

Does Your Spouse Know What To Do?

Sooner or later, ready or not, you are going to die.

That's not the opening line of a sermon for you. This article isn't even aimed at you. You can stop reading it right now if you'll promise to tear it out of the paper, take it home and give it to your spouse.

On the day you both find out that you are not immortal, your wife or husband will need to know what follows, specifically: what benefits survivors of civilian employees are entitled to, how they apply for them and how soon they can expect to get them.

The sequence begins with notification of death being given the Civilian Personnel Division. Normally this is the responsibility of the deceased person's supervisor.

A letter of condolence is sent to the next of kin. In addition to appropriate expressions of sympathy, the letter tells the survivor that Lester Himes of Civilian Personnel will assist in completion of matters connected with the deceased worker's employment. Included in the letter are Himes' phone number and office location on the arsenal.

The survivor is asked to make an appointment with Himes and advised to bring to that meeting three copies of the death certificate.

The meeting with Himes will involve completing three forms: one is a claim for any unpaid salary due and a lump sum for accumulated annual leave. The second is a claim under the Federal Employee Group Life Insurance Program. The third is a claim for an annuity for the survivor and children.

Checks for salary due and annual leave are issued locally and are normally mailed to the survivor within a few days.

Insurance payments are prompt, but that claim must be cleared in New York and it normally takes about 28 to 42 days before the survivor receives a check. The claims is paid to whomever the deceased has designated as beneficiary.

It usually takes about 90 days before the annuity checks start coming and they continue on a regular monthly basis thereafter.

The survivor, let's say wife, gets an annuity which is 55 percent of what her husband would have received had he retired with a disability. In addition, the government pays $87 for each child up to a total of three. The payments for children stop when they reach 18; age 22 if the child continues in school.

The annuity will continue for the lifetime of the surviving spouse unless he or she remarries prior to age 60.

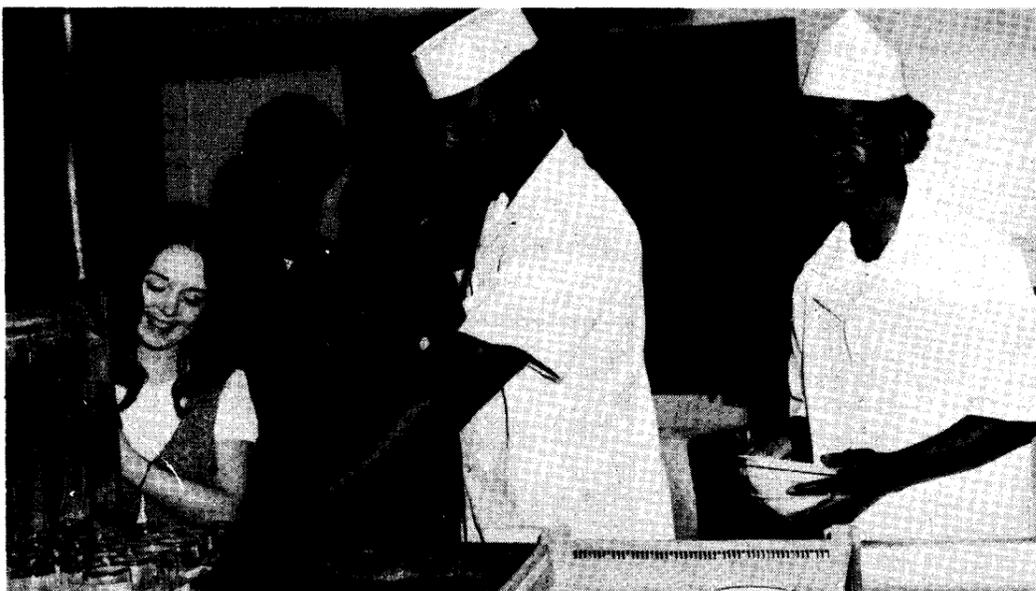

The annuities are paid in any case where the deceased civilian employee has been on the pay roll for 18 months or longer.

Himes will also assist survivors in other matters when possible. If the deceased was insured under the Redstone Benefit Association program, for example, he contacts their representative and asks him to be present when the survivor comes in to submit a claim, or as another example, he provides information on how to contact the Veterans Administration for other possible benefits.

VOL. XX; NO. 43 REDSTONE ARSENAL, HUNTSVILLE, ALA. 35801 MARCH 15, 1972

DISHES AT HOME WERE NEVER LIKE THIS—Joan Gross, MMCS Information Office secretary, watches civilian KP's Horace Drake and Willie Rice feed dishes into a hungry dishwasher as SP4 Horace Williams and PFC Willie Haymon of the 227th Ordnance Detachment, UTC, smile in the knowledge that their KP days are over. Civilian KP's began working full time at mess halls one and four a week ago Wednesday.

KP Out—

For Soldiers At The School

A soldier handed a dish rag to a civilian in mess hall number one at the Missile and Munitions Center and School and at mess hall number four at the Unit Training Command last week. That seemingly small action was another giant step forward for hundreds of lower ranking soldiers in today's Modern Volunteer Army.

It symbolized the beginning of the end of that perennial bane of GI existence since before 1776—involuntary KP duty, formally known as kitchen police, but obscenely described by millions of past and present soldiers in gut and gutter phraseology unfit for family ears.

When additional civilians were added to the KP roster last week, it was the end of protracted and continuing administrative negotiations with local contractors to hire civilians and with higher headquarters to get funds to pay the wages of the civilian kitchen workers who are replacing the soldiers at the sink.

Civilian KPs are currently authorized in only two of the four MMCS mess halls. Mess halls 1 and 4, which now have civilian KPs seven days a week, have had civilian KPs on weekends for the last year. The contract provided for the option of full-time civilian KPs when funding became available, as it did last week.

Mess halls 2 and 5, which are only open five days a week, are not covered under the terms of the current contract. KP in these mess halls will continue to be performed by soldiers through June.

Colonel Gilbert P. Levy, MMCS Commandant, says he expects new fund allocations from the Continental Army Command and the Third Army will be available to provide civilian KPs for all the school's dining facilities by the middle of the year.

Orientation Set For Tomorrow

Group separation orientation will be held tomorrow at 8:30 a.m. in Toftoy Hall, Building 3495, for those men being released from active duty during April and May.

Speakers from the Veteran's Administration, Civil Service Commission, Social Security Administration, U.S. Employment Service, and the State Department of Veteran's Affairs will present the program benefits their agencies offer to service personnel being released from active duty.

All men to be released in April and May are scheduled to attend.

Why Be Embarrassed? You Too Can Sing Along

For all those who tried - and failed - to sing the official Army song when urged to do so at a recent AUSA meeting and for those who have yet to be put to the test, the Rocket herewith presents the authorized text.

The basic melody of "The Army Goes Rolling Along" comes from Brigadier General (then Lieutenant) E.L. Gruber's "Caisson Song" composed in 1908. Lyrics for the new Army song were revised and adapted by Dr. Harold W. Arberg. General Harold K. Johnson in 1966 encouraged all Army personnel to stand at attention whenever it is played:

Verse: March along, sing our song
With the Army of the free.
Count the brave, count the true
Who have fought to victory.
We're the Army and proud of our name!
We're the Army and proudly proclaim:

First Chorus: First to fight for the right
And to build the nation's might
And the Army goes rolling along,
Proud of all we have done,
Fighting till the battle's won,
And the Army goes rolling along.

