No, it's not an economy combat vehicle. Marine Gunnery Sergeant William B. Whitten, Jr., an MMCS instructor, said the unique paint job is a temporary improvement to his auto's appearance. Before the camouflage the car was white, "with rust and dirt." Whitten has plans for a new, if less distinguished paint job, though.

King would find 'different' struggle

If Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. were alive today, he would find "a different kind of struggle," Dr. Joseph Lowery told members of the press here last week.

Some of the same "skirmishes" still exist but the struggle is no longer just regional, said the president of King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) since 1977.

"Now the struggle is nationwide," Lowery said. The civil rights leader was featured speaker for the annual observance here for King's birthday Jan. 15.

Economic injustices are a major problem, according to Lowery. "Now we're not talking about the customer side of the lunch counter; we're talking about the cash register side of the lunch counter," he said.

Lowery said this economic crisis is not a racial crisis but it sparks the resurgence of Ku Klux Klan activity.

"I'm concerned that we don't have a lot of strong voices against the Klan," he said. Lowery singled out the Justice Department and expressed his concern about the handling of a racial shootout in Decatur, Ala.

SMA here Jan. 21-24

The Sergeant Major of the Army, William A. Connelly, will arrive here today for a three-day visit.

He will arrive here from Fort Jackson, S.C. shortly after 5 p.m. and is to leave early Saturday.

Connelly will "mostly visit the troops — younger, lower-ranking people," said MICOM CSM Ed Polite.

Additionally, the Army's sergeant major since 1979 is to address the advanced NCO class at the school, special troops NCOs at the NCO Club, and NCOs in the hospital here. He will also visit post dining facilities.

Topics Connelly is to address include Army policy, benefits, and mobilization.

"He had not been to visit this post since he was Sergeant Major of the Army, and I requested him to come on down and visit us," said Polite.

Small claims court

A simple way to file lawsuits

BY SKIP VAUGHN

Small claims courts in Alabama are a simple, inexpensive mechanism for filing lawsuits, according to an Army lawyer.

A person filing a civil complaint in small claims court — for disputes up to $500 — doesn't need to hire a lawyer. A district court judge will listen to his or her case in informal proceedings in a courtroom.

Capt. James M. Smith, the legal assistance officer for Redstone Arsenal, is a member of the Madison County Citizens Advisory Committee to Small Claims Court. "In terms of costing you, it's really a cheap way of getting in court," Smith said.

The $12 filing fee is of particular interest to the average soldier, he said.

"As far as a soldier who wishes to sue, it provides you with a legal arena in which to present your case," said Smith, one of only two or three lawyers on the 12-member advisory committee.

The committee, created by Madison County's two district court judges, includes representatives from civic groups, business organizations and the legal community.

Its purpose is to advise the judges on ways to improve small claims court, and to improve public awareness of the court.

Lack of awareness is "one of the biggest problems we face," Smith said. "They simply don't know the court exists. They don't know there's a mechanism for them to go to."

However, there were about 5,000 small claims cases handled in Madison County in 1979. Last year's total is expected to be about the same, Smith said.

Small claims cases are part of the workload of the county's two district judges, Dan McCoy and Hartwell Lutz.

From 1975 to 1977, small claims was a division of the general sessions court of Madison County. General sessions court became district court when the Alabama judicial system was revised in 1977.

In general sessions court, small claims cases were restricted to disputes of $250 or less. The limit became $500 when this became district court. "There has been a move to raise the amount to $1,000," Smith said. "So far that has not been enacted. That is a possibility in the future."

Common small claims cases involve automobile accident damages or contract disputes. Smith said the two step process is, first, winning the case in court; and, second, collecting the judgement.

"Collecting that judgement is difficult if the person (the defendant) does not voluntarily offer to pay," Smith said.

