MG Reaves Due To Visit Redstone Arsenal Today

The director of individual training for the world's largest school system will make his first official visit to the U. S. Army Missile & Munitions Center & School, today.

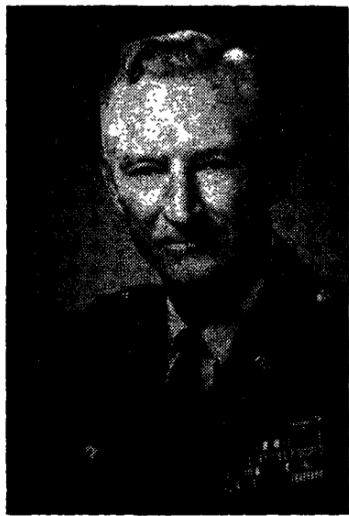

MG Kelsie L. Reaves, deputy chief of staff for individual training at the Continental Army Command, Ft. Monroe, Va., will visit the Redstone Arsenal facility as part of an official inspection tour of 26 schools and 16 training centers operated by CONARC.

Gen Reaves directs the training of some 700,000 men annually in basic and advanced individual military skills.

Arriving at Redstone Arsenal by air Wednesday, May 10 Gen. Reaves will be officially welcomed by Col. Erwin M. Graham, Jr., MMCS commandant and members of the MMCS staff.

He is to receive detailed briefings on many of the schools operations. Highlights will include spectacular demonstrations of modern Army training techniques, ammunitions and missile training, educational television, pioneered at the school in 1958. He will be honored at a dinner Wednesday evening at the Redstone Arsenal Officers Club given by Col. Graham and members of the staff and faculty.

Gen. Reaves is a native of Arkansas and was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. in 1937. His many assignments include service in Europe during World War II; at the atomic tests at Eniwetok; in Korea; with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris; and with the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington.

Gen. Reaves is to depart from the Redstone Arsenal Army Air Field shortly after a lunch tomorrow.

Halpern Sets Near Perfect Record: 99.9

An Atlanta Army Private, 21-year-old Alan H. Halpern graduated Friday, with the highest average ever achieved in the 14-year history of the U.S. Army Missile & Munitions Center & School, Redstone Arsenal—99.9.

Halpern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Halpern of 1873 Wildwood Place, gained the mark in the school's ammunition records course. In the course, students engage in an electronic war game to determine the accuracy of the records for millions of dollars worth of explosives that must be on hand for Army units in the field.

The 99.9 shattered the old record of 99.6 set only a month ago by a Dallas, Tex., soldier, Peter (See HALPERN on Page 2)

Military Medical Benefits Expand

Dependents of military personnel are eligible for expanded medical benefits provided by recent Congressional legislation.

The new law makes it possible for both hospitalization and outpatient care in civilian hospitals for dependents of active duty personnel as well as retired personnel entitled to retired, retainer or equivalent pay—including retired reservists, their dependents and survivors of deceased active duty and eligible retired personnel.

A program of care in civilian facilities for mentally retarded or physically handicapped dependents of active duty personnel is also included.

Details of the new benefits and the criteria for those eligible to receive them were contained in the April 1967 issue of the Army Digest, widely distributed on the (See MEDICAL on Page 2)

Armed Forces Displays In Two Places At Arsenal

If lots of bands, flags, floats and people go to make up a good parade, then the one planned for Huntsville's Armed Forces Day, Saturday, May 20th, should be a humdinger.

Armed Forces Day, a day established by Presidential proclamation, is an observance honoring American servicemen and women.

Some 20 bands and more than 2,500 marchers will be included in this year's parade, according to Ray Jones, Parade Marshal, and Major Donald E. Kreul, Armed Forces Day Project Officer for Redstone Arsenal.

In addition, there will be nine Army missiles and five large Artillery Pieces in the parade.

The parade is planned to begin at 9:30 a.m. and will stretch over a 16-block-long route through downtown Huntsville completing a circle beginning and ending at the intersection of Williams Avenue and Church Street.

It will pass a reviewing stand of dignitaries located on the east side of Franklin Street across from Court House Square.

Officials estimate that the parade will last for one and a half hours.

Displays and demonstrations of Army weapons, aircraft and specially trained personnel will be given at Redstone Arsenal in the afternoon.

Two areas have been set aside at the Arsenal: Redstone Army Airfield and Missile Display Area. The air field is located off Rideout Road while the domes area can be reached from Patton Road.

Both areas will be opened to the public at 12:30 p.m.

Music at the airfield will be provided by the Florence State College Band and Drill Team while the Arsenal's Army Band will entertain visitors at the domes area.

