featuring full scale models of Army missiles outdoors and indoor exhibits in three air-inflated domes, is open to the public daily from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m., and is closed on Monday. Films showing various aspects of the Army missile story are shown in an air conditioned theatre and picnic facilities are available underneath pine trees.

The Huntsville Youth Band is heard in concert at the area every other Saturday and Sunday with the next scheduled performance being Aug. 20 and 21.

The Army Missile Display Area will be open Monday, Sept. 5, Labor day.

SERGEANT MAN GOES FISHING—Posing on a pier at Port Aransas, Texas, following a successful fishing trip out in the Gulf of Mexico are John E. Stair, Chief, Program Management Office, Sergeant Project Office, and his eight-foot sailfish. Stair made the catch recently while trolling 20 miles offshore with his son-in-law, Ralph Friese, McGregor, Texas. Weighing 60 pounds, it was the biggest sailfish caught during an annual fishing rodeo in Port Aransas. Stair said it took him 40 minutes to boat the fish.

Connaughton Captures Cyclone To Power Motor

Would you believe a cyclone in your engine could develop the power thrust of Army missiles? Or that harnessing that power could miniaturize and revolutionize the flexibility of the Army's liquid missile motors?

In the old days, the Corporal took 45 minutes and a field full of auxiliary equipment to fill its fuel tanks. The Redstone once the Army's workhorse missile, also took too long to fuel at the last minute.

Joseph W. Connaughton invented a device to set up a small cyclone in missiles and rockets on which he was awarded a patent by the U. S. Patent Office. The concept contributes to miniaturization which allows pushbutton reaction because propulsion is packaged and the propellants stored aboard.

The award came three years after Patent Center at the U. S. Army Missile Support Command investigated the conical vortex injection and combustion device for reaction motors which relates to an injection device for liquid fueled rocket engines. It causes thorough atomization, vaporization and mixing of the components through cyclonic flow and was the beginning of a concept still being improved in the Propulsion Laboratory of the Research and Development Directorate, U. S. Army Missile Command.

Connaughton, Group Leader for Engineering Support of the Liquid Propulsion technology effort, devised his cyclonic combustion device for reaction motors while conducting basic studies for the Army. He is now working with his group on similar developments and the technician who helped him on the original study, Tony Duncan, (now a chemist), is still working with him in developing packaged HANDY COMPUTER—Joseph W. Connaughton keeps his slide rule handy for quick solutions that will be later electronic computer problems. He is Group Leader for Engineering Support of liquid propulsion technology in the Missile Command's Research and Development Directorate who recently received a patent for a cyclonic device which is similar to those currently under study for packaged liquid fuel in Army missile motors.

liquid propulsion concepts for both small and large missiles.

Some of the problems to be or that have been overcome are low cost materials, miniaturization, and minimum weight for high thrust rocket engines of simple design. Since the motor is liquid fueled, it is hermetically sealed, and pre-packaged at the factory.

The developments which the men are studying now will give more and more of the Army's arsenal of missiles, high thrust liquid propulsion motors instead of the less flexible solids which also leave a signature in the sky as they streak toward target.

Like the tornado's power to level everything in its path, the cyclonic reaction gives very high intensity combustion that is clean and invisible.

Connaughton feels that in another five years, engines now being developed from similar concepts, still under study, will be flying. Studies of development from basic concept to operable hardware, show that it takes an average of ten years to complete such projects. The work is now approaching a practical means of packaging liquid rocket systems.

Connaughton notes that it takes a team to work out all of the problems encountered in research and development of new concepts. He was the first engineer on the payroll of the liquid propellant technology group under Dr. W. W. Wharton, still chief of the group. The difference today is that research concepts now are followed through to application.

Like the rest of the team in the Propulsion Study Group, Connaughton foresees that more and more missile systems will incorporate liquid propulsion motors as better methods of packaging the motors in the almost weightless materials which will cut costs weight to a minimum.

John McDaniel is acting head of the Research and Development Directorate at the Missile Command.

