A new man-portable plane killer called Redeye II has just become the fifth project managed missile system under direction of the Army Missile Command.

Col. David H. Souser has been named Redeye II project manager. The new shoulder-fired weapon, based on several years of development efforts utilizing advanced infrared technology, will be able to counter more sophisticated aircraft threats.

COL. SOUSER

A high performance propulsion system and advanced guidance technique have been designed, fabricated and flight tested which give Redeye II a longer range and higher velocity. Other possible features include a night sight capability and a device to identify aircraft.

The Missile Command has released a Request for Proposal to General Dynamics, Pomona, Calif., for engineering development.

H. Hoyt Harris, a civilian who directed Redeye II through earlier research and development, will be deputy project manager.

Col. Souser, a native of Pittsburgh, comes to Redstone from Fort Bliss, Texas, where he was Commanding Officer of the 15th Air Defense Group. Among assignments, he has served in Korea and Vietnam.

An experienced officer in air defense, he is a graduate of Duquesne University with a BS in education and holds a master's degree from Syracuse University.

Among medal and decorations, he holds the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star with "V" device and Oak Leaf Cluster, Meritorious Service Medal and Vietnam Cross of Gallantry with Silver Star.

He is married to the former Joan Thompson, also of Pittsburgh, and they have four sons, David W. II, 20; Carl 15; Stephen 14 and Paul-John 8.

General Palmer Visits Redstone

General Bruce Palmer, Jr., the Army's Vice Chief of Staff, is scheduled to arrive at Redstone late tomorrow afternoon for an overnight visit.

In the evening General and Mrs. Palmer, who will accompany him, will be guests of the Huntsville Army Advisory Committee for a dinner at the Officers Open Mess.

Friday morning he will tour facilities and be briefed on activities of the Army Missile Command. His orientation is scheduled to include witnessing anti-tank missile firings on a Redstone test range and a drive-through tour of the Arsenal. Plans call for him to stop at a mess hall to visit troops.

General and Mrs. Palmer depart Redstone at noon Friday for Fort Rucker, where the General will address an evening meeting of the local chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army.

General Palmer was appointed Vice Chief of Staff of the Army and promoted to four-star rank August 1, 1968. Prior to this he was the Deputy Commanding General, U.S. Army Vietnam.

He has served the Army both at home and abroad in assignments of increased responsibility since his graduation from the U.S. Military Academy in 1936. This is his first visit to Redstone.

MSR Directs Sprint In Test

A Safeguard System Sprint missile, launched and controlled by a research and development Missile Site Radar (MSR), successfully intercepted a space point target over the Pacific last week.

The Sprint was launched from Meck Island in the Kwajalein Atoll where the MSR is also located.

Radar instrumentation verified that the Sprint interceptor missile passed close enough to the space point to be considered an intercept. The Sprint did not carry an explosive warhead.

Withholding Rates Up

SENOR EL TOW—Frank Marsden, Industrial Specialist, TOW Procurement and Production Office, and Inez Silvey, secretary, use a TOW missile tube as a new member of the office. The sombrero came from Mexico and Senor El Tow's eyes, nose and mustache are the remnants of Christmas wrappings.

The appearance of advertisements in this publication does not constitute an endorsement by the Department of the Army of the products or services advertised.

A change in the income tax withholding rate resulting from the Revenue Act of 1971 will mean that a number of Redstone civilians will take home a smaller pay check despite the 5.5 per cent raise that went into effect at the first of the year.

According to the Finance and Accounting Center the raise will just about balance out the increased withholding for some while others will actually take home a smaller amount than before.

The pay raise and the revised tax withholding system were effected locally with the pay periods starting January 2 and 9 and will be reflected for the first time with pay checks to be mailed January 25 and February 1, as appropriate.

New Schedule

The revised General Schedule pay scale is found on page 9 of today's Rocket along with the new military pay scale that also went into effect at the first of the year.

The Revenue Act of 1971 made significant changes in the tax withholding system to the extent that personnel are given the opportunity to file a new Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate (Form W-4).

Employees are urged to adjust their exemptions to fit their own personal tax requirements. The optimum situation is to have the tax withheld equal to the tax liability for the calendar year.

More Exemptions

In the past many employees have found it necessary to reduce their claimed exemptions in order to equalize their year ending liability. Under the new law, most employees will find that they should increase their previously claimed exemptions if they do not want to have a substantially greater amount withheld than their liability.

(See WITHHOLDING on page 13)

Army Release Date Will Find Them Ready

Short Timers Look Ahead—

Though many permanent party soldiers at MMCS were not ready for immediate release from service when the new 179-day early-out package was introduced before the holidays, the smart ones got ready for school or work before they began to separate from service.

That's the way it seems from a survey of some soon-to-be departing troops who were out-processing last week.

Some had plans laid before the announcements came, others accelerated their planning schedules to meet an earlier release date.

A few left the service, however, with nothing solid except the destination of their flight from Huntsville.

School Brigade and Unit Training Command headquarters began honoring "no-drop" requests from their men on the basis of financial hardship and intent to re-enlist.

Up to last week, seven soldiers submitted appropriate "no-drop" requests to School Brigade Headquarters, and all seven were honored, according to a spokesman for S-1.

Specialist Four Larry Escobar, an acting supply sergeant for Company A, has paperwork in to return to San Jose City College in California, where he was a student before entering the Army. The 23 year-old trooper has applied for a patrolman's slot with the San Jose P.D.

Private First Class Romi K. Nangia, a company clerk for the 249th Ordnance Detachment, plans to go back to Chicago and resume work as a quality control engineer in electronics, the job he left when he entered the Army. He studied electronics before the service, and expressed hopes last week of returning to school as well as working.

Specialist Five Tom Haggarty plans to return to Trenton, N.J., but other than that he says, "... nothing definite. I'm going Another personnel specialist, Spec. 5 Brian Baxter, will not be returning to his native Sherersville, Ohio. Instead, he plans to be in Chattanooga as a lineman—not for the county, but for the telephone company there.

Though Baxter has no arrangements made when the drop message first came down from Department of the Army, he said he got his job and a place to live between the time he heard about the message and packed his bags.

I'll be starting classes this September at Jackson State University," said Specialist Five

Hospital Staff Praised

To the Editor:

On 23 December 1971, I took my nine year old son, Tommy, to the walk-in clinic at RSA Hospital. His face was puffy and he had a slight fever. Dr. Walley who was on duty at the time immediately checked him over and ordered some tests. Upon receiving the results of the tests, he called a pediatrician with whom he consulted and it was decided that the patient should be admitted to the hospital. It was determined that he had a blood infection which could become serious if not watched closely.

A nine year old boy having to spend Christmas in the hospital! That statement sounds so sad and really makes you feel sorry. It could truly be a sorrowing experience, but not if that Christmas is spent at the Army Hospital at Redstone Arsenal. That boy had one of his best Christmases ever and the prime reason that it turned out so well is the wonderful people who work at that hospital. There is much talk these days of beautiful people. More beautiful people do not exist than the people who took care of my son during his five day stay before, during, and after Christmas.

