President Visits Huntsville

President Richard M. Nixon has scheduled a public appearance in Huntsville Monday afternoon.

Officials of the Sertoma Club of Huntsville announced on Monday that the President had accepted their invitation to participate in ceremonies in Big Spring International Park. The event will be the second annual "Honor America Day", a special project begun by the local Sertoma Club which has spread throughout the nation.

Mayor Joe Davis has asked local business and industry to allow employees to attend and has also called upon local schools to close for part of the day to permit all school children to see and hear the President.

The day is a federal holiday and activities at Redstone Arsenal will be closed.

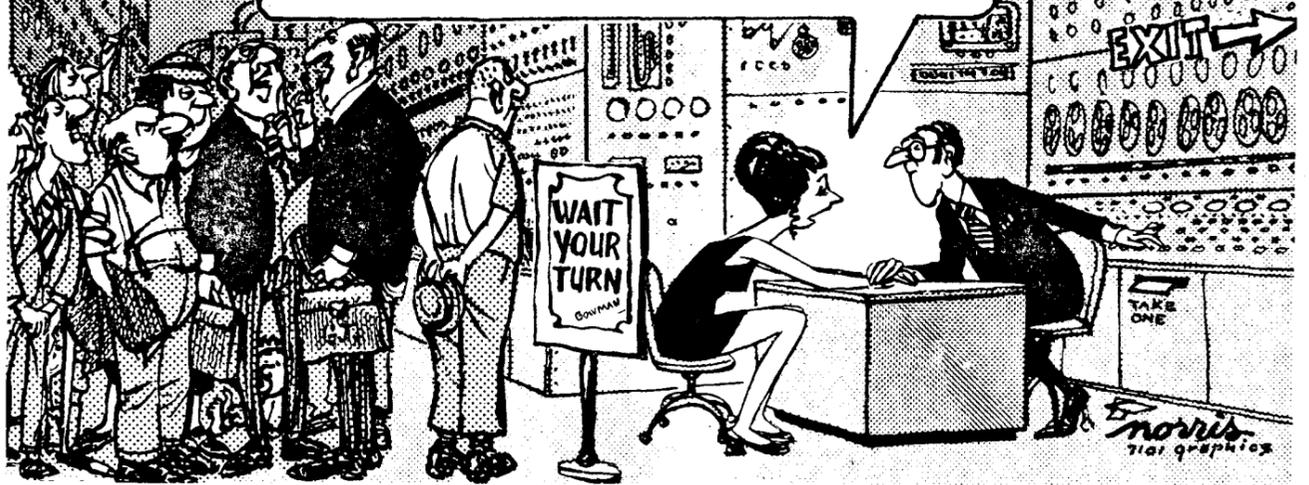

Gerald W. Ludick, president of the Sertoma Club, said the program would be held in the park with the speakers' stand placed near the spot where his club erected a 30-ton monument and eternal flame last year.

Computerized Car Pool Matching Div.

A SPORT IN A TWO PLACE BUCKET OFF
MONTE SANO TO 7101 -- WOULD BE FINE!

The computer did a better job matching prospective carpoolers at Redstone than we had expected it to do and the list is too long to run in the Rocket this week.

Here is what happened:

Approximately 500 persons indicated an interest in the Army's Computerized Car-pool Matching Program by completing initial data forms and returning them to the computer center.

When the computer searched for possible matches, if it didn't find as many as eight in the grid sector you indicated as your home location, it moved on to the grid sectors surrounding your home sector and picked up other prospective carpoolers.

Thus, the list now available to the Rocket shows some names as many as five times, depending on from what grid sector you are trying to match with. This would be too long a list and have too much duplication to publish in the Rocket.

We are asking the computer to take another look and furnish another list of all persons in the program thus far by home address and work site. Names will not appear but one time on this list and it will be published next week.

In the meantime, in the interest of helping people who want to carpool, the Missile Command Information Office is set up to search the computerized records available and give you names, home addresses, work building numbers and work telephone numbers of prospective carpoolers in your home area.

Please use telephone numbers 876-6423 or 876-1400.

What we need from you in order to perform this service is your name, home and work grid numbers, if you remember how you entered them on the initial data entry form you completed to enter the program.

If you do not remember and did not keep the specially grided maps published in the January 16 issue of the Rocket, we can look up the grid numbers for you if you give us your name, home address and work building number but it will take longer and we would appreciate having the grid numbers if you have them.

If there is a demand for it, the Information Office will continue this service even after the list is published next week because the records we have give a broader selection of prospects.

The application data form appearing in the January 16 issue of the Rocket is being rerun again this week on Page 6 for the benefit of those who did not enter the program in time for the first computer run but now wish to get in. Instructions for completing are adjacent to the form.

Close of business Friday is the deadline for getting entry information in for the second computer run next week.

If you chose to go into the second phase of the program and do not have the necessary maps to get your grid numbers they will be provided by the MICOM Information Office if you phone 876-6423 or 876-1400.

