Retirement survey

A survey on whether workers agree or disagree with proposed changes to the federal retirement system is being conducted here by the civilian personnel office.

Workers in federal agencies have the chance to respond to changes proposed by Sen. Theodore Stevens (Repub.-Alaska).

"This is legislation that Senator Stevens has introduced and has indicated he will reintroduce in the next session of Congress," said Mary Merrill, of personnel's retirement office.

Worker responses are due at the personnel office by Dec. 3 and will be forwarded to higher headquarters, DARCOM, by Dec. 10. "We're doing (the survey) because DARCOM asked us to and I think it's a good opportunity for the employees too," Merrill said.

Sen. Stevens' bill would "establish a new retirement system to mandatorily cover all federal employees hired after the date of enactment of this legislation with the option to current federal employees to elect coverage under this new system," Stevens wrote. "This legislation, the Civil Service Pension Reform Act of 1982, will dramatically change the pension system for federal workers," he stated.

AER scholarships

Now is the time to apply for scholarships and loans through the Army Emergency Relief educational assistance program.

Applications should be sent to AER headquarters in Washington, D.C. by March 31, according to Juanita Phillips, Redstone's AER officer.

"If you have a child who is planning to attend college in the fall of '83 and desires AER assistance, you should have them pick up their forms now and have them sent to AER headquarters no later than March 31st," she said.

The program is for sons and daughters of active duty and retired military personnel. Eligible persons can receive as much as a $2,500 annual loan for their education.

"Now's the time for you to apply and application forms can be picked up at our building," said Phillips.

The AER office is located at building 3491. The telephone number is 876-5468/5397.

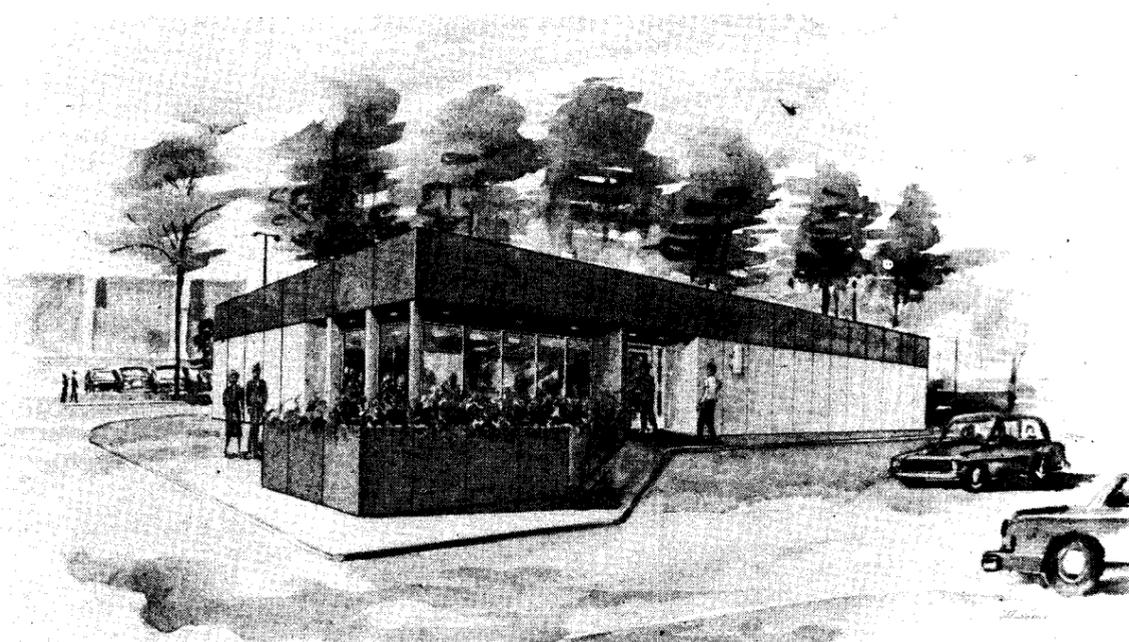

Tampering alert

WASHINGTON — According to the Food and Drug Administration, the best protection consumers can take against contaminated products is to "be alert to tampering."

The FDA recommends that consumers look for signs of tampering, such as broken seals, abnormal colors, unusual smells or anything else out of order. If you suspect that something has been tampered with, report it to the druggist, pharmacist or grocer.

"Until tamper-resistant packaging barriers are commonplace," FDA officials said, "being alert and observant is the best self-protection."

A degree of caution is advisable no matter how tamper-proof the packaging might be. The FDA warnings came in the wake of isolated cases of contamination that occurred after the poisoned capsules of extra-strength Tylenol surfaced in Chicago. (ARNEWS)

Educational opportunities abound for soldiers

BY SKIP VAUGHN

The Army Education Center here is observing American Education Week, Nov. 14-20, by sending out a questionnaire to permanent party military personnel.

"We're asking them to fill out a questionnaire telling us their education needs and it's very important that they return it to us," said Mary McGough, education services officer.

The 3,000 servicemembers are being surveyed particularly for their needs in the areas of computer science, electronics, management (technical, logistics and procurement) and also non-credit civilian short courses.