Two weapons against citizens who refuse to pay judgements are garnishment — taking it out of their paycheck — or taking equal valued property. The federal garnishment act

Barrier free

Editor:

During Sept. 1980, I was asked to assist in a survey of the facilities of Redstone Arsenal with respect to Barrier Free Access to Federally Funded Buildings for Handicapped Individuals. The survey team consisted of the President, National Handicap Housing Institute, Inc. and an Architect who were commissioned by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to analyze current conditions compared to the 1968 U.S. Code on handicap barrier free requirements. It was noted that poor conformance conditions existed in and around most buildings on Redstone Arsenal. This situation was brought to the attention of the MICOM Command Group. The response was that Facilities Engineering Division, RASA, is currently working on a plan to upgrade.

I read in the Dec. 17 issue of the Redstone Rocket that improvements were being made due to actions taken by the Morale and Welfare Division, RASA, as a result of a suggestion by M. Sgt. Generino J. Petracco, retired. Congratulations to M. Sgt. Petracco, who came back from retirement to help improve on a known deficiency. Congratulations are also extended to Redstone Rocket for describing the procedures available to a handicapped person.

Because of my prior knowledge of the situation, I wonder at the absence of the Facilities Engineer Division role being mentioned in the article. I quote part of a statement by Gov. Bruce Barritt, AZ. as reported in the 28 August 1980 The Stars and Stripes, "Today, however, the federal system is in complete disarray. — they would ask how we have allowed their most original creation, a carefully layered system of separate units with specified functions, to become scrambled —." The tendency of administration is to demand compliance; yet, in this effort persuasion in the cautious evolutionary change has been "the best way."

What would you like to ask the Sergeant Major of the Army?

Editor's note: These responses were taken on Friday, before the negotiated hostage release.

Pvt. 2 James D. Higdon, 4th S.C. — "What is your opinion of the hostage situation and Ronald Reagan?"

Pvt. Dane D. Tripp, 4th S.C. — "Do you feel that Ronald Reagan's national defense issues will be in the best interest of the United States?"

Pvt. 2 Alan F. Brown, 7th S.C. — "How long is it going to take the United States to decide what to do with the hostages in Iran?"

Pvt. Shirley A. Bynum, 8th S.C. — "When do you think there will be a war and if there is one, how would you handle it?"

Pvt. Darryl Archer, 6th S.C. — "When do we go to Iran?"

Pvt. 2 Gregory S. Edelman, 7th S.C. — "I want to know when we are going to Iran."

Two slates of candidates in credit union election

For the first time, members of the Redstone Federal Credit Union will vote on a ballot including candidates nominated by petition at the credit union's annual meeting this month.

Members will decide on a slate of candidates for three-year terms to the Board of Directors. The three candidates named by a nominating committee are opposed by three named by petition.

"It's the first time since the change in the by-laws that we've ever had petition candidates," said Garland Reynolds, member and secretary of the nine-member board.

The annual meeting, at which members will cast ballots, will be 7 p.m. Jan. 29 at the Von Braun Civic Center concert hall. A majority vote of the members present is required for a candidate's election.

Committee nominations include Brig. Gen. Jack Apperson, MICOM Deputy Commander; Jerry Allen, NASA comptroller; and Jim Blackburn, retired from the Army's civilian personnel office. Dr. Delia Black, of civilian personnel, is unopposed for a one-year term.

Members nominated by petition include Donald B. Cook, a physicist for the Army; James T. Deaton, of the Army's legal office, patent division; and J. Keith Fowler, also of the patent office.

The by-laws were changed several years ago to allow for nominations by petition. To be nominated, a member must get signatures of one percent of the credit union members.

This year's petition candidates obtained over a thousand signatures to meet the required 750 of the credit union's approximately 75,000 members, Reynolds said.

Before the by-laws were changed about five years ago, nominations could be made from the floor. "On the floor, you can get a few people there and, you know, a few people can get mad and start nominating," Reynolds said. "It could cause trouble.

"That's why we went to the petition, because we want people who are willing to serve," he added. "We want to give them a chance to present their feelings."