Internal News Adds Service

New equipment was placed into operation this week which will greatly improve the quality of the Redstone Arsenal Internal News Service conducted by the Army Missile Command Information Office.

The new equipment will: Permit operation of the service on an around-the-clock basis, thus extending an internal communication service to employees who work during hours other than 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on week ends and Holidays;

Make possible instantaneous recording of spot news and announcements from the Information Office without the necessity for complicated timing of tapes;

Improve the quality of recorded material since recording is automatically accomplished on a permanent type drum instead of short tapes which became worn and were subject to breaking;

Provide a certain degree of monitoring the Internal News Service to Information Office personnel since a modulation dial fluctuates whenever the equipment is in use and the constancy and peak of audience listening can be determined.

There is no change in the procedure by which employees listen to the internal news—continue to dial 112 on any arsenal telephone.

Also, the Missile Command Information Offices still invites arsenal-wide contributors to this portion of the Command Information Program. Suggested announcements or news to be considered for inclusion should be telephoned to 876-1400 or 876-1500, and written requests should be addressed to AMSMI-G.

LT. BOCHNOWSKI

Lt. Bochnowski, Aide de Camp To General Harvey

Second Lt. James J. Bochnowski has been named as new Aide-de-Camp to Brig. Gen. Clarence C. Harvey, Jr., Deputy Commanding General of the U. S. Army Missile Command for Air Defense Systems.

He takes over from Lt. William Lynn whose new assignment is with the Sam-D Project Office. Lt. Bochnowski's prior assignment was in the Command's Missile Intelligence Directorate.

The new Aide is a 1965 graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, holding a BS Degree in Aeronautics and Astronautics.

VIET CONG COOKOUT—Staff Sergeant Henry T. Asselin of the US Army Missile & Munitions Center & School's Republic of Viet Nam Training Committee briefs members of the Huntsville Council for International Visitors during a tour of the RVN training area last Thursday. In addition to commenting on the delicious ham cooking over the fire Asselin showed the group various weapons, tunnels, and other devious methods Viet Cong employ during ambush or attack. The touring group also included wives and dependents of military personnel assigned to Redstone Arsenal.

He graduated from Holy Cross High School, Flushing, N. Y., and had attended high schools in Frankfurt, Berlin and Heidelberg, Germany, where he lived with his parents, Col. (Ret) and Mrs. Estelle K. Bochnowski. His parents now live in El Paso, Texas.

Lt. Bochnowski completed the Field Artillery Officer's Basic Course at Fort Sill, Okla. and Airborne Training at Fort Benning, Ga. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity, is active in the Redstone Officers Bowling League and plays in unit level softball and volleyball.

THE CAPITOL — Symbol of Freedom, 120-page book of which more than 170,000 copies were sold when first published, has been revised including updated photographs. Providing view of American tradition, book contains pictorial story of Capitol in general and House of Representatives in particular. Book may be purchased for 50 cents from Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Visitors See Viet Living

The U.S. Army Missile & Munitions Center & School, played host last Thursday to 31 members of the Huntsville Council for International Visitors.

Highlighting the day long tour was a visit to the School's Viet Cong Training Site. During the demonstration explosions rocked the area as the ladies and gentlemen stepped on hidden trigger devices.

Lt. Jack E. Merle and SSG Henry

T. Asselin were hosts at the village and talked to the group throughout the area. They also demonstrated and explained how certain weapons, ruses, tunnels, and other Viet Cong devices were employed against our troops in Vietnam.

Dr. Sayles Speaks To School's Grads

Dr. David C. Sayles urged graduating students to "Watch closely the social, economic, and political changes in the world," in recent ceremonies held at the Army Missile & Munitions Center & School. was guest speaker for 82 graduates from the United States, Germany, Korea and the Congo.

In further remarks, Dr. Sayles stressed that "we have been fortunate to see in this era as much technical achievement as in the past 2,000 years," and advised the graduates to "keep your training up to date in the future for in the next 20 years there will be changes in not only systems, and computers but in the ammunition used."