If you enter the second phase of the program, please make a note of your home and work site grid numbers for future reference in getting the names of prospective carpoolers from the central file.

Their Feats Are Long And Illustrious

The nation is presently observing Black History Week, February 10-16. This event has been promoted by the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History, a private historical society founded in 1915.

Since 1926, the Association has sponsored National Black History Week to enhance awareness of the accomplishments of black men and women.

EDITH SPURLOCK SAMPSON

"You ask do we get fair treatment?" Edith Spurlock Sampson pondered the question for a moment. Then she replied: "My answer is no. Just the same, I'd rather be a Negro in America than a citizen of any other country. In the past century, we have made more progress than dark-skinned people anywhere else in the world."

The year was 1949, and Mrs. Sampson was on a lecture tour with the World Town Hall of the Air. The tour took her and colleagues to 20 countries and Communist hecklers always questioned them about America's treatment of black citizens.

Mrs. Sampson met them with typical candor. She was so effective in that role that President Truman appointed her as an alternate delegate to the United Nations General Assembly. She was reappointed to a second term in 1952.

In the UN, she was equally candid. Taunted by Soviet Foreign Minister Andre Vishinsky, Mrs. Sampson replied: "We Negroes aren't interested in communism—we were slaves too long for that. Nobody is happy with second-class citizenship, but our best chances are within the framework of American democracy." She worked within that framework all her life, as an attorney and a judge.

She graduated from John Marshall Law School, and earned her M.A. in law from Loyola University. She practiced law in Chicago, served as a referee in Cook County Juvenile Court, and as assistant State's attorney and corporations counsel for the city of Chicago.

In 1962, the Democratic Party nominated her for an unexpired term on the municipal court bench. By an overwhelming vote, she became the first black woman elected a judge in American history. In 1964, she was elected as associate judge of the Cook County Circuit Court.

A seven year old child scribbled her first verse.

Years later she was a Pulitzer Prize winning poet. The first Negro ever to capture the coveted award.

What came in between was a writing career garnished with innumerable honors and recognitions.

Gwendolyn Brooks first attracted attention in 1943, when she won the Poetry Workshop Award at the Midwestern Writers Conference held at Northwestern University.

In 1945, her first book of verse, "A Street in Bronzeville," was published and won wide critical acclaim. That same year, Mademoiselle magazine selected her as one of the 10 outstanding young women of the year.

She became a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Letters in 1946, and was a Guggenheim Fellow in creative writing 1946-47.

The late President Kennedy extended her an invitation to present selections of her verse at a Poetry Festival at the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

GWENDOLYN BROOKS

Out of the slums of New Orleans rose the sounds of a trumpet and the gravel voice of a showman whose career spanned almost 60 years.

Louis 'Satchmo' Armstrong became known as one of America's finest ambassadors of good will and as a major figure in the development of jazz.

Grasping his trumpet in one hand, a white handkerchief in the other, and sporting a broad, toothy grin, Satchmo stepped before audiences from Australia to the other side of the Iron Curtain, before royalty and African natives with faces painted with clay.

Armstrong and his horn went a long way from his birth on July 4, 1900, in New Orleans. The victim of a broken home, he grew up in the streets and sang for pennies with a street-corner quartet. When he was 13, Armstrong was sent to a waif's home for firing a pistol on New Year's Eve. It was actually a turning point in his life. While there Satchmo learned to play the cornet, an instrument he later gave up for the trumpet.

During his career, Satchmo became a composer, played in more than a dozen movies and recorded more than 1,500 songs. Some, like "Hello Dolly!" sold more than a million records.

Armstrong saw music as the universal language, and he took great care of his battered lips so he could spread the word. "What's the good of having music in your mind," he once said, "if you can't get it past your pucker?"

Display Black Art And Music

Activities have been scheduled at Redstone in observance of National Black History Week originated to create awareness of outstanding Black contributions in all fields.

The Redstone Recreation Center has information available on various black inventors, scientists and world leader, past and present.

Music and quizzes will also be provided throughout the week for all military personnel.

An art display comprised of works by local black artists is on exhibit at the Post Exchange and will remain there throughout the week.

The Post Library, building 3323, has a book display featuring literature on black history and personalities.

Local Schools Observe Black History Week

Local colleges and universities continue their observance of National Black History Week (February 10-16) with a schedule of events focusing on art, film and music.

A black film festival being held today at Alabama A&M University will last until 4:30 p.m.

Dr. L. Quirante of the Oakwood College education department, will present an address in the Oakwood College Chapel at 6:30 p.m.

At 8:15 p.m., Dr. Robert H. Brisbane, chairman of political science at Morehouse College in Atlanta, will speak in room 127 of the Science and Engineering auditorium at the University of Alabama in Huntsville.

Tomorrow at 1 p.m., Dr. Brisbane will address an assembly at the Bibb Graves auditorium at A&M. The University choir will perform at the event sponsored by the history and political science departments.

