TOM CAHILL—Head Coach at West Point

Army Will Observe 167th Anniversary Of Military Academy Founding Friday

Guess who's coming to Huntsville to help celebrate the 167th anniversary of the founding of the U. S. Military Academy.

Head football coach, Tom Cahill, that's who.

The 49-year-old New York native, who has breathed new life into Army football fortunes at West Point, will be guest of honor Friday night at a Founders Day Dinner here. Festivities begin at 6:30 o'clock in the Redstone Officer's Open Mess.

Cahill will talk to alumni and boosters about Army football and will show film highlights of the 1968 season.

As a goodwill gesture and of particular importance to young men who might be interested in competing for appointment to the Military Academy, Cahill will lunch earlier Friday with Huntsville and North Alabama high school coaches and players.

The Tennessee Valley Chapter, Association of the U. S. Army, is hosting the luncheon.

Successor to such renowned coaches as Red Blaik and Paul Dietzel, Cahill immediately shoved Army into national prominence by winning Coach of the Year Honors after taking over the reins in 1966. During his first two seasons, the Cadets chalked up identical 8-2 records and last year were 7-3, losing only to Vanderbilt and two nationally-ranked powerhouses, Missouri and Penn State.

Troops Ready Western Range For Spring Firing

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N. M.—An advance party of 125 men from a Ft. Sill, Okla., Army Pershing missile unit arrived at Black Mesa, near Blanding, Utah, this week, to make final preparations for the spring series of Pershing firings. These are scheduled as annual service practice for missile units of the Seventh U. S. Army based in Europe and the Federal Republic of Germany Air Force.

The series will begin during the week of March 30. The two-stage artillery missiles will impact on White Sands Missile Range, about 350 miles from Blanding. The site is some 15 miles southwest of Blanding. Access this year will be by way of a new county road running approximately six miles due south from Utah State Highway 95. This road was completed last summer through cooperation of San Juan County with White Sands Missile Range.

The 1968 Pershing firings were from another off-range site in Utah at Gilson Butte, near Hanksville. The last firings from the Blanding area were in the fall of 1967.

Bloodmobile Nets 1170 Volunteers

Redstone personnel almost doubled their monthly quota at the Red Cross blood bank during February when 1170 voluntary donors contributed 961 pints of whole blood.

Following the practice of the past few months, the Red Cross mobile unit made two visits to the Arsenal in February. The Bloodmobile was at Building 7110 on Feb. 19 and returned last Thursday to process additional volunteers at the Service Club.

A total of 721 military and civilian personnel answered the first appeal and contributed 594 pints of blood.

There were 439 prospective donors on hand to greet the unit on its second visit and they added an additional 367 pints of blood to the total. The majority of the donors in the second visit came from the military personnel at the Missile School.

Anyone Can Finish School

If one dropped out of high school before receiving their diploma, they should investigate the possibility of finishing school while still in service. Or at least acquire a high school diploma or certificate through the General Educational Development (GED) tests offered by their branch of the service.

One might have dropped out of formal education, but should keep in mind that the educating process goes on.

Here is where the GED comes in. These tests measure the level of education one has acquired, either formally, or through informal self-education and intellectual growth. The emphasis in the GED tests is to measure one's ability to think clearly, to interpret, to comprehend, and to evaluate.

The tests determine whether one has acquired the equivalent of a high school education.

The high school GED tests, at present, consist of five parts: Correctness and effectiveness of expression, social studies, natural sciences, interpretation of literary materials, and general mathematical ability.

The Commission of Accreditation of Service Experience has recommended minimum passing scores acceptable for civilian and military use. This recommendation is of an advisory nature, however, and does not guarantee that any school or state department of education will grant a diploma or equivalency certificate on the basis of the GED test. Each state establishes its own standard for the granting of diplomas or equivalency certificates.

The Commission's recommended scores are, however, accepted by all services and most civilian establishments as equivalent to high school graduation. In the case of those who desire to continue their education, some business and trade schools will accept the GED tests as a basis for taking an entrance examination.

If one does not have a high school diploma, the GED tests might be that "knock of opportunity" they have been waiting for and a broad avenue to better things.

See your education officer for further information on a brighter future through education. See him today.

ZERO DEFECTS CORNER

it's up to you!

A secretary in the Hawk System Field Office, Andover, Mass., is the first Missile Command employee to be acclaimed Employee of the Month by the Zero Defects Program Council.

Ann Yaghmoorian, a dedicated Federal employee for over 21 years, was selected for the March citation in competition with personnel representing almost every MICOM organizational element. She was honored in recognition of her near-perfect performance in the accomplishment of the administrative functions of the Field Office.

Miss Yaghmoorian has compiled an outstanding record in surpassing the accepted Zero Defects levels in every phase of her assigned duties, according to S. D. Gantman, chief of the Andover facility. In recommending her for the monthly honor, Gantman said that the secretary has continually sought to improve the quality of the overall clerical and administrative function of the Office.

A graduate of the Hickox Secretarial School in Boston, Miss Yaghmoorian began her Federal career with the Boston Naval Shipyard. She was also employed by the Veteran's Administration and the Army's Natick Laboratories prior to accepting the position with the Missile Command four years ago.

Area Engineer Asks Bids To Update Range Tracking, Testing

The Army District Engineer at Mobile will receive bids on March 18 for improving instrumentation at Test Area No. 1, Redstone Arsenal, to update the data acquisition system.

The work will include construction of a concrete firing pad and 17 camera pads; instrumentation work to interconnect the new and existing camera pads to control panels and the timing system; resurfacing the access road to the camera pads; construction of a reinforced concrete tunnel, 218 feet long, for instrumentation cables, with an attached room at each end for data acquisition equipment; considerable electrical work; and related construction.

The contract has been set aside for award to a small business concern in the interest of assuring such firms a fair share of Government work.

MAJ. NORMAN P. HOPKINS

Maj. Hopkins Will Talk To Graduates

The commanding officer of School Brigade's 1st Battalion will address the 123 graduates of the Army's Missile and Munitions Center and School Friday morning at the Post Theater.

Maj. Norman P. Hopkins, 1st Battalion CO, will be the guest speaker for nine graduating classes. Students from three foreign nations and the United States will receive diplomas in the 9:30 a.m. ceremony.

A 1960 graduate of West Virginia University, Maj Hopkins received his commission through the ROTC program at West Virginia. Prior to coming to MMCS, he served in Vietnam with the 3rd Ordnance Battalion from September 1966 to September 1967.

Friday's ceremony is open to the public.

He received a commission through ROTC training at the University of Arkansas ('40) and saw combat action in Algeria, Tunisia, and Italy during the next three years — advancing abruptly to the rank of lieutenant colonel before being wounded at Anzio Beachhead.