The by-laws require that a petition be certified by the secretary of the board. "All the gentlemen on the petition gave me a letter stating they were ready and willing to serve on the board," Reynolds said.

Each year three members of the board come up for election. Also, as in Dr. Black's case, anyone nominated to a board position in the past year must come up for approval. "They have to either be approved or somebody (else) elected to that position at each annual meeting," Reynolds explained. "The board cannot approve anybody (to serve) past an annual election."

The credit union was established Nov. 28, 1951 and the petition system went into effect Oct. 24, 1975.

Army negotiates LoAD contract

The Army has opened negotiations with McDonnell Douglas Astronautics Company in Huntington Beach, Calif., to elevate the company from associate to prime contractor status for the Ballistic Missile Defense Low Altitude Defense (LoAD) project.

The LoAD project, managed by the Ballistic Missile Defense Systems Technology Project Office in Research Park is designed to demonstrate technology for a cost effective, rapidly deployable low altitude system to defend U.S. land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles from attack. The system, composed of an inertially guided interceptor, a small phased array radar and a distributed data processor, can be used alone to defend such targets as MX or used as the lower, underlay portion of a layered defense concept.

Since the project's inception in 1979, the LoAD Project Office has operated under an associate contractor system with separate contracts with McDonnell Douglas for systems engineering and integration and Martin Marietta Aerospace, Orlando, Fla., for interceptor development.

With the prospect of awarding another contract in the near future for the LoAD Sensor and Engagement Controller (an integrated radar and computer), it became impractical for the Army to continue to administer the contracts separately due to current constraints in government staffing levels.

Because of expertise gained in previous work on LoAD development, McDonnell Douglas has been selected to become the prime contractor for the project. After this new arrangement goes into effect on April 1, 1981, McDonnell Douglas will award subcontracts for components of the LoAD system.

Martin Marietta will continue work on the LoAD interceptor as a subcontractor. During a competitive procurement process held last fall, Raytheon, Wayland, Mass., submitted a successful proposal to develop the LoAD Sensor and Engagement Controller. As a result of the realignment of the LoAD contractor structure, Raytheon will perform that work as a subcontractor to McDonnell Douglas.

The LoAD Project Office will retain overall responsibility to oversee and direct project development.

Worker dies from wreck

A memorial service for Hattie Reed, a Redstone civilian employed by MICOM's Maintenance Engineering Directorate, was held Friday at Union Chapel in Huntsville. Burial followed Sunday in Hernando, Miss.

She died in a Huntsville hospital Jan. 12 following a noon traffic accident on post. She suffered multiple injuries when the military vehicle she was driving collided with a runaway trailer on Mills Road near building 5415.

Military Police said the flat bed trailer came loose from a truck and struck the car shortly before 1 p.m. last Monday.

A passenger in the car, Billy Pearson of Maintenance Directorate, was admitted to Huntsville Hospital with severe bruises and internal bleeding. He was still in the hospital Friday for observation.

Driver of the truck was not injured.

Survivors include her husband, Laverne Reed, first sergenat of 8th Student Company, a daughter, Vicky, and a son, Warren.

Fires occur in office machines, inspector warns

Office machines, especially copy machines, are becoming one of the leading causes of fires, according to Redstone's fire inspector.

"We have several fires in copy machines," said Bill Cross, Redstone Fire Department inspector. He attributes this to the continued workload placed on these machines.

Cross also warns against using a carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) extinguisher — commonly used to extinguish electrical fires — to put out a fire in computer terminals or word processing machines.

"Any attempt to extinguish a fire in equipment containing a cathode-ray tube requires the use of dry chemical or halon-type fire extinguisher," he explained. "The use of carbon dioxide, normally used to extinguish electrical fires, could cause the cathode-ray tube to explode."

Cathode-ray tubes are similar to the picture tube in a television set and are seeing widespread use in electronic equipment.