Welfare Fund Council To Plan For New Year

The first meeting of the newly-reorganized Civilian Welfare Fund Council has been called for May 16 in Room B-200 in Building 5250. Mike Foster, the R&D representative and present Council Chairman said that the main item on the agenda will be an election of officers for the coming year.

Positions to be filled at the 1:00 p.m. meeting will be chairman, vice-chairman and recorder. John Parks (MMCS) is the present vice-chairman, while the recorder position has been vacant since the departure of Roy Fox (DASO).

Six of the nine seats on the Council were filled in the recent civilian elections with two of them being claimed by incumbent members. The returning Councilmen are Abner McNaron, who was elected to his third two-year term as representative of the MICOM headquarters units, and Leon Towery, of DASO.

Towery is completing a term as at-large member and was elected to a one-year term as representative of the Arsenal Support Operations Directorate.

Jack Bailey, of the Supply and Maintenance Directorate, was elected to the at-large post being vacated by Towery, and he will be joined by Thomas Childress as the representative of that Directorate. Both posts are for two years.

Rene Mood was elected to the one-year term allotted to the Nike-X Project Office replacing J. L. Hinton, and Robert Seavers (DASO) was elected to fill the remaining year of the seat held by E. H. Hayes, who resigned due to

MILITARY POLICE SPONSOR BICYCLE RODEO ON MAY 13

Fun and seriousness will be the keynote of a Bicycle Rodeo at Redstone Arsenal. Dependant children of active and retired military, will put their bicycles through safety paces during the May 13 event at the Main Post Theater.

Sponsored by the Military Police in conjunction with the Huntsville Police Department, the rodeo will feature films, written tests, and performance tests. The boys and girls will also learn of proper inspection and maintenance of their bicycles.

Applications for entry in the Rodeo may be obtained from Provost Marshal through May 12. Contact for the application is J. J. Jepson, ph 876-2489.

The program will begin at 9:00 a.m. and end at 12:45 with awards to the winners of the rodeo. Contestants will be graded on written tests, as well as riding skill in (See BICYCLE on Page 2)

BICYCLE INSPECTION—SSG Jarwes Nayman inspects the bicycle of Darrell Williams who will be one of the members of the bicycle rodeo sponsored by the Provost Marshal. SSG Nayman is a Patrol Supervisor with the 291st Military Police Company. Darrell is not only a member of the bicycle set, he attends Pre School Classes on post.

The Redstone Rocket

The Redstone Rocket is published weekly, on Wednesdays. The publisher will receive editorial content for publication in the Rocket only through the Information Office, Army Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal, Ala., 35809 Bldg. 5250, Room A-136, Extension 876-1400 or 876-1500.

All advertising copy and payments therefor are received by Mrs. Vergie Robinson, P. O. Box 346, Huntsville, Ala., 35804, telephone 534-4701, as representative of the publisher. Advertising deadline—both display and wanted—is noon of Friday before publication.

The Redstone Rocket is distributed free of cost to personnel at Redstone Arsenal. Mailing rates off post for the Rocket are $6.36 a year, or $3.50 for six months, tax included. Mailing arrangements may be made with the publisher, P. O. Box 520, Huntsville, Ala. 35640.

Our Women Lead

Delegates to the Alabama State Convention of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Huntsville last week picked another Redstone Arsenal woman to lead activities of their state organization. The Rocket congratulates Mrs. Louise Julich, Secretary to the Deputy Commanding General Land Combat Systems of the Army Missile Command, for this honor.

Mrs. Julich will be State President-elect for one year and then will automatically be installed as president. It will be the second time a Redstone Woman has served in this office. Mrs. Dolly Flowers, a management analyst in the Missile Command's Management Science and Data System's Office, distinguished herself as State BPW president during 1964-65.

It is good to find Redstone employees taking active parts in civic affairs in their communities and state. These two are examples of the many men and women at Redstone who are finding time to contribute to society by maintaining an active interest in civic affairs.

Silver Anniversary

The WAC Corps is celebrating its silver anniversary. Twenty-five years ago on May 14, the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps was organized. A year later the Auxiliary was dropped and the WAC became a branch of the Army. Pallas Athene remained the insignia used by the WAC even though the women were absorbed into such fields as Transportation, Ordnance, Quartermaster, and all of the other Army Corps. Since then, things have changed. The women wear the insignia of the branch in which they serve.

A WAC still retains the Pallas Athene, however, when she is assigned to WAC activities.

At Redstone Arsenal a number of WAC officers have held key positions, both in the Missile Command or its preceding organizations and at the Missile School where WACs have been assigned both as students and staff.