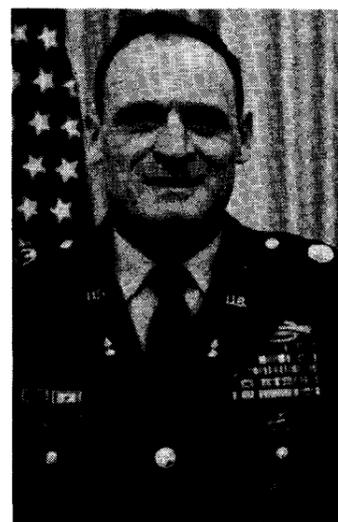

Refrain: Then it's Hi! Hi! Hey!
The Army's on its way.
Count off the cadence loud and strong:
For wher'er we go, you will always know
That the Army goes rolling along.

Second Chorus: Valley Forge, Custer's ranks,
San Juan Hill and Patton's tanks,
And the Army went rolling along.
Minute men from the start,
Always fighting from the heart,
And the Army keeps rolling along.

(Repeat Refrain)

Third Chorus: Men in rags, men who froze,
Still that Army met its foes,
And the Army went rolling along.
Faith in God then we're right
And we'll fight with all our might,
As the Army keeps rolling along.

Refrain: Then it's Hi! Hi! Hey!
The Army's on its way.
Count off the cadence loud and strong; (two, three)
For Wher'er we go, you will always know
That the Army goes rolling along!
(Keep it rolling)
And the Army goes rolling along!

Germans Buy TOW

West Germany is buying TOW. The German Ministry of Defense just recently announced plans to purchase a quantity of the U.S. Army's TOW weapon systems.

The announcement said TOW would be assigned to mechanized and airborne divisions as a replacement for the Cobra and 106mm recoilless rifle systems.

Managed by the Missile Command under Col. Robert W. Huntzinger, the TOW tank killer already is operational with the U.S. Army in Germany. Delivery of equipment to the Germans is expected to begin in 1972.

Contracts for TOW purchases by foreign countries are made with the Missile Command. Hughes

Open Letter

EDITORS NOTE: March is Girl Scout Month. The following letter is how one MICOM father of a former Girl Scout feels about the program.

3103 Caldwell Road, N.W.
Huntsville, Alabama 35805

THE REDSTONE ROCKET

Bldg. 5250

ATTN: P. I. O.

To the Editor:

Some people laugh when I say I'm a Girl Scout!

That's because I'm over 50, bald, and am the father of two children; a son and daughter both now married. But they don't laugh when I explain why I'm proud to be a genuine, bona fide card-carrying Girl Scout. Frankly, I was originally roped into it by my wife, while our daughter was in my wife's troop, but I've stayed in Girl Scouting because I believe in it.

You see, I think girls in their decisive, growing-up years, need the steady influence that men can help provide. Girls need to learn how to relate to and work with men as well as with women. Girls need to know that men, especially their fathers, care about them as people.

Girl Scouting gives me a chance to put these beliefs into action. And I'm not alone. There are nearly 60,000 men in Girl Scouting. Some work with girls on ecology projects, or help them learn about a wide variety of things from electricity to government.

I am a member of our Girl Scouts of North Alabama Council Camping Committee. We work with the camp operations and assure the safety of the facilities and the camp area. Before each camping season starts we visit Camp Trico on Guntersville Lake, also Camp Anderel on Elk River at Anderson Creek to assure ourselves these sites are ready for camping time.

This year, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. is sixty years old. But to celebrate their sixty years of service, the organization is working on today's problems. Adults-men and women-are helping the girls fight prejudice and pollution. They are helping open doors that give girls the chance to do important community service projects on their own, today, because they believe that, through such experiences, these girls will be better prepared to meet the challenges of tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Benjamin L. Teeter

Red Cross Warns: Choking Is Fatal

Parents of children under five and the elderly, especially those who wear dentures, need to be especially alert to the hazards of choking accidents, the American Red Cross cautioned.

Last year, 3,400 persons died of choking, Robert M. Oswald, national director of Red Cross Safety Programs, said. "Of these, 1,100 were children in the infant-age group, and another 750 were over 65, many of them wearers of dentures." Some restaurants have a staff doctor to rescue diners whose symptoms look like a heart attack victim who can't make a sound. Instead, he's choking.

Through its first aid courses, the Red Cross gives special attention to the prevention of choking accidents.

Among young children, Mr. Oswald said, the danger arises to a great extent from the fact that infants do not get all their baby teeth until they are two years old, and the chewing habit is not established as coughing, subside, a physician should be consulted immediately.

Oswald listed safety suggestions for adults, particularly denture wearers:

Bones are the foreign bodies which most commonly affect denture wearers. Precautions should be taken to remove these. Careful chewing habits should be cultivated.

When dentures are needed, they should be properly fitted. Painful chewing causes incomplete mastication.

Denture wearers should chew their food approximately twice as long as when they had their natural teeth. Loose or cracked dentures can, be broken and swallowed as a result of blows, falls or excitement.

Holding pins, nails or similar objects in the mouth is dangerous. Children are mimic.

Any person who has swallowed or choked on a foreign object and has not been able to cough it up should consult a physician. It is a serious mistake to wait for other symptoms before calling a doctor.

NCMA Meeting

National Contract Management Association members will meet March 21 at 6:30 p.m. at the Redstone Officers Open Mess.

Michael E. Haworth, Jr., will talk about "Caveat Venditor" (let the seller beware).

Reservations are being handled by Hank Brotherton, 837-4000, extension 2507 before noon March 20.

(Editor's Note: The MICOM Information Office conducts a question and answer program for job-related questions of general interest. Such questions may be telephoned to 876-4161 or 876-4400, or mailed to AM-SMIG. Some questions are selected for publication in the Rocket. Names are withheld. It is not intended that this program take the place of the usual supervisor-employee relationship which is the proper channel for specific job-related questions.)

QUESTION: What action can an employee take if he feels his health benefits insurance company's denial of his claim is unjustified?

ANSWER: He can file a formal, written complaint with either the Civilian Personnel Office or the Civil Service Commission. CPO will forward such a complaint to the Commission since the insurance companies' contracts are with the Commission. Should the individual desire to send his complaint direct to the Commission, the address is U. S. Civil Service Commission; Bureau of Retirement, Insurance and Occupational Health; Washington 25, D.C.

The individual may, should that be his desire, cancel his insurance by completing standard Form 2809 and sending it to the Civilian Personnel Office. Should he cancel his insurance; however, he must wait until the next "Open Season" before he can enroll with another company.

The individual may also, should that be his desire, retain an attorney and sue the company.

Booklets on each company's plan and the benefits available are obtainable from the Civilian Personnel Office. Get one for the plan in which you are enrolled and study it thoroughly. If you have specific questions contact the company direct.

Additional information on the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program can be obtained by calling Shirley Jackson, 876-4546.