His doctor, Dr. Almodovar, spent a lot of time making sure that Tommy was progressing satisfactorily and the other pediatrician, Dr. Harris, also made numerous visits. The nurses on Ward I were wonderful. Mrs. Handy, Mrs. West, Mrs. Grady, and Mrs. Wimberly are the only names I remember, but every nurse on that ward is special and we will never forget them. The lab technicians and the ward boys were so kind and nice to my son and the personnel who man the mess hall and deliver the meals were the same.

Remember, these people were working long shifts during the Christmas holidays and yet they never seemed to lose their spirit of good will. Someone always had time to tell a little boy a story or play a game or do something else to see that he was well and happy.

Tommy was discharged from the hospital on 28 December and is progressing very well. I wish you could hear him tell his friends about the nice Christmas he spent in the hospital. He not only received outstanding care but I believe he received a lesson in love of mankind that I hope will stay with him throughout his life. His teachers were some of the most wonderful people I have ever known.

To the people who complain about the medical care received at this clinic and the hospital, I would ask that they remember that the facilities and personnel of the hospital are very limited. If, however, you or your loved ones are truly sick, you will get the very best care available. I, for one, will never be able to complain, for I must take my hat off to these wonderful, hardworking people. I also would like to give each of them my profound thanks, not only for my son's wonderful care, but for giving him a very Merry Christmas.

Thank you,
CW4 M. R. LAPOINTE

Academic Credit Can Be Yours By Passing Tests

A College Level Examination Program (CLEP) to help people gain recognition for what they know and can do, irrespective of how or where they learned it, is available to all interested persons, according to a recent Civilian Personnel bulletin.

The bulletin was distributed for information purposes only as the program is sponsored by the College Entrance Examination Board, 475 Riverside Drive, New York, N.Y. 10027, not the MICOM Civilian Personnel Division.

The approach to the program is simple. Examinations are available to anyone who wants to take them.

The bulletin says, "For example, if you are interested in going to college and want to get credit for what you have learned on your own or in an academic field, you can take the College Level Examination in that field and have your score sent to any of the colleges that recognize CLEP scores."

If a person meets the standards set by the college in his or her particular subject field, academic credit will be granted. This recognition can be made only by a college or university. The University of Alabama in Huntsville is the only local college participating in the program.

Those interested in taking the examination to earn credit at a college should visit the college and find out which of the examinations are required, how the scores will be used, and how well a person will have to do on the examination to be granted credit at the college.

At the same time, inquiry should be made about any other requirements that will have to be met to qualify for admission.

Additional information is available from the Training and Development Branch of the MICOM Civilian Personnel Division, by calling Barbara Combs or John Heath at 876-5814 or 876-5850.

Electronic Class Open To Civilians

You can increase your technical know-how and boost your chances for promotion by taking correspondence courses free of charge through the Non-Resident Instruction Department here at the Missile and Munitions Center and School.

The Electronic Technology course, recently developed by the MMCS department, is being offered for the first time.

Nine sub-courses are included in the new course, which totals 163 credit hours when completed. The sub-courses include Basic Mathematics, Algebra, Basic Electricity, Electronics I and II, Computer Fundamentals, Transistors, Basic Test Equipment Operation, and Pulse Radar Maintenance Fundamentals.

Army correspondence courses are free to any Department of the Army-employed civilian and all active military. You can sign up for a course or a sub-course simply by filling out DA Form 145 and sending it to the Missile School's Non-Resident Instruction Department in building 3341. More information is available by calling 876-4704.

Army Experience Gives Future Perspective

Dial 112 For Redstone News

It's hard to hide over 75 insects during inspection, but Spec 4 Paul W. Schelske of the 291st Military Police Company has figured a way to camouflage his insect collection.

Schelske, an amateur entomologist, has mounted his insects on the sides and bottom of a styrofoam ice chest. When he wants it out of the way, he replaces the cover and moves it under his bed or desk . . . and it looks like an ordinary ice chest.

All of Schelske's collection of insects have been obtained right on Redstone Arsenal. One of his most prized specimens is a rhinoceros beetle which he says is quite rare and is the only one he has ever seen.

The insect collecting hobby is not new to Schelske, he majored in biology at St. Cloud State College in Minnesota, and has been interested in entomology every since.

When he entered the Army, Schelske volunteered for military police training and was happy that he got his choice. He likes his MP duties and says he wouldn't swap them for any other job.

Though he does not plan to make the Army his career, Schelske said: "I have enjoyed my Army service and gotten to see a good bit of the country. I think the experience I've received meeting and dealing with people will help me when I start my civilian career in education."

Schelske thinks that some of the changes being made as part of the Modern Volunteer Army program will attract young men who will come into the Army, serve their enlistments, gain valuable experience and return to civilian life with a better perspective.

COLLECTOR OF BUGS—Spec 4 Paul Schelske, an amateur entomologist, shows how he mounts his insects on the inside and bottom of a styrofoam ice chest to camouflage his collection during inspections. He has over 75 insects in his collection and plans to add more.

Keep The Spoon Handle Long

Equal Employment Opportunity got you bugged?

Here is one black woman's view on the subject:

She doesn't foresee a predominance of black women in the workforce just because of EEO.

Dot Bowen, an inventory management specialist in the Missile Command's Directorate for Materiel Management, says she hopes more black women will be employed and given responsible positions, but only if they are completely qualified.

"Because of the progress blacks have made in the past few years, many more should be ready to fill jobs, but I don't think they should get any gifts just because they're black," she said.

"Blacks are human just like anyone and should be given due consideration. There should be an honest measuring stick to use in determining which candidates are selected when there's an opening. People shouldn't be hired solely because they're black or white."

Twenty Years

She has been working for the government 20 years, long before there was emphasis on EEO. She says that being black and female has never handicapped her, nor did she progress because of her color or sex.

"I've often been the only black in an organization. It's not color that matters, it is your attitude toward other people. Don't come in with a chip on your shoulder," she said.

"Try to look for the good in others and they'll do the same for you." She got into her field because she was not content to stay stuck in a job that bored her.

"The first job I had with the Government was straight typing, day after day. I started looking around, asking questions, offering to help in other areas. When people saw I was eager to learn, they asked me if I wanted to do something else. That's how I got into the inventory management business," she said.

"I like to work hard, be frank with people, and if I don't understand something, I ask to have it explained. I just can't stand to be idle."

She was 26 and doing stenographic work when she decided to go to college. Her adviser suggested she take education courses and work toward a teacher's certificate, as insurance. "But I like working for the Government better than I would teaching," she said.

DOT BOWEN

Some shudder when the subject of women supervisors is mentioned, but Miss Bowen thinks that is a mistake.