Mrs. Ruth F. Davis of Oakwood's home economics department will speak at Oakwood at 6:30 p.m.

The eight black colleges of the Alabama Consortium for Higher Education will present a choral program at A&M at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Agola A. Osolo, a Kenyan student at A&M, will speak from 9 a.m. until noon on Friday and again from 1-4 p.m. in room 214 of the Vocational Building at A&M.

At 7 p.m. Friday, Mrs. Alma Blackmon of the Oakwood College music department will perform at Oakwood.

Oakwood College will host Elder Jacob Justiss of Washington, D.C., at a program set for 11 a.m., Saturday.

A medley of black spirituals will be presented at 6:15 p.m., Saturday, by C. E. Mosley. Dr. T. McDonald, assistant professor of education, will give a black review at 7 p.m. Both events are at Oakwood College.

An art exhibit featuring local black artists is also on display at Alabama A&M University and will remain there throughout the week.

ANSWERS

(Editor's Note: The MICOM Information Office conducts a question and answer program for job-related questions of general interest. Such questions may be telephoned to 876-4161 or 876-4400, or mailed to AMSMI-G. Some questions are selected for publication in the Rocket. Names are withheld. It is not intended that this program take the place of the usual supervisor-employee relationship which is the proper channel for specific job-related questions.)

QUESTION: Can a retired Civil Service employee return to work with the Government on a temporary appointment?

ANSWER: Yes, but the retired employee would be paid only the difference between the retirement annuity and the salary for the grade occupied on a temporary basis.

QUESTION: If I bring other people with me in a carpool, will I need special automobile insurance?

ANSWER: The standard bodily injury-liability-property damage liability-uninsured motorist policy, written by underwriters in Alabama, protects you against any claim for which you become liable as a result of carrying passengers in a carpool.

Redstone Not Affected By Closing Order

WASHINGTON—The Army announced plans last week to close six command headquarters, an AMC laboratory and agency, and confirmed that it would proceed with relocation of some other activities previously announced.

None of the actions will have an adverse impact on Army commands and agencies at Redstone Arsenal or in Huntsville.

Five of the headquarters to be closed are outside the Continental United States and are scheduled for phase out during FY75.

They include: U.S. Army Alaska; U.S. Army Forces, Southern Command; U.S. Army Pacific; Theater Army Support Command, Europe, and Engineer Command, Europe. The sixth, Headquarters, U.S. Army Intelligence Command at Ft. Meade, Maryland, will be phased out by June 30 1974.

FOURTEEN DIVISIONS

The Army said it would use the military spaces and funds made available by the eliminations of these headquarters units to increase the Army force structure from 13 and one-third divisions to 14 divisions.

AMC activities to be closed include the Chemical and Coating Laboratory at Aberdeen Proving Ground and the Advanced Materiel Concepts Agency at Alexandria, Virginia. Both are to be closed by June 30, 1974. The five military personnel and 27 of the civilians now assigned to the laboratory at Aberdeen will be transferred to the Mobility Equipment Research and Development Center at Ft. Belvoir. The remaining 19 civilian jobs will be eliminated.

Two military and three civilian jobs at the concepts agency will be transferred to AMC Headquarters. The remaining four military and 51 civilian jobs will be eliminated.

In announcing these decisions, the Secretary of the Army said:

"The Army will continue to review the role of the activities and installations comprising its logistical base, as well as its long range stationing requirements and the role of each installation under Army Control. While no announcement of major Army realignments is anticipated in the near future, individual realignments may occur. These will be announced as decisions are made."

Confirming previous announcements, the secretary also announced on February 8:

—Consolidation of signal training at Ft. Gordon, Georgia. Remaining elements of the Signal School at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., will continue their movement to Gordon.

MP SCHOOL

—The Military Police School will move from Ft. Gordon to Ft. McClellan, Alabama, also home of the WAC Center and School.

—Modification of original plans for shifting the Defense Language Institute. Headquarters and the East Coast Branch now located in the District of Columbia will move to the Presidio of Monterey, California. The English Language Branch originally scheduled to move from Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, to Ft. Montmuth, will remain at Lackland.

According to the brief Army announcement on closing of the six headquarters, additional funds and spaces required to expand the force structure to 14 divisions will be obtained from "reductions in other existing Army headquarters including Headquarters, Department of the Army, and other management sections."

The Army said the part of the functions of Army component headquarters in unified commands that deals with unilateral Army administrative matters, such as personnel, logistics and budget will be handled directly from the continental United States. It gave as an example: the U.S. Army Forces Command will exercise command and control over Army elements in Alaska through the Commander, 172nd Infantry Brigade. The Commander, 172nd Infantry Brigade will be authorized some additional personnel spaces to carry out the Army component functions in relation to the Alaskan Command.

It's Just Not So

ROCK ISLAND, ILL.—The U.S. Army Materiel Command issued a strongly worded denial last week that it had any plans to merge the U.S. Army Armament Command here with the U.S. Army Missile Command.