O'Rourke Hustling For An Education

Drafted just 15 months ago, Spec 4 Daniel J. O'Rourke, Headquarters Detachment, Troop Command, has already completed the Management Correspondence Course and the Electronic Technician Correspondence Course and is looking forward to taking as many courses as he can during his time in the Army. Prior to entering the Army, O'Rourke was Manager of the New Orleans office of the Louisiana Audiometer Co. On the basis of his experience and skill as a civilian electronic test repairman, O'Rourke was awarded that MOS after he completed basic training at Fort Ord, Calif.

Even through he doesn't plan to make the Army a career, O'Rourke likes the educational opportunities available in the service and plans to get all the training he can so he will do a better job as a soldier and will be better prepared for his return to civilian life.

O'Rourke has also been selected as Soldier-of-the-Month for Troop Command and will compete with other representatives for post Soldier-of-the-Month honors.

ANOTHER COURSE COMPLETED—Spec 4 Daniel J. O'Rourke had a frame all ready when he received his Certificate of Completion for the 163 hour Electronic Technician Correspondence Course. O'Rourke has already completed the 59 hour Management Correspondence and received his certificate.

TO SPEAK—Chaplain R. V. Goeres will be the speaker at a meeting of the Protestant Women of the Chapel at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the chapel social room. His topic is "Signs of the Times." Free nursery service is available at the Rocket Nursery, (837-6464).

Transition Extends To Officers

Officers and warrant officers are now eligible to participate in Project Transition according to the latest information from Julian V. Heimsness, Redstone Project Officer.

Personnel being involuntarily released from active duty for reasons other than dishonorable, are eligible for training into marketable civilian skills if they are within six months of their separation date.

Permission to participate in Project Transition on-duty courses must still be obtained from the local Commanding Officer as is the case for enlisted trainees.

Anyone interested in Project Transition can call Heimsness at 876-8664 for further information.

G&C Inventors Keep Patent Office Busy

Seven Missile Command engineers have won patents for inventions.

The seven, all employed by the Guidance and Control Directorate were honored last week in a ceremony at Bldg. 5400.

Jess Huff, Director of Guidance and Control, congratulated the men and presented patents to James Johnston, Jack Clayton, James Holder, J.C. Dunaway, William Stripling, Frank Asquith and Sylvan Walliser.

Johnston, one of the leading patent winners in G&C who holds 17 patents and has six more in process, got two for his efforts to make expensive missile mechanisms more simple. The research aerospace engineer got one for a 'Gyro Controller', a mechanism which enables a splitter vane directly linked to a gyro wheel to control reaction forces on a missile. The other was a 'Self Generating Hydrostatic

Wesson Joins

Lieutenant Colonel Robert E. Wesson joined the ARADCOM Field Office, located at Safeguard's Command Headquarters in Research Park, week before last following an assignment in Vietnam where he was the Province Psychological Operations Advisor in Binh Thuan Province.

Wesson is no stranger to Huntsville. At the Missile Command, he held consecutive assignments as Chief of the Requirements and Collateral Branch, Missile Intelligence Directorate; executive officer of the NICP; and Troop Commander.

Support for Gyroscopes', an invention utilizing a frictionless air bearing which is supplied air by a spirala grove pump which is cut into the spinning element.

Johnston's device offers advantages of a hydrostatic bearing without the need for separate gas storage or for a separate pump.

Stripling, who has five patents and nine in process, got one for his 'Spin Stabilized Ring Wing Canard Controlled Missile'. The invention uses a gyro mechanism external to a rocket which has, in addition to its gyroscopic properties, the ability to develop aerodynamic lifting forces to keep a rocket on a desired flight path.

Holder, an electronic engineer who also holds five patents, got two-one for his 'Method and Apparatus for Testing Exploding Bridgewire Ordnance Devices' and one for his 'Apparatus for Testing Exploding Bridgewire Ordnance Devices for Continuity and Shorts'.

Stripling is a supervisory aerospace engineer.

Holder, an electronic engineer who also holds five patents, got two-one for his 'Method and Apparatus for Testing Exploding Bridgewire Ordnance Devices' and one for his 'Apparatus for Testing Exploding Bridgewire Ordnance Devices for Continuity and Shorts'.

Expanding bridgewire is a wire which explodes when an electrical current passes through it. These wires are used extensively in missile systems but in the past could readily be tested without destroying them. Holder's in-

'Keep Informed' VA Advises Vets

The Veterans Administration reminds families of veterans and servicemen that it is a good idea to keep abreast of the new benefits and programs provided for them.

Citing one example, the veteran's agency says that wives and children of veterans (permanently and totally disabled because of service-connected disabilities) are now eligible for educational benefits.

Also, wives and children of servicemen (missing in action or prisoners of war for more than 90 days) have schooling benefits available to them. Furthermore, widows and children of veterans (who died as the result of service-connected disabilities) are also eligible for educational help.

VA-guaranteed home loans are available to wives of missing and/or PW servicemen and for un-remarried widows of veterans whose deaths were service-connected.

VA points out that widows and minor children may receive two types of monthly payments—dependency and indemnity (DIC) (if the veteran's death was service-connected), or pension payments, if his death was non-service-connected. In certain cases, VA said, parents may be eligible for DIC checks.

Wives and children, or whoever is the designated beneficiary, are entitled to the veteran's or serviceman's life insurance proceeds upon his death.

Exempting insurance payments and service-connected disability or death, most VA benefits are based on at least 90 days of military service by the veteran or serviceman. Post Korean and Vietnam Era veterans and servicemen must have at least 181 days of service to qualify for G.I. home loans and educational benefits.

ventions will permit testing but guarantee that an explosion will not occur.

Asquith and Walliser shared a patent for their joint invention, an 'Apparatus for Measuring the Amount of Modulation Response to a Differential Input Signal'. The invention is an electronic device which permits measurement of a fluid amplifier.

Clayton, an aerospace engineer, earned a patent for his invention of a 'Negative Feedback Fluidic Oscillator'. Fluidics is the technology of using the flow of gases to perform functions like electrical current performs in electronic devices. Clayton's invention is a technique for employing negative rather than positive feedback in a fluidic oscillator.

Dunaway, an aerospace engineer who has earned four patents and has four in process, got his for 'Jet Reaction Control System for Rockets'. The device draws off a small part of the gasses exhausting out of a rocket propulsion system to achieve a controlled flight path. It makes use of fluidic techniques.

Barnes Helps Athletes Start College Career

Some people have such hobbies as coin collecting, wood-working, rock collecting, model airplanes or photography, but Joe Barnes, Chief, Review and Analysis, Land Combat Support System, has a hobby of helping young people.

According to Barnes: "Many times young men who graduate from small town or rural high schools want to go to college, but they aren't outstanding athletes or honor grads and are never approached for scholarships. In some cases the family financial situation is such the parents cannot afford to send these youngsters off to college. Sometimes I can help by putting them in touch with school officials and some of the agencies that handle scholarship funds."

Barnes has been officiating at high school football games in Alabama for the last 25 years and officiating at basketball games for 20 years. During that time he got to know officials at many of the high schools and colleges in the state.

It started back in 1948 when Barnes was coaching football at Walnut Grove high school in Etowah County. One of his boys was an outstanding football player, but got no offers for a scholarship because the colleges just didn't scout many of the small rural schools.

This young man took Barnes advice and went to see the coach at Jacksonville State College. He received an athletic scholarship. He was an outstanding football player, graduated through the ROTC program and is now a lieutenant colonel in the Army assigned to the Pentagon. This was his first effort in helping small school athletes and graduates.