In case of fire in such machinery, the operator should unplug the machine, notify the fire department, and alert building occupants.

"Normally, fires in electronic equipment will be greatly reduced or extinguish themselves when power is disconnected," Cross said.

"Therefore, it is necessary to maintain clear access to and around the area where office machines are plugged into either the wall or other electrical service."

MMCS toughens advanced individual training here

MMCS Commandant, Col. Harry L. Foradori, last week ordered the toughening of advanced individual training here.

In a letter to all Directors and the School Brigade Commander, he stated, "The training day for AIT students, Monday through Friday, will run from 0700-1600 hours (7 a.m.-4 p.m.) with a scheduled one hour lunch break. Soldierization training will be conducted each Saturday morning."

The changes take effect on Feb. 2 and are a part of the toughened initial entry training (IET) called for by Army Chief of Staff Gen. E. C. Meyer in his White Paper last year. The recent changes to basic training was the first step in the process.

Officials in the school's Directorate of Training and Doctrine said some subjects soldiers now learn on the job in their first units may be included in their courses. They will also expand the hands-on portion of the current training.

A representative of the school's Directorate of Training Development added that each program of instruction will be examined to determine how the best use can be made of the longer academic week.

The pattern for these changes is set by the recently published TRADOC Regulation 350-6, "Initial Entry Training (IET) Policies and Administration." An entire chapter of that regulation is devoted to "Management of the military socialization process."

Concerning soldierization, it states, "It is the process by which an individual's behavior becomes consistent with the standards, values, and attitudes of the Army. During this process the soldier gains the degree of self-discipline, motivation, commitment, and technical and physical competence he needs to make a meaningful contribution to the Army's mission."

On the subject of soldierization during advanced individual training, it adds, "Special emphasis will be given to subjects that increase the soldier's awareness of and appreciation for that which is unique, different, and special about being a soldier in the U.S. Army."

Soldierization will be taught at MMCS on Saturdays, emphasizing general military knowledge and basic soldiering skills, while technical skill training will remain the core of the Monday-Friday instruction.

All student soldiers at MMCS are assigned to School Brigade's 2nd Battalion. Their commander, Lt. Col. Jon R. Morgan, said, "What we're trying to do is to turn out a better prepared and better motivated soldier. With the guidance we have from the Army chief of staff, TRADOC and the commandant, we can do that."

Two commended for contributions

Maj. Gen. Robert L. Moore recently commended G. Richard Wright and Bobby J. Clayton for their achievements in Army Missile development.

Wright, a supervisory computer specialist for the Management Information Systems Directorate, received the Commander's Award for Civilian Service for his work in devising more efficient computer operations. His quality control program for computer output received a commendation from the Inspector General. It is now being considered for use by other DARCOM activities.

For his contributions to the Guidance and Control Directorate, Bobby J. Clayton, an aerospace engineer, was presented the Meritorious Civilian Service Award. He was technical Director for the simplified Inertial Guidance Demonstration Program from 1975 to 1980.

During this period, he helped to adopt the Strapped Down Ring Laser Inertial Guidance System to the T-22. This advanced Guidance Design has applications for many future Army missile systems.

Aliens must report in January

The Immigration and Nationality Act requires all aliens in the United States on Jan. 1 of each year, with few exceptions, to report their addresses to the Attorney General during the month of January.

Forms I-53, the cards upon which this report must be made, are available at any United States Post Office.

The Immigration and Nationality Act provides serious penalties for willful failure to submit the report. Compliance with this requirement is, therefore, of importance to all aliens in the Armed Forces having relatives who are not citizens but residents of this country.

Struggle

"If we eliminate racism in the employment picture, we'd still have unemployment," said the civil rights leader who was chairman of the SCLC board 1967-77 before becoming the group's third president.

The message of King's birthday should be a greater sensitivity to the plight of poor people, Lowery said.

Lowery met with President-elect Ronald Reagan once and found him to be "sincere," he said, but "we have what we consider an unfriendly administration."