Students selected as honor graduates were: M/Sg Rolf Spruenker (Germany), S/Sg LeRoy Brown, S/Sg Arthur L. Craft, Pvt. John W. Gordon, and Pvt. David H. Levi.

• Another recent DCSPER reminder for officers concerns special efficiency report reviews which may be requested by an officer who feels that his regular report is biased or inaccurate. If there is substantive evidence of inaccuracies, the officer is urged to collect that evidence and visit the counsellors in his career branch before submitting his reclama. ANF

• A critical shortage of Army recruiters is reported by the Army's First Recruiting District. There are some 134 vacancies in key cities in a 16-state area stretching from Maine to Indiana and south to Virginia. The openings call for the grade of E-6 and E-7, but qualified E-5's are being considered. Interested EM can submit their assignment requests through normal command channels on DA Form 1049, according to AR 601-275. Contact the First Recruiting District Headquarters at Fort George G. Meade, Md., for details. (ANF)

President Johnson has urged all Federal employees to "set a good example" in the purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds and to "eventually double the holdings of these bonds."

QUESTIONS ABOUT POLITICS? HERE ARE OFFICIAL ANSWERS

With elections approaching, the Civil Service Commission has again emphasized that Federal employees and members of their families have the right and obligation to register and vote.

Queries and comments of Federal employees, addressed to the Commission, indicate that many people do not realize the extent of activity that is permitted under the political activity rules governing Federal employees.

Specifically, an employee covered by the Hatch Act cannot run for any office as a partisan candidate or campaign for any partisan candidate, or engage in any partisan political management.

By partisan candidate is meant one representing a national or State political party such as the Democratic or Republican Party.

A Federal employee may not run for office, even as an independent, in an election in which partisan political designations are used, unless he lives in one of the communities to which the Civil Service Commission has given partial exemption in connection with his local government.

The following questions and answers have been prepared by the Commission for the guidance and information of employees:

Q. What employees are prohibited by the Hatch Act from active participation in politics?

A. Employees of the executive branch of the Federal Government and the Government of the District of Columbia, including temporary and part-time employees. The political activity of employees of any State or local agency whose principal employment is in connection with a federally financed activity is also restricted.

Q. Does the Hatch Act apply to part-time Government employees?

A. Yes.

Q. Please explain for employees affected by the Hatch Act just what their responsibilities and rights are under the act.

A. They have the right to vote and to express their political opinions, but are forbidden to take an active part in partisan political management or in partisan political campaigns. In connection with Federal employees' right to vote, the Commission emphasizes that political-activity restrictions do not relieve employees of their obligation as citizens to inform themselves of the issues and to register and vote.

Q. The Civil Service Commission enforces the Hatch Act for the competitive civil service. Does this mean that employees holding excepted positions (outside the competitive civil service) are not subject to the Act?

A. No. Excepted employees are subject to the Act, but in these cases the employing agency, not the Civil Service Commission, is responsible for enforcing it.

Q. What is the penalty for violation of the Hatch Act by a Federal employee?

A. The most severe penalty for violation is removal from his position. The minimum penalty is suspension without pay for 30 days.

Q. Is it possible for a Federal employee to run for public office on the ticket of a national or State political party?

A. No. Federal employees cannot be candidates for any national, State, county, or municipal office filled by partisan elections. They may run for local office only in elections that are non-partisan.

Q. May employees covered by the Act attend political rallies and join political clubs?

A. Yes; but they cannot take an active part in the conduct of the rally or operation of the club. They are also prohibited from becoming involved in soliciting or collecting political contributions, distributing campaign material, and selling dinner tickets, or otherwise actively promoting such activities as political dinners.

Q. May an employee who is subject to the Hatch Act write a letter to the editor of a local newspaper, expressing his opinion on a partisan issue?

A. Yes, but he must not solicit votes, for or against any political party or partisan candidate.

Q. May he make a campaign contribution to his party?

A. Yes, but he cannot be required to do so. The contribution cannot be made in a Federal building or to some other employee who is prohibited by Federal law from accepting contributions.