One of the present members of the Secretaries Staff at the School is a former WAC officer who has also served as a member of the School teaching staff.

At the Missile Command, three active duty WACs are serving. The Personnel and Plans Officer on the Commanding General's Staff is a WAC officer.

One Technical Sergeant is in the Protocol Office, the other is a Mess Steward.

A former WAC is the Administrative Officer on the General Counsel's staff.

WACs have seldom been flag wavers, but they are doers who like to get a job done with a minimum of fuss and a maximum efficiency.

They strive to emulate the Mythological Lady who symbolizes the efforts of the individual WAC. Pallas Athene was goddess of wisdom, of arts, of industry and of prudent warfare.

ZERO DEFECTS CORNER

it's up to you!

The May winner of the Missile Command's "Zero Defects Employee-of-the Month" Award is John W. Torzillo, Maintenance Advisor for Ammunition in the Supply and Maintenance Directorate. Torzillo was recognized for his outstanding Zero Defects achievement in the review of Army Technical Manuals and Modification Work Orders for Ammunition items. The last review conducted 1 Jan 67 thru 31 Mar 67 covered 4000 pages related to safety aspects of handling rocket motors, in which inadequate procedures could result in serious damage to equipment and injury to personnel. He also handled various other projects in which his decisions and efforts contributed to maintaining a state of readiness in major weapon systems without any unfavorable incidents.

Torzillo was selected for the May Award from a group of twenty (20) nominees considered by the MICOM Zero Defects Program Council. He was also presented the Supply and Maintenance Directorate Zero Defects Achievement Certificate by N. E. Roberts, Deputy Chief of the National Maintenance Point. Torzillo began his employment in the Supply and Maintenance Directorate in August 54 and has been working on the Technical Staff of the NMP in his present position since March 59.

He is married to Marjorie Torzillo and they have two married children. The Torzillos make their home in Huntsville.

PLANNING SESSION—Members of the Huntsville Armed Forces Day Committee watch Ray Pearman, Community Chairman, point out highlights of the parade route planned for Saturday, May 20th. Seated left to right: Luvin Carroll, Assistant to the Parade Marshal; Capt. M. B. Harding, City Traffic Control; Maj. D. E. Kreul, Arsenal Armed Forces Day Project Officer; Ray Pearman; V. M. Burkett, Band Coordinator; and T. J. Wiseman, Civil Defense. Standing left to right: Ralph Perrill, Arsenal Community Relations; Jerry Breedlove, Arsenal Traffic Control; Ray Jones, Parade Marshal; Avery Roan, Chamber of Commerce; and Bob Flannagan, Coordinator of Veterans' Organizations.

For his efforts, Halpern received the Association of the U. S. Army Educational Achievement plaque, awarded only to those students who achieve at least a 96 in their studies. Two other students in the graduation class of 110 soldiers from Germany and the U.S. received the AUSA award. They were Pvt. Manuel Ganzarin from Mobile, Ala., with a 96 average and Pvt. Wallace B. Woolfenden, Jr., from Daly City, Calif., with a 97.5.

Other honor graduates included: PFC Danny L. Evans 94; PFC James J. Siedlecki 89.9; Sgt. Manfred Rademacher (Germany) 89.9; Pvt. Albert V. Sangermano 91.7; Pvt. Gary K. Kinsey 90.7; and Pvt. Steven C. Dillow 95.5.

More than 47,000 students from 28 countries have been graduated from MMCS since it began operations in 1952.

Before entering the service Halpern attended the University of Georgia after graduating from Castle Heights Military Academy in Lebanon, Tenn.

McGaha Wins At Bridge

W. J. McGaha won the bridge competition at the Redstone Officers Open Mess last week. The Group meets every Monday night. Runner-up was N. L. Thompson and third place winner was Mrs. Thompson. Low was Capt. Victor Stamey.

MRS. ALVAREZ WINS

Thursday bridge, sponsored by the Redstone Officers Wives Club, had four tables in play last week at the Officers Open Mess.

Mrs. T. P. Alvarez was the winner; Mrs. A. C. McDermott, second; Mrs. S. C. Brown, third; and Mrs. J. W. McCarthy was low.

The coordination is handled by Mrs. Robert Allgeier. Eligible to play are wives of members and associate members of the Mess.

Laser Engineering To Be Discussed

Two Army Missile Command experts on lasers will take part next month in a two-day Conference on Laser Engineering and Applications. Sponsoring the meeting is the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers.

John J. Ehrlich, a research physicist, and Capt. George J. Dezenberg, a physical chemist, both in the Command's Directorate of Research and Development, will present papers during the June 6-8 meeting in Washington, D. C.