Though Barnes left the coaching ranks to enter civil service in 1952, he continued to officiate in high school football and basketball games.

Barnes officiated at Walnut Grove, Hoke's Bluff, Scottsboro, Talladega, Maplesville, Cedar Bluff, Oxford, Fort Payne, Sardis, Etowah, Albertville, Gadsden and Emma Sansom, to mention a few.

Approximately one third of the young men Barnes helped went to school on workshops instead of athletic scholarships. This meant they worked at a job on campus that helped pay their tuition.

Some of the athletes Barnes helped would make a pretty good all star team even though they played at different schools at different times during the past 25 years.

The University of Alabama received help from Barnes when he referred such players as Pat Trammell, Dan Kearley, Wayne Freeman, Tommy Tolleson and Charlie Pell. All achieved fame with the Crimson Tide.

One thing Barnes avoided . . . he refused to favor any one college. He always tried to send men where they would have the best chance for a scholarship.

Auburn signed Buster Gross, John McAfee, Doster "Doc" Griffith, and Jim Bouchillon on Barnes recommendation.

While Barnes usually tried to help these young men get a scholarship within the State, he referred Ray Farmer to Memphis State Univ., Johnny Duncan played at Georgia Tech, and George Herring went to the Univ. of Southern Mississippi.

Jacksonville State University benefitted from Barnes' referrals of Travis Walker, James Greer, Gary Godfrey and Mike Little.

Through his acquaintances at Jacksonville State, Barnes helped Ray Campbell, Mark Sims, get workshop jobs. Randy Mathis got a workshop job at Troy State University and James Tyler at Livingston State Univ.

Recently Reduc Ball, a mail clerk at the Missile Command, heard about Barnes helping young men go to college. His son, Eddie Ball, played football at West Limestone High School, but did not receive any offers of athletic scholarships. Barnes contacted assistant coach Bill Pike at Florence State . . . Ball will work for the trainer in the athletic department and earn his tuition.

With so many young men in rural high schools who want to go to college and have financial difficulties, Barnes gets his greatest satisfaction from helping these boys make it through athletic scholarships or work-ships. Barnes has never worked for any university or accepted any pay or remuneration for travel or services. His work with young men has been strictly an attempt to help those who want to help themselves.

HELPS YOUNG FOLKS—Joe Barnes, Chief, Review and Analysis, Land Combat Support Systems, keeps scrap books on the young men he has helped get athletic and work scholarships in college. Some of the young men he recommended, Doc Griffith of Auburn and Pat Trammell of Alabama and numerous others went on to gridiron fame. Barnes officiated at high school football games for over 25 years and developed a hobby of helping those who played at smalltown or rural schools.

MISD, COE Vie For Top

With only two weeks remaining in the regular season, the battle for supremacy in the Civilian Welfare Basketball League shapes up as a two-way struggle between MISD and COE.

MISD at present owns only a slim one-game advantage over its closest rival. Yet it would take a small miracle for COE to overtake them.

COE has only two more games scheduled while MISD has four—thus needing merely to break even to gain a tie for first place.

MIA, winner of both of its games last week, still has a mathematical chance for first-place honors. But it's a slim chance. Both MISD and COE would have to lose all of their remaining games and MIA win both of its games.

In highlights of last week's league action:

Wednesday

Upset-minded RDE went to the dressing room at halftime of their game with COE behind only 27-24. But the second half proved to be a different story as COE steadily pulled away to take a 65-50 victory. Fred Amaran of RDE took game scoring honors with 25 points. Leading the way for the winning COE team were Steel and Seale with 14 points apiece.

Alton Maddox gunned through 27 points in leading SAFLOG to a 62-48 conquest of DOI. Additional scoring support was provided by Cross and Schrader who bucketed 14 points each. DOI's Edwards was high for the losers with 16.

MIA, with four men hitting in double figures, administered a 69-50 shellacking to DPA in a game featuring two sharp-shooting player-coaches. MIA's Phil Shepherd supplied both the strategy and 16 points in leading his team to victory. Right behind Shepherd was Mel Thomas with 15 points, followed by Gentry and Michael with 14 markers each. Neil Winterburn, DPA's player-coach, led all scorers with 27 points, while teammate Miles Springfield had 15.

League-leader MISD completely crushed SAFSCOM 84-50 in a game whose outcome was never seriously in doubt. Leading 47-

24 at the half, MISD's scoring punch was supplied by John Reppert, Danny Franklin, and Fred Smith with 22, 18, and 14 points respectively. Dave Ferrell had 13 and Conley 14 to pace the losers.

Friday

John Stanford poured 26 points through the nets for METR, but his one-man shooting exhibition was not enough as SAFLOG took a 61-49 decision. Ahead only 28-23 at halftime, SAFLOG gradually took control of the game in the second half to insure the victory. Schrader swished the nets for 22 markers to lead the winners in scoring, and he received ample scoring support from Maddox and Cross who had 15 points each.

RDE edged SAFSCOM 45-44 in a game featuring alternating hot-an-cold halves for each team. RDE had a hot first half and went to the dressing room ahead 30-19. The second half was an abrupt about face, however, as SAFSCOM had the hot hand and almost pulled the game out of the bag. High scorer for the winners Wright with 16. Conley had 18 for the losers to take game honors, and received 12-point support from Butler.

Bill Shepherd and Bob Pacico had 15 points each and Mel Thomas added 10 more to pace MIA's 59-50 upset over COE. The loss put COE one full game behind MISD in the battle for first place in the league. Jerry Mulenix hit for 18 points and Claude Steel for 13 for the losers.

Liquidators Sit At Top

The Redstone Wednesday Night Officers Bowling League, now in its final five weeks, finds the Liquidators in first place with the rebounding Rasa Rascals only two games out.

Hot hand for the night was owned by Mike Straker of the Rasa Rascals. Mike's superb 222-551, aided by teammate Frank Thanus fine 514, helped the Rascals to take all four games from the sinking Pin Splitters. The Bottlenecks took all four from the Fireballs with the help of Ray Weinbergs excellent 542.

Mike Shuput of the Pin Splitters had a fine 215-530 series in a losing cause. Sperry served notice by taking over third place while sending the second place Wheelers to seventh place.

The Dippers moved up a notch in the standings by taking three games from the Hardhats. The Blackjacks held on to fourth place by taking three from the Swingers

P&P Golf League Ready For Season

Dave Renton earned another term as president and Bill Levie was elected to fill the vacant secretary position when the P&P Golf league met at the Piedmont Par 3 course last week to lay plans for the coming season.

Lee Keim completes the officer slate for the league as chairman of the rules committee.

The league members present for the organizational meeting voted two new franchises bringing the league roster to 24 two-man teams. The league will play a single round with the 23-week schedule teeing off on Tuesday, April 11.

Morris Ray and Les Thomas teamed up to win the league crown last season and will be trying to become the first champions to repeat in seven years.

Challenge Round Opens As HLT Action Nears

Pre-season challenging is underway for places of the MICOM C Division tennis team with the first round of play in the Huntsville Industrial Tennis League less than three weeks away.

John Veeneman topped the 29-man C ladder at the start of challenge play with Don Bollenbacker and Jim Dailey rating the No. 1 place on the doubles ladder.