Q. Does an employee violate the Hatch Act by merely wearing a campaign button or displaying a bumper sticker on his car?

A. No. This is not prohibited by the Hatch Act. However, employees must observe any rules of their agencies restricting a partisan political display on the job.

Q. May a Government employee's wife who is not a Government employee engage in political activity?

A. Yes. The Act does not restrict the activities of an employee's wife or of other members of his family in any way. However, a Government employee would violate the Hatch Act if his spouse were to engage in political activity as his agent, that is, under his direction and control. The employee may not do through another what he cannot do himself.

Q. What should an employee do if he does not know whether a certain activity violates the Hatch Act?

A. Since ignorance of provisions of the law will not excuse a Government employee from penalties for violation, he should present the matter in writing to the U. S. Civil Service Commission, 1900 E Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20415, before engaging in the activity.

Registering and Voting

Q. What is the Commission's general philosophy with regard to the individual's participation in registration?

A. The Commission, over the years, has expressed the view that it believes all citizens should be encouraged to register and to vote, and that no impediment should be permitted which would hamper an individual from participating in registration activities and voting.

Q. May a Federal employee participate in nonpartisan registration drives?

A. Yes, to the fullest extent.

Q. May a Federal employee serve as an election officer?

A. Yes, provided that in doing so he discharges the duties of the office in an impartial manner as prescribed by State or local law, except that he may not become a candidate for such office in a partisan election.

Q. May a Federal employee serve in any capacity at the polls in behalf of a partisan political candidate or political party?

A. No. He may not assist such candidate or party in any way at or near the polls.

Q. May a Federal employee use his auto to take voters to the polls on election day or lend it, or rent it for this use?

A. Generally, no. Of course, the employee's auto may be used to transport himself and members of his family to the polls. In addition, members of a car pool may stop at the polling place to cast their votes on the way to or from their places of employment.

Q. In most States a registrar is appointed by the County Clerk or Clerk of the Court. Can a Federal employee accept such appointment?

A. Yes, if in doing so he gets permission from his agency and the work does not interfere with his agency's business. This is a matter for each agency to decide.

Q. May a Federal employee be excused for a reasonable time to vote or to register to vote?

A. Yes. As a general rule, where the polls are not open at least three hours either before or after an employee's regular hours of work he may be granted an amount of excused leave that will permit him to report for work three hours after the polls open or leave work three hours before the polls close, whichever requires the lesser amount of time off. If an employee's voting place is beyond normal commuting distance and vote by absentee ballot is not permitted, the employee may be granted sufficient time off to make the trip to the voting place, not to exceed a full day.

For employees who vote in jurisdictions which require registration in person, time off to register may be granted on substantially the same basis, except that no such time is granted if registration can be accomplished on a nonwork day and the place of registration is within reasonable one-day round-trip travel distance of the employee's residence.

University Names Department Heads

Dr. Frank A. Rose announced last week the establishment of Department Chairmen in several areas at the University of Alabama in Huntsville to become effective Sept. 1.

"The Department Chairmen being named will give assistance to the University of Alabama in Huntsville in carrying out a program of academic excellence," said Mr. H. Clyde Reeves, Vice President for Huntsville Affairs. Each Departmental Chairman will have specific responsibility for the leadership and coordination in development of departmental affairs in his designated area. (This will include curriculum planning, student programming and staffing.)

Department Chairmen named are: Department of English, Dr. Robert Welker, Associate Professor of English; Department of Mathematics, Dr. James M. Horner, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; Department of History and Political Science, Dr. Frances C. Roberts, Professor of Romance Languages; Department of Modern Foreign Languages, Dr. Thomas E. Lavender, Professor of Romance Languages; Department of Business and Public Administration, Dr. Orba F. Traylor, Professor of Economics and Public Administration; Department of Engineering, Dr. Joseph C. Dowdle, Professor of Electrical Engineering.