Ehrlich's paper is "High Power N<sub>2</sub>-He-CO<sub>2</sub> Laser Development," while Captain Dezenberg will present a paper on "The Use of Multi-Path Cell as a CO<sub>2</sub>-N<sub>2</sub> Gas Laser Amplifier and Oscillator." Both are in the Physical Sciences Laboratory.

TAKES BPW POST — Alabama Business and Professional Women, in State convention in Huntsville last week, honored an Army Missile Command Secretary by choosing her president-elect of their state organization. She is Mrs. Louise Julich, Secretary to the Deputy Commanding General, Land Combat Systems. Mrs. Julich will serve as assistant to the state president, and will automatically assume that office next. A Redstone secretary for the past 16 years, she has been active in BPW work on local and state levels. In 1966-67 she served as first vice-president and program chairman.

AUSA Still Seeking New Memberships

"We've made a good deal of progress, but we still have a long way to go." was the somewhat cautious report that Horace Lowers presented this week on the progress of the membership campaign being conducted by the Association, U. S. Army.

The executive chairman for the drive at the Arsenal indicated that the enrollment of 539 new members during the first three weeks of the drive was very encouraging. "However," he added, "the renewals are not coming in as fast as expected."

The new member applications together with 392 renewals and 1772 current memberships brings the total membership to 2703, not quite half of the pre-drive objective of 6,000 members.

Lowers called on campaign workers throughout the Arsenal to put forth a little more effort to make sure that every person is contacted and given a chance to enroll for membership in the Association through the local chapter.

"One important phase of the campaign that should be stressed," he said "is the insurance plan that is available only through membership in the AUSA."

The low-cost term insurance was developed originally by the AUSA for military personnel on active duty. However, it is also available to all members of the Association, military and civilian, and includes wives and relatives who wish to join.

It provides all-risk protection in case of death from any cause, including war. This is a feature not included in very many policies. Lowers commented.

The membership drive will continue for another two weeks ending on Armed Forces Day. The overall objective for the campaign is to increase the Chapter membership to 6,000.

At the start of the drive the Tennessee Valley Chapter rolls included approximately 3,800 members at Redstone and in the surrounding area.

Korean Born Wives Learn Driving, English From Kim

One of the most unusual courses in driving ever conducted here is opening new avenues in American life for Korean-born wives of U.S. servicemen stationed at the Army Missile and Munitions Center and School.

Maj. Sung Ki Kim, Korean Liaison Officer at MMCS recently found that only three of about thirty Korean wives here had an automobile driver's license. The main reason, he found, was because they couldn't fully comprehend the "rules of the American roads."

Beginning in early March he taught classes three nights a week on driving and fundamental English for the Korean-born ladies.

Maj. Kim, a graduate of Dong Ah University in Pusan, Korea, explained American road signs, i.e., danger signals, speed limits and the like. Then, by request, he extended the course to help the women in the daily contact of an American housewife.

His determination to help his native people here has extended to the Department of Public Safety in Montgomery. Through his efforts, the Department now allows the written examination for the state driver's test to be taken in the Korean language. Heretofore, only English was acceptable.

The Major, who has served three tours of duty in America since entering the Korean Army in 1953, hopes eventually to teach more than fundamental English. "Most of the ladies already know enough to squeeze by, he said, but I'd like to help them learn to carry on more than just a basic conversation."

He also pointed out that a more thorough knowledge of the English language would help them toward gaining American citizenship.

So far, Maj. Kim has about 14 students attending his class held at the school and has requests for another course.

Already the four-week course has "graduated" six Korean ladies who now have drivers licenses that are a passport to the American way of life.

Missile Command Hosts Conference

The Army Missile Command was host last week to the annual Tri-Services Materials Research Conference.

At the two-day meeting of some 65 Army, Navy and Air Force representatives, a Department of Defense-sponsored conference, attention was focused on the efforts to be implemented at the research establishments of the three services.

Briefings were given by tri-service representatives in the areas of high strength, high modulus materials, metal processing, elastomeric materials and the effect of environment on mechanical properties.

On the latter topic, a briefing was given by J. S. Kobler of the Research-Exploratory Development Branch of the Missile Command's Research and Development Directorate's Future Missile Systems Division.

Kobler also acted as Project Officer for the conference.

A tour of the Missile Command's

Materials research activities in the Physical Sciences and Structures and Mechanics Laboratories was made by the contereers following the round of briefings.

Our soldier is the central element of our military strength. In far-flung outposts, he must be teacher, humanitarian, linguist, diplomat, and leader—all in addition to his major responsibility; to be ready to fight in defense of his nation.