Survey results will be reported by the education center to Dr. Joseph Sutton of the Alabama Commission on Higher Education.

"I'll report to him what we have identified as the military education needs on this installation and he will let me know what state institutions have pro-

Open season preparations made

Open season for health insurance is scheduled for Nov. 22 through Dec. 10 here, according to the civilian personnel office.

The U.S. Army publications center in Baltimore was to begin shipment of brochures this week. The personnel office here will distribute them upon receipt to workers through their administrative offices.

"What we'll distribute to employees is the comparison chart and the other brochure that goes with it that has the rates," said Phyllis Partridge, a personnel management specialist.

There should be enough of these two booklets — The Enrollment Information and Plan Comparison Chart and the Biweekly List of Premium Rates for All Plans — to be distributed to all employees. The individual plan brochures, however, will have to be shared through administrative offices, Partridge said.

"There will not be enough of the individual plan brochures for each employee," she explained.

During open season, Department of Army policy is to permit representatives of health benefits carriers (upon their request) to address workers on the structure of their plans, benefits and methods of obtaining services.

Representatives of Blue Cross Blue Shield and Aetna health plans will conduct presentations on Thursday, Nov. 18 in the Rocket Auditorium. Aetna's presentation is scheduled for 10 a.m.; Blue Cross Blue Shield presentations are set for 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. The presentations will each last about 45 minutes.

A presentation on the AFGE Health Benefit plan has been scheduled for Nov. 23 at 1 p.m. in Rocket auditorium.

Workers will be advised as soon as other presentations are scheduled, the personnel office said.

During open season, federal employees and retirees can enroll in the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program, or change plans or options or type of enrollment.

Like to know

Editor:

I would like to know who is responsible for establishing quotas for minorities for duty performance awards and promotions? Also why are all personnel actions routed through EEO? I was of the opinion that they handled only the complaints of a discriminatory nature.

Robert E. Stinson
Security Guard

Editor's note: We passed your questions to CPO for answers. They responded this way:

"Affirmative Action goals and timetables are established within the Missile Command by the Commander with shared responsibility and input from managers and supervisors.

"Pertinent EEO laws and regulations assign EEO programs responsibility to heads of agencies and installations. The coordination of certain personnel actions that might adversely impact the Command's affirmative action program was a directive initiated under the commandship of General Donley and reaffirmed by his successors.

"The EEO Office responsibility of processing complaints of a discriminatory nature is only one of many responsibilities too numerous to enumerate. Further information regarding EEO Office responsibilities is outlined in 29 CFR (Code of Federal Regulations)."

You cared

Contributions are still being counted, but the bottom line for the 1983 Combined Federal Campaign is this:

At a time when help was needed most, federal workers here, military and civilian, set a record for voluntary giving.

The CFC campaign total will exceed $630,000, well above the goal of $600,000, far above the prior record. Individual participation increased this year. Most of the federal agencies in the campaign improved their performance from last year.

Things like this don't just happen. It took the individual efforts of those in each of the participating agencies who plan and direct the campaign and the hundreds of volunteers who do the solicitation.

Most of all, it took collective commitment on the part of federal workers throughout the area. There are problems that can be fixed with money if someone is willing to provide it. You did.

This remarkable accomplishment of the federal workers who heard the call and responded speaks for itself. By giving, sharing part of what you have with others, you have demonstrated again that you are compassionate, caring people.

Because you care, there are many men, women and children who can look at a brighter tomorrow. I know they would offer each of you their heartfelt thanks if they could. You certainly have mine.

Be proud of what you have done . . . and feel good about it.

No appreciation

Editor:

I would like to comment on some Supervisors' failure to recognize employees who perform work over and above their regularly assigned duties, for being exceptionally efficient on a special project, or for just doing an outstanding job. Many Supervisors do not realize just what a little appreciation or acknowledgement can do when it comes to "getting the job done". Most people like to feel that their work is important and that they're helping to attain accomplishment of a goal or mission. When we are acknowledged for a job well done, it tends to make us strive to continue to do a good job.

I was employed in an organization where I was one of three GS-4 Branch secretaries who performed the duties of a GS-5 Division secretary after a Directorate-wide reorganization (the GS-5 was finishing up a 120 day detail to a GS-7 position). This position was vacant approximately three months. The Branch secretaries were expected to handle any of the duties that were normally handled by the Division secretary. After two months of all three of us working together to "get the job done", the Director finally detailed me to the position for the remaining 30 days. I was then expected to perform the duties of the GS-5 as well as my regular duties as GS-4. Not a one of the secretaries who assisted the Division during this time received a Letter of Appreciation or an acknowledgement that they had done anything more than their regular duties.

Now don't get me wrong! I was glad of the opportunity to receive GS-5 level experience (even though it did me no good as far as official experience is concerned), but my efforts and those of the other two secretaries was beneficial to the Division and the Directorate. To receive nothing was very discouraging.

It's those Supervisors who acknowledge and appreciate the efforts of their employees that receive the most cooperation, assistance, and efficiency toward their organization's mission accomplishment.