The denial was issued February 5 after local news media had carried reports that such a merger was impending. The complete text of the AMC statement follows:

"The Army does not have nor has it ever had any plans to relocate the Armament Command to Redstone Arsenal or to merge the Armament Command with the Missile Command at any other site.

"The decision to merge the former Munitions Command and the former Weapons Command into the Armament Command with its headquarters at Rock Island Arsenal was based on an economic analysis which reflected savings to be realized by use of the site on a long term basis.

"The Armament Command became operational on 1 July 1973. Any further move would negate the long range savings anticipated. Rock Island Arsenal is the primary research and development center for weapon systems and had prototype production facilities which are required for full production in the event of national emergency.

"There are no plans to close this installation."

No Job Loss Here

Phase-out Affects Many

Approximately 400 persons at MICOM are involved in the inactivation of the 48 Nike Hercules sites in the U. S. No positions will be lost at MICOM because of the dismantling of these sites.

Major R. G. Alves, chief of the Hercules Division in the Special Systems Office, said that his people, many in the Material Management and Maintenance Directorates and a smaller group in the Research, Development and Engineering Laboratory have the greatest amount of responsibility for the operation.

The Army announced last week that 48 Nike Hercules sites in the U. S. are to be deactivated, with all being phased out by the end of this calendar year.

"My office has the overall role of management and coordination for the program," as far as MICOM is concerned, Alves said, but the Materiel Management Directorate has the biggest job. Fred Hopper is the Hercules man there heading the effort to make detailed plans for relocating the assets removed from sites. Many people, of course, had input into the planning.

"At the same time we're deactivating some sites, we're trying to extend the life of the missile system at the remaining sites in the U. S. and overseas.

"All the plans are designed to get the equipment off the tactical sites in the most economical and expeditious manner—get it to the proper depot or redistributed where there is the most need. There's still a need in many places with U. S. forces overseas and around the world with our NATO and Far Eastern allies.

"MICOM will have a team of technical advisers at each site to assure that the equipment is disassembled properly and properly packaged for moving. This is all usable material, it's not junk. We'd like to use some ourselves and so would our allies."

"Planning for the deactivation started months ago. Gil Chandler and Bob Cloyd of the Plans and Analysis Directorate headed the task force that analyzed the impact on MICOM and other commands concerned."

"Howard Raspilair and Gil Workman in Maintenance were the key men there in the planning. An R&D group has technical supervision of the contract with our prime contractor—Jimmy Sandlin is our main contact there for Hercules. Charles Twyman is my chief assistant in this office."

"As long as there is even one Hercules battery anywhere, MICOM has to support it. We manage 13,000 of the 35,000 items required to support Hercules—that means continuing work for people in the Maintenance and Materiel Management Directorates, R&D and Procurement and Production."

One Station Training

Less Time—Fewer Moves

WASHINGTON—The Army announced February 8 a new program for training the individual soldier.

Called "One Station Training", the program will permit a soldier to receive individual and professional development training at the same installation. This will shorten time in training for the new soldier and reduce the number of moves he must make.

Howard H. Callaway, Secretary of the Army, said when the program is fully implemented, all armor training, for example, to include basic and advanced individual training, will be conducted at Ft. Knox, Ky.

"Other professional branch homes will be selected to operate in a similar manner," Callaway said. During and after implementation, which will take several years, one station training will generate significant savings by consolidating training assets.

Eventually about 75 percent of all soldiers entering the Army will participate in one station training. Retention of one or more Army general training centers will provide the Army with necessary additional training capability.

During the next several years, Ft. Ord, California, and Ft. Polk, Louisiana, will gradually convert from their current training mission to home stations for brigade size combat units. As the one station training program is incorporated into the training base, Army training installations will have their missions modified to support the new program. Missions will change gradually with no significant employment change, according to the Army announcement.

The Army ultimately plans to station a brigade size combat unit at Ft. Stewart, Georgia, and nearby Hunter Army Air Field. As a beginning, the 1st Battalion (Ranger), 75th Infantry, was activated at reduced strength on January 31. Personnel and equipment fill for the battalion will be completed by August 30. The battalion is authorized 35 officers, one warrant officer, and 552 enlisted men.

"The Army will continue to review its long range stationing requirements and the role of each installation under Army control. While no announcement of major realignments is anticipated in the near future, individual realignments may occur and will be announced as decisions are made," Callaway said.

ABMDA Engineer Tapped For Executive Training

Donald S. Russ, Chief of the Reentry Physics Division, Army Ballistic Missile Division, has been selected for the Federal Executive Development Program.

The FEDP is sponsored by the Office of Management and Budget in cooperation with the Civil Service Commission. Now in its first year of operation, the FEDP selected 25 outstanding men and women with demonstrated executive potential for participation in an intensive year-long developmental program.

Russ was one of the 25 chosen out of more than 3200 applicants from all commands and agencies. He had been nominated by Bill Davis,

Donald Russ

Director of ABMDA.