Computer Uses In Occupation Bank To Be Studied By Committee Here

Representatives from several Department of the Army agencies and schools will meet at the Missile and Munitions Center and School on Friday to work out procedures for the wider use of computers to speed assignment of technically trained soldiers to their specific job specialties.

Known as the Military Occupational Data Bank Conference, the group includes officials from the Office of Personnel Operations at the Pentagon, the Continental Army Command and more than 20 Army schools.

They are completing plans for the Army-wide use of computers to store details on every technically trained member of the Army so that individuals can be more speedily and efficiently assigned to specific jobs. Another facet of their planning is to enable all members of the Army school system to use the computers to determine their own requirements for the training of individual students in military occupational specialties.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, the Army's Chief of Staff, has asked that the Data Bank System become operational throughout the Army as quickly as possible.

The new system is expected to help each school determine what subjects should be taught, the depth of the training that is required and what specific skills can be acquired through on-the-job training.

Officials will brief the school representatives on how they should "feed" OPO with the information necessary to make the Bank an effective organization. They'll also collect information on all the MOS's taught at the school's.

The CONARC project officer for the Military Occupational Information Data Bank is G. Carawan, Deputy Chief of Staff for Individual Training, Concepts and Techniques Division.

Fire can destroy the Bond... but not your savings

All that the owner of this charred U. S. Savings Bond has to do is mail the remains to the Treasury Department, with as much more information as he can give—serial number, and date and place of issue. He'll get a fresh Bond to replace it. No charge.

The Treasury has grown accustomed to providing this sort of service. Over the years it has replaced more than 1,500,000 Savings Bonds that have been lost, stolen, burned or mistakenly tossed out with the trash.

Every U. S. Savings Bond sold is registered in the name of its owner, and a microfilm record made. So the government can check when, where, and in whose name a Bond was purchased—even if there isn't a burned crisp to send them.

This assurance against loss is another of the many reasons why Americans now hold over $48 billion of Series E and H Savings Bonds. The money they're saving is providing for their personal security. And it's also helping to build the strength of America at a time when the enemies of freedom are stronger than ever.

U. S. Savings Bonds are a good way to provide for your future. Buy them where you bank or work.

AERONAUTICS, ASTRONAUTICS GROUP HEARS ROBERT ORR

Army Operations Research was the subject of a presentation to a local meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics last week.

The Speaker was Robert R. Orr, Operations Research Analyst in the Future Missile Systems Division of the Research and Development Directorate.

He answered such questions as what is Army Operations Research? Who performs it? Why does the Army Perform it? How does the Army perform it? and How does MICOM perform Operations Research?

Last week's AIAA session was one of a series of informative meetings planned for the summer months.

LTC Barb To Represent U.S. At NATO Meeting

LTC Richard M. Barb, director of the Explosive Disposal Department at the Army Missile and Munitions Center and School here, has been selected to represent the U. S. Army and the Continental Army Command at a high level meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization explosive disposal experts to be held in London, England, from May 15-19.

The meeting will assemble representatives of the U. S. Army and Navy along with delegates from the 14 nations of NATO. It is being held at the Military Agency for Standardization in the British capital city.

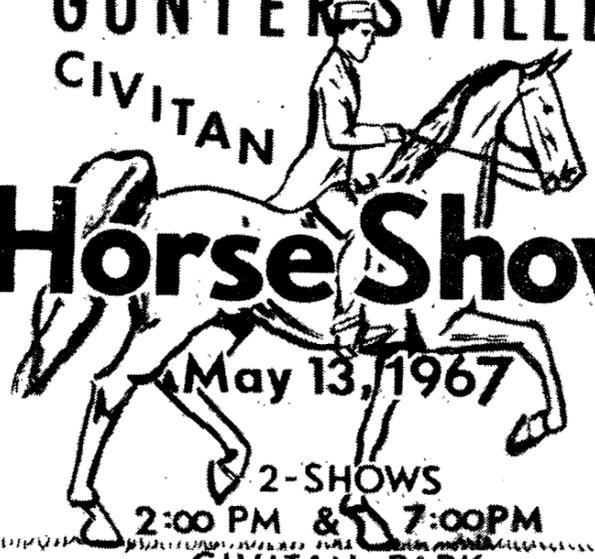

The conference is an outgrowth of many years of Anglo-American cooperation in the development of methods for the safe handling of all types of explosives, including nuclear, chemical, radiological and bacteriological explosives as well as conventional items. The cooperative effort now includes many Allied nations that are developing uniform training and operational methods.

