Improvements suggested for shuttle bus system

BY SKIP VAUGHN

A shuttle bus system here provides a means of free transportation on Redstone during weekdays.

The nine-passenger van, used mainly by soldiers, follows an hourly route to such places as the Post Exchange and the Troop Health Clinic. "It's a good service," said R.V. Wall, chief of the equipment pool section which provides the shuttle under motor pool one.

"I think it's a quick service, an efficient service, and it saves time. You can't beat it," he said.

A survey by two soldiers, however, found that the system is under-utilized and made suggestions for improvement. Their recommendations included publication of a regular schedule, adherence to the schedule, and marking stops with a bus-stop sign to include a schedule and route.

The survey resulted from a request by the post commander, according to Capt. Carl Johnson, School Brigade supply and logistics officer. Johnson surveyed the school's 1st Battalion while 2nd Lt. Archie Wilmer, 8th Student Company executive officer, surveyed 2nd Battalion.

"We surveyed it for one month in September and the average number of people using the shuttle bus on a daily basis was 33," Johnson said. "Basically people didn't know about it... or didn't know where the bus would stop, when it stopped, or that the bus didn't arrive when it was supposed to."

At any given time there are nearly 1,000 enlisted soldiers in the school brigade and most are young troops here for training. Most of these young soldiers, here for two months to a year, do not have transportation, Johnson said. "That's one of the reasons (the shuttle bus system) was set up, to give them a little better way to get around."

Lt. Wilmer, besides suggesting a more rigid schedule for the shuttle, recommends that two buses be used instead of one. One bus would start out at the top of the hour and the second would start at half past the hour.

"You wouldn't be waiting so long at one facility,"

NINE-PASSENGER VAN serves as shuttle bus through troop area on weekdays.

Wilmer said. "Right now it's a one-hour turnaround time, depending on where you are."

The major problem with the present system is "the time factor," according to Wilmer. He also suggests that the bus run longer in the day instead of ending around 5 p.m. after starting about 7:30 a.m.

Wall, the equipment pool chief, said the bus runs its route every hour on the hour. "All you have to do is be at the designated stops and each company orderly room should have a schedule on their bulletin board," he said.

"In case other information is needed, please contact Mr. Carl Pack (who heads motor pool one) at 876-2261/2262," Wall added.

Soldiers select the items they'd like to see on sale

BY SKIP VAUGHN

The Post Exchange here has a list of items its shoppers would like to see on sale before Christmas as the result of a cost-cutting tour last Thursday.

A group of soldiers, some accompanied by their wives, pointed out to PX officials what items they would like to see on sale.

The Army and Air Force Exchange Service has $12 million that it's providing for bonus specials for soldiers worldwide, according to Robert Davis, PX manager here. He accompanied the 10-member group on Thursday's tour in the store.

"I can get whatever funds are needed to give special price reductions on various categories of merchandise," Davis said. "I have received an additional $50,000 for the month of November."

Sales in the store started in October and will continue until Christmas. Discounts have been averaging from 10 to 50 percent off on selected items, according to Davis. He said last Thursday's promotion "has been well received by our soldiers and customers and I have received favorable comments based upon the promotions."

MICOM CSM Harvey Kahl also accompanied the group through the store. He and other sergeants/major on post had selected soldiers to represent units.

"Normally we always have an after Christmas sale.

This year we want to have a before Christmas sale to give something back to the soldier," Kahl said. He joked that the only thing Davis can't mark down is diamonds. "And the whole objective of the thing is to better serve our soldier and the quality of life which I'm indeed concerned with. All that helps make the Redstone/Huntsville community a better place to be for our soldiers."

As the group went through the store, 21 items were listed by Dorothy Naus, sales and merchandise manager at the PX. "Mr. Davis and I will review this list to make a determination of the percentages we can mark down then they will be selected and publicized," she said. Officials indicated that the discounts would start this week. Within four or five weeks the selected merchandise should have been on sale, Naus said.

Items picked by the group varied from fishing and

Hawk in Egypt performs well

Hawk has successfully completed a second firing exercise in Egypt.

That word comes from Cairo where the Egyptian 2nd Brigade fired eight missiles recently to complete initial firings for them with the Army's low to medium altitude plane killer.

Jerry Williams of the Hawk project office said the firings were successful and that the Egyptian air defense commander, Lt. Gen. El Sayed Hamd, thanked the entire Hawk team for their excellent and continuous support.

In addition to MICOM and Hawk project office, the team includes the Hawk Egypt field office in Cairo, led by Maj. Harold Zak, a Technical Assistance Field Team from TRADOC, and contractors including Raytheon, Litton and ICSD.

Williams said the team provided assistance and advice during the firings.

Additional firings are planned early next year.

Hawk is deployed worldwide with the U.S. Army and Marines, within NATO, and has been purchased by numerous foreign countries.

Col. John Drosdeck is the Army's Hawk project manager at Redstone. Williams is Chief of the Egypt section, under Hawk's assistant project manager for international programs, Marcelo Lara.