He starts training in March at the Federal Executive Institute in Charlottesville, Virginia. During the year he will undergo management and educational experiences designed to prepare him for executive responsibilities.

Upon completion of training Russ will either return to ABMDA or be given employment opportunities in other agencies.

Russ has been in Huntsville for the last 10 years. The first five years was with the Nike Zeus program and the last five have been with ABMDA.

Russ is a graduate of the University of Florida with a Bachelor of Science in Electronic Engineering in 1958. He worked for the Sperry Rand Corporation before joining government service.

According to Russ, "I wanted to get broader management experience and see how other agencies operate. My selection, out of so many outstanding applicants, was a pleasant surprise. I am very happy to have an opportunity to get this training."

President Nixon Visits

Ludick said the program would begin at noon. The exact time of the President's speech had not been determined at Rocket presstime. Complete details of the program and plans for the President's visit will be carried in all local news media later this week together with details on public viewing areas and parking arrangements, Ludick said.

There is no alternate site for the program. It will be conducted as scheduled at Big Spring Park regardless of weather, Ludick said.

There were no plans indicating the President would visit any of the federal activities in the area.

Announcements by the White House indicated he would stop in Huntsville for the speech while returning to Washington from a brief Florida vacation.

It has been almost 11 years since an incumbent President visited the area. The late President John F. Kennedy made a brief speech at Redstone Arsenal Army Air Field on Armed Forces Day 1963.

Mayor Davis said he felt he was speaking for all residents of Huntsville in saying that he was proud to be able to host the President. The mayor urged everyone to attend the event and said he was extending a similar invitation to all neighboring communities.

Station Of Choice

(ANF)—There's a new test program enabling soldiers ETS-ing in 1974 to extend for as many as 12-months. Providing MOS and grade vacancy exists, a soldier voluntarily extending for a full 12-months can select a station of choice.

Master Sergeant Kenneth M. Dockendorf, who has spent 13 of his 20 years in the Army at Redstone retired Jan 31 in a ceremony at MMCS.

Dockendorf, a senior Nike Radar and Computer instructor in the Nike division at the School, was presented the Meritorious Service Medal for outstanding achievements and service.

A native of Watkins, Minn., Dockendorf was assigned to the 30th Ordnance Company in Seoul, Korea before arriving at Redstone in 1968. From 1960-1967, he was also assigned to the arsenal as an instructor in the Nike field.

Other tours included assignments at Fort Monmouth, N.J., Fort Polk, La., and the 1st Cavalry Division in Japan.

Dockendorf is married to the former Linda F. Smith of Huntsville. The couple will continue to make their home here.

INSTRUCTIONS—It is vital that all areas on the application be completed. Special attention should be given to the following sections:

Card No. 1, Field (2)—This block should be filled in with the letter "A" which corresponds to the designated code shown on the form if this is your entry into the program.

The other two designated codes ("C AND "D") are not to be used by initial entrants.

Card No. 2, Field (2). This block should be filled in with the letter "A" for the reasons stated above.

Card No. 2, Fields (12-18)—These blocks are to be filled in with the particular grid numbers as shown on maps published in the Jan. 16 Rocket. If you do not have these maps, MICOM Information Office personnel will help you with grid numbers if you phone 876-4161 or 876-1400.

FOR EXAMPLE: If a participant lives in the Holiday Homes area of Huntsville, he or she would locate this area on the city map and determine what two grid numbers intersect there. These numbers would then be placed in Fields 12 and 14 on Application Section No. 2.

This same procedure should be followed to locate what grid a particular work site is in from the Arsenal map.

FOR EXAMPLE: If a participant works in Building 5250, he or she would locate this building on the Arsenal map and determine what two grid numbers intersect in that area and enter them in Fields 16-18 on application Section No. 2.

Card No. 2, (Fields 20-28)—Each participant must fill in the time he reports to his work site and the time he departs. Use military time designations.

When the application has been completed it should be mailed to AMSMI-WCCQ. If further information is needed to complete the form, call 876-5171.

Fuel Consumption Down

Helped along by warmer-than-normal weather, Redstone has consumed 12 per cent less BTUs of heat in the first seven months of the fiscal year than in the corresponding period a year earlier.

In January, prospects here of meeting the June 30 goal of having reduced energy consumption by 20 per cent over fiscal year 1973 got a big boost when the most dramatic reductions to date in energy consumption were achieved.

Compared to January the year before, last month Redstone used 35 per cent less gasoline, 26 per cent less electricity, 21 per cent less diesel fuel, 40 per cent less kerosene and substantially less aviation and heating fuels.

Here is a brief rundown of the achievements of the energy conservation program so far this fiscal year compared to the same period in fiscal year 1973.

ELECTRICITY—Consumption down 7.3 per cent; deficit expected to be reduced substantially when warm comes and new restriction on air conditioning take effect.