Subsequent assignments have carried him to Belgium, Luxembourg and Germany as well as numerous stateside posts. He became a brigadier general in 1962 while assuming command of the Army Combat Developments Command Experimentation Center at Ft. Ord, Calif.

A year later, Gen. Sutherland added another star and shifted to the commanding general slot at the Army Test and Evaluation Command at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

He will be back in the midst of Ordnance officers again Friday when the Dining-In begins at 7 p.m. in the Redstone Officers Open Mess.

The Dining-In is held regularly to help senior officers of the Ordnance Corps become acquainted with the junior officers. A formal ceremonial toast is conducted, and various games and entertainment follow the dinner and speaker.

Gen. Sutherland will address the group of 170 officers on the topic, "Leadership." The formal quarterly social is the seventh in the series since it began at MMCS.

Quality Control To Hold Symposium March 17-19

The Marshall Space Flight Center and the Huntsville Section of the American Society for Quality Control are sponsoring a Symposium on Long Life Space Hardware. Dates of the Symposium are March 17, 18, and 19.

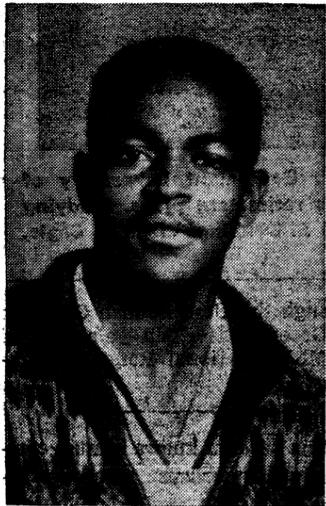

The Symposium will consist of six half-day sessions, with three to five papers being presented at each session. In order, the sessions are: Parts, Materials, Management, Testing, Component Design, and System Design. Speakers for the sessions will be recognized experts in their area of speciality, selected by the steering group of the Symposium, and invited to speak without an open call for papers.

Meetings will be in the Morris Auditorium. Buses from the Center will transport out-of-town visitors to and from motels. Because of the fixed auditorium size, the expected wide interest in the subjects presented and the unusual assembly of highly qualified speakers, pre-registration on a first-come, first-served basis will be required. There is no registration charge. Each registered attendee will receive a volume of proceedings including all papers presented.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

by SP5 Mike McKenzie

"Mutual understanding between countries is very important," commented Tech Sgt. Kazuo Kobayashi just before he charmed a large group of Huntsville children last Thursday night.

Sgt. Kobayashi is a Nike missile student at MMCS as a member of the Japanese Air Defense Force. He was helping to promote that "mutual understanding" at the Episcopal Church of the Nativity because our foreign liaison division recognizes the need for it, too.

That's why Lt. William Stirling and his aides give such presentations on the Host Family Program, whereby civilian families in the community are made aware of the chance to become acquainted with cultures of over 30 nations.

Sgt. Kobayashi showed color slides of family life, rural life and landmarks of Japan to the children while their parents were informed of how to meet and host students from faraway lands.

Now the Foreign Liaison office has discovered another avenue for serving this end.

A Spanish Army major and German Air Force lieutenant have helped institute a volunteer program which broadens the horizons of disadvantaged children in the city.

Maj. Enrique Esteban and Lt. Wilfried Elter have visited classrooms of the Education Improvement Program and Follow Through.

EIP is a Ford Foundation project that provides children with impoverished backgrounds with special pre-school education. Follow Through is an enrichment program for grade school children after they have finished EIP.

The visit of foreign military men from MMCS to the classrooms hopefully will continue to grow in scope, supplementing the measures already engaged in by Foreign Liaison.

The appeal of bringing Europe or the Orient into local homes should be excitable, and the response has picked up considerably the past few months—but more, plenty more, Huntsvillians are needed to seek this priceless "mutual understanding."

A captain recently completed the officer missile maintenance course here and immediately took over an ammunition company!

That highlighted a week which saw three new commanders appear on the organization directory, two at School Brigade and another at Unit Training Command.

CAPT. HOLMES

Capt. James Holmes, freshly graduated from missile training, took over the 522nd Ordnance Co. at UTC Monday. A West Point ('65) grad, he came to MMCS from the 23rd Artillery Group based in Phu Loi, Vietnam.

Capt. Robert Loy leaves the 522nd after 11 months to attend the Ordnance officer career course at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md. Capt. Loy has been here since August, '67, first as chief of maintenance branch in the Technical Ammunition Division.

In the Brigade, 1st ETC welcomed 1st Lt. Gerald Crocker, also just out of the missile officer class, and 5th ETC came under Capt. Roderick Ruthven's hand.

Lt. Crocker, since finishing OCS at Aberdeen, has been here a year, operating the rifle range and serving as training supervisor in Electrical Branch of Missile Components Dept.

Arriving in December from a guided missile advisor's assignment in Korea, Capt. Ruthven has worked as chief of Electronics Division at MCD.

Airborne and Ranger schools and Vietnam assignment lie ahead for 2nd Lt. Larry Walker as he departs the 5th ETC after two and one half months. At 1st ETC, 1st Lt. John Cool leaves the Army for civilian employment in Chicago; he had been commander since last September.

SGT. DORRITY

Awards were in line for several people at UTC and Directorate of Individual Training last week.

At UTC, commander Lt. Col. Matthew Thome presented the Bronze Star to SFC George Dorrity for meritorious service in explosive ordnance disposal (EOD) in Vietnam.

A certificate of completion for the officer ammunition course was given to SFC Neal Magnusson. Both sergeants are senior instructors in the Testing and Training Branch of EOD Division.

The 200th Ordnance Detachment under 1st Lt. Eric Wiest and 1st Sgt. Cliett Hartwell earned two large gold cups for top participation in the Red Cross blood donation program, one monthly and one annual award.

The commendation revealed at DIT were for a dozen civilians who have conserved over 14,000 hours of sick leave.