"I've found that women are compassionate supervisors. Also, they look at things in depth, don't just skim over material, and women communicate better. Communication is a big problem - you can't do justice to a job if you only half understand what is to be done," she pointed out.

Miss Bowen emphasized that she'd had her ups and downs, but thinks that's what it takes to mature a person. She finds people generally congenial, but says when she is disappointed in someone she follows her grandmother's advice. "She told me when someone with a troubled personality gets to be a nuisance, I should be nice to them, but to 'keep the spoon handle long." I do," she said.

When she came to Huntsville from Memphis, her home town, she joined a church and takes an active part in its affairs. She has made a lot of good friends, owns her home, and she's happy.

She is always looking for ways to improve her professionalism. "Right now I'm inquiring about something that could be a refresher course for me. You can't sit back and just let things go along, you have to find out what opportunities there are and take advantage of them," she said.

Dynamic Duo

Houston Adams and Captain Jay Spalding, both from SAFSCOM's Security Office, most probably should be called a "dynamic duo" when the subject of bass fishing is brought up - and this subject comes up quite often in north Alabama. It seems this pair never gets "skunked."

On their most recent fishing excursion, the duo boated to their secret spot on Gunter's Lake and Cpt. Spalding, using his old reliable "hot spot", proceeded to land a 6½ pound largemouth and a 5½ pound largemouth on exactly two casts.

Not one to be out done, Adams, using a rapalla, proved his skill by netting a "hawg" bass that was a twin of Spalding's 5½ pounder.

Head Knocking Due Soon

Unit level basketball resumed last week at the post gym and when all the games were played five teams came out of the action still undefeated. MICOM (3-0), UTC (3-0) and B Co (2-0) all remained unbeaten in the American League while the 1st ETC (4-0) and the Medics (3-0) kept their ledgers clean in the National League.

In last week's action:

Monday

B Co had little trouble with arch rival C Co, scoring a 63-31 win which was never in doubt. B Co took the lead early and was never challenged. Russ Spicer paced the winners with 19-points while Roy Gunn added 16. Gene Powell netted 11 for the losers.

MICOM won its third game of the campaign without a setback by posting a 76-24 verdict over the 6th ETC. MICOM built up a 33-10 lead at halftime and then just coasted home for the victory. Wayne Mears collected 26-points for MICOM while James Burkhart and Assie Randolph accounted for 18 and 12 respectively. Arnold Vallecial netted 10-points for 6th ETC.

In the only other action Monday UTC edged SSG 36-33 to run its unbeaten string to three straight. After leading by only one (15-14) at halftime, UTC had to really struggle to fend off the determined SSG five and preserve the victory. Osie Anderson led the way for UTC with 11-points but Brent McGee of SSG was high for the game with 12.

Tuesday

The 1st ETC showed it could be the team to beat in the National League as it upped its record to 3-0 with a 60-37 shellacking of SOC. ETC led by only four at halftime but then poured it on in the second half to make the game a runaway. Joe Savery ripped the nets for 24-points for the 1st ETC with Greg Virgil putting through 19 for SOC.

The Medics had little mercy on the Marines in their contest Tuesday night, coming away with a 55-13 no contest verdict. The Meds led 20-7 at half and then pushed through 33 more points in the second half while the Marines could manage only 6. Robert Smith was high for the Medics with 18-points.

The last game of the night saw A Co squeeze by the 4th ETC 49-45. Charlie Miller and Fred Griggs shared scoring honors for the winners with 12 each while J. Thornton was high for the losers with 15.

Wednesday

Only one game was played Wednesday and that one saw B Co winning its second game of the week by a 51-34 count over SAFEGUARD. Russ Spicer paced B Co with 14-points while Chuck Bohner netted 12 and Jimmy Shaw 10 for the winners. Rod Lane was high for SAFEGUARD with 13-points.

Thursday

Mike Hall was a one-man show for the 157th Ord in its game with the 4th ETC. Hall collected 25 of his teams 36-points and it was just enough for a 36-35 victory. The 157th led 21-11 at halftime but ETC came on strong in the second half to make it close. J. Thornton pushed through 11-points and W. McCray accounted for 10 in a losing effort.

The 1st ETC found itself in a fouling contest with A Co but still

The final game of the week proved to be another disaster for the Marines as again, they could manage only 13-points. This time it was SOC having the field day, racking up 44-points. SOC led 25-6 at halftime led by Ken Sweazy,

All-Sports At Top All Alone

Strikes and spares were few and far between last Wednesday evening as AMC bowlers swung back into action following their two-week holiday layoff.

Only two of the maple maulers were able to muster totals in excess of 550 during the sub-par session at the Parkway Lanes, and another got exactly half way through the 500s.

Two of the three top totals came out of the All-Sports scrap with the Chrysler TOWs that saw the Sports gain sole possession of the league lead despite being held to an even split.

Jack Vickers flattened 550 for the Sports while Bob Lindeman downed 557 for the Chryslers.

The Bombers went into their fray with the Hughes TOWs as co-leaders but dropped out after losing three of four. The rapidly climbing TOW men grabbed third and now trail the Sports by two points.

The Cobras dropped to fourth, another point back, after losing three of four to the Rejectors. Chuck KeMonde was the big wheel for the winners with a league leading 574 count while Howard Helmick sacked 541 sticks for the Cobras.

The Toppers won three from the Sprinters while three other matches ended in standoffs. Ken Champagne was high for the Toppers with 526, one more than Earl Sims accumulated for the Sprinters.

Winners Crowned

SP5 Dick Simard from Co C here has been named the December pool champion at the Rocket Service Club. PFC Hamilton from Co B was the monthly winner of the table tennis tournament.

who took game scoring honors with 18-markers.

First Half Title On Line Tonight

If wishful thinking is worth much, there is still a race for the first half title in the S&M bowling league.

That's about all that is left for the remaining two contenders as Reba's get ready to put the first leg of the season championship under lock and key at the Playmor Lanes tonite.

The three aspirants are matched against the lower three quintets in the standings with Reba's claiming a point and a half bulge over the King Pins and DeVaults are another point to the rear.

The leaders picked up two thirds of their margin in winning all four points from Lot-O-Pins last Wednesday while the King Pins were taking three of four from MIA. DeVaults took the Tired Five, 3-1.

Jim's Five won three of four from Bale's Rentals and the Bushwackers broke even with the Pinspotters to complete the weekly Card.