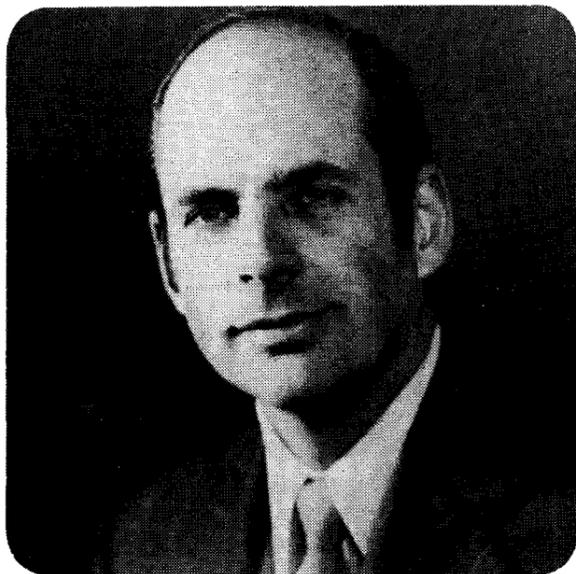

GASOLINE—Consumption down 17 per cent; meeting 20 per cent goal not seen as a problem.

KEROSENE—Consumption down 35 per cent.

DIESEL FUEL—Consumption down 22 per cent.

AVIATION GASOLINE & JP4—Consumption down 15 and 16 per cent respectively; dropped sharply in January under new policy limiting availability of Redstone fuel to transient aircraft.

HEATING FUELS—Consumption down 12 per cent in terms of BTUs.

SPEAKS TONIGHT—Dr. Norman R. Augustine, Assistant Secretary of the Army for Research and Development, will address the Tennessee Valley Chapter of the American Defense Preparedness Association tonight in the Redstone Officers Open Mess during a meeting which begins at 6:30. He will discuss "Perspective in R & D Management."

Variety Show On For Sunday

A variety show is scheduled at the Recreation Center for the Sunday evening pleasure of Redstone enlisted personnel, their families and friends.

Featured in the unique show will be "Dee-Dee's" singing and dancing troupe from Huntsville.

Show time is eight in the Center's lounge.

Holiday Next Monday

(ANF)—Military and civilian federal employees get the first of this year's five three-day weekends next week. Monday, February 18th, will be a day off for Washington's Birthday.

Other Monday holidays scheduled for this year are Memorial Day on May 27; Labor Day on September 2; Columbus Day, October 14; and Veteran's Day on October 28.

American Cage Race Ends In Deadlock

This is a tough world for rookies—especially for the 8th ETC students. Often referred to as the most winsome rookie team in the RSA Basketball League, the students have had to prove themselves all season as individuals, as athletes and as a team.

Did they fail? Hardly. In fact, they made the basketball league a rookie players' market right through the 1973-74 season with an unblemished record until last Wednesday night, when the pesty missilemen invaded the Post gym.

It seemed the Big Dream—an American division championship—heartbreakingly dimmed in the waning seconds of the game for the students as the missilemen eked out a 58-54 victory in a "do or die" game for MICOM.

The MICOM win created a dead heat in the league as both clubs finished the regular season with identical 12-1 marks setting up a playoff game tentatively scheduled for Feb. 21.

Both clubs have repeatedly dueled, and last Wednesday night was no exception, as the final buzzer decided the victors before another jam-packed maddening crowd.

In the early going, both clubs exchanged leads numerous times with both teams finally settling for a 23-23 deadlock halftime score. The students and the missilemen continued the "cat and mouse game" in the second half until early in the final period when MICOM took a 41-34 margin with seven minutes remaining. With 4:30 left, the students roared back to notch the score at 41-41.

Again the missilemen soared to a 46-41 lead with 2:34 left, when MICOM went into a "stall." The students then forced several bad passes and closed the gap to 54-52 with 54 seconds left. With 9 seconds to go, Milton Grubbs made a pair of free throws to tie the game at 54, but two quick field goals by MICOM ended the student quest for an undefeated season.

Ray Smith led the MICOM scoring with 17, while Gene Howey and Ron Castine picked up 14 each. Willie Morgan, with 28, was the only double-figure scorer for the 8th ETC.

In other action, Company C edged the 1st ETC, 77-64; while the 7th ETC posted a 61-47 win over the Marines.

Company C's win over the students gave them a 7-5 record for the year and a fourth place finish—good enough for a playoff spot. The permanent party used a five-man barrage with Harry Ross leading the efforts with 21, followed by Carl Johnson, 16; James Whitfield, 13; Gene McKenney, 12; and Richard Conley with 11 points. Gerald Roberson nabbed 15 points for the students, while Eric Dean and John Hall contributed 14 tallies each.

The 7th ETC easily defeated the Marines in the final game, although a Marine injury halted the contest for 20 minutes. According to Special Services, D. R. Fannin was accidentally decked by his own teammate. Fannin's jaw was hit by an elbow, knocking the leatherneck unconscious. An Army ambulance transported the Marine to the Redstone Army Hospital. He was released several hours later with a few pains and several loose teeth.