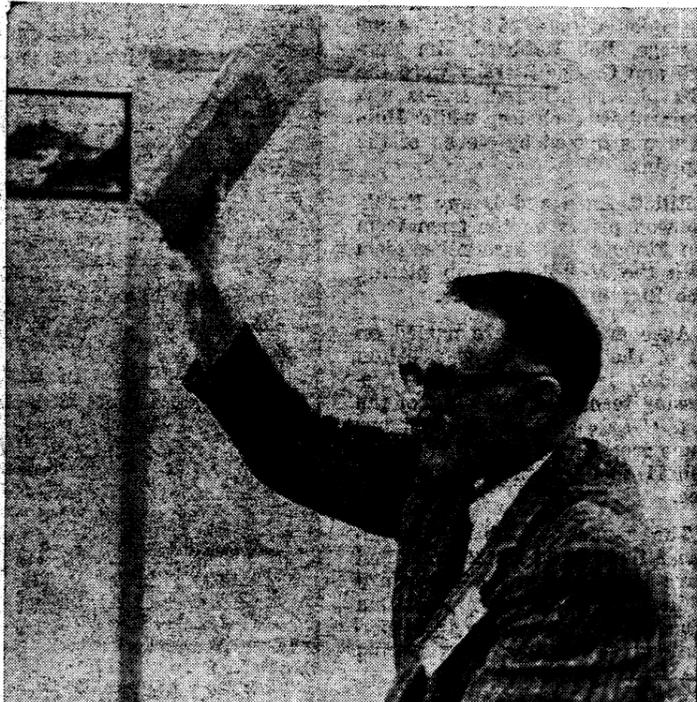

Leading the way with over 2,000 hours each are Arthur Francis and Samuel Phillips of Air Defense Dept. and John Parks of Curriculum-Development. to join the staff of Officer Training Dept. Frank has coordinated educational activities for thousands of allies from every corner of the world in four years at the liaison office. Everyone connected with the operation there counts it a personal loss, and we wish him the best as an ed specialist in OTD.

"Sayonara," "Auf Wiedersehen," and "Adios," were some of the farewells to Frank S. Bowman Jr. Friday who for four years was an education specialist in the MMCS Foreign Liaison Division.

Know as "Mr. B." to practically everyone at MMCS, he became an education specialist for the Officer Training Department Monday. His ability to transcend the barriers of foreign cultures and languages earned him a consistent Outstanding Performance Rating during his four years with Foreign Liaison.

CHANGING WORKLOAD—In typically jovial fashion, Frank Bowman (right) turns over the "Daily Record" of the Foreign Liaison Division at MMCS. Bowman—or "Mr. B." as he is known throughout the School—bids Auf Wiedersehen, Sayonara and Adios to his allied friends Friday to accept a position in Officer Training Dept.

VISITS CLASSROOM—Maj. Enrique Esteban, Spanish Army liaison officer at the Army Missile and Munitions Center and School, shows some young friends where his country is. Maj. Esteban spent Tuesday morning in classrooms of the Education Improvement program and Follow-Through program at Joe Bradley School, as part of a volunteer program by MMCS foreign military personnel to communicate their culture to the disadvantaged students of EIP and Follow-Through.

Civilian All-Stars Tackle Unbeaten ICO Five

At Joe Bradley In Friday Clash

Four cagers won unanimous support of the league captains for places on the Civilian Welfare Fund league All-Star team and another quartet were named on all but one of the ballots.

Eight of the twelve quintets won representation on the 15-man squad named by the captains with four of the All-Stars being named from the unbeaten ICO five.

The remaining eleven will team up for encounter with the league champions in the All-Star game set for Friday evening at the Joe Bradley School gym.