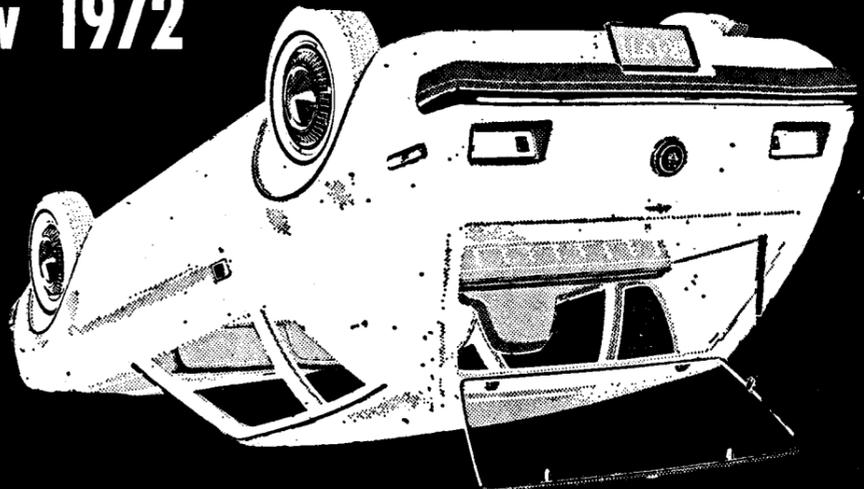

Carl Black took the lead for Reba's with a 529 count while Clyde Seiler paced the King Pins to their winning effort.

Floyd Clark grabbed individual scoring honors for the league with a 537 count and Bob Brand upended 520 sticks for DeVaults while Pete Coulter was high for the Tired Five with 526.

Buck Wade rapped the maples for 528 for the Bushwackers while Jim Johnson's handicapped total was best in the league for Jim's Five.

1972 VOTING REGISTRATION INFORMATION

February 1972 has been designated "Armed Forces Registration Month." Here is information on the registration requirements from all the states, some U.S. Territories and the District of Columbia. If you have any questions on how to register or vote by absentee process, see your unit voting counselor. Your vote counts in 1972—but only if you meet the deadline of your State in registering.

ALABAMA

Members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and children may register by mail in Alabama. Use the FPCA to request a registration questionnaire from the Board of Registrars, county of residence. Complete the questionnaire and when it is accepted you will be registered. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you are applying for registration. Register now so that you can vote in Alabama's May 2 Primary election.

ALASKA

In Alaska, any qualified voter who is absent from his voting precinct may register and vote by absentee process. Send an FPCA to the Lt. Governor, Pouch AA, Juneau, Alaska, 99801, to start your registration process. Your application must be postmarked at least 30 days before an election in which you wish to vote. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you are applying for registration. Now is a good time to register to vote in the August 22 Primary of Alaska.

ARIZONA

In Arizona, members of the Armed Forces only may apply for registration when they apply for an absentee ballot with an FPCA. Others may apply for registration by mail by writing to the County Recorder, county of residence, for an "Affidavit of Registration" form. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you apply for registration. Arizona has a Primary election on September 12, 1972.

ARKANSAS

In Arkansas, registration is not required for absentee voting on the part of members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents. You may use an FPCA to apply for an absentee ballot. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when applying. Make plans now to vote in the Arkansas Primary election on June 27.

CALIFORNIA

In California, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents may apply for registration when applying for an absentee ballot. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you are applying. You may use an FPCA to apply to the County Clerk, county of residence. The California Primary election is set for June 6—make plans now to take part in it.

COLORADO

In Colorado, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents may apply for registration when they apply for an absentee ballot. Be sure to indicate your political party preference. You may use an FPCA to apply for the absentee ballot from the County Clerk, county of residence. Colorado has set September 12 as the date for its primary election—make plans now to take part.

CONNECTICUT

In Connecticut, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents may apply for registration by mail using the FPCA. Be sure to indicate your political party preference. Send the FPCA to the Town Clerk, place of residence, and request an "Application for Absentee Admission as an Elector" form. Register now so that you can take an active part in your State's future. Keep in touch with friends at home to find out when the party primaries will be held.

DELAWARE

In Delaware, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses may apply for registration when they apply for an absentee ballot. You may use an FPCA to do this. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you are applying for registration. While Delaware does not permit voting in Primary elections, you should make plans now to vote in the November 7 General election.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents from the District of Columbia may register temporarily to vote in the May 2d primary election and the November 7 general election. You may use an FPCA to register and to request an absentee ballot. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when applying for registration. The address to use is D.C. Board of Elections, District Building, Washington, D.C. 20004. Make plans now to register and vote.

FLORIDA

In Florida, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents may register by mail by sending an FPCA to the Supervisor of Registration, county of residence. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you are applying for registration. Florida has a primary election scheduled for September 12—make plans now to register and vote.

GEORGIA

Members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents who call Georgia home may register and vote by mail. Make application to register to the Board of Registrars, county of residence. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you are applying for registration. Do so now so that you can vote in the August 8 primary election in Georgia.

GUAM

Members of the Armed Forces who are legal residents of Guam may register by completing the affidavit on the back of the absentee ballot return envelope. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you are applying for registration. Send an FPCA to the Election Commission as early as July 2 to vote in Guam's primary election which is set for September 2.

HAWAII

Members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents who are legal residents of Hawaii will be registered when they apply for an absentee ballot by FPCA. Be sure to indicate your political party preference. Send the completed FPCA to the County Clerk, county of residence, in time to be on the books and able to vote in the Primary election set for October 7.

IDAHO

In Idaho, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents will be registered when they apply for an absentee ballot. You may use an FPCA to do so. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when applying for registration. Send the completed FPCA to the county clerk, county of residence. Idaho has a primary election set for August 8—make plans now to vote in it.

ILLINOIS

In Illinois, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents may vote in Federal, State and county election without being registered. To apply for an absentee ballot, send a completed FPCA to the county clerk, county of residence. Be sure to indicate your political party preference. Illinois has a primary election set for March 21—make plans now to take part in it.

INDIANA

In Indiana, members of the Armed Forces who are legal residents may apply for registration and an absentee ballot at the same time. Send a completed FPCA to the County Board of Elections, county of residence. Be sure to indicate your political party preference. Other persons may register by requesting an "Absentee Registration" form from the Clerk of the Circuit Court, county of residence. Indiana has a primary election set for May 2—make plans now to take part in it.

IOWA

In Iowa, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents will be registered to vote (if required) when the affidavit on the back of the absentee ballot envelope is accepted. You may use an FPCA to request an absentee ballot from the County Auditor, county of residence. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when applying for registration. Iowa has a primary election on June 6—make plans now to take part in it.

KANSAS

Members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents who are legal residents of Kansas are not required to be registered in order to vote. You may use an FPCA—send it to the Secretary of State, Topeka, Kansas, 66612—to request an absentee ballot. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you apply. Kansas has a primary election on August 1—make plans now to take part in it.

KENTUCKY

Members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents who are legal residents of Kentucky may register by mail. Request an "Application for Registration" form from the County Clerk, county of residence. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when applying. Complete and return the form to be registered. You may use an FPCA to request an absentee ballot. Kentucky has a primary election set for May 23—make plans now to take part in it.

LOUISIANA

In Louisiana, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents who are legal residents may register by absentee process. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when applying. Send a completed FPCA to the Registrar of Voters, parish of residence, and the proper State form will be sent to you. Louisiana has a primary election set for August 29—make plans now to register and vote in it.