3. A reply to this contradictory situation would be appreciated.

Name withheld on request

Editor's note: It is correct that "Improved" was dropped from the name and that the project office put out an announcement to that effect but in this command of some 9,000 people at least two didn't see it, the writer of the article and the editor of this newspaper. Thanks for the clarification.

Not 'Improved'

Editor:

1. The article in the Redstone Rocket of 3 Nov 82 entitled "Electronics Aptitude Standard Raised in 4 Missile MOS's" raises a question on the use of the term "Improved Hawk" since as of 20 Sep 82 the Hawk Project Office advised the MICOM community that this term was no longer desirable for the Hawk missile system.

2. Is the Missile and Munitions Center and School not part of the MICOM community? Was the demise of "Improved Hawk" premature?"

Correction

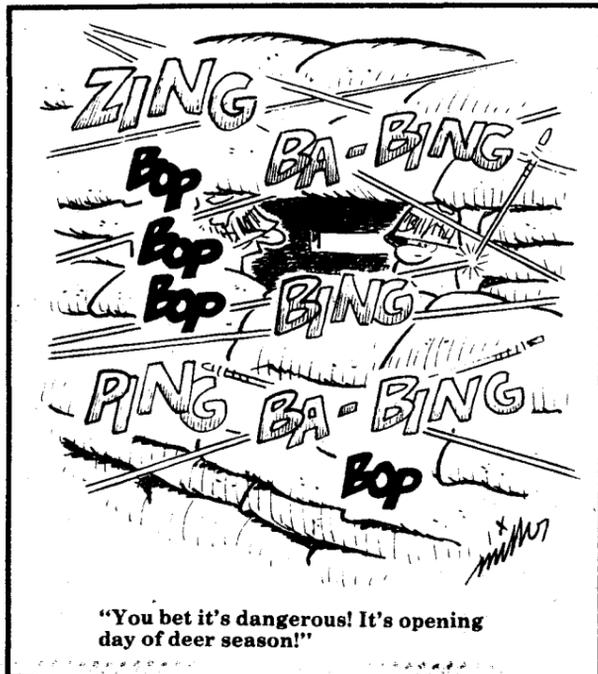

According to MICOM officials, the sick leave statistics from the civilian personnel office incorrectly stated the amount of sick leave used by the Historical Office in the Nov. 10 Rocket. The historical office's actual usage was 17 hours, officials said.

Bad checks decrease at PX

BY SKIP VAUGHN

Any bounced check is a problem but the number of dishonored checks at the Post Exchange here has been decreasing.

There were only 62 dishonored checks at the PX in October, compared to 127 in October 1981, the worst month for bad checks last year.

The fall is usually the worst time of year for dishonored checks because "a lot of people start putting things on layaway and writing checks," said Julia Harris, a retail operations supervisor at the PX.

"I'd say, due to the sales people do a lot of early shopping," she said of the pre-Christmas months.

The decrease in dishonored checks is reflected in her fiscal year statistics. For fiscal 1982 (Jan. 26 to Oct. 25), there were 855 dishonored checks totaling $37,806. The fiscal 1981 totals were 1,022 bad checks for $43,904.

Harris isn't sure what brought about the decline. "Well I really don't know unless the (military) companies have buckled down on getting them to pay," she said. "I believe the companies are probably down on them a little harder, threatening them with punishment of some sort."

The PX has collected on 756 of the 855 bad checks for fiscal 1982 for $32,115. It collected on 897 of the 1,022 bad checks for fiscal 1981 for $36,548.

Checks are usually returned to the PX from banks because there were insufficient funds in someone's account. This can be caused by a check writer making a deposit and writing a check before the money is posted to the account.

"I think at 2 o'clock is when (banks) close out their day and the deposits that are made after that, they're posted for the next day," Harris said. "Since we make deposits during the day, it causes them to go through their account before their deposit's posted. Of course we have some bank errors, (but) not really that many."

When a check returns from the bank, the battalion is notified and in turn tells the company first sergeant so that he or she can inform the individual. The PX then sends a dishonored check notice through company channels.

"If there's been no response within 10 days, the second notice is sent as well as a copy to the commanding officer (of the company)," Harris said. "Then if I still don't hear from (the individuals) I process a DD 139 authorization to take it from their pay."

The penalties for dishonored checks can be stiff. Two checks returned within a six month period may result in an automatic six-month suspension of the privilege of cashing checks at the PX. The penalty for an habitual offender may be a year's suspension.

There is also a $10 charge on every returned check. The charge and penalties would not be enforced if a returned check resulted from a bank or official's administrative error.

Harris has this advice for avoiding dishonored checks: Keep an extra amount in a checking account without logging it in and just spend the amount showing on the book.

"If they just keep up on their bookkeeping," she said. "Of course it's just human nature to make an error in adding and subtracting. I think a person to be safe should put an extra amount of money in their checking account."

Also, people need to take into consideration that banks normally have a service charge for each check they write, Harris added.

Her final advice for keeping a checking account?

"If you can't keep up with it, don't have one," she said. "Because it can be rather expensive."