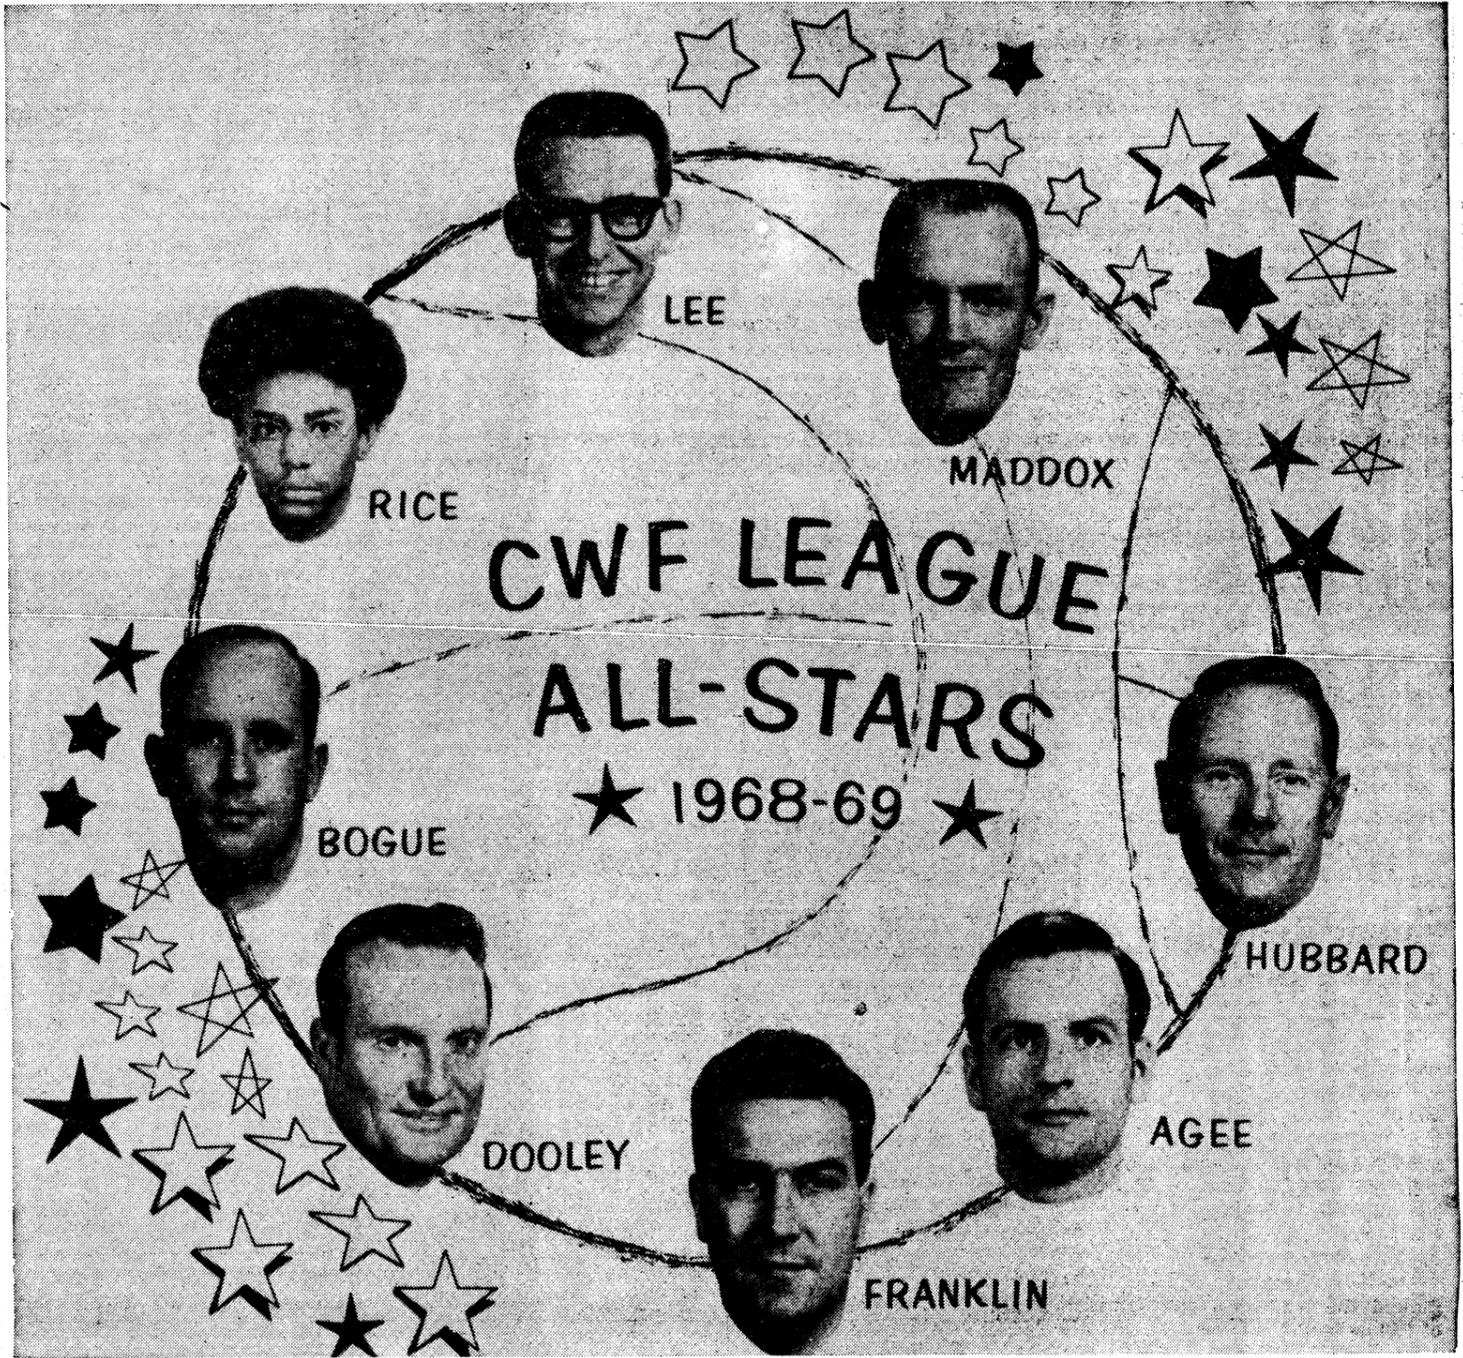

Greg Bogue, the league scoring champion with a 25.5 per game average, Bob Hubbard, Jim Bunnell and George Starkey were the ICO players selected. Bogue was a unanimous choice, while Hubbard was named by eleven of the captains.

Elliott Agee and Danny Franklin won places on the team from the Finance and Accounting team with the Metrology Lab placing Bob Rice and Orville Lee.

Agee and Rice were named on all of the ballots as was Alton Maddox, leader of the Data Processing team. Jerry Dooley, of the G & C Lab, another 25 point per game scorer, was named on eleven ballots along with Franklin and Lee.

The runner up Missile Intelligence five placed Mel Thomas and Dave Powell on the honor squad while Neil Winterburn and Don Woods were named for their performances with the Engineering QA five.

The remaining place on the team was claimed by Bill Fitzgerald, who played for the Corps of Engineers.

HANDBALL FINALS—Willie Clinton (left) shakes hands with J. R. Tipton as the two got ready to battle it out for the handball title of the winter minor sports carnival at the Arsenal Workout Facility. Clinton took the final match to join the paddle ball ruler, Jeff Harrison, in the winner's circle. Both of the finalists will be looking for additional trophies when they start play in the handball doubles.

Clinton Captures Handball Crown

Willie Clinton captured the second championship of the winter minor sports carnival with a win in the final round of the handball tourney at the Workout Facility last Friday afternoon.

Jeff Harrison was the winner of the paddle ball crown with play in the squash tourney still underway. The carnival will be concluded with doubles play in each of the three sports.

Clinton gained the handball title with a 21-15, 21-17 decision over J. R. Tipton.

The new champion reached the final match by ousting Max Fruedenburg, 21-15, 21-1. Tipton advanced to the final match by eliminating J. E. Bush, 21-3, 21-3.

Spec. George Montgomery, the carnival manager, called for the handball and paddle ball players to pick their partners and submit their entries for the doubles. He said that tournament drawings will be held as soon as sufficient entries are received.

Making Volvo tougher was simply impossible.

Making Volvo faster was not only possible, but simple.

Volvo's engine has been enlarged from 1.8 to 2 litres. This barely perceptible increase in size produces a highly perceptible increase in power.

Volvo's engine now puts out 118 horsepower. And it's designed so that most of this power will be there for you to use when you can really use it—when you have to accelerate from a stop sign onto a 60 mile-per-hour superhighway, for example.

So if you're already impressed with how long a Volvo lasts and how far it goes, come in for a test-drive.

And be impressed with how quickly a Volvo gets you there.

Missilemen Battle Way To Lower Bracket Final

Three quintets fell by the wayside with two losses each as post-season playoff action continued in two divisions of the Civilian Welfare Fund league last week.

SAM-D became the first team to qualify for the finals when they took a 59-51 second division win over Supply and Maintenance. Their opposition will come from S & M, Procurement and Production or Sentinel.

Supply had taken a 44-38 decision from P & P before losing to SAM-D. Sentinel came back from an opening round loss to eliminate the G & C Lab, 49-42, and the Corps of Engineers, 47-33.

Finance and Accounting is set to challenge the unbeaten ICO five for a berth in the upper bracket final after taking a 74-63 win from Engineering QA.

The only other first division game played last week saw Data Processing send the Metrology Lab to the sidelines with a 68-42 setback.

DPO was pitted against Missile Intelligence in the opener of a three game card at the Seruggs Street Arsenal last night. ICO and the Accountants were scheduled to battle it out in the middle game followed by the Sentinel P & P clashes.

The survivor of the DPO-MID clash will take on Engineering QA on Friday evening with the league All-Stars battling ICO in a 7:00 o'clock game at the Joe Bradley School gym.

Sports Streaking Toward AMC Lead

The AMC League race that looked like a runaway up until a couple of weeks ago, has suddenly turned into a real race with two quintets breathing down the necks of the season-long leaders.