LTC Barb has specialized in explosive disposal during much of his 26-year career in the Army. At MMCS, he heads the department which is responsible for training Army explosive disposal detachments and conducting annual refresher courses and proficiency testing of all such units based in the continental United States. The Center and School also monitors the Army portion of explosive disposal training conducted at the Navy-administered Ex-

Many Training To Advance In Personal Career Field

Forty-two Arsenal civilians left their duty stations this week to attend training sessions being conducted at Federal agencies in nine states and the District of Columbia. Two others left for the University of Michigan where they are taking training in connection with their career fields.

The training courses are made available for local personnel through the Career Development Program administered by the Training and Development Division of Civilian Personnel.

The two going to the University of Michigan are James Stanford (R & D) and Oscar Estrada (P & P). The former will be on the campus at Ann Arbor this week for Design of Engineering Experiments while the latter is taking Instrumentation for Mechanical Analysis, a two-week course.

Six of the Missile Command Students began a three-week course, Defense Advanced Procurement Management, on Monday at the Army Logistics Management Center at Ft. Lee, Va. They are John O'Donnell, Hildred Freeman, Lawrence Craig, and Charles Daley (Production and Procurement), Wesley Fitzpatrick (Shillelagh) and Bernice Hawkins (Gen. Counsel).

Charles Rymer (Supply and Maintenance) will be at the AMC Ammunition School, Savanna, Ill., for four weeks for the Air Defense Missile Course, and James Birch Support Operations is studying Industrial Safety at the AMC Field Safety School, Charlestown, Ind.

Nine more locals left for the Army Management Engineering Training Agency at Rock Island, Ill., where they are enrolled in four courses. Ralph Trine (DASO) is taking the Introduction to ADPS Analysis and Design course and James Fox (MMCS) is studying Work Planning and Control.

Thomas Ross and Garrett Hooper (P & P), Clair McGinnis (Redeye), Joseph Nalls (R&D) and William Heflin (DASO) are attending the Top Management Seminar, and William Lasseter (DASO) and John Loflin (MMCS) are taking Computer Programming.

Another MMCS employee,

Clarence Carcy, went to Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., for the Army ADPS Analysis Course at the Army Adjutant General School.

Three members of the Chief Council staff, Robert Buettner, Karolyn Pond and Jean Garner, along with Charles Carter and W. P. Murphy, both of DASO, are studying Procurement Law at the Judge Advocate General School, Charlottesville, Va.

Phillip Hugel, Helen Hughes, James Corder and Linda Bird (DASO) are in Washington, D. C. this week for Introduction to Civilian Personnel Management at Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel facility.

H. L. Maxey (Nike-X) and Kenneth Parr (R & D) are attending the Advanced Atomic Weapons Orientation at the Defense Atomic Support Agency, Sandia Base, N. M., and John Hinkle (DASO) is attending the American Society for Training and Development in Boston this week along with Glenn King (S & M).

James Nixon (Hawk) and Albert Rosenbloom (Pershing) are included in a session of Development Program in Planning offered by the Civil Service Commission at Athens, Ga.

Two of the locals are taking their advanced training with the Air Force at the School of Systems and Logistics, at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. They are Ralph Simenson (R & D) and Walker Barr (ADCCS) who are taking the Reliability Course.

Another five will receive their training from the Navy in Washington, D. C. and San Diego. James Hicks (DASO) is on the west coast to attend the Colloquium on Metering of Compressible Fluids, at the Naval Ordnance Systems Command.

Ed Kellis, Dave Walsh and Robert Summers (P & P), along with William Adamson (TOW) are in the Nation's Capitol this week for the Defense Procurement Executive refresher course.

Completing the list are two more members of the General Counsel's staff who are also in Washington to study at the General Services Administration.

They are Leta Haskins and Carl Stephens who are taking a 24-hour course entitled Putting Information Retrieval to Work in the Office.

WESTERN SHOW SET

Miss Karen Kaye and the "Midwest Drifters" will perform at the Service Club Sunday 14 May at 8:15 p.m.

Miss Kaye, a TV, Radio and recording artist is a singer of Country and Western songs. She has made recent appearances in the Midwest and Canada with the Tex Ritter tour, many military installations, fairs and rodeos.

This is the first appearance of this group in the Huntsville area.

First of all, interest on U. S. Savings Bonds is exempt from state or local income tax. For Federal income-tax purposes, the tax on accrued interest on Series E Bonds may be deferred until they are either redeemed or reach maturity. (No Series E or H Savings Bond has yet reached "final" maturity.)