BTC training planned here

BY MAGGIE CUMMINS

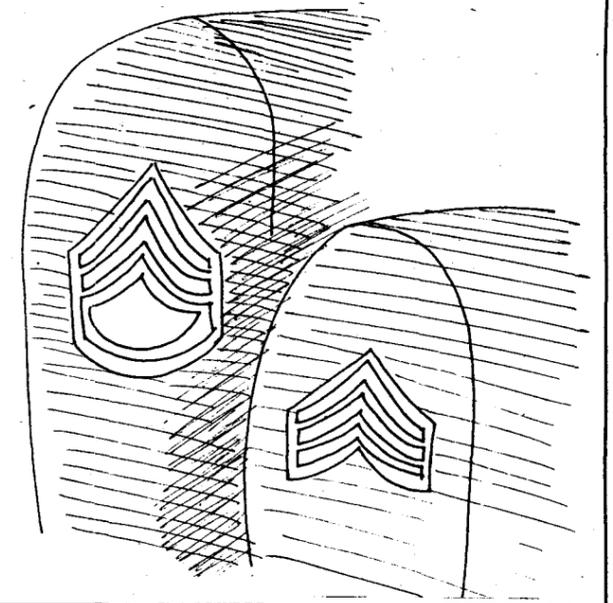

Basic Technical Courses (BTCs) for Ammunition Specialists MOS 55B30 and TOW/Dragon Repairers MOS 27E30 are proposed to begin in March 1983 at the Missile and Munitions Center and School. These courses will consist of both leadership and technical phases of training.

The BTC program is designed to meet the Army Training 1990 Action Plan that TRADOC has established to upgrade Army training and methodology. The primary concept is to "Train the Trainer" and to provide qualified noncommissioned officers in the field units to conduct training in the unit, since the NCO is the mainstay of Army training.

According to a letter from General Glenn K. Otis, TRADOC commander, the number one priority for the plan is to increase training and development of NCOs, both in active and reserve components. The Basic Technical Course program is part of the effort being implemented to meet that priority. The courses will train prospective skill level three NCOs in technical leadership, training, and management skills required to supervise and train soldiers in all aspects of their specialties.

The BTC concept will support modernization of present organizations, systems and equipment for fielding through a "readiness training" program. Additionally, the BTC program will enable NCOs to receive the necessary training and skills to support the Army through 1990.

Maj. Howard E. Miller, MMCS chief of course development said that BTC will enable units to upgrade training in the unit to a great extent. "The program will eventually be used by all of the MOSSs at MMCS with the exception of those being phased out before the 1990s," said Miller.

BMD contracts help small business

The Army's Ballistic Missile Defense Organization awarded $24.2 million in contracts to small businesses during the year ending Sept. 30, BMD officials said.

The total is a 33.8 percent increase over small business awards in fiscal 1981 by the organization's BMD Systems Command and BMD Advanced Technology Center, both headquartered in Research Park. BMD's contracts with small businesses have grown steadily over the past five years, with the 1982 total nearly three times what it was in fiscal 1978.

Companies in the Huntsville area garnered $42 million in contracts with the BMD Organization during fiscal 1982. Small business awards accounted for $10.2 million, or 24 percent, of that amount.

BMD currently has contracts with 29 Alabama companies, most of which are in the Huntsville area. Sixteen of the 29 are small businesses, again mostly in or near Huntsville.

The BMD Organization actively seeks small business bidders, as part of an effort to increase the number of small firms with capabilities in the field of ballistic missile defense technology.

Why should you donate blood?

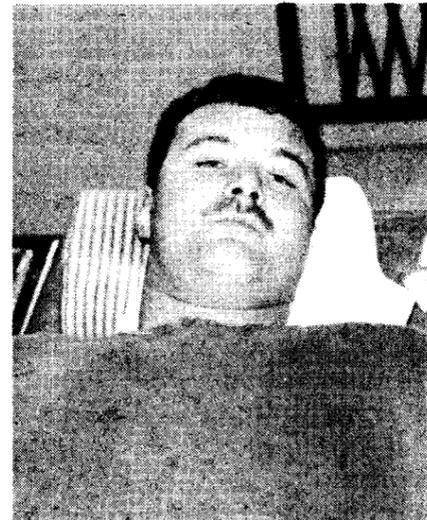

1st Sgt. Benjamin A. Corpening—515th Ord. Co.— In 1967, during the time I was in Vietnam, I needed blood and I think there are thousands of others that are in the same category that need it on a daily basis. It makes me feel good to know that the blood was available as, I'm sure, it did others.

Capt. George C. Escher—515th Ord. Co.— I have a personal reason why people should donate blood. During the second World War, my uncle passed away due to the lack of blood. My father volunteered to donate blood for my uncle but he had the wrong blood type and had to watch his brother die. Also during my tour in Vietnam, I saw a number of human lives saved due to the availability of blood but still needless deaths occurred because of the shortage of blood. It's a moral and social obligation for humanity and transcends all ethnic and racial differences.