The All-Sports moved to within three points of the sputtering Bombers after doling out a shutout to the front-runners and the Metro-Cals stayed a half point behind the Sportsmen by sweeping the Avengers.

Ed Leahy set the pace for the Sportsmen as they continued their drive to overhaul the Bombers and capture their second straight league crown. Leahy deposited 550 maples in the Playmor pits and Red Totten accounted for 532 more.

The Metro-Cals made their surge behind the lead of Joe Brewer with 537.

Mike Cooper grabbed individual scoring honors for the week with a 585 that got the Wonnens an even split with the Voyagers. Walt Uyeda was close behind with a 566 as the Spartans took three from the Travellers.

Jack Vickers helped the Spartan attack to a 3012 total with a 537 while Jim Hill fired a 222 game to prevent a sweep with a 2-pin Traveller win.

Jim Goodman tossed a 555 as the Raiders split with the Howard Roop-led T-Birds and Bill Hattaway hit for 533 as the Lancers won three from the Tigers.

The Rejectors continued their resurgence by winning three from the Bandits and the Alley Cats claimed the same winning margin against the Sprinters.

Redstone Cagers Have High Hopes

One of the strongest teams that ever wore the Redstone colors will leave for Ft. Bragg late next week to compete in the annual Third Army basketball tournament.

The ten-man squad, selected from the top performers of the Unit Level league, made their first appearance as a unit last Saturday against the powerful Dyess and Hibbett team of Huntsville at the Post Gym.

The visitors took a 94-92 decision in the game but only after being forced into an overtime by the post cagers. The score was tied 34-34 at the end of regulation time.

Jim Wafer, of the 9th ETC, led the Arsenal cagers in scoring with 20 points, two more than Steve Gustafson, the B Company ace. Ken Jackson (MPs) collected 14, Elijah Bossie (D Co.) had 12 and Jim Walker (MICOM) had 11.

Other players expected to make the trip are Ray Smith, Carl Schmidt and Dean Jones, all of the unbeaten MICOM team, Darrell Hunsicker of the MPs, and Eddie Bartlett, high scoring guard of the 9th ETC.

KINSLOW—BARNES STRIKING REALTORS

Honor Roll Pair Top S&M Bowlers

A pair of Honor Roll counts sparked a return to form by Supply and Maintenance bowlers last week following a below par performance by the entire twelve-team league the previous session.

In addition to the better than 600 totals, eleven ten-pin topplers went over 550 more than double the output of the week before when the stubborn Starlite maples limited the league to five scores of 550 or better.

Fred Stewart was the top individual gunner when he closed out a 612 run with a 237 game. It was the fifth Honor Roll count of the season for the Renegade star.

However, Stewart's efforts went for naught when the All-Sports dealt out a four-point sweep to the league leaders. Charles Nipper and Chet Wysocki delivered 578 and 574 totals for the Sportsmen and Mel Webb kicked in with a 542.

Ray Barter helped the Ren attack with a 575 and Bob Adams unleashed a 556 for the leaders who saw their lead whittled to six points.

The Reba Bowling Apparel five made the most of their opportunity to move closer to the top by sweeping the Bushwhackers behind the 580 lead of Jack Bailey that included a 246 game. Tom Lindsay accounted for 557 and D. B. Smith hit for 553 in the Reba attack.

Fred Washington captured Bowler of the Week honors with a 660 handicapped total that included a 609 scratch. The Washington outburst got the Lily Flagg five home ahead of the Pin Busters for all four points.

Al Sarge shot a 561 as Tad's won three from Baker Real Estate despite the two-gun attack of Garland Kinslow and Nate Barnes. Each of the Realtors threw a pair of 200 games as Kinslow totaled 588 and Barnes ended with 585.

Jack Harris connected for a 585 but it wasn't enough to prevent a 3 to 1 setback for the Chiefs by the Dragons and the Cracker Jacks won a trio from the Auto Center.

Col. Creighton Constructs French Village

After three years of tedious work during his spare time, Lt. Col. Frank Creighton is almost half through an entertaining project.

He is building a careful scale replica of a typical town as might be seen on the border between France and Germany. He has included architectural features of buildings he saw during two Army tours in Europe.

The half of the town he has almost finished includes an elaborate church perfect down to such details as candles at the altar, a hotel with tiny chairs and tables on the terrace, a shepherd's farm home and barn, a rail station, and residences. There is a castle under construction to be located on one of the town's hills.

The church alone, took 1200 hours to build, and the hotel consumed about 400 hours.

Col. Creighton does all the designing himself, then using a razor blade, cuts the pieces out to size based on his drawings. His materials are balsa wood or cardboard depending on which one is more suitable. He uses a razor blade to draw the miniscule lines to make a surface look like a brick wall.

The leafy part of trees is made of sponge and colored.

Any description of his little town would be incomplete without mention of the elaborate net of rail lines running around the town and through tunnels.