Hal Peterson, the team captain, said that unlimited challenging would be in effect through March 21. After that players in positions 2 through 10 will be permitted to challenge a maximum of four positions above themselves. Those below ten may challenge five positions higher.

The Civilian Welfare Fund Council is sponsoring three teams in HITL play again this season with two entries in the B Division joining the C squad.

The top six singles players on the ladder are selected for the league matches along with the first three doubles teams.

Following Veeneman on the C ladder at the start of the challenging were: John Robinson, Frank Fleming, Peterson, Larry Jones, Bob Smith, Ed Falkowski, Dick Dillard, Dailey, and Bill Bright.

Stan Prosser heads the second ten followed by Art Marler, Jack Risse, Caleb Burgoyne, Bob Ward, Owen Bender, Jim Winning, Dan Pollard, Ed Hahn and Hubert Anderson.

Ray Werden holds down the No. 21 position with the remaining steps on the ladder occupied by Jim Likos, Wilson Bass, Wade Ewart, Ernst Evers, Jay Allen, Jim Yeager, Richard Williams and Ed Trentham.

Fleming and Prosser are No. 2 in doubles followed by Jones and Robinson. Falkowski teams with Glen Dadler for the fourth spot, Anderson and Bright are fifth, Hahn and Winning sixth, and the Bender-Burgoyne duo seventh.

Peterson emphasized that the ladder is not closed and that others not already rated are always welcome to join the ladder.

Whackers Start Long Climb Up

It took a long time to get started and they have a long way to go but the Bushwackers got things to going last week in a way that, if continued, is sure to make up for a lot of lost time.

All five of the Whackers went over 500 in putting together a 3068 team total that left the Lot-o-Pins with considerably fewer pins than enough to win any of the points.

DeVaults put another length between themselves and the rest of the S&M league with a 3-1 win over MIA, and Bale's replaced Reba's in second place by sweeping the series between the contenders.

The Tired Five took three of four from Jim's Five and the King Pins broke even with the Pinspotters in other battles.

Vern Benson turned in a 550 count, Hal Patton used a 230 game as a springboard to a 548 total and Jerry Cletcher smacked over 537 sticks with a 225 to fire up the Bushwacker attack.

Jim Galbreath was the lead gunner in the DeVault lineup with a 552 and Willie Wilson topped the Bale cause.

Ed Banks tied Galbreath for the best scratch total of the evening and earned the Bowler of the Week honor with a 663 handicapped count for the Pinspotters. Bob Doan and Vic Shellenbarger were the top scorers for the King Pins.

Kleis Record Long As Basketball Coach

Lieutenant Colonel C. Frederick Kleis, Executive Officer of the Missile and Munitions Center and School, has been a basketball enthusiast for a good many years. A certified member of the Amateur Athletic Union, Kleis has refereed games from Vietnam to Maryland and Alabama.

Just last week he returned from the Third U. S. Army Basketball Championships at Fort McClellan, where he reffed a total of 14 games, including the Fort Jackson vs. Fort McClellan women's championship game. Jackson, by the way, took both the men's and women's trophies. The men's team was able to boast that one team member was a former player with the Harlem Globetrotters Traveling Team.

In addition to the AAU, Kleis is proud of his membership in several other basketball associations, including the International Association of Approved Basketball Officials and the State of Alabama High School Athletic Association.

He has had to turn down some exciting opportunities in basketball, too. He remembers being nominated to the National AAU to work the national tournament as the southeastern representative, but orders to Vietnam precluded his acceptance.

Redstone's referee-in-residence has been at MMCS for a year and a half, and he can be seen at the post gym several nights a week at any one of several unit games. He is also active in Alabama High School games.

AIAA MEETS

Members of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics will meet at 5 p.m. at the Redstone Officers Open Mess March 22 to hear an illustrated talk on the Von Braun Civic Center and another on "Technology Imperatives for Future Military Scenarios."

The first will be presented by Howard Radford, director of the Civic Center. The second is a presentation by D. J. Salonimer of the Army Missile Command.

Engineers Kick Off Golf Season

The Safeguard Engineers Week Golf Tournament sponsored by the Huntsville Division, Army Corps of Engineers, at the Colonial Golf Course showed a few potential "Arnold Palmers" and a few "Henry Duffers" but the magic formula was "who talked who into the biggest handicap."

The championship flight was won by Keith Britton with a gross 79 and net 68. Other flight winners were: 1st flight - Bruce Montgomery with a net 69; 2nd flight - Charles Stephens with a net 70; 3rd flight - Robert Adams with a net 70; 4th flight and low net - Carl Swanson with a net 65; and No Handicap flight - George Erie with a net 72.

Special event winners were: longest drive - Dan Koklas; closest to pin - Joe Prine and Mark Yoakum; and longest putt - Nick Neville and Paul Baggett.

Special, special event was the "Headhunter Trophy" for clonking the tourney director Keith Britton, on the head with a golf ball. This trophy went to Bill Ryan of SAFSCOM.

With 54 entries from the Huntsville Division and SAFSCOM, the tournament will be an annual event according to Brigadier General Bates C. Bunnell, Division Engineer.

Split Point Leaves All Sports, Hughes In Tie

It took a lot of scrambling but Hughes TOW held onto a share of the AMC Bowling League lead last week after a head to head duel with the hard charging All-Sports.

After dropping the first and second games by a total of 52 pins, TOW came back to take the third game by that exact margin to split the fourth point.

And while the now co-leaders were having it out on one end of the Parkway Lanes, the Bandits moved to within a point and a half of the lead with a three to one win over the Bombers at the other end of the house.

The Rejectors lowed down the Sprinter surge with a split but another currently hot quintet, the T-Birds made it 18 out of the last 20 points by sweeping the Toppers.

Sheraton blanked the Chrysler TOWs, the Fat Cats won three from the Lancers and the Cobras broke even with the Alley Cats in other matches.

Jack Vickers shot a 553 and Hal Madry hot for 538 in pacing the Sports to their 2½ to 1½ margin while Nick Sparks totalled 543 and Steve Stevens hit for 532 for TOW. Bob Taylor provided the fuel for the final game TOW comeback with a 212 game.

Willie Wiggins had his mineralite in the 1-3 pocket most of the night to shooting a 581 to lead the Bandits to their win. His 233 opener was the best game of the week.

The top individual effort of the night belonged to Lee Lavender who stacked 586 maples in the pits for the Alley Cats. Reggie McLaney added a 573 total to the Cat attack while Chuck Turner shot a 540 for the Cobras.

The red hot T-Birds take on the Bandits tonite and then test the Hughes hopes next Wednesday. TOW gets the Sprinters tonite with the All-Sports going up against the Lancers.

Third Army Safety Message

I DID THE WHOLE THING—Louis Mariani, an E-2 assigned to the 1st ETC, works on his radio - clock - tape deck combination that he designed and built in the Post woodworking shop. The eight-sided set is designed to be used as an end table, corner table or center piece.

Soldier privately owned vehicle (POV) fatalities are on the increase in the Third U.S. Army, and safety officers individuals can do a lot to protect themselves on the road and bring the figures down.

A message sent to subordinate units last week cites causes and contributing factors to the POV fatality increase.

All the causes and contributing factors listed in the Third Army message can be cut down or eliminated by soldier-drivers themselves, or their passengers, according to the message.