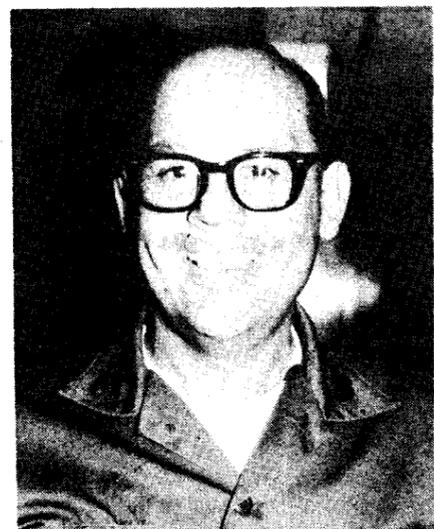

PFC Sheila Bannerman—515th Ord. Co.— I give blood because you may never know whose life you may save. Then in turn, who may save your life by donating one pint of blood.

Sp5 Greg B. Maier—515th Ord. Co.— To help other people out that might need it.

1st Lt. John F. Rickling—515th Ord. Co.— The reason I give blood is because the few who do donate make up for all those who are too selfish to concern themselves with the welfare of others.

CWO 2 John G. Zach—515th Ord. Co.— I believe it's an effort that all should partake in to help his fellow man.

Compensation statements due in December

WASHINGTON — The forthcoming total value compensation statements, to be issued by the U. S. Army Finance and Accounting Center, should be in the hands of soldiers beginning in December, and not in November as earlier reported.

Officials at the finance center, which is located at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., said that soldiers will receive the statements through their units, in the same manner that they receive their monthly leave and earnings statements.

Finance center officials have also sought to clarify the purpose of the final portion of the total value compensation statement. In that portion, there is space for each soldier to estimate the value of things like commissary and exchange privileges, education programs, recreational activities and space-available travel.

The monetary value of these benefits will, of course, differ from soldier to soldier, depending on availability of facilities and each soldier's personal preference. However, by filling out the final portion of the compensation statement, you should have a better idea of what these benefits are worth to you. Finance center officials stressed, however, that you are not required to complete this portion of the form or return it to any agency or activity. The information is strictly for your own use.

Meanwhile, the Army's office of the deputy chief of staff for personnel said that the U. S. Congress has not indicated any intention to provide soldiers with extra pay or allowances when military facilities are not used or are not readily available. (ARNEWS)

Candidate course for warrant officers

WASHINGTON — Beginning Nov. 30, soldiers in grades E-5 and E-6 who apply to become ordnance warrant officers will automatically be considered for a new ordnance warrant officer candidate course.

or automotive repair technicians (MOS 630A).

Soldiers in grades E-7 through E-9, plus former commissioned officers, who apply to become ordnance warrant officers will continue to be considered for direct appointments. Soldiers in grades E-5 and E-6 who apply before Nov. 30 will be considered for both direct appointment and the candidate course. (ARNEWS)

WHAT IS KEEPING YOU FROM BUYING ONE OF THE MOST COMPREHENSIVE HEALTH INSURANCE PLANS AVAILABLE TO GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES?

...JUST A FEW CENTS A DAY!

Now, during Open Season, you may purchase one of the most comprehensive medical and dental insurance plans for yourself and family—the Postmasters Benefit Plan. Although it costs a few cents a day more than the government's most popular plan, the benefits don't begin to compare. Let's look at a couple of examples:

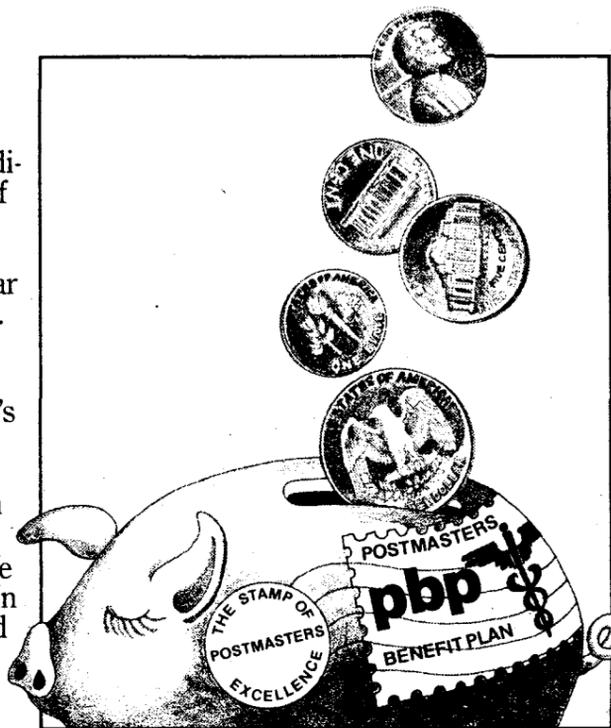

Example 1—The Postmasters Benefit Plan provides full coverage for physician's services for out-patient surgery and accidental injury care, if received within 72 hours. The competition's high option plan just reduced their benefits to 80%!

Example 2—Your child needs braces. We offer orthodontic treatment. They don't! In fact what other plan does? And you'll find that our dental benefits far surpass our competition's.

Dollar-for-dollar we think the Postmasters Benefit Plan provides the best protection. To convince yourself, look at some of the highlights of our high option coverage.