Job well done

Editor:

With the 1984 Combined Federal Campaign at a close, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all RASA chairpersons, monitors, solicitors, and contributors for a job well done. No goal was set for RASA, but with fewer personnel, this year's contributions exceeded last year's. You in RASA demonstrated your unselfishness and willingness to help those less fortunate than we. An article in the Oct. 26 Rocket was distressing to some RASA employees when the article indicated a dollar donation was not caring and sharing. I totally disagree and thank you for all donations which were greatly appreciated. Thanks RASA for caring, you have reason to be proud.

Giving was giving

Editor:

I would like to extend a hearty "hurray" to Ms. Carla M. Nolan on her comment, "Dollar Donations" (Letters Nov. 2)

I have always been active in raising funds for charitable organizations (i.e. March of Dimes, Cancer Society, United Kidney Foundation, etc.) and have always been thankful for even the smallest donation. I am a firm believer in the old aphorism "Giving is Caring."

I contributed to CFC and through reiterating CFC's campaign purpose and goal, persuaded my co-workers to donate as well. Their reasons for contributing may have been different from my own but in that instance, giving was giving!

I think that Ms. Peggy Burns failed to realize in her efforts, that her role in the CFC campaign was not to offend potential donors, but to help CFC obtain their goal. I was delighted to read that, in spite of Ms. Burns comments, CFC's donations exceeded $650,000, surpassing its original goal by more than $29,000.

I would like to commend the Redstone/Huntsville area for the overwhelming success of the CFC drive. You made it all possible.

Hooray for kids

Editor:

In October I was privileged to judge an event in the "11th Annual Space City Forensic Classic", sponsored by our local Virgil I. Grissom High School, Forensic Society.

The event was called "Original Oratory", the children participating were from sophomore through senior class (14 to perhaps 17). Five youngsters, one from Huffman, one from Homewood (Birmingham schools), one from Gulfport, Mississippi, and two from Henry County, Tenn., a mix of 3 girls and 2 boys. The point spread on my sheet was very narrow between the one selected "best" and the one judged "least". One key point—every one of them was a winner.

And, add a point. We hear so much "bad", we read so much about the excesses of the upcoming generation that we expect to see less than they display to us. The clear eyes, animation of expression, desire to strive and succeed, good grammar, polite deportment, no outlandish dress styles—the young people I saw and their supporters were good examples of what we older people consider 'the finest stock', talking about people as though they were animals.

As a judge I can attest to their expertise, clearness of thinking, modes of expression, grammar, politeness and overall charm. Their grammar was especially good and agreeable to my ear.

The next generation is "on board", doing well, and should be supported by all of us, as we were supported by our parents and grandparents. I think that they are outstanding.

Hooray for the Kids!

Petition candidates

Editor:

The following schedule of events is noted for the upcoming credit union elections:

1. Nov. 7—Deadline for petition candidates petition submitted to the Secretary, Board of Directors, RFCU.

2. Nov. 12—At least 75 days before the annual meeting, the Secretary, Board of Directors, RFCU will mail to all eligible voting members a brief statement of qualifications and biographical data for the petition candidates.

3. On or about Dec. 16, all other material and ballot (to complete voting process) will be mailed to members.

The receipt of items 2 and 3 above should make all members knowledgeable of the RFCU Board members selection process.

Because of the tight time table as printed in the October 1983 "The Counselorette", nominations by petitioners to qualify (the undersigned) as candidates were overwhelmingly responsive in spite of the requirement to divulge individual account numbers on the petitions.

Too much light

Editor:

Recently, I passed by the baseball fields on Goss Road and noticed new light poles ready to be installed, presumably to put in new lights. Has anyone stopped to think how much energy this will waste? Or how this extra light will effect the family housing area? Perhaps the people installing the lights should try to get to sleep with those things blazing into their bedroom window. And its all a waste! If there's a need for more games, how about rescheduling, or building more fields? Isn't it about time we used our resources wisely, instead of squandering them wasting energy and keeping children awake?

The very best

To all military personnel and federal workers:

I hope everyone feels as good as I do about this year's Combined Federal Campaign.

This was my first opportunity to chair the Huntsville area campaign. The campaign met its goal and went beyond. This to me, is a source of satisfaction and pride in the people who made it possible.

Federal military and civilian workers in this community have a tradition of generosity that parallels the record of solid achievement that has made the Huntsville, Ala. team world famous. I thank you for keeping that tradition another year. It is yet another manifestation of your collective commitment to being the very best in everything you undertake.

This year's goal, $625,000, was the largest in the history of the area campaign. Our final campaign total will be near $700,000.

I am honored to have been your campaign chairman during this outstanding achievement. As I knew you would, you responded with genuine care and concern when you were once again called upon to help.

I am well aware that these are not the best of times for the federal work force. I am most gratified that we did not allow our concerns in this area to get in the way of our concern for those who are depending on our help as never before; that donations in this campaign reached an all time high says a lot, in my judgement, about the priorities of the Federal team in Huntsville. Let us feel good about our accomplishment.