Though speed alone does not cause accidents, the experts contend that it can make the difference between a safe corner and a skid. At impact, it can make the difference between a broken headlight and a crumpled front end. It can be the determining factor between a bruised wrist and a skull fracture.

With weekend travel restrictions recently lifted, a few soldiers still do not exercise judgement in how much distance they can cover on a weekend or in one day. Some push themselves to get to their leave address or return to base.

According to the message, fatal accident figures are disproportionately higher in the wee hours of the morning than at any other time. In addition, driver fatigue is a contributing factor to most accidents occurring at that time.

In short, the chances of accident are greater late at night, and the chances of passerby rendering assistance or reporting an accident are much lower—there simply may not be anyone along that stretch of road for hours. Persons seriously injured on the highway late at night may die because the mishap was not discovered and reported in time.

The message also referred to the hazards of alcohol in the bloodstream while driving. It would be pointless to discuss the obvious dangers.

Passengers in cars can do a lot to help. The message cautions drivers to operate their vehicles safely.

Passengers can exert influence on the driver, to the point of driving themselves if licensed and sober.

Finally, seat belts are a help in reducing injuries and fatalities. They are not sure-fire life insurance.

Figures from the National Safety Council claim no person in the U.S. has died in an accident below 50 miles an hour if seat belts were properly worn at the time of the mishap. Injuries and fatalities at

Dog-Master Relationship Means Training Together

Every dog should have a well trained master and according to Robert Biss, Procurement Analyst, Tow Project Office, the best way to accomplish this goal is for dog and master to train together.

Service Club Sets Grotto Tour

The Service Club will sponsor a tour to Ave Maria Grotto at Cullman, this Saturday.

The Ave Maria Grotto is located in a landscaped park on the campus of St. Bernards College, which makes a natural setting for the miniature reproductions of the most historic shrines and buildings, in the world. These masterpieces of stone and concrete represent the lifetime work of Brother Joseph Zoetti, a Benedictine Mink of St. Bernard Abbey and college.

Among the numerous replica are famous buildings of Jerusalem and the Holy Land, famous Spanish Missions of the American Southwest, and replicas of the famous Shrines of Our Lady, Fatima and Lourdes.

The bus will leave the Service Club at 10 a.m. A picnic lunch will be served, if weather permits.

COUNTRY WESTERN SHOW
"The Mountaineers", a Country Western show band, will appear at the Service Club Sunday at 8 p.m. "The Mountaineers" have appeared on stage throughout Tennessee, Alabama and Kentucky. They promise a very good show. Enlisted men and their guests are invited.

Biss has been interested in dog training nearly eight years and finds it is a wonderful way to relax and enjoy himself at the same time. With his dog, an AKC registered Irish Setter, Merry Derry's Darling Darvila, Biss has been training through the Huntsville Obedience Training Club.

While Biss likes dogs and wants a trained dog in his home, he also utilizes the dog in corrective therapy for his young daughter who has cerebral palsy. Sally, his six year old daughter, pets and grooms their dog and gets an opportunity to exercise her left arm which has been affected by CP.

Though the Obedience Club does hold AKC sanctioned obedience trials, Biss pointed out that not all of the members show their dogs. Many of them participate in the activities because they want their pets to obey them in the home.

As vice president of the Huntsville Obedience Training Club, Biss extends this invitation: "We want new members who like to work with their dogs. When we hold sanctioned trials all of our members turnout and work together. It is strictly a volunteer group working together to make the program a success." Anyone interested in dog obedience training can call Biss at 876-3052 or at 539-8995 for further information.

I WILL IF YOU WILL—Merry Derry's Darling Darvila, an AKC registered Irish Setter, looks to see what her master, Bob Biss wants her to do. Biss is training his dog in the Huntsville Obedience Training Club and the two are learning together.

Troops Schedule Firings

Twenty Pershing missiles are to be fired this Spring during the Army's annual service practice with its most powerful battlefield weapon.

The 400-mile-range Pershings will be launched from a Green River, Utah, site and programmed to land on targets at White Sands Missile Range, N.M.

Seventh U.S. Army troops from Europe will conduct most of the firings but a few will be launched by the Federal Republic of Germany Air Force and at least one by the Third Battalion, 9th Field Artillery at Fort Sill, Okla., which will support all Pershing Firings.

Since off-range firings began in 1963, more than 150 missiles have been launched onto White Sands from sites in Utah and New Mexico.

Managed by the Missile Command under Col. Samuel C. Skemp, Jr., the 35-foot Pershing is deployed with U.S. and NATO defense forces in Europe.

Lost Equipment Threatens Operation Of Cafeterias

The Morale and Welfare Division is soliciting the support of all Missile Command employees who use the three civilian cafeterias in buildings 5250, 4488 and 5681. Since Sept. 1, 1972, when Interstate United Corp. took over operation of the cafeterias, patrons have borrowed, pilfered or taken more than $3,755 in silverware, dishes and soft drink bottles.

These losses have kept the Contractor operating in the red and caused grave concern for the Morale and Welfare Div. which has the responsibility of contracting for food services.

According to Charlie Carroll, Food Service Officer, RASA: "We are concerned with getting the Contractor operating in the black so he can maintain the present food prices for Redstone employees. Unless this borrowing and pilfering stops the Contractor will have to increase food prices to offset the losses."

Some idea of how extensive the losses are is shown by figures of last week's inventory covering a six month period. Missing silverware covers 250 dozen forks, 300 dozen spoons, 175 dozen knives and 100 dozen soup spoons.

Dishes that have disappeared include 30 dozen cups, 25 dozen saucers and 48 dozen salt and pepper shakers.

Each soft drink bottle lost or taken away from the vending machines costs the Contractor two cents apiece. Over the six month period bottle losses have amounted to $2,375.

About 500 Redstone Arsenal employees and their spouses attended a banquet in Huntsville Saturday evening sponsored by the American Federation of Government Employees, Local 1858.

Speaker was John F. Griner, president of one of the largest federal employee unions in the nation for the past 10 years.

A number of Army and Marshall Space Flight Center management officials attended at the invitation of AFGE and participated in ceremonies that annually mark the observance of the signing of the Civil Service Act.

Master of ceremonies was Coy W. Mattox, president of AFGE Local 1858. Griner was introduced by Dennis Garrison, vice president of AFGE's Fifth District with headquarters in Huntsville.

Griner said federal employees are "... facing troubled times" and said AFGE will call for new legislation to counter what he termed "open abuses" to federal civil servants.

Griner charged that open attempts are being made by top management of federal agencies to flaunt regulations and agreements at the expense of the civil servant, despite agreements and the Executive Order which guarantees certain rights.

But he said the union will become stronger, not weaker, as a result of pressure tactics from management.

He said federal civil servants are not getting the rights they deserve during these periods when jobs are lost and average grades are reduced and support work is contracted out to private firms.

"The average federal employee has lost confidence in the Civil Service Commission and in the average personnel officer," Griner said.

"We are faced with conditions of having agreements on top of agreements and most of those are being violated daily," he added.

Griner said the federal Labor Relations Council responsible for settling unfair labor practice cases is nothing but a rubber stamp for actions taken below Council level. "There must be some relief," Griner said, "and that relief is in legislation."