BASIC MEDICAL BENEFITS

- Hospital Confinement
Pays all hospital charges in full for up to 365 days in ward, semi-private, intensive care or extended care facilities. $25 daily deductible for first five days of confinement.
- Surgery and Anesthesia—No Deductible
Pays 100% of reasonable and customary charges for surgery, when confirmed by a second opinion, and anesthesia; 80% for listed non-emergency surgery when need is not confirmed by a second opinion (see plan brochure).
- Out-of-Hospital—No Deductible
Pays 80% of covered charges up to $1,000 per person per calendar year (physical, speech and occupational therapy; diagnostic testing). When expenses exceed $1,000, they will be covered by Supplemental Benefits.
- Pre-admission Diagnostic Testing—No Deductible
Pays reasonable and customary charges in full.
- Out-Patient Cancer and Dialysis Treatment—No Deductible
Pays reasonable and customary charges in full.

- Emergency First Aid—No Deductible
Pays charges for non-surgical out-patient treatment in full within 72 hours of accident.
- Orthopedic and Prosthetic Devices
Pays reasonable and customary charges in full up to $300 per person in a calendar year. Amount in excess is covered by Supplemental Benefits.
- Maternity
Pays same benefits as any other illness or injury.

SUPPLEMENTAL MEDICAL BENEFITS

No Lifetime Maximum
Plan pays 80% of eligible expenses (50% for out-patient treatment of mental/nervous condition), after a $200 deductible. These include charges not paid in full by the Basic Medical Benefits, in addition to expenses for chiropractic treatment, out-patient doctor visits, prescription drugs, allergy treatments and injections.

- Catastrophic Provision—No Lifetime Maximum
In a calendar year, if out-of-pocket expenses, excluding deductibles, exceed $1,000 a person ($2,000 per family under Self and Family Coverage), the Plan pays 100% of eligible expenses incurred during the rest of calendar year.

DENTAL BENEFITS

- 80% for routine oral examinations
- 60% for Orthodontic Care after one full calendar year of continuous enrollment
- After the deductible ($60, except for the first full calendar year enrolled it is $100), the Plan pays for Dental Care and Denture Replacement:
 - 50% until enrolled for one full calendar year
 - 70% during second full calendar year of enrollment
 - 80% during third full calendar year and subsequent years of enrollment

Cave photographer takes first-place picture

BY SKIP VAUGHN

SFC Philip Winkler has been taking pictures in caves for about 20 years but had never entered a photo contest before.

The medical technologist at Fox Army Community Hospital entered a color slide into the post photo contest in September and won first place in the color transparencies (experimental) group. The slide went on to win an honorable mention in the All-Army photo contest at Carlisle Barracks, Pa. in October.

"I was pleased that a photograph of a cave scene won a prize or an honorable mention since the majority of the photography I do is in caves," said Winkler, NCOIC of Fox Hospital's department of pathology. "And also the fact that it wasn't a planned photograph. I was surprised at how it came out."

He shot the picture, entitled "The Cave Beyond," during a five-day expedition in a cave in Switzerland known as Holloch. "And that cave is remarkable in that it's the fourth longest cave in the world, I think," Winkler added.

His own shadowed image appears several times in the picture because he held the flash while the camera sat on a tripod. He changed his position to get a multiple exposure effect.

"The shutter was actually open maybe 10 minutes but the only exposure on it was the four flashes," said Winkler. "So you got an image on an image on an image."

Winkler uses a 35mm Canon rangefinder with a regular electronic strobe or flash bulbs. "The unique thing about cave photography is that the photographer provides all the light," said the avid caver.

His winning slide will compete against other Army and Air Force pictures in interservice photo competition at Shaw Air Force Base, S.C. in December.

This accomplishment is a first for Redstone Arsenal, according to Diane Gilliam, director of the Multi-Crafts Center here. "We've had stuff go to the All-Army before but we've never had anything place and go to the interservice contest," she said.

Education

grams that could fit what we need," McGough said. "And then we will prepare a contract solicitation to request proposals be submitted to provide programs for military."

The education center here, part of the worldwide Army continuing education system, already offers several programs. It serves active duty servicemembers, retirees and their family members.

The center's college program includes Tuition Assistance and the Veterans Education Assistance Program. Enlisted active duty servicemembers in grades E-5 and above, who have not begun their 14th year of service, can get 90 percent tuition assistance. Other enlisted, warrant officer and officer personnel can get 75 percent of tuition costs or lab fees under the tuition assistance program.

VEAP is a "voluntary, contributory program where the government matches $2 for every dollar contributed by the active duty servicemember," said McGough. The soldier's investment can go up to $2,700 and the maximum total of the government's and soldier's contribution would be $8,100.

"This (VEAP) program is for soldiers to prepare for educational costs upon termination of active duty service although it can be used for active duty soldiers upon completion of their first tour of obligation," McGough said.

Besides the college program, the center offers programs in apprenticeship, testing, pre-separation, basic skill education, and language. It also provides a professional counseling service and an MOS reference library-learning center.

The apprenticeship program, under SFC Wanda Starling and SSgt. Robert Busbee, provides documentation of a servicemember's military experience to achieve apprentice status.