Scorewise, Garmy Chestnut, Larry Simmons and Tim Altepeter paced the students with 18, 17 and 10 points respectively, while D.A. Skelton led the Marines with 29.

Monday

In Monday night action at the Post gym, the 8th lashed the Marines, 84-42; MICOM edged Company C, 56-51; while the 4th ETC nipped the 1st, 69-62.

Youths Learn Self Defense

The Dependent Youth Activities enrichment program seems off to a flying start, particularly during the regular judo and karate classes conducted by Mike Brown.

The judo class sponsored by the DYA was filled during the first week of instruction, according to Joe Hopkins, program director.

Additional classes may begin soon, Brown said.

In addition to the judo and karate sessions, the DYA also offers baton twirling, ceramics and leathercraft instruction. Plans call for modeling and charm courses to begin soon, also.

Information on the DYA program is available through the program office, 876-2315.

nabbed 20 and 17 points in lifting the 8th students over the Marines for their 12th win of the campaign. Other student double-scoring was registered by Clifford Boler, 11; Bobby Ripley and Milton Grubbs had 10 each. C.B. Foutz led the Marines with a 21-point performance.

The missilemen, leading 24-23 at halftime, had a hard road before finally sneaking by Company C for their victory. Ray Smith and Ron Castine provided 17 and 15 tallies for MICOM, while Harry Ross and James Whitfield had 13 points each for Company C, followed by Gene McKenney with 12.

The 4th ETC nabbed third place in the division with their narrow win over the 1st. The students ended the season one game ahead of the "C" dwellers. Willie Banks and Steve Scott grabbed 23 and 22 tallies for the 4th, while Eric Dean and Gerald Roberson hit 16 and 12 points for the 1st.

Hectic Five Team Race In National

Frustrated. That's the word that best describes Company B of the National division. Coasting along with an undefeated record, the "B" dwellers were knocked off by the Meddacs on Jan. 15, and just last week they suffered their second loss of the campaign at the hands of the improved 9th ETC unit.

More important is the fact that the league has turned into a hectic five-team race with the Meddacs holding a one-game lead over the permanent party. In close pursuit are perpetuals, Company A and the 291st MPs, with identical 7-3 marks—only two games out of first. Then comes the 9th ETC, who have turned a losing season into a winning 6-4 record and a great chance to move ahead in the standings. With six games remaining, the students will play three top contenders, the MPs, Meddacs and Company A in a race that will go right to the last game of the regular season.

Tuesday

In Tuesday's action last week in the National circuit, the MPs dropped the 5th ETC, 71-60; Company A slaughtered the Marines, 72-39; while Company B beat the 6th, 70-58.

A three-man barrage consisting of Robin Sheets, Charles Sanders and Bob Zehner gave the MPs an easy win over the 5th ETC. Sheets recorded 25 biggies, followed by Zehner, 19, and Sanders with 18. The students, still with a chance for the Post playoffs, were led by Joe Canada and Jim Green with 22 and 12 points respectively.

In the following game, another trio from Company A provided the winning punch over the fighting bulldogs. Marvin Williams and Sylvester Walker set the A's pace with 25 and 24 tallies respectively, followed by Bob Russell with 15. The Marines were led by W.E. Tibbs and C.T. Miller with 16 and 14 tallies.

Before disaster was to strick Company B on Thursday night, the permanent party added one more win to their record in the finale Tuesday. They demolished the 6th with Fred Harris nabbing 24 points, followed by Mike Fields and Leon Jones with 17 and 13. Athletic Winston Stephens and Ernest Hobson netted 21 and 17 for the losing students.

Thursday

Two of the three top contenders continued to win on Thursday with Company A downing SSG, 86-48; the Meddacs over the 6th ETC, 70-49; while the 9th ETC upset Company B, 70-63.

A hot-shooting foursome gave Company A their seventh win with a victory over SSG. Marvin Williams and Scott Wingfield topped the A's list with 24 and 23 points, followed by Charlie Reese, 18, and Sylvester Walker with 12. The lone star for SSG was T. Garrett with a brilliant 40-point performance.

The Meddacs remained in first spot with a triumph over the 6th. Stocky Al Ashton pumped 27 big ones in, followed by Bob Moore, 17, Wynn Hoffman, 14, for the pillpushers, while Winston Stephens and Ernest Hobson contributed 13 and 12 points for the 6th.

In the final game, the 9th ETC upset the favored "B" dwellers, 70-63. As was the case last year, the students could hardly muster a win in the earlier part of the season—dropping three out of their first four starts. The students latest win was in part led by Kermit Crawford with 34, followed by Harry Bryant and Jerry Starks with 17 and 11. In a losing effort for Company B., Leon Jones posted 28, along with Mike Field's 14 and Marwillis Cunningham's 12.