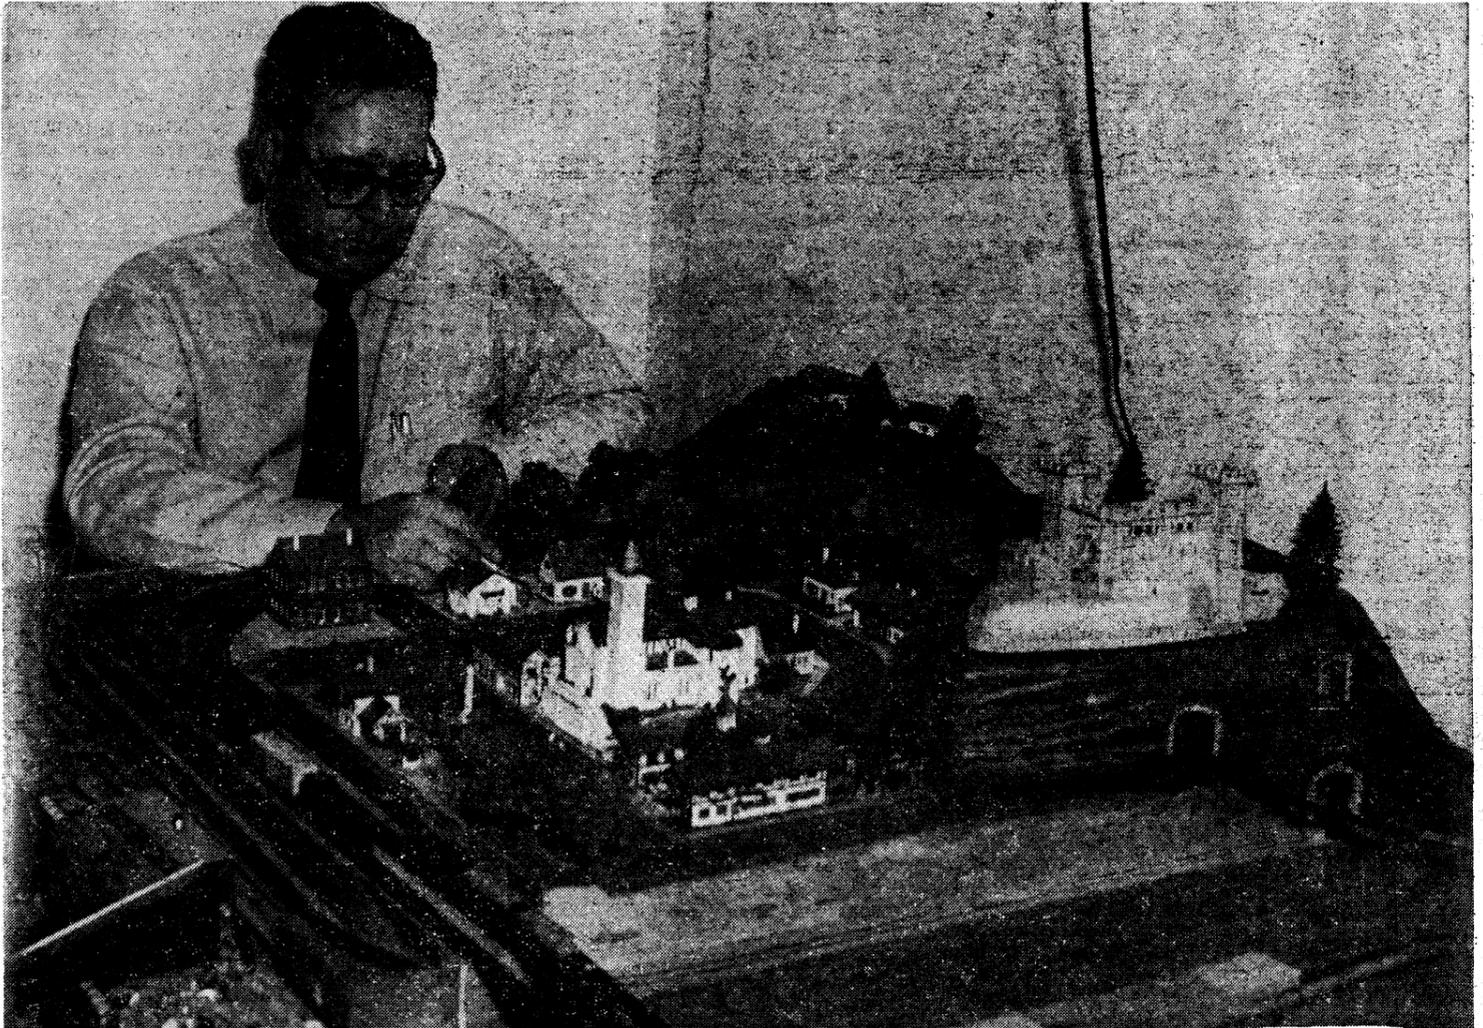

He started the whole project four years ago, then was interrupted by a tour in Vietnam. "I took it with me to Vietnam, but never unpacked it because there was no time for hobbies over there," he laughingly remarked.

He plans to cover as much area with other structures as he has already completed, with a river running through the middle of the town.

This isn't his first small model city. He built another several years ago only to have it destroyed during two Army moves. "I've built a packing case for this one so it will be safe when we move," he explained. The packing case serves as the stand to hold the city now.

He first became interested in the railroad part of the project when the Creighton's son, now 24 and an Army officer, was a little boy, and had toy trains. Building a set-up for these trains led to building a town, then after seeing buildings in Europe, he was inspired to start the project he has underway.

"It's an inexpensive hobby," the CONSTRUCTION BUSINESS—Lt. Col. Frank M. Creighton of the Army Missile Command relaxes with his hobby, building a miniature of a typical town as might be found on the border between France and Germany. The colonel is chief of the National Inventory Control Point in the Supply and Maintenance Directorate.

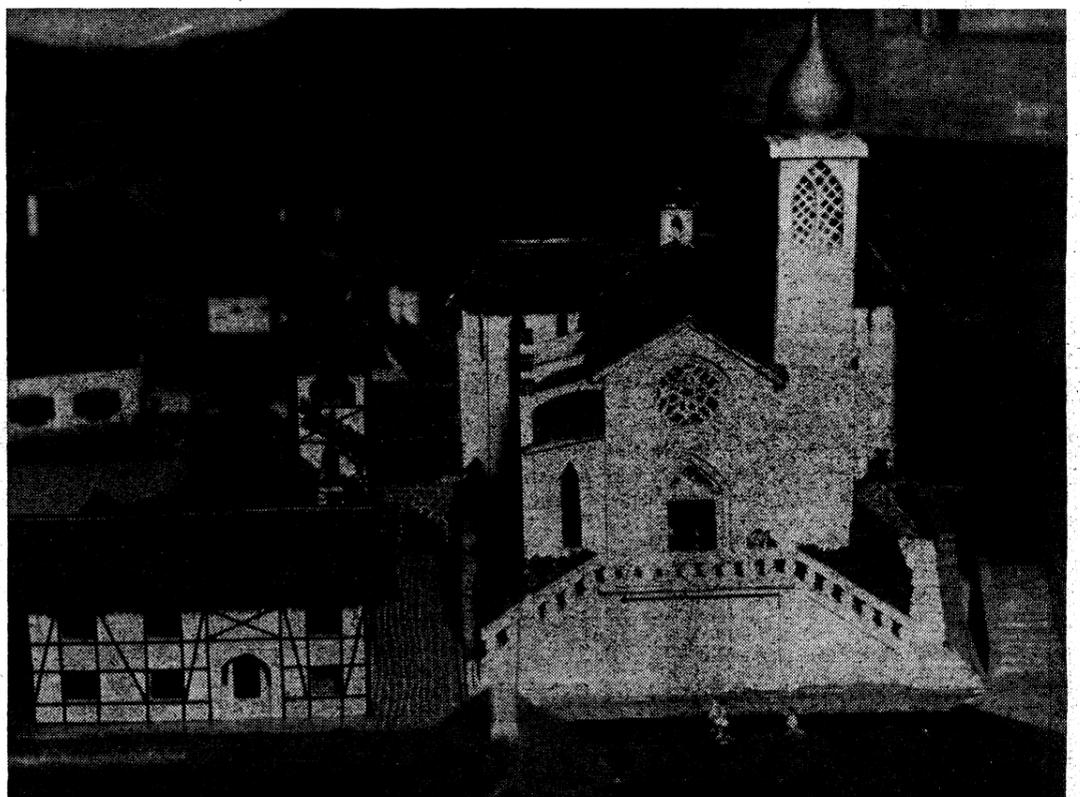

Colonel said. "I'd estimate it averages about $4 a week. The railroad equipment is valued at about $100, is N gauge, and until recently, was produced only in Europe." Mrs. Creighton commented that, although we think of these little trains as a toy, sales clerks in stores have told her they sell more for daddies than for children.