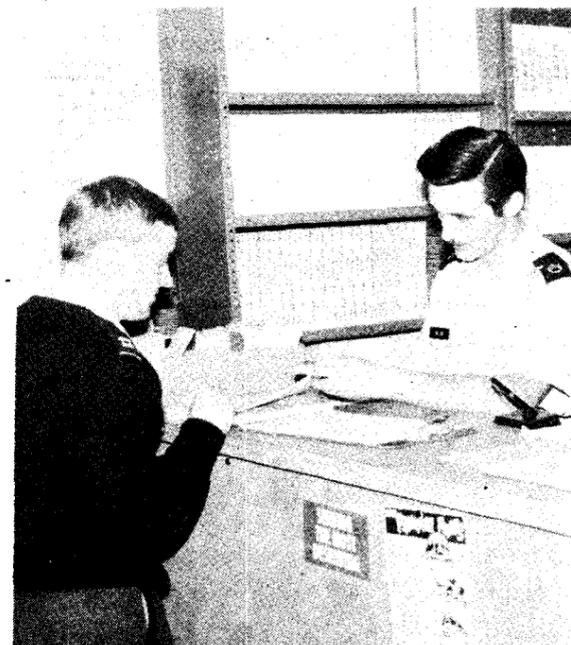

Testing can diagnose learning disabilities in the areas of math and language arts. The testing program also offers tests to attain college credit and tests to find a person's vocational interests and aptitude as part of the career counseling process. "Tuition assistance and the proficiency testing program are only for active duty servicemembers," McGough said.

Pre-separation briefings are conducted once a month to assist soldiers in making the transition from active duty service to civilian life.

"The Basic Skills Education Program is a huge program here," McGough said. "This is the commander's primary on duty education program designed to provide remedial help in math, reading and writing. The goal of the program is to get every soldier functioning in these three areas above the ninth grade level."

The language program consists of a German Headstart program for active duty military, family members and civilians preparing to go to Germany. The center has also ordered language refresher materials which will be available for check out at the MOS reference library.

"Of course I think one of the greatest services we provide here is our professional counseling service," said McGough. Counselors are available to assist soldiers in achieving their educational goals.

The MOS library and learning center provides reference and training materials for every military occupational specialty at Redstone. There are an estimated 800,000 volumes, and 54,000 more training extension course (TEC) lessons are expected, according to SSgt. Robert Miller, NCOIC.

The library and learning center was to begin moving this week from the education center building (3222) to the old Marine day room (3324). The move across the street will probably take several days.

Statistics show the education center does help. By the end of fiscal 1982, 100 percent of the officers here either had a degree or were in a program working to get a degree; 91 percent of the warrant officers have achieved an associate degree; and 98 percent of the enlisted personnel have a high school diploma or equivalent.

This is an improvement from the end of fiscal 1981 when the figures were 99 percent officers; 67 percent warrant officers; and 96 percent enlisted personnel.

People should come to the center "to obtain professional assistance and support in continuing their educational development in support of their military career," McGough said.

"Without the support of the commanders and the senior NCO's, our program would be nothing and we have fine support."

Company A wins football championship

BY HARRY SARLES

Company A quarterback William Kelly teamed up with his favorite receiver Rayfus Davis for two touchdowns and a two-point conversion and Henderson McKenzie added two touchdowns on the ground as Company A beat the 95th Service Company 28-0 to take the Redstone Arsenal Flag Football Championship game Nov. 9.

Company A scored a touchdown and two-point conversion with less than five minutes gone in the game and added another just four minutes later to lead 14-0 with 11:07 left to play in the first half.

Davis opened the scoring with a 15-yard touchdown reception. McKenzie added the two-point conversion and it was 8-0 in favor of the eventual champions.

The 95th was unable to move the ball on their first possession and had to punt from near midfield. That punt cost the 95th as Robert Young fielded the ball for Company A near his goal line and raced the length of the field before being downed at the 95th two yard line. Company A turned that break into their second touchdown on a run by McKenzie.

The rest of the half was a defensive game until Kelly connected on a 50-yard scoring pass to Davis with only eight seconds left giving Company A a 20-0 halftime lead.

Opening the second half the 95th moved the ball deep into Company A territory before being thwarted by Company A's goal-line defense. The two teams battled between the 20-yard lines for most of the second half. With 2:32 left in the game Company A scored on a 48-yard run by McKenzie. A Kelly-to-Davis pass added the final two points to make the score 28-0.

Following the game Col. Robert A. Parsons, deputy post commander, presented trophies to the champions and runners-up in tournament and regular season play.

In addition to receiving the post championship trophy Company A was the runner-up in the East Conference. HHC MICOM was the champion of the East Conference and Company B topped the West Conference. The 515th Ordnance Company was the runner-up in the West Conference.

The 95th won their way to the championship game by defeating the 4th Student Company 24-12 in the loser's bracket semi-final game the previous night.

Company A quarterback William Kelly leans back to throw a long pass against the 95th Service Company. Kelly threw for two touchdowns and a two-point conversion in the 28-0 victory.