MAINE

In Maine, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents may register by absentee process. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when applying for registration. Send an FPCA to the Board of Registration, municipality of residence, to register. Maine has a primary election set for June 19—make plans now to register so that you can vote in it.

MARYLAND

In Maryland, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents may register by casting an absentee ballot. You may request an absentee ballot by using an FPCA. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when applying. Send it to the Board of Supervisors of Elections, city or county of residence. May 16 is the date for the Maryland primary election—make plans now to register so that you can vote in it.

MASSACHUSETTS

In Massachusetts, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents residing with or accompanying them may register by absentee process. Submission of an FPCA will be treated as a simultaneous request for temporary registration. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when applying. FPCA should be sent to the city or town clerk, place of residence. Massachusetts has a primary election on September 19—make plans now to register so that you can vote in it.

MICHIGAN

Members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and immediate family residing with or accompanying them who call Michigan "home" may register by absentee process. Use an FPCA to apply for registration forms from the city or town clerk, place of residence. Be sure to indicate your political party preference when you apply. Michigan has a primary election set for August 8—make plans now to register so that you can vote in it.

MINNESOTA

If you are a legal resident of Minnesota, plan to vote in the primary election. Members of the Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents will be registered when their application for an absentee ballot has been accepted by the County Auditor, county of residence. Be sure to indicate your political party preference. You may use an FPCA. Minnesota has a primary set for September 12—make plans now to register and vote in it.

MISSISSIPPI

In Mississippi, members of the Armed Forces and their spouses may apply for a "Registration Application" when requesting an absentee ballot. Be sure to indicate your political party preference. # Army Release Date

Will Gartman of the Unit Training Command's Headquarters Company. "In the meantime, I'm looking for a job with a Gadsden manufacturing plant." Gartman said he plans to study history and physical education.

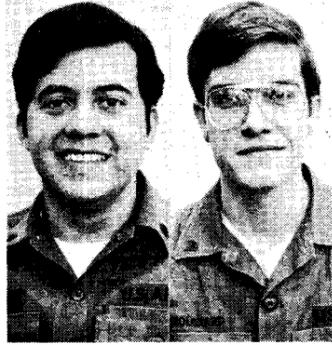

Specialist Four Michael Horton, a driver for the School Brigade Commander, had a month's notice of his early release. He said he plans to go back to Walker Junior College in Jasper, Ala., where he majored in physical education before he entered service. Because he has no paperwork in to Walker yet, he says he hopes to work at a steam power plant in Birmingham until school begins for him.

reasons for his staying in Rocket City.

"It's nice country, with little corruption in politics and administration. It's easy to get around," (he owns a car) "and people don't hassle you as much here in Alabama. It's beautiful—I've grown attached to it," he says.

And at least one Huntsville native plans to stay here. Specialist Four Larry Campbell, Commandant's driver, plans to go back to his former job as a draftsman with a local manufacturing company. He said he had arrangements made before he got his early out notice. "I plan to go back to school under the G.I. bill, too, and work for a degree in architecture," he said. He and his wife will live in town, he says.

VILLARREAL MOLGAARD

Specialist Four Charles R. Brown, who has spent almost his entire Army life at Redstone, plans to go back to work in a furniture factory in Owego, N.Y. Brown, a supply clerk for Headquarters Company of the Unit Training Command, is originally from Sayre, Pennsylvania.

Though "home" for Specialist Four Richard Villarreal is Santa Clara, Cal., he says he'll be going to the University of San Francisco as a Physical Education major. His story is interesting—he miscalculated on his plans for a school "early out" and so the request was denied. A day after his denial arrived, his notice for the blanket six-month drop came down and he was on his way again. Villarreal is a company clerk for the 6th ETC at MMCS.

Speaks To AIAA

A program manager for the Lockheed Missiles and Space Company will be the guest speaker at the January meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics slated for January 27 at the Officers Open Mess.

A. S. Dunbar, manager of Ocean Systems Electronics for Lockheed, will describe programs that are dedicated to the gathering, recording and relaying of information about the ocean.

Formerly with Lockheed in Huntsville, Dunbar is now located in Sunnyvale, Cal. He has been responsible for a number of microwave research and engineering management assignments with Lockheed and other companies.

HORTON NEUMEYER

The early release caught Specialist Four Craig Molgaard before he had school tied up, so he's now trying to get scheduled into a summer session. In the meantime, he says he plans to look for work, but, "It's basically a farming economy back home in Audubon, Iowa, and chances for a factory job are slim," he said. He says he plans to try, anyway, before he begins his studies in anthropology.

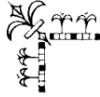

At least one MMCS soldier plans to become a Huntsvillian. Corporal Douglas Gibson, originally from Philadelphia, says he plans to stay here and study business at a local technical institute.

The 23 year-old soldier says there were "economical considerations" as well as other

Here's Latest Word On Health Insurance

The Civil Service Commission has made the following decisions regarding Federal Employees Health Benefits in light of last week's decisions by the Price Commission.

1. The open season scheduled to end December 31, 1971 will be extended through January 31, 1972. Enrollment changes made at any time from November 15, 1971 through January 31, 1972 will be effective the first day of the enrollee's first pay period in January 1972. During the extended open season, employees and annuitants may change plans or options, and they may cancel or reverse a change made since the open season began November 15.

2. The 22 percent increase in the premium rate for Blue Cross-Blue Shield, granted by the Price Commission effective January 1, 1972, will go into effect for each enrollee in that plan, beginning with the first pay period in 1972.

3. Premium increases previously announced for other plans will be postponed until the rates can be reviewed by appropriate price control authorities under new guidelines announced by the Price Commission last week. (In addition to the downward adjustment in premium for Blue Cross-Blue Shield already determined, it is possible that rates for some of the other plans will require adjustment under the new guidelines.) Rates for plans other than Blue Cross-Blue Shield will be continued at 1971 levels during this period of postponement. Some of the plans, including Aetna, have not scheduled increases for 1972.

4. Government's contribution to premium payments will be set temporarily on the basis of 1972 rates for Blue Cross-Blue Shield and on 1971 rates for the next five largest plans, including Aetna (no increase planned).

On this computation, the government's temporary contribution will be $3.59 biweekly and $7.78 monthly for self only coverage and $8.96 biweekly and $19.42 monthly for self and family coverage. By law, the government contribution is 40 percent of the average high option cost of the six largest plans, but may not exceed 50 percent of premium for any employee.

5. Carriers whose increases are postponed will be given special payments from contingency funds held by the government for each plan to make up the difference between 1971 rates and those finally approved for 1972. The full and final adjustment of the government's contribution will be redetermined and will become effective when final 1972 rates for all plans have been approved by appropriate price control authorities.