The little town and the railway network are not the Colonel's only hobbies. He is writing a tourists' guide of France.

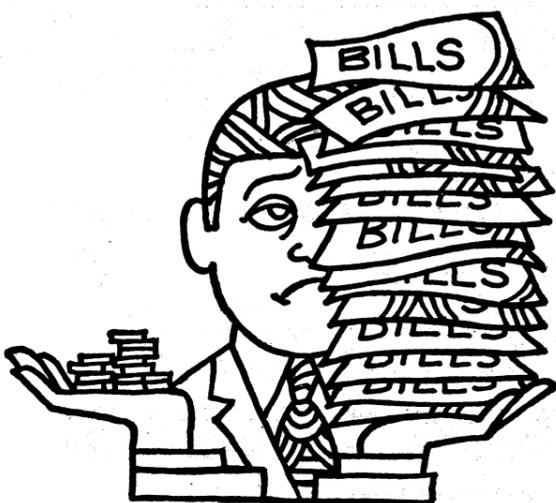

"When we were there and wanted to visit some of the old buildings, we could find out everything about them as far as the architecture was concerned, but nothing about who had lived in them or (See COL. CREIGHTON, Page 9)

BUILDING A CASTLE—This photo of the castle Lt. Col. Frank M. Creighton has under construction shows some of the minute detail of his work. He produces the effect of bricks or stones by cutting the wood with a razor blade.

COMPLETE CHURCH—This tiny church, complete down to the last detail, consumed approximately 1200 hours of Lt. Col. Frank M. Creighton's leisure time.

used them, or how. So we started researching in libraries and compiling information about each place that is a tourist attraction. It makes a place so much more interesting if one knows the human side of the story," Col. Creighton said.

Besides these hobbies, there is golf to play in good weather, and an active family to keep up with. The Creightons have five children, the Army officer son, a married daughter, a daughter in college, and two daughters at home.

ARMY AWARDS
$9.3 MILLION
ON FAAR WORK

The Army has made two awards totaling $9,308,304 to Sanders Associates, Inc. to cover work on the Forward Area Alerting Radar (FAAR).

The larger award, $7,102,133, definitizes a letter contract for hardware and test equipment for a total contract amount of $14,302,133.

A $2,206,171 award is for engineering services, and represents nine months effort.

The work under both awards will be performed at the company's Bedford, Mass., plant.

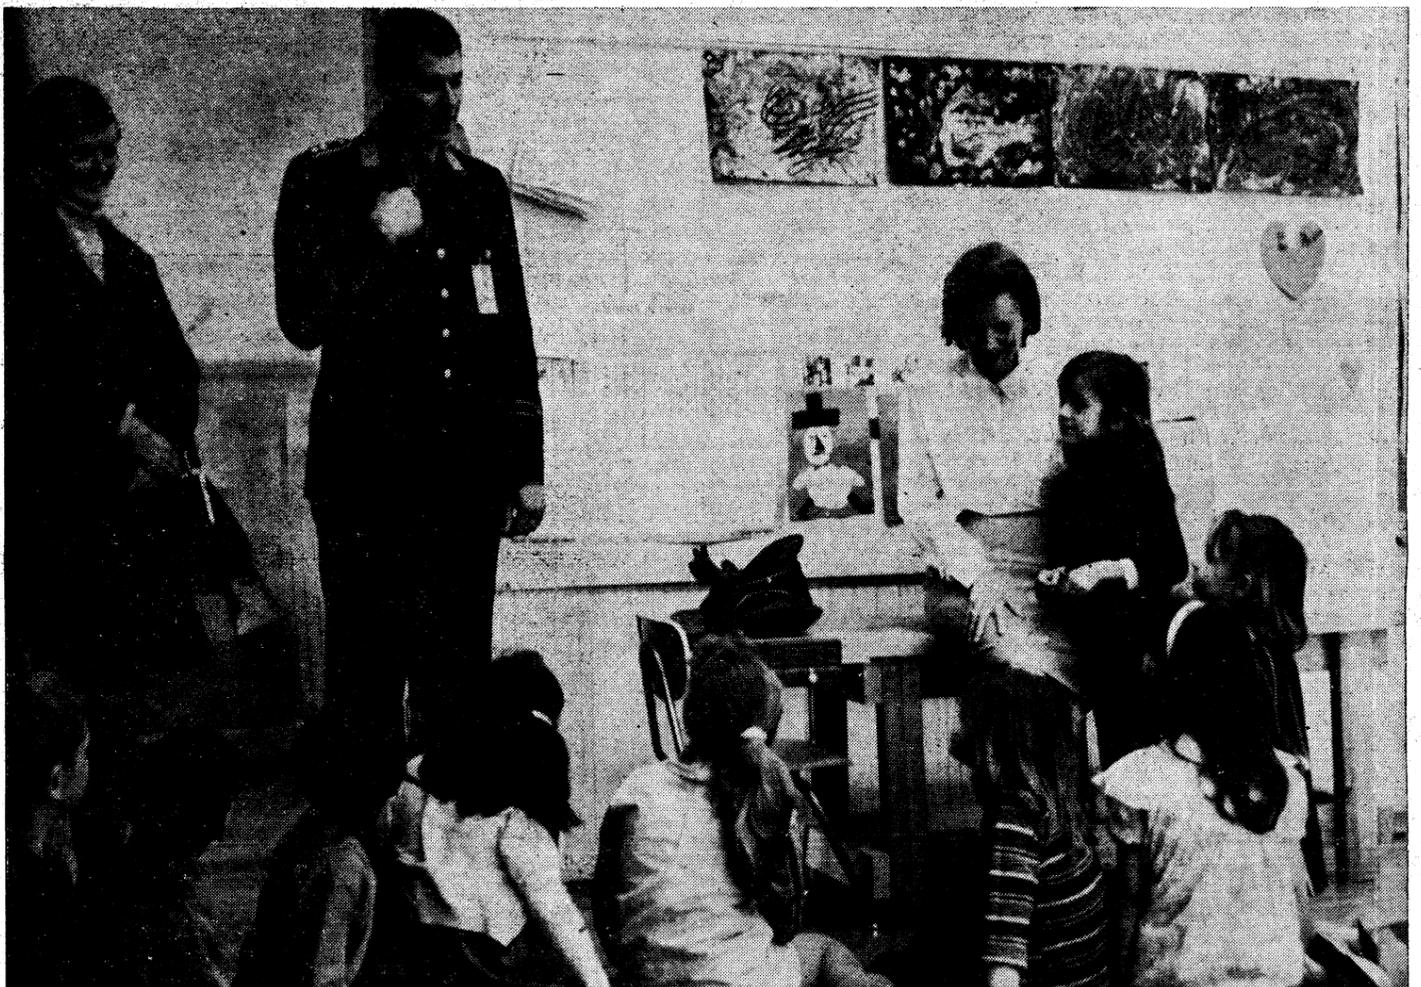

The FAAR will detect and identify low flying aircraft in forward battle areas and relay the information to the Army's Chaparral/Vulcan and Redeye air defense systems.