Pony Express ride over Razorbacks predicted

BY SKIP VAUGHN

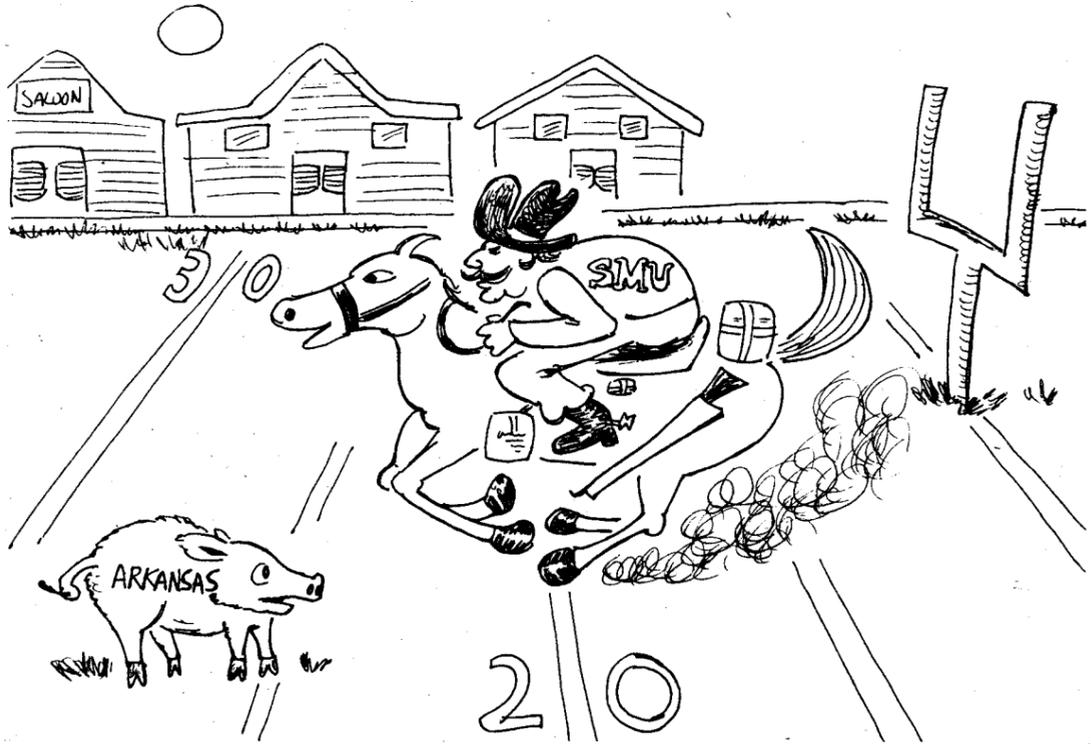

The SMU Pony Express should ride again this weekend.

Southern Methodist University's Mustangs will put their undefeated record on the line against the tough Arkansas Razorbacks. They possess two powerhouse tailbacks, Eric Dickerson and Craig James, known as the "Pony Express."

Among their 10 victims are Texas 30-17 and Texas A&M 47-9. Last year the Mustangs beat Arkansas 32-18 and they should repeat the feat this year. It'll probably be a lot closer, however.

Skip's Picks last week delivered a 24-6 record, upping the season totals to 225-68-8 for 77 percent. Here's this week's forecast of selected games in upper level, college football:

- Notre Dame at Air Force — N.D. by 13
- Texas at Baylor — Texas by 17

Good conduct medal

WASHINGTON — Military personnel officials here are taking steps to insure that qualified soldiers receive the good conduct medal before leaving the Army.

Department of the Army officials have been notified that many soldiers are reporting to separation transfer points without orders awarding them the good conduct medal. Soldiers who meet the criteria (outlined in AR 672-5-1) are authorized to receive the award up to 30 days before departing their units.

The Army is urging personnel actions specialists, personnel officers and unit commanders to take steps to insure that soldiers eligible for the medal receive it before leaving the Army. (ARNEWS)

Check these items before shipping car

WASHINGTON — The Military Traffic Management Command has compiled a list of things that most frequently cause soldiers to fail auto inspections in Germany.

If you're planning to ship an auto to Germany, you may want to pay attention to the following items before turning in your car at the U.S. port:

—Tires: all tires must have at least 1mm of tread over the entire surface. Also: snow tires must be on the drive wheels, radials and conventional tires cannot be mixed and retreads are not allowed.

—Exhaust system: no rusted or leaking exhaust system components; no systems with cutouts or fiberglass packing; and no "straight-through" exhaust systems are allowed.

—Brakes: hand brakes must hold the auto on inclines. Wheel brakes, as measured on a brake wheel drag machine, must not mismatch each other by more than 20 percent.

—Wheel alignment: tie-rod and steering arm assemblies must not be damaged or worn. Inspectors must be able to turn wheels fully to the left or right without them rubbing any part of the car.

—Lights: all lights must be operational.

—Modifications: not allowed are body styles that leave an engine uncovered, bumpers not to manufacturer's specifications, and tires that protrude beyond the fender wells.

MTMC officials also said that motorcycles may not be modified in such a way that the center of gravity is different from that established by manufacturer.

If you're shipping an auto or motorcycle to Germany, you can contact the installation transportation office for more information. (ARNEWS)