It should be noted that more than 80 percent of all employees and annuitants are covered by Blue Cross-Blue Shield whose rates for 1972 have been approved by the Price Commission, and by Aetna whose rates do not contemplate an increase for 1972.

6. Concurrent with the above actions, the Civil Service Commission is asking the Cost of Living Council and the Price Commission to arrange for early review, under new guidelines, by appropriate price control authorities of rate increases proposed for plans other than Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

Premium rates previously negotiated with all carriers were reached under old guidelines which became obsolete when the new guidelines were announced by the Price Commission.

7. When final 1972 premium determinations have been made for all plans, the Civil Service Commission will announce 1972 premium rates and final government contribution rates, and will hold another open season to enable enrolled employees and annuitants to change plans or options. Employees not enrolled in a plan may enroll during an open season, but annuitants may not.

Premium rates effective until further notice, including the government's contribution and the enrollee's contribution, are shown in the attached tables. New rates will be announced before the start of the open season which will be scheduled before final rates are placed into effect.

THIRD ETC RULES IN CHESS

It appears as though the Arsenal's premier experts at chess are assigned to the Third Enlisted Training Company.

At least that is the result of the special tournament staged at the Service Club last week when the Third captured first, second and third place.

The championship was won by Sergeant Chian Yuan Chueng. E-2 Lester Leigh was runner up with SP4 George Anderson claiming third place in the tournament. Captain and Mrs. Richard Olsher directed the meet.

MPs With Degrees Give New Image

The old image of a Military Policeman - big and dumb - is fast fading from the Army scene.

In the 291st MP Company at the Army Missile Command, for instance, more than 20 percent of the 129 soldiers in the unit have college degrees, and although they do have to be at least 5 feet 9, they aren't all young giants.

One MICOM Military Policeman holds a masters degree. Several are working on advanced degrees. Others have associate degrees or one or two years of college. Three of the men are teaching U. S. Armed Forces Institute courses at night on the arsenal.

Their college majors cover all kinds of fields. Curiously, only one man majored in police administration.

New Breed

Specialist Four Jerry Kennedy is typical of the new breed of Army cops. He has four years of college, lacks only a few hours for a degree in advertising design and photography.

Kennedy believes his college education helps him to be a better MP even though his duties have nothing to do with what he was studying in school.

"The time spent in college teaches self-discipline, it's maturing and makes a person broader minded," he said. "It helps him have more common sense, develop tact, and he can use better judgement on the job."

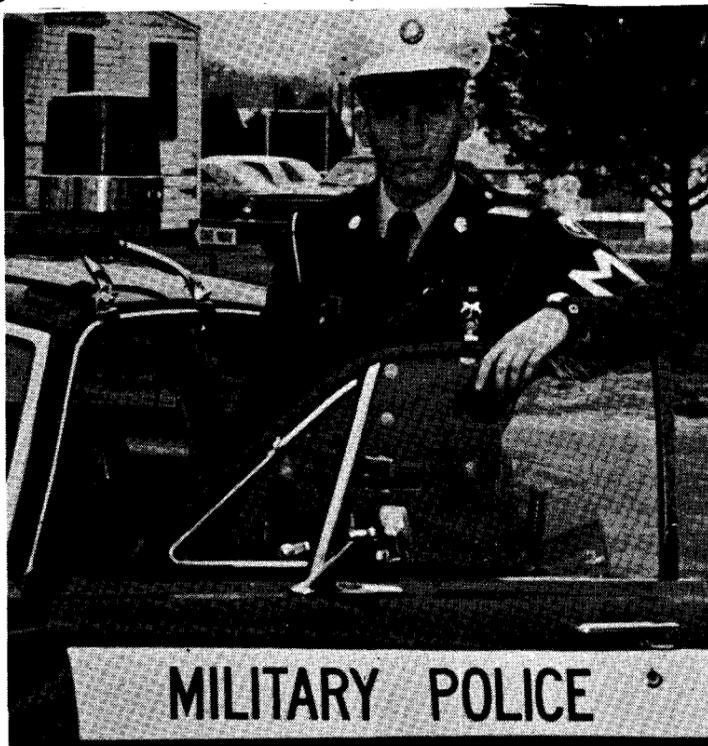

MPs have a fantastic amount of paper work to do and it must be accurate. They have to consider whether or not citations they give are fully justified. "A careless determination about a violation could cost a person a lot of money. You need to make your decisions on the spot and make them right," Kennedy commented.

Issuing citations for traffic violations is just a part of the job, a small part. Kennedy, for example, is assigned to a patrol unit, responsible for a particular area of the Arsenal during his duty shift. His duties include being helpful as well as watchful. A stalled car, a lost child, someone who can't find the building he's looking for, accidents, all call for assistance from the MP's.

Many Tasks

"On day or night patrol they may be called to help settle a domestic disturbance, round-up cattle that have escaped from leased pastures on the arsenal, warn hunters who have wandered out of bounds, catch rabid animals, or investigate illegal parking.

"One of our biggest problems is in getting people to pull their cars over to the side when we're on an emergency run or trying to stop someone for a violation. We have our lights flashing and siren going, but people drive in closed cars with the radio on and maybe they don't hear or see us coming," Kennedy said.

He considers work on the gates the hardest, especially the gate on Patton Road where there is a lot of traffic. The men on the gate have to try to watch several directions concurrently and keep up with what is going on.

Being an MP isn't just following a list of instructions on a piece of paper. It means being intelligent, able to communicate effectively, and being obligated to make the right decisions. The Army recognizes this and is using stiffer criteria when picking men for the job.

Lance Pact Goes To LTV

An Army Missile Command contract for $4,644,502 has been awarded to LTV Aerospace Corporation for continued engineering services on the Lance missile system.

Work under the contract will be performed at Warren, Mich.

Lance is a highly mobile and accurate weapon system designed to place strategic fire on enemy troop concentrations, supply depots, transportation routes and similar targets.

The program is managed at Redstone by Brig. Gen. Robert J. Proudfoot, project manager.

Ten Chosen For A&M Seminar

Eight civilian and two military personnel at MICOM have been selected to attend the Fourth Annual Management Development Program at Alabama A & M University January 23 to 28.

Colonel C. F. Kolankiewicz, Special Assistant, and Major B. W. McCarty, Secretary to the General Staff, will represent the military.

Civilians attending will be Barney E. Kemp and Melvin H. Tack from Maintenance, James O. Thornton of RDE & MSL, Emmett M. Peterson and Marcile L. Bagley, Missile Intelligence, John F. Wyle, Comptroller Office, James T. Smith, TOW, and Elmer Rufe, Metrology and Calibration.

The School of Business at A & M is sponsoring the program in conjunction with the College of Business Administration at Penn State University.

The course involves five days of intensive study in the principles of good management designed to improve managerial skills.

The distinguished faculty will include Dr. John F. Mee, Indiana University; Dr. Edmond H.

Curcuro, University of Connecticut; and Dr. Michael P. Hottenstein, Penn State University.