He said the personnel situation is so dangerous and so explosive that the AFL-CIO last year passed a resolution calling for federal employee to have the right to strike.

"I don't believe in that, but something must be done," Griner said, "we must be treated like first class citizens."

The banquet was held at the Sheraton Inn.

AT BANQUET—Coy Mattox, president of Local 1858, and John Griner, national president of the American Federation of Government Employees at the local chapter's annual banquet at the Sheraton Inn Saturday night.

Edmund R. Falconbury, deputy of MCD's advanced subject division and the subject of a recent feature in the Redstone Rocket, was commended by Hadlai A. Hull, Assistant Secretary of the Army for being selected as one of 20 nominees for the DA Handicapped Employee of the Year Award.

Another sharp School Brigade trooper stepped smartly into the ranks of competitors for Post Soldier of the Month honors later this month.

From the 2nd Battalion comes PFC Ronald Turner, a student in the 1st ETC. The 19-year-old Texan is studying to be a light air defense electronics repairman. He's a 1971 graduate of Irvin High School in his hometown, El Paso.

TURNER

A host of MMCS soldiers and DOD employees were honored in various awards ceremonies last week for their diligence and achievement here and at other commands.

SSG Robert D. Amos, a maintenance operations instructor at MSTD, received a certificate of achievement. The 29-year-old McKeesport, Pa., native served with HHC of the 196th Ordnance Battalion on Okinawa before coming to MMCS.

SSG Thomas L. O'Dell also received a certificate of achievement; his came from Seventh U. S. Army and the U. S. Army, Europe (USAREUR). Currently supply sergeant for Co. B. O'Dell performed supply duties for the 9th Maintenance Battalion at Idar-Oberstein, Germany before he arrived here at Redstone.

O'Dell attended Mesa College in his hometown of Grand Junction, Colo., before entering the Army in 1967. The 23-year old soldier was recognized for a period of service from January, 1969 to January, 1972.

The Third U. S. Army's Unit Training Command is not to be left out of the honors, either. SFC Gary S. Hummell, an instructor in Land Combat Support Systems in UTC's Missile Branch, last week received a diploma for completion of a correspondence course. He recently completed an Air Defense Artillery senior NCO course that helped him learn operations of ADA missile systems.

All awards this last week were not paper. Medals went to LTC Robert D. Bayne and CPT William R. Dean, for meritorious service in Vietnam.

Bayne commanded the Command Aircraft Company based at Long Thanh from January 1971 to January 1972. The Command Aircraft Company provides U-21 turbo-prop aircraft transportation for VIPs of the U. S. Army and its allies.

During his term of command, the CAC logged more than 11 million accident-free passenger miles, according to the citation. In addition, no missions of the CAC were cancelled due to maintenance. The citation noted a profound increase in effectiveness and efficiency of the command transport mission of the unit under Bayne's command.

Bayne is now a special project officer for the Director of Instruction.

Bayne received a battlefield commission in Korea in 1952. He is an Army fixed and rotary wing aviator with 13,250 hours of flight time logged.

CPT William Dean, another infantry officer here at the home of ordnance and missiles, received the second oak leaf cluster to the Bronze Star Medal for his recent service in 'Nam, too.

Dean commanded Co. E, 50th Infantry, one of the few independent infantry units remaining in the Army.

He commanded the outfit from September 1970 to September 1971.

The unit's mission at that time was to secure Marble Mountain near DaNang, and to be on call for combat assaults in the First Military Region.

Dean, whose hometown is Florence, Ala., holds a BS in History from Florence State U., and is near completion of his thesis for his MA from East Tennessee State University.

Sherman J. Crawford was honored for the fifth time as Air Defense Department's outstanding instructor in Hawk Division.

DA certificates of achievement went to three MMCS employees last week. Warren D. Shannon was cited for his service as administrative officer of MSTD for two periods of service.

Mrs. Freddie C. Forrester was recognized last week for superior performance as a secretary in the Technical Plans division of DDL&P from March 1968 to December 1971.

In addition, Egar B. Jones' recent retirement was highlighted with his receipt of a certificate of achievement for his service as an education specialist in DOI, from 1954 to January of this year.

James R. Waltress of academic records received a certificate of appreciation for his suggestion which helped improve administrative operations in course grading schedules here at MMCS.

James George, a motor vehicle operator in our distribution system earned a Sustained Superior Performance award for his work from October 1970 to October 1971.

Outstanding Performance Ratings this month went to: Clarence J. Markvart, a supervisory education specialist for Training Aids; Betty A. Jones, a clerk-typist at DOI; and Leanne Barnett, supervisory protocol specialist in the Office of Secretary.

Early Training Helps Face Today's Problems

There are certain basic principles for success in a career and life that Jane Davis learned while still quite young. Some people realize these fundamentals later in life while others never fully understand them at all.

Mrs. Davis lists the guidelines as self-esteem, flexibility, self-motivation, stick-to-itiveness, intellect and aptitude.

"If a person doesn't place a high value on herself, it's pretty hard to project a good image to others," she said. "It's very important to be able to adapt to change, approach new ideas with an open mind, and to set long range goals that are realistic and logical. The desire to get ahead has to come from within. It isn't something someone else can direct a person to do."

She acknowledges that knowing the fundamentals of a job is necessary, but that can take one only so far in a career. There comes a time, she believes, when one should reach ahead of the basics and expand one's knowledge and capabilities. Stick-to-itiveness is something else that will take an individual just part of the way.

On the other hand she believes that each person has a plateau in ability and any attempt to go beyond that leads to frustration.

"Then there's another stumbling block for some people. They consciously, or more often unconsciously develop what I call an avoidance complex," she said. "Something comes along they don't like or don't want to face, so they worm around it instead of conquering it." She thinks perhaps women are especially guilty of this weakness.

"I say to set up a problem and look it squarely in the eye, then figure out a way to solve it. I admit it takes some thought, but a person has to be able to consider all kinds of approaches, or sink into the background somewhere."

"A life without problems would turn out a poor specimen. People need to build a tolerance level through diverse experiences. It makes them stronger and better able to get over the next hurdle."

Personality, she thinks, doesn't become such a dominant factor in success until a person approaches a managerial or supervisory position. Then it can mean the difference between advancement and standing still, she has observed.

She said that her husband, a university job guidance director, has found that young people, when armed with the same principles she follows, succeed ever more frequently than they did just a few years ago.

Accountants To Hear National President

Sidney S. Baurmash, National President of the Federal Government Accountants Association will speak tomorrow, to the Huntsville Chapter at the Ramada Inn in Huntsville.

A social period will precede his talk with dinner to be served at 7:00 p.m.

Baurmash is the Director, Office of Audits, U.S. Department of Commerce. Prior to this appointment, he held executive positions with the Department of Commerce, the HEW Audit Agency and the Army Audit Agency. He will talk about "New Insights into Financial Management".

The association has designated this ladies night. Further information can be obtained from Bob S. Hall, 876-3469.

Mrs. Davis happens to be someone who likes to deal with people, face-to-face. "Stuck back in a corner with routine papers to process is not for me," she said.

Perhaps her education has something to do with her preference for close association with people. She has a degree in elementary education and a minor in special education. She has also done graduate work in special education. Included in her studies were numerous courses in psychology.

When first interviewed for a Government position, areas suggested had little appeal until she found one where she would be working in something that involved people's careers and lives.