He said he expects the Moral Majority "will exercise some influence on the Reagan administration."

"We don't have much of a relationship with Moral Majority," Lowery said. "I have problems with their theology. They're so concerned about life before it's born, but so callous and cold about life after it gets here."

In response to other press questions, Lowery said Jimmy Carter's presidential administration offered a philosophy of human rights but was weak on programs. The unemployment rate of blacks is "substantially the same" as when Carter took office, he said.

The Carter administration offered "lukewarm solutions to red-hot problems," according to Lowery.

Dr. King was a "prophet, dreamer, clergyman and drum major for justice," he said. The civil rights pioneer who was slain by an assassin in 1968 preferred the role of a prophet. "I would doubt very much that Dr. King would have sought public office," Lowery said.

The basic reason why this country has not proclaimed Jan. 15 a national holiday is "racism," according to Lowery.

He added that those who are supportive of a national holiday have failed "to push hard enough."

"The privileged never relinquish their places of privilege voluntarily," Lowery said. "It has to be wrested from them. We haven't been in a wrestive mood. I think the time is now for us to put back on our walking shoes, our movement shoes . . ."

The last thing King would have wanted "was

for his life to be remembered as some sort of ceremonial, ritualistic thing once a year," Lowery said. "I think he wants us to commit ourselves to a way of life that's committed to justice and that we make the struggle for justice a part of our daily lives and not simply some annual ceremony."

Lowery later spoke to 623 citizens and officials at a luncheon here in King's honor. His theme was "come home black America."

The Post Chapel observed King's 52nd birthday with a special service that afternoon.

Secretary here goes to Israel

BY SKIP VAUGHN

A Redstone Arsenal secretary has been notified she was accepted for an 18-month tour as a secretary for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Israel.

Janet Dykes, who works for attorney Bob Gunter in the Missile Command's legal services division, was looking forward to the trip to Ovda, Israel. She applied for the GS-6 secretary slot last fall and was notified of her acceptance in December.

Dykes will be working for Col. Patrick Kelley, formerly of Redstone Arsenal, in the United States' project to build two air bases for the Israeli Air Force in the Negev desert.

The air bases are part of the United States' commitment to the historic April 1979 Peace Treaty between Israel and Egypt. The Army Corps of Engineers' Near East Project Office is the U.S. government's construction agent responsible for building the air bases.

"It's a long time away from home but I think it'll be exciting and an opportunity to travel," Dykes said. "I think it will also help me with my career."

She will be replacing a secretary who fulfilled her tour and returned to the United States.

Dykes has worked in the legal services division here for two years and was a GS-5 secretary. She plans to return here after her 18-month tour overseas.

"It's possible that you could extend for a period of time but this project will probably be at completion by then," she said. Both bases should be operational by April 25, 1982.

Dykes

Dykes was notified of her acceptance by the Washington Corps of Engineers on Dec. 11 and was awaiting the necessary paperwork. She said she understands her selection came from the Near East Project Office in Tel Aviv, Israel.

The Mississippi native who lives in Huntsville said she applied because "it sounded interesting."

How You Can Be a Diamond Investor:
Learn the facts

- 1. Fact: No one can predict which grade or size of diamond will appreciate fastest, over the short term. Over the long term, prudent results require a mix of all popular sizes of investment grade stones. Our firm has always recommended just such a "diamond estate" for serious asset investors.
- 2. Fact: Compare price for any specific diamond only when conversing with established gemological laboratories. Investors should select laboratories that guarantee their grading work in writing, with no disclaimers. Insist upon insurance protection from the seller. Beware of individual, so-called "diamond appraisers," providing eyeball opinions of a gemstone's quality or value. Such evaluations are often totally unreliable.
- 3. Fact: Ask for written track history of performance. Judge a diamond firm by its record with past customers. Sales personnel usually can provide such documentation. Our firm has processed many millions of dollars of profit-making resale transactions, to the full satisfaction of every account. Insist upon complete money-back satisfaction guarantee, always in writing.
- 4. Fact: Take the time to check on the company's references. The bank of the supplier and third-party credit references can tell you if the company's "claims" are true or false. This short investigation of perhaps two phone calls before the sale can prevent a lot of mishaps after the sale.
- 5. Fact: The greatest difficulty in making a diamond investment decision is in selecting a reputable supplier; an established firm. International Diamond has always been the right choice. Never an unresolved or unsatisfied relationship; and the industry's most experienced supplier. IDC is a full service direct importer of fine diamonds. Thousands of investment professionals represent only one diamond investment firm: IDC.