Both Army elements and private businesses in the Huntsville area will participate in the program.

Sooner Alumni Grows At RSA

Seven local civilian employees in December received Bachelor of Liberal Studies degrees from the University of Oklahoma under a program administered by the Training and Development Branch of Civilian Personnel.

Those receiving degrees were Betty Dorman and Charles Davidson of the Procurement and Production Directorate, Robert Mercer of Product Assurance, Horace Walker of Metrology and Calibration, John Mikitish of the Labor Relations Branch of Civilian Personnel, Charles Twyman of Air Defense Special Items Management Office, and Harvey Daniel of Saflog.

All began studies for their degrees in 1967 except Walker who started two years later.

Rockets Even After Rucker Split

Win At Foul Line, Lose The Same Way

The Redstone Rockets split a pair of conference games with Ft. Rucker here last weekend winning Friday night's contest 73-69 and dropping a Saturday afternoon affair 74-70.

If ever a pair of games were decided at the foul line, these two were. Friday night both teams connected for 26 field goals but Rucker was charged with 27 personals to Redstone's 19. Saturday's game was a complete turnabout as Redstone was called for 30 fouls and Rucker only 19. Both teams again hit on a like number of field goals, 25.

Ed Jolovich proved to be the difference for Redstone Friday night. The big forward broke a 60-60 deadlock with 7:13 remaining in the game to put Redstone ahead to stay. The Rockets never led by more than four in those final minutes but when the big play was needed Jolovich was there to grab a rebound or hit a bucket.

Close Affair

Friday night's game was close all the way. Redstone took an early lead and was able to hold it for 17-minutes of the first half before a free throw by Don Hand put Rucker ahead for the first time 31-30.

Redstone came right back with six straight points to lead 36-31 with two-minutes left in the half and the two teams traded baskets for the rest of the half and Redstone led 42-36 at the end of the first 20-minutes of play.

The second half saw the lead change eight different times before Jolovich's basket put Redstone ahead for good. Jolovich finished the evening with 19-points, high for the Rockets, while Russ Spicer added 15 and Louis Martin 14.

Bob Kornegay, Rucker's big center, took game scoring honors with 22. Bill Malone scored 18 and Joe Reed collected 12 markers in a losing effort.

Saturday afternoon's game looked like a repeat of Friday's —except in reverse. Instead of Redstone capitalizing on Rucker's personal fouls, it was the visitors returning a favor.

Rucker led by one, 16-15 at the end of the first quarter of play and then outscored the Rockets 24-22 in the second stanza to take a 40-37 lead at half-time.

Cold Spell

Redstone fell behind in the third quarter as they could hit on only five field goals and one free throw for 11-points while Rucker was putting 19 points through the hoop.

In a free-wheeling final quarter the Rockets got going but it was too late. Although they outscored Rucker 22-15 they came out on the short end of the 74-70 decision.

Kornegay was again high for the Rucker quintet, dropping in 21-points. Joe Reed helped the winners with 17 and Malone put through an even 10

Russ Spicer held the hot hand for Redstone, hitting 8 field goals and 7 of 8 free throw attempts for 23-points. Jolovich netted 13 and Martin 12-points for the Rockets.

Seminar Explores Policy In Science

Dr. John McDaniel, MICOM's Chief of Research and Development, has accepted an invitation to appear on the Oak Ridge Executive Seminar, Program "Effects of Technological Development," on February 8.

The two-week program deals with the role of the Federal Government in scientific affairs and the effects of technological change on the nation. The course explores the scientific environment and the relationship between technological advances, and social and economic issues.

The Executive Seminar Center in Oak Ridge, Tennessee is operated as an interagency training facility by the U. S. Civil Service Commission. The objective of the Center is to provide career development opportunities to agency selected mid-level government executives.

Dr. McDaniel's session is entitled "Implementing Science Policy."

PATRIOTIC AWARD—Freeman G. Lee, Chief, Product Assurance and Test Division, LCSS, shows his son, Monty, a Cub Scout, the plaque he received as a Certificate of Appreciation for Patriotic Civilian Service, from Maj. Gen. Edwin I. Donley, Commanding General, Army Missile Command. Lee received his award for saving a man's life by performing mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and keeping the man alive until the rescue squad arrived. Lee is active in Boy Scout and Civil Defense activities and learned his life saving techniques in these programs.

GI Bill Trains Veterans For Protective Services

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The number of veterans training under the G.I. Bill in protective-services occupations increased 46 per cent during the last fiscal year.

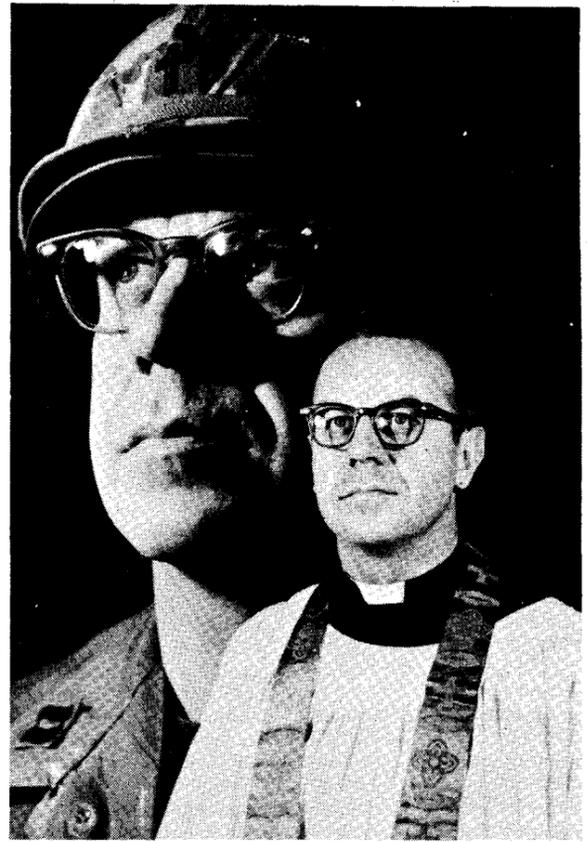

Veterans Administration officials report 38,000 veterans took such training for jobs as policemen, firemen and specialists in other related fields, compared to 26,000 a year earlier.

Of the 38,000 protective-services trainees, 17,500 took on-the-job training (OJT) as policemen or firemen. Another 8,500 enrolled in college level police science, criminology or fire-protection courses and 10,000 took instruction in courses below the college level. Other jobs, such as game warden and bailiff, drew an additional 2,000 trainees.

Benefits to the veteran in these programs can be both financial and educational, VA officials report.

Veterans interested in the available OJT programs in the protective services occupations are urged to contact their nearest VA office or local veterans service organization representatives.

An eligible veteran who has not completed elementary or high school may receive VA educational assistance without charge to his basic entitlement.