SALES TALK—It didn't take Lt. Col. Milton A. Jones long to sell Brig. Gen. Clarence C. Harvey Jr. on the new Freedom Shares that are being sold as a companion product of Series E Savings Bonds. The Deputy Commanding General for Air Defense Systems had the honor of being the first at Redstone to sign a payroll deduction allotment for the regular purchase of Freedom Shares. Col Jones, the MICOM Finance and Accounting Officer, said that the new type security has already gained popularity at the Arsenal and a great number of personnel have signed payroll deduction authorizations.

Those newly announced Freedom Shares provide the individual who is already buying Series E Bonds regularly, through Payroll Savings or the Bond-A-Month Plan with a bonus opportunity to bolster family security while helping the Nation.

Three Present Technical Papers

Three Army Missile Command employees have returned to Redstone Arsenal after presenting technical papers at scientific meetings.

Dr. James F. Benzel, a research ceramic engineer in the Research and Development Directorate's Physical Sciences Laboratory, returned last week from New York where he presented a paper entitled, "The Effect of Electrochemical Parameters on the Oxidation of Metals" at a meeting of the American Ceramic Society.

Also returning from a conference where they presented technical papers were Dr. James F. Perkins and Thomas G. Roberts, both research physicists in the Physical Sciences Laboratory.

The conference, sponsored by the American Physical Society, was held in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Perkin's paper was entitled "Choice of Basic Function for Coupled-States Calculations of Scattering." Robert's paper was entitled "Experiments with Intense Pulsed Beams at Relativistic Energies."

S&M Championship Rolloff Opens At Parkway Tonite

A three game set at the Parkway Lanes tonight and another over the Starlite slides tomorrow evening will decide the S & M bowling championship with the All-Sports and Bramblets competing for the coveted rotating trophy.

The Trophymen won a place in the roll-off by capturing the title in the Supply Management league two weeks ago. Bramblets won the Field Services League crown last week with a final night win over Banner TV.

The Directorate championship, won the last two years by the Guided Muscles of the Field Services loop, will be decided on a total pinfall basis.

Tom Lindsay was the guiding light for the final night win scored by Bramblets with a strong 607 total. He opened with a 222 and closed with 203 in a match that was not decided until the last two frames of the final game.

Bramblets took a 24 pin margin in the opener but saw the TV come back with a 12-pin win in the middle game. The game was nip and tuck until the seventh frame when Lindsay and Billy Tippins started stringing strikes to open a working margin. Tippins ended the game with 217.

Bill Couch shot a 217 to help the TV men grab the second game and totaled 574 for the series. All ten bowlers in the match went over 500.

Ron Cevigny turned in a 587 to get the Expeditors a split with the Guided Muscles despite a 556 by Fred Stewart and a 541 by George Farrar. Troy Faulkner shot a closing 572 for the Crackers and Marion Walker added a 559 for the same team.

Ralph Sturgill was only able to come up with a 508 in the championship match but still clung to the individual average championship for the league with 179. Couch almost caught up with his big set before settling for the runner up spot, a pin behind Sturgill.

C Company About Wraps Up Crown

The red hot second half race in the School Troop Command bowling league draws to a close this week with C Company almost assured of the title. However, a big question still exists as to whether it will be the No. 1 or the No. 2 five that will earn a berth in the championship rolloff.

Each of the C Company quintets scored sweeps in preparing for their showdown battle this week. B No. 1 also scored a sweep and retained an outside chance at the title.

The C Firsts clung to a single point lead over their brothers with their sweep over 7th ETC as Keith Erdman shot a 571. The C Seconds took their lead from Les Heath (537) in winning all four from 6th ETC.

Hugh Mauney shot a 552 and Darrell Watson added 536 more sticks to the attack as the B Firsts swept Headquarters No. 2. Eddie Waldrup had a 552 in the losing cause.

The first half winning Headquarters Firsts took all four points from 9th ETC as Ed Ratliff turned in a 585 and Gene Shavlik upended 576 ten pins. Second ETC was another clean sweep winner with the C Thirds as their victims with Ken Allen showing the way with 546.

The top individual gunner of the evening was Gerry Wiener of A Company. Wiener turned in games of 206 and 202 in ending with a 603, his fifth Honor Roll count of the season.