Have some fun. We invite you to learn more facts about diamond profit, diamond track history and the real story behind diamond price and grading.

Obtain literature and information by calling our friendly staff at our local diamond brokerage office.

Call today. We can promise you a deep commitment to diamond ethics and integrity and an expanding future as a valued IDC account.

Lucky picker goes 18-2

BY SKIP VAUGHN

Alabama's upset victory over Kentucky last week proved once again that there are several excellent teams around.

It also illustrates how unpredictable major college basketball is these days. Call it beginner's luck but this picker went 18-2 in his first try at picking winners in Division I NCAA basketball.

Major games this week include North Carolina against Wake Forest, and Ohio State against Virginia. This picker says Wake Forest and Virginia should triumph.

Here are this week's predictions for selected major college games:

Ohio State at Virginia (Jan. 25) — Virginia
 Vanderbilt at Kentucky (Jan. 24) — Kentucky
 DePaul at LaSalle (Jan. 24) — DePaul
 Louisiana State at Auburn (tonight) — LSU

North Carolina at Wake Forest (Jan. 22) — Wake Forest

San Francisco at Notre Dame (tonight) — N. D.

Tennessee at LSU (Jan. 24) — LSU
 Notre Dame at Maryland (Jan. 24) — N.D.

Illinois at Michigan (Jan. 22) — Mich.
 Mich. at Ohio State (Jan. 24) — Ohio State
 Mississippi State at Tenn. (tonight) — Tenn.

Arizona at Arizona State (Jan. 24) — State
 Va. Commonwealth at South Alabama (Jan. 22) — S. Ala.

Iowa at Indiana (Jan. 22) — Indiana
 Minnesota at Iowa (Jan. 24) — Iowa
 Wyoming at Brigham Young (Jan. 24) — BYU

Wisconsin at Illinois (Jan. 24) — Ill.
 Clemson at Duke (Jan. 24) — Duke
 Wyoming at Utah (Jan. 23) — Utah
 Alabama at Georgia (tonight) — Alabama
 Ala. at Florida (Jan. 24) — Ala.
 Ohio State at Minnesota (Jan. 22) — Minn.

All-Stars in win over Rockets

BY GREG KENDALL

A brilliant 40-point performance by forward Bobby Angel rallied the Huntsville All-Stars to a 96-85 win over the Redstone Rockets in a post-level basketball game here Saturday afternoon.

The Rockets, ahead by as many as 10 points in the first half, lost for the third time in four starts while the All-Stars improved their record to 5-2.

The Rockets started fast and zoomed to an early 35-25 lead behind the hot hand of guard Terry Adams, who scored 17 points in the first half and finished with a total of 35.

But Angel, averaging 38 points per game, had an even hotter hand. He scored 26 points, including five straight baskets near the end of the period, to help the All-Stars cut the margin to 45-43 at the half.

In the second half the two teams traded baskets until a jumper by Angel and a 3-point play by Barry Montgomery put the All-Stars on top, 56-53. With eight minutes left to play, Adams made a layup and sank a freethrow to tie the game at 73-73. Then the 6'4" Angel, who scored 76 points in one game earlier this season, made three key baskets as the All-Stars pulled out in front to stay.

"The Rockets have a good team," Angel said afterwards, "but I think they ran out of gas at the end."