ONE MISSION-TWO UNIFORMS—Chaplain Richard V. Goeres' face will become familiar to people across the United States. As a poster, the picture has been distributed to approximately 18,000 churches by the Lutheran Council of America. The picture in military uniform was taken while he was serving with a civic action team on a plantation near Long Binh, Vietnam where he learned some of the language in order to communicate with the people around him. While serving in Japan, as a missionary, he learned to speak Japanese. The Army isn't the first experience he's had with a military life. Chaplain Goeres was in the Air Force for four years.

Range Safety Procedure Wins High Army Award

One of the Department of the Army's highest awards has been given to Johnny G. Allen, an engineer in the Safeguard System Command's Kwajalein Range Directorate, here.

The Department of Army Meritorious Civilian Service Award was awarded Allen for his development of a series of range safety countdown procedures for Safeguard missile firing tests.

The presentation was made by Major General Robert C. Marshall, Commanding General of the Safeguard System Command, during ceremonies at Command headquarters. The award is the second highest made by the Army to civilian employees.

A native of Birmingham, Allen graduated from Auburn University in 1961 and came to work for the Army here in 1968. He is currently an engineer in the Range Safety Office of the Kwajalein Range Directorate.

The award was given for Allen's contributions to range safety during a period from 1969 until 1971 while he was assigned to the Safety Office at the Range. During that period he was primarily engaged in developing safety procedures for the testing of the developmental Safeguard ballistic missile defense system there.

The tests involved tracking of target ICBM nosecones flown into the Kwajalein area and launching and guidance of Spartan and Sprint missiles to intercept them.

The Safeguard System is being developed and deployed by the Army as a defense against enemy intercontinental ballistic missiles and submarine launched ballistic missiles.

The citation which accompanied the award said Allen's "significant contributions were responsible for the development of tests to verify the performance and readiness of the Safeguard flight system and his application of original concepts to match the system's advanced state of the art technology has resulted in standard safety procedures which were adopted for Safeguard."

The procedures developed by Allen were designed to check out the system data processor equipment and display systems as well as the Spartan and Sprint interceptor missiles.

Prior to becoming an Army employee, Allen worked for Southern Research Institute in Birmingham, and Brown Engineering and the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville.

EXECUTIVE AWARDS

Five U. S. Army Safeguard System Command civilian employees were recognized for their significant achievements this week in ceremonies conducted at The Research Park Headquarters. Major General R. C. Marshall, Safeguard's Commanding General, made the presentations.

Joseph M. Gentry, a mathematician in the Product Assurance Office, received the Department of the Army Certificate of Achievement for demonstrating outstanding professional skill and initiative in the performance of duty from August 1970 to September 1971.

His work during this period was instrumental in the solution of many difficult mathematical and computer programming problems relative to the implementation of the Safeguard Life Cycle Analysis Program.

Gordon W. Dykes, Deputy Director, Site Activation Directorate, and Lonnie N. Hightower, Deputy Director, P&L Directorate, were co-recipients of the Safeguard Senior Executive Award for 1971.

Michael S. Holtcamp, Chief, Reentry Measurements Branch, and Jon J. Spano, a General Engineer who was not present at the ceremony, shared of the Junior Executive Award for 1971.

Honorable Mention Senior Executive Awards went to Henry M. Fail, Jr., Chief of the PAR Branch, Site Activation Directorate, and Hardy B. Jackson, Chief of the Procurement Law Division in the General Counsel Office.

Receiving Honorable Mention Junior Executive Awards were Tilden S. Tippit, an Electronics Engineer in the P&L Directorate, and James R. Wilkerson, a Procurement and Production Specialist in the P&L Directorate.

Withholding

Prior to taking any action toward revising their exemption schedule, it is suggested that individuals evaluate the amount of tax withheld from one bi-weekly check.

This will provide the individual with a better comparison on which to base a change to greater or fewer exemptions.

The new law authorizes a special withholding allowance for each single person, and each married person whose spouse is not also employed. This "special withholding allowance" is treated as exemptions whenever claimed.

Chief Of Reserves Heads Army Night Festivities

LTG HOLLIS

Lt. Gen. Harris W. Hollis, Chief of U.S. Reserve Forces, will be guest speaker Friday night for the annual "Army Night" meeting of the Huntsville Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association.

Activities begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Officers Open Mess.

Gen. Hollis' service includes World War II duty with the 326th Glider Infantry—where he commanded C company—and with the 1st Airborne Task Force during the invasion of Southern France.

Born in Richburg, S.C., he graduated from Clemson University in 1942 where he received his commission as second lieutenant of infantry in the Army Reserve.

Army Night reservations may be made by calling E.F. Hargis at 895-3731, Pete Redding at 536-1376, or W.R. Mixon at 453-4621.

U.S. Military Academy

The purpose of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, New York is to produce qualified, career Army officers. The four year program is designed to enhance the "whole man" concept by active participation in academics, sports, social and religious activities. Three methods of becoming a cadet have particular application to Redstone soldiers.

First, a soldier may apply for direct appointment to West Point under the active Army quota. Selection is based upon competition in the medical, physical, and academic areas. See AR 351-12 for details.

Second, a soldier may apply for appointment to the U.S. Military Academy Preparatory School at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. Selection is less competitive than the first method. The Preparatory School is designed to improve or refresh academic ability in preparation for West Point competition. This method is ideal for soldiers with a weak high school (or equivalent) education, or soldiers who have been out of high school for a year or more. See AR 351-12 for details.

Third, a 10 November 71 Army Times article announced that 100 cadetships at West Point are reserved for sons of active or retired military personnel of all services.

The requirements for cadetship include U.S. citizen, good physical condition, high school education or equivalent, never been married, 17-22 years of age, and the desire to pursue a career as an Army officer. Specific questions may be answered by consulting AR 351-12 or calling CPT Brewer at 876-5993-5419.

Home Made Black Box

Lieutenant Colonel Llewellyn P. Rose, an ARADCOM plans officer working with the Safeguard System Command's Hardsite Evaluation Board, has received credit for developing an electronic warfare training device which has been so successful it is now receiving Army-wide distribution.

Rose began work on his device back in 1968 when he saw the Army faced with a serious problem in teaching a communication systems operator how to recognize and identify enemy jamming attempts.

The device, officially called a "Training Generator SG-886", was developed by Rose in his basement workshop. Plugged into a radio, it creates and amplifies noises which accurately simulate jamming and other electronic warfare techniques.

Hershel F. Straw

Hershel F. Straw, Management Analyst in the Directorate for Management Information Systems, died recently.

He began his government career in 1947, working in Topeka, Kansas and Mobile, prior to transferring to Redstone Arsenal in 1962.

While employed at MICOM, he was instrumental in developing techniques and procedures in implementing a consolidated Automatic Data Processing scheduling system for processing the MICOM total computer workload. He also developed and implemented the Automated Tape Library system which has grown from approximately 1000 reels to 30,000 reels today.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eunice V. Straw of Huntsville, and by four sons and a daughter.