Mrs. Davis is a management analyst in the MICOM Force Development Division. She is 26. She is black.

Vice Commander Is Guest Speaker

Skylab Speaker

Bill C. Mayes, a member of the Skylab program office at the Marshall Space Flight Center, will speak tomorrow evening to the Huntsville Post, Society of American Military Engineers about the program.

The meeting will be at the Redstone Officers Open Mess at 6:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 895-5860.

MICOM FIRST—Staff Sgt. Roy F. Miller, Missile Command Career Counselor, indicates where Spec 5 Jeremiah Tolliver is to sign his letter of intent to reenlist. Tolliver, and Administrative Specialist, is the first soldier in the Command to turn down an opportunity to get out of the Army under the early out program. He signed his letter of intent to reenlist for four years and subsequent assignment to Germany.

Retroactive Pay Due Some

On the basis of a decision received from the Comptroller General of the United States, the US Civil Service Commission has announced that many Federal employees, like employees in private enterprise, will receive retroactive payments to make up for some of the pay increases that were lost as a result of the 90-day wage-price freeze. Instructions to agencies for placing the decision into effect will be issued promptly, the Commission said.

The Commission had asked the Comptroller General to decide whether the retroactive provision of the Economic Stabilization Act Amendments of 1971 applied to within-grade increases that were held up during the freeze and to blue-collar pay adjustments that were delayed by the freeze.

The Comptroller General ruled that all Federal employees who had within-grade increases held up during the 90-day freeze period from August 15 until November 14, 1971, will now be paid retroactively for those increases. It is estimated that more than 200,000 Federal employees (both white-collar and blue-collar) will receive such retroactive payments.

However, the decision also provides that certain other Federal blue-collar employees who have had pay adjustments held up will NOT be able to receive the retroactive pay adjustments. These are the employees in areas where the wage surveys on which their pay adjustments are based were not ordered until after August 15, 1971. Retroactive increases are not permitted for surveys ordered after that date.

In each of these instances the retroactive period in question is relatively short - usually no more than 2 to 3 weeks. For example, the Washington, D.C. schedule would have been applied October 31, 1971; it will be effective on November 14, 1971.

Those areas where Federal blue-collar workers had their pay adjustments delayed, but where there CANNOT be retroactive payments, are as follows: Northwestern Michigan; Oscoda-Alpena, Michigan; Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Valdosta, Georgia; Scranton-Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania; Madison, Wisconsin; Wichita Falls-S. W. Oklahoma; and Washington, D.C.

Nurse-Midwife Frees Doctor

During the last year the U. S. Army Hospital at Redstone Arsenal has been using the Doctor's Assistant Program in the Gynecology Clinic.

Mrs. Peggy Drappier, registered nurse and mid-wife, has assisted gynecologists Dr. Jon Ehrlich and Dr. Sam HAY, by handling routine examinations and checkups and leaving the doctors free to take care of serious or complicated cases.

Utilizing Mrs. Drappier in the Cancer Screening Clinic has enabled the GYN Clinic to handle 250 additional patients each month over and above the number of cases handled by Doctors Ehrlich and Hay.

Under the old system, the doctor's appointments were so crowded that complete checkups and pap smears were limited to one Saturday each month. This meant that many times appointments had to be postponed until the doctors could reschedule and see the patients.

Now Mrs. Drappier conducts physical checkups and a family planning clinic, during normal working hours.

According to Dr. Ehrlich, Chief of the GYN Clinic: "Right now there just aren't enough doctors to handle the workload and the situation is going to get worse. I think the nurse - mid-wife concept is going to be the only way that we can possibly continue to provide proper care for the number of patients we have."

Ehrlich continued, "The doctor's assistant program is growing. With qualified nurse-midwife personnel we can maintain quality medical care. Mrs. Drappier is especially well qualified and we need more like her. In addition to being a registered nurse, she is a surgical assistant. With her experience she can recognize a problem that needs our attention. She handles the routine matters herself."

Discussing the nurse - midwife situation, Dr. Sam Hay, who will soon complete his Army service and return to civilian practice, had these comments: "Many civilian hospitals are going to this concept. The Mayo Clinic and other well known institutions are using paramedical personnel where a shortage of doctors exists. These professionally trained people relieve the doctors of routine cases and allow them to see the seriously ill."

Mrs. Drappier has been a nurse - midwife one year but she has been at the Redstone Hospital for the past two and one-half years. Before that she worked at the Fort Carson Army Hospital and Madigan General Hospital at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Since her graduation from the Nashville General Hospital in 1953, Mrs. Drappier has spent 19 years as a nurse, specializing in the OB - GYN area or in the nursery.

Lt. Col. James M. Feltis, Jr., Hospital Commander, stated: "With the Army experiencing a phasedown by June of this year, we are facing a serious shortage of doctors and medical personnel. The only way we can possibly alleviate this situation is to train qualified people as doctor's assistants so they can conduct screening clinics for the doctors. So far, we have had excellent results with the program, but we need to train more to meet the demands created by the current phasedown. I have utmost confidence in the people we are training. They are our hope for the future."

PROGRAM A SUCCESS—Mrs. Mary Madkins, left, wife of PFC William Madkins, 1st ETC, talks to Mrs. Peggy Drappier, center, nurse - midwife, as Dr. Sam Hay, gynecologist, looks in between appointments. Mrs. Drappier has been working in the Doctor's Assistant Program and has been handling routine examinations and appointments so Dr. Jon Ehrlich and Dr. Hay can handle the serious and complicated cases. This program has increased the number of patients being seen by the GYN Clinic an additional 250 per month.

What Is Marijuana?
 Marijuana is Indian hemp (Cannabis sativa). The parts with the highest tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) content are the flowering tops of the plant. The leaves have a smaller amount. The stalks and seeds have little or none. THC is believed to be the active ingredient in marijuana. Many other compounds are present in marijuana, but they do not produce the mental effects of the drug.

Does Marijuana Vary In Strength?
 Yes. Some marijuana may produce no effect whatsoever. A small amount of strong marijuana may produce marked effects. The THC content of the plant determines its mind-altering activity, and this varies from none to more than 2 percent THC. Because THC is somewhat unstable, its content in marijuana decreases as time passes.

The plant that grows wild in the United States is low in THC content compared to cultivated marijuana, or the Mexican, Lebanese, or Indian varieties. Climate, soil conditions, the time of harvesting and other factors determine the potency.

What Is Hashish?
 Hashish (hash) is the dark brown resin that is collected from the tops of potent Cannabis sativa. It is at least five times stronger than marijuana. Since it is stronger, the effect on the user is naturally more intense, and the possibility of side effects is greater.

Is Marijuana An Addicting Drug?
 Marijuana does not lead to physical dependence. Therefore, it cannot be considered addicting. Chronic users become psychologically dependent upon the effects of marijuana. Thus, it is classified as habituating. The fact that a drug is not addicting has little relationship to its potential for harm, since dependence, whether psychological or physical, is a serious matter.

Is Marijuana A Stimulant Or A Depressant?

Because it affects the individual's self control, the effects of marijuana vary so widely that it can be either a stimulant or a depressant. THC is a strong hallucinogen with some sedative properties. Occasionally, a person intoxicated with marijuana will become stimulated and overactive.