MICOM Sights In On Playoff

After three unsuccessful tries Missile Command girls finally caught up with the Mary Sullivan Realtors and handed them a 47-44 defeat in Huntsville Women's basketball league action last week.

MICOM scored first and never trailed although the game was close all the way and the lead never exceeded seven points. The CWF girls were in front by three at the half, 25-22.

It was the first defeat of the season for the Realtors who have already sewed up the regular season crown. MICOM now has an eight and four slate and high hopes in the upcoming post season playoffs.

The Carl Melton-coached Army girls were led in scoring by Janice McGee's 21 points. Anita Whitaker tossed in 15 and Gladys Hill hit for 11.

Ready For Season

MMCS Golf League officials are forming the league this month, and captains of last year's teams are requested to submit rosters by Feb. 26.

Rosters may be sent or delivered to Seybourne R. Garner, league secretary, in room 204 of Building 3303.

"Teams will consist of a maximum of eight members each," said Garner.

Once membership in the league has been established, players will meet to vote on the golf course and day of play. Additional information is available from Garner at 6-2779, "Bull" Durham at 6-4953, Tom Rivers at 6-1428, or Jim Liner at 6-7560.

Scouting High On List

He's A Young Man On The Go

Going Up

By Steve Stevens

Skiing, whitewater kayaking, mountain climbing, sailing, hunting, photography, fishing, taxidermy—Captain Jon Toenes does them all and still has time for additional activities.

Toenes' Army job is aide to Brigadier General J. S. Egbert, Director of Safeguard's Site Defense Project Office, but his hobbies sound like a cavalcade of sports... he has activities for every season of the year.

Many are involved in his work as leader and advisor for the Huntsville Explorer Scout Post 007. Toenes likes working with youth and has established a "high adventure" program for his explorer post.

He saves his leave time for the summer so he can take his scouts on "high adventure" projects all over the country.

This past summer he took the explorers on a trip to California, Oregon, Washington and on up into Canada to British Columbia and Alberta provinces. During the trip his group was trapped in a blizzard on Mount Rainier, Washington, and had to use their own abilities to get out of the situation. With all of their training, the explorers made it out in good shape.

MOUNTAINTOP CEREMONY

When they climbed Mount Whitney (the highest mountain in the U. S. not including Alaska) the troop held ceremonies and presented one of the scouts his Eagle badge.

Some of the "high adventure" trips include activities in Alabama, and neighboring states that offer particular challenges. A recent trip to western North Carolina involved whitewater kayaking through Nantahala Falls on the Nantahala River near the Smoky Mountains. On weekends Toenes and his explorers practice rappelling and mountain climbing techniques on the cliffs of Green Mountain.

Though explorer scouting is one of his main interests, Toenes still takes time for other projects. He is an instructor in water safety, first aid, canoeing, sailing and small craft operation. During the summer he was commissioner of swimming for the Youth Sports Program, and was part time coach of the Redstone swimming team.

When hunting season comes around, Toenes is on the go again in a different direction. He likes duck hunting and also raises Labrador Retrievers for his own use and for sale to other hunters.

During deer season Toenes participates in gun hunts on the weekends and bow and arrow hunts during the week. He has shot more than a dozen deer and gotten four with the bow and arrow.

While some young men have one or two hobbies that take all of their time, Toenes keeps branching out each time he meets a new challenge. He wanted to keep some trophies of his hunting experiences, but when he found out how expensive it was, he took up taxidermy. He has mounted a deer head, ducks, fish and pheasant for his den walls.

Whenever he goes on a new adventure, Toenes always has time to load his camera and take it along. Many of his slides are used for presentations on scouting, hunting and his varied activities.

WRITER TOO

One of his projects has assured him a niche in the history of Boy Scouting in the Tennessee Valley. He wrote a play called "The Vanishing Apache" that Huntsville Scouts have performed in Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico and other western states and in the Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia areas.

The play is so realistic and authentic that other scout units in the country have asked permission to have their troops perform it at special events. Toenes had the play copyrighted and allows other troops to use it as long as they keep it in its original form.

Toenes described his activities this way: "I like to do a lot of different things... I enjoy a challenge. One of the things I like best is working with young people. I've read and heard a lot about what people say of the younger generation, but let me tell you that the young people I've worked with are outstanding. They are a credit to their parents and to their country... we don't have to worry about the future of this country as long as we have youngsters like these coming along."

“He’s happy and I know he’s happy.”

Pat Fundum’s husband, Gene, works as a Personnel Specialist. He’s just reenlisted, but that was no surprise to her.

“Actually, it wasn’t something we had to discuss. He knows how I feel about the Army.

“I like it here. The shopping. The activities. The services. And the people we’ve met.

“But what’s more important, I know he likes his job. He’s proud of the way he’s advanced. And he’s always saying there’s no way he could have moved up as fast as a civilian.

“Neither of us would say that the Army’s right for everyone. But it’s right for us.”

Why are you staying in?