EDUCATIONAL DISCUSSION—The U. S. Continental Army Command Committee for Systems Engineering of Army Training are shown concluding a three-day conference at the Missile & Munitions Center & School here. The top educational advisors from the Pentagon, Continental Army Command and six service schools were here for an analysis of training requirements and procedures in 26 Army schools operated by CONARC. Seated from left: Harold L. Oliver, MMCS; James L. Sherrill, Adjutant General School (chairman), Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind.; Thomas M. Ansbro, Quartermaster Center & School, Ft. Lee, Va.; Dr. John E. Taylor, Human Resources Research Organization, Div. 3, Monterey, Calif.; and Larry G. Ledford, Southeast Signal School, Ft. Gordon, Ga. Standing from left: Robert H. Blessing, MMCS; Frank C. Dare, Ordnance Center & School, Aberdeen, Md.; and John R. Thode, Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

AUSA Is Champion Of Active Army

Ever since the United States became a free and independent nation, 180 years ago, the citizens of the country have applied a double standard to their Army.

They have spared no expense to provide for the finest possible fighting machine during times of conflict. But in between the periods of crisis, peacetime production takes over and the Army is quickly forgotten.

We have been caught with our guard down at the outset of every armed conflict involving our country from the War of 1812 through the Korean Conflict even though each time we should have learned the necessity of maintaining a modern and well-equipped Army.

It was not until 1950 that the Association of the United States Army was organized with the avowed purpose of impressing upon the American people the importance and necessity of maintaining a strong Army as the best possible defense of their way of life.

The Navy League had been organized in 1890 and the Air Force Association took up the fight soon after that service became a separate branch. As a result of the efforts of the two groups, the airplanes flew and the battleships sailed into Korea.

But it soon became painfully apparent that there was no airplane available, nor was there an aircraft carrier in existence that could scale Pork Chop Hill. However, between them they were able to stem the tide of aggression until we were able to re-build an Army capable of finishing the job.

With the organization of the AUSA, things began to happen. Men in uniform were telling their friends in civilian clothes about the harsh realities of life in the atomic age, and members of the Association began to speak to their congressmen of the dire needs of the Army.

Slowly there developed the present policy of a strong Army capable of a flexible response to any situation that might occur at any location—an Army that could employ any kind of weapon from an atomic missile to a hand grenade.

Over the past decade several formal resolutions that were passed during the annual convention, have been enacted into law through the coordinated efforts of the individual members of AUSA.

It has, for example, led the fight to maintain the Army's strength and modernize our weapons and equipment, pointing out that new weapons are needed immediately—not months after the fighting has started.

The AUSA has worked long and hard for a build-up of our military airlift and has stressed the need for an effective missile defense program. It has stressed improvements in the welfare, service conditions and educational standards for all ranks of the Army and has consistently supported moves for higher pay and career incentives for both military personnel and Civil Service employees.

This year the Association is working on a list of resolutions adopted at the annual meeting last year. The objectives for the year are framed to support ground forces of sufficient size, mobility, and properly equipped to carry out the requirements of our National Defense.

Some of the key resolutions call for: maintaining all Army components at strengths guaranteeing the timely meeting of all commitments and contingencies; maintaining fully supported Reserve Forces capable of executing missions within the one Army concept; Supporting all measures to maintain components of the Army at the highest level of combat readiness, including the accelerated procurement of modern weapons.

AUSA has called for the early production and deployment of an effective anti-ballistic missile defense; an expansion of the junior and senior ROTC program; adequate housing for all military personnel and their dependents; and the enhancement of career incentives, including traditional service benefits, pay, retirement benefits, allowances, medical care and post-retirement employment opportunities.

All of the AUSA programs add up to an enlightened and progressive program looking toward the maintenance of a strong Army, equipped to respond flexibly in any kind of national emergency.

The Association believes that Americans want—and will not accept less—than the very best Army that can be raised, trained and equipped.

All of those associated with the Army—its civilian neighbors, its civilian employees, its military personnel and its contractors—will find it profitable to support the work of the AUSA.

LOGEX 67 Successful

About 120 military personnel of the Army Missile and Munitions Center and School returned over the past weekend from two weeks of participation in the annual logistical exercise known as LOGEX '67.

That designation is given to a vast war game, waged with computers and forms, that is staged each year at Fort Lee, Va. to test the efficiency of Combat Service Support operations by all branches of the U. S. armed forces.

The field exercise began with four days of classes. The actual games began on Friday, April 28 and ran through the following Thursday. Critiques were presented by various speakers on the morning of Friday, May 5. The play was observed by several generals including CONARC Commander, General Paul L. Freeman, Jr. Col. Erwin M. Graham, MMCS Commandant, visited points operated by Redstone personnel on Wednesday May 3.

The exercise was acclaimed a success by LOGEX officials. The local group was headed by LTC James M. Shiavo, MMCS Liaison Officer permanently attached to the 22nd FASCOM as LOGEX Project Officer. Participants said the problems introduced during the exercise were highly realistic.