The FAAR program is under the direction of the Army Missile Command's Chaparral Management Office headed by LTC Donald H. Steenburn. The Missile Command Procurement and Production Directorate executed the contracts. Col. S. C. Holmes is the P&P Director.

TOW TRAINING—Eight men at White Sands Missile Range recently qualified as gunners for the Tow missile system in the first TOW gunner-training course ever given at the national missile range. Here in a practice session, a three-man team readies the Army's newest anti-tank weapon for firing from the M-27 Army Mule. The mobile TOW also can be launched from the ground, an armored personnel carrier, on a jeep, and is being adapted for launch from a helicopter.

EIGHT TRAINEES QUALIFY AS TOW MISSILE GUNNERS

Eight men have just completed the first TOW gunner-training class ever held at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., to qualify as "gunners" of the Army's new tank killer.

The four soldiers and four civilians received certificates and a specially designed key ring in a graduation ceremony hosted by the Army Missile Test and Evaluation Command.

To qualify, each man underwent 32 hours of instructions and then was tested individually.

For this particular course, the Army used a new trainer called the XM-70. The trainer is an electronic system which evaluates a gunner's skill. For example, the trainer can show tracking errors as the gunner tracks a target and it simulates the blast of an actual TOW missile firing.

Class instructor was Marvin Jeffers, missile maintenance technician, with the U.S. Army Missile Command, who represented the TOW Project Office. The Missile Command manages the TOW program under Lt. Col. Robert W. Huntzinger, Project Manager.

Jeffers' assistant was Sgt. Terry Benson of White Sands.

Capable of destroying any known enemy armor, TOW can be fired from a ground emplacement, armored personnel carrier, jeep or the M-27 Army Mule. It is also being developed for use on the Cheyenne helicopter.

Contester Finds Punning Can Be Hard Work

Puns for fun and profit have become a way of life for Jean Risner, president of the Alabama State Contesters Association.

However, her contest entries are not limited to puns. "I enter every contest I see," she said, "jingles, statements, slogans, names and sweepstakes. During the last year I won 26 prizes—my average is about 25 prizes a year."

Jean, a procurement clerk in the Army Missile Command Procurement and Production Directorate, has been actively entering contests for about 10 years, and has been a member of the National Contesters Association for six years.

Her prizes include electrical appliances, clocks, radios, records, cameras, games, jewelry, perfume and cash. And once when she won, she had her choice of a Hero Boy sandwich big enough to feed 30 hungry people or $35.00. She chose the cash. Two of her most gratifying wins were cash prizes in National Safety Council monthly limerick contests.

Like people learning a foreign language who are always trying to think in that language, Jean thinks in puns. She says she keeps listening to what people say and turning their comments into puns. Some come to her like a flash, and others come after she mulls them over for a while.

Examples—"One day at work, one of the girls I work with remarked several times, 'Beats anything I ever saw.' I entered this pun, which did not win, but was a lot of fun dreaming up: 'Wife's comment on eating out—'Beats anything I ever THAW.' Another time, at coffee break, a co-worker said, 'I take my cheese-eating by spells.' I entered, 'I take my cheese-eating by SMELLS.'"

In another instance, she says that once when they were sight-seeing in Chattanooga and stopped on a mountain overlooking the city, a group of motorcyclists roared past them up the mountain. "The next day on the way to work I could visualize the motorcyclists as they whizzed 'Hunchbacked' up the mountain. With this thought came 'Hunchback of Notre Dame' and in a few minutes I had 'Definition of a Motorcycle Champion—The Hunchback of Motor Fame,'" she recalls. She could hardly wait to get the pun in the mail and won the Pun of the Year in a national contest bulletin.

Jean takes her avocation half-seriously and took a contest course in order to learn how to improve her contest entries.

She says that her mail is the highlight of the day. She can hardly wait to see if she has heard from one of the contests she has entered.

Her Alabama State Contesters Association will hold its annual convention at the Sheraton Motor Inn in Huntsville on May 16-17. Anyone who enters prize contests as a hobby and who is interested in details of the convention can call Jean at her home, 852-6231, for further information.

In an all-out quest for speed, Volvo introduces an engine that's 3 m.p.h. faster.

Volvo's new engine was obviously not designed for setting records on the Bonneville salt flats. It was designed to do better on the street. To get you from a stop sign onto a 65 mph highway faster, for example. Come in for a test-drive. We'll show you how quickly a Volvo goes. But you'll have to take a Volvo home and keep it a few years to see how slowly it wears out.

"You've been given a challenge, you accepted the challenge, and you met the challenge," the guest speaker told the 61 graduates of the Army Missile and Munitions Center and School Friday.

Maj. Raymond Weinburg, chief of the Electro-Mechanical Division of the MMCS Missile Components Department, has met many challenges himself during his military career. Drafted in 1952, he rose from the ranks to be appointed warrant officer in 1965 and commissioned first lieutenant in 1962.

Maj. Weinburg, who has been to four service schools himself, said "you are graduating from one of the finest schools in the U. S. Army. You will soon walk out of this auditorium and join a team—one of the greatest teams the world has ever known—the United States Army."

Commenting on the presence of an eight-man German Hawk missile repair class, Maj. Weinburg also stressed the importance of teams the United States forms with its allies. He cited the war in Vietnam as an example of team effort, and gave instances of close cooperation between the U. S. and Vietnamese armies.

Pfc. Walter F. Hershberger, a native of Crawfordsville, Ind., led the graduates with an average of 98.0 in an ammunition records course.

Spec. 4 James F. Anderson of Aurora, Colo., was top man in a Hawk missile and launcher repair class with an average of 93.8. A former math teacher from Moline, Ill., Spec. 4 Robert R. Warfield led his combat missile system repair class with a score of 92.9.