Alpha beats 4th Student Company

BY GREG KENDALL

Center Terry Adams and guard Billy Smith combined for 45 points to pace Co. A Team I to a 79-63 victory over 4th Student Company Team I in basketball action here Jan. 13.

Entering the game, the two teams appeared to be evenly matched. Both had won seven games in a row and had lost only once, each to Co. B. Company A came in with the 2nd best record in the league, the 4th with 3rd best.

The win raised the Eastern Conference leader's record to 9-1 while the 4th dropped to 7-2.

In the early going the 4th stayed close and played to a 23-23 tie with 7:38 left in the first half. But the inside play of Adams, who scored 14 points in the period, and the outside shooting of Smith, who clicked for 16 more, proved to be too much for the 4th and they were outscored 23-10 and trailed 46-33 at the half.

Baskets by Isaac Varner and Orville Wilson brought the 4th within eight points at the start of the second period. However, Adams scored on a couple of whirling drives and then triggered numerous fast-break layups as Co A raced to a commanding 65-45 lead, from which the 4th never recovered.

Adams finished with 23 points and Smith added 22. Wilson led all scorers with 31 points.

Corps in close win, still undefeated

Alan Nelson led the undefeated Corps of Engineers to a close victory over Rachels last Thursday in Civilian Welfare Fund basketball.

Rachels led throughout the game before Nelson sank a jump shot with 42 seconds left to break a 54-54 tie. He then made the extra free-throw.

Nelson had 25 points in the Corps' 59-56 victory. A. C. Cheatum led Rachels with 21 points.

Finance and Accounting beat Missile Labs 74-67 to stay in a tie for second place. Dewayne

Kelly led F&A with 22 points to offset a CWF record scoring performance by Lloyd Brooks of Missile Labs who had 33 points.

Comptrollers, the other second place team, beat Product Assurance Directorate 68-35. Abdullah Muhammad led Comptrollers with 21 points while Charles Upshaw had 20 for PAD.

In other games last week, Procurement and Production beat PAD 37-36; Corps of Engineers beat Metrology 57-37; and Comptrollers beat Missile Labs 53-45.

Small claims

prohibits garnishment against military personnel except for alimony, child support and state and federal taxes.

"But if he (a soldier) has property in the state, they could attach to that property and seize it to satisfy the judgement," Smith said.

Collecting judgements is "the biggest problem in small claims court," he said.

Someone who wants to sue in small claims court starts by discussing the circumstances and the necessary papers with one of the small claims clerks.

The defendant in the case has 14 days from date of service in which to file an answer. If there is no answer, the defendant defaults, and the person who sued is allowed to go ahead and prove damages without a trial.

After an answer, the case is set for trial before Lutz or McCoy. The parties involved may wish to represent themselves without a lawyer in the simplified proceedings in which the judge asks several of the questions. Appeals to circuit court for a jury trial must be within 14 days of the judge's decision.

Some states do not allow lawyers in small claims court but Alabama offers that option.

Smith said the advisory committee, which meets monthly at Madison County Courthouse, is working on public awareness and may simplify a small claims instruction booklet.

The booklet by Alabama's Administrative Office of Courts in Montgomery is titled "The Who, When and How of Using the Small Claims Court in the State of Alabama." Copies are available in Smith's office at Bldg. 5250, Room C-262.

"Some states have much simpler booklets and we're examining the possibility of going with that in the future," Smith said.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED WHAT YOU CAN GET IN YOUR NEXT ENLISTMENT JUST BY ASKING.

If you've always wanted an assignment in Europe, but somehow the Army always had other plans for you, now you can make your own plans. You can reenlist for Europe. Or Korea. The Canal Zone. Hawaii. Alaska. Or, if you're serving overseas, a new duty station in the continental United States. And all you have to do is ask. One soldier who did is SP4 Ralph Cook, 3/68 Armor, Mannheim, Germany.

"Getting to Europe is something I always wanted. They work you harder here, but I do get to see a lot. I like the architecture. The customs. The people. I've been to Munich twice now, and the Oktoberfest is just madness. Really fun."

In your next enlistment, you could end up with a lot more than a new overseas assignment. Chances are pretty good you'll make more rank, earn more pay and move up in responsibility. So talk to your Reenlistment NCO. And find out exactly how far you can go in your next enlistment.

Dates: March 4-5, 1981
Time: 9-4:30 p.m. with registration at 8:30 a.m.
Location: Huntsville Hilton
Instructor: Steve Pettit
Course Fee: $195; includes course material & refreshments

Course Description

A knowledge of EDP is no longer a luxury for the office staff. Every day, administrative assistants and support personnel hear words like "batch processing", "on-line", "data base", and other big data processing terms. Yet in most cases, the jargon, the concepts, and the uses of EDP in your organization have little meaning for the staff members.

Here is a workshop that cuts through the mystique, strange sounding jargon and the complex equipment to help office support personnel take full advantage of the technology that has and will continue to change our environment ... the computer.

Instructor: Stephen W. Pettit

Is a principal in the firm Computer Knowledge. The firm specializes in the field of problem identification and consultation, providing assistance in the practical understanding and applications of computer technology in order to achieve timely and economically feasible business solutions.

His background of sixteen years in the computer industry includes experience in most disciplines in the business community. Most recently he was District Manager for Prime Computer, Inc., where he managed all marketing, support and administrative functions in an eight state southern area and the Caribbean. Prior to that he has held numerous management positions in the fields of data communications, turnkey systems houses, terminal organizations and a major computer mainframe vendor.

Stevens picked for first star

Col. Lynn Stevens, MICOM's Hawk Project Manager, was among 63 Army officers named Monday for promotion to brigadier general.

The 44 year old Blanding, Utah native came to Redstone in August 1980.

Stevens, who formerly commanded the 5th Ordnance Brigade in Germany, is a graduate of Utah State University and has a master's degree in business administration from the University of Utah.

He was assigned to Hawk as a captain in the early 1960s.

Stevens and his wife, Nedra, have three daughters.

NCOs get more tuition assistance

The Army has started offering increased tuition assistance to soldiers ranked E-5 and above with less than 15 years of service.

Those enlisted soldiers can receive 90 percent tuition assistance, provided the course did not start before last Dec. 15. Also, the servicemember must be eligible on the starting date of the course.

Army regulation 621-5 previously offered 75 percent tuition assistance. That available payment remains in effect for enlisted members grades E-4 and below, or E-5 and above with over 15 years in service.

"The purpose of tuition assistance is to develop your Army-military skill through civilian training, and also to support you if you're working towards a degree program," said Mary McGough, acting chief of Redstone's Army Education Division.

Tuition assistance is not paid for officers who have GI Bill educational benefits remaining.

The post-secondary academic or vocational-technical course must be related to a soldier's Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) or towards a degree-goal, McGough said.

For more information, phone the Army Education Center 876-2788 or 876-2844.

Real Estate Sales: Salary plus commission

Real estate agents of today are unique people. Their job is not just selling houses anymore. The agent becomes a personal friend of each client, somewhat of a banker to assist in finding the right financing plan and a strong public relations person who can deal with many different situations each day. Any top agent will tell you about the thrill and excitement they feel when solving a client's individual problems. They are happy with their job and find complete satisfaction knowing they are the best in their field. They also realize the tremendous earning potential available to them.

If you are one of these unique people who enjoy personal contact and thrive on challenge, Ben Porter offers you the perfect opportunity to discover the rewards in the real estate profession. You receive a complete training course in real estate, a salary plus commission to help you through the first few months and an above average opportunity for growth and success. 3 out of the 5 top agents in real estate last year were Ben Porter sales associates.

Call today for a personal interview and begin a career you can be happy in and make money.