Disposal firm indicted, had Redstone contracts

A hazardous waste disposal firm that did work for Redstone Arsenal and other military activities has been indicted on federal charges of mishandling toxic polychlorinated biphenyl.

A federal grand jury in Jacksonville, Fla. indicted American Electric Corp. of that city and the president and former vice president of the corporation on 24 counts of mishandling PCB collected from 70 military installations in 25 states.

PCB is an oily substance believed to cause cancer and its handling and disposal has become tightly regulated in recent years. It was once commonly used in electrical transformers as a fireproofing and insulating component.

American Electric was hired by Redstone Arsenal to perform clean-up and disposal of PCB oil when a transformer failed here in December 1980.

The corporation was paid a total of $23,700 to dispose of the transformer and contents and to remove PCB oil from pavement and the wall of a building where it was sprayed through a relief valve when the transformer overheated.

The indictment of American Electric Corp. and its officials stemmed from a three-year investigation by federal and Jacksonville officials.

Command makes key staff changes

Col. George T. Shepherd has been named to succeed Col. Malcolm R. O'Neill as MICOM Chief of Staff in one of several new assignments announced here Monday within the Army family at Redstone and Huntsville.

Shepherd has served at Redstone since October 1981 as Commander of the Army Test, Measurement and Diagnostic Equipment Support Group.

O'Neill will assume new duties as Project Manager for the Multiple Launch Rocket System replacing Col. August M. Cianciolo who has left for a new assignment as Deputy Director of Materials, Plans and Programs, in the Office, Deputy Chief of Staff for Research, Development and Acquisition in Washington. Cianciolo has been nominated for promotion to brigadier general.

Shepherd's replacement in TMDE will be Col. Jim Edge who comes here from DARCOM where he was executive officer to Brig. Gen. William E. Potts, Director for Readiness.

Col. Carl C. Neely, Jr., has been selected Project Manager for MICOM's new Joint ATM Project Office. He formerly served with Patriot as assistant project manager for readiness.

Details of the new assignments and effective dates have yet to be completed.

The indictment included felony charges of mail fraud and making false statements to the Defense Department and presenting a false claim to the U.S. government. It also included a variety of misdemeanor charges of mislabeling wastes before disposal.

In House subcommittee hearings in August American Electric was alleged to have illegally dumped large amounts of PCB it had contracted with the Defense Department to dispose of by approved methods.

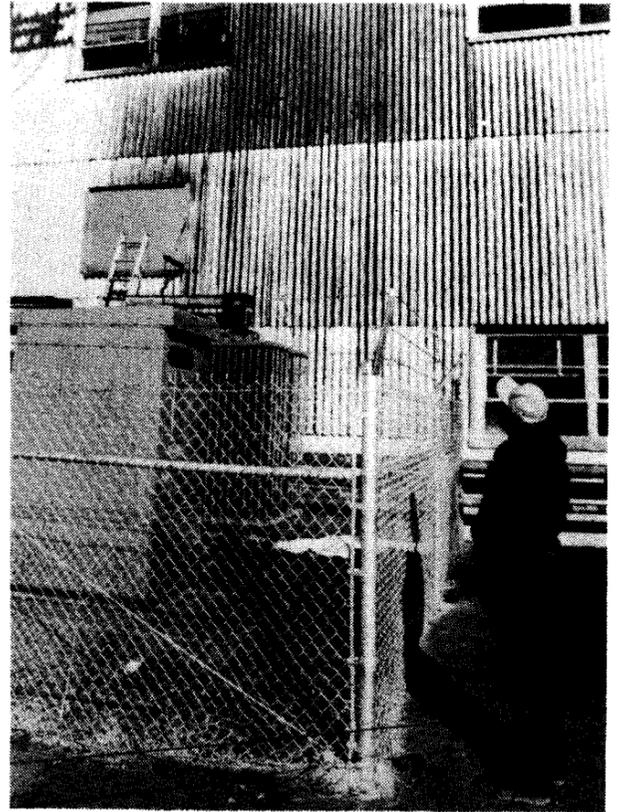

At one point some 25,000 gallons of PCB waste picked up by the firm under a Defense Property Disposal Service contract was unaccounted for.

During the subcommittee hearings Rep. Mike Synar (D-Okla.), chairman of the House government operations environment, energy and natural resources subcommittee, criticized the Defense Department for not investigating waste disposal firms or following up to see if wastes were disposed of properly.

American Electric listed as one of its licensed disposal sites the Greensboro, Ala. home of its indicted vice president B. Michael Hamm.

In December 1980 the firm received $9,500 from the Army at Redstone for cleanup and disposal fees and for transporting the damaged transformer to Jacksonville for repair.

It later notified the Army that the transformer could not be fixed and was paid another $14,200 in May 1982 for disposal of the contaminated transformer and its contents of over 600 gallons of PCB oil.

TRANSFORMER FAILED in December 1980, spewing PCB oil onto NASA building 4708 and surrounding pavement. Redstone Arsenal paid American Electric Corp. $23,700 to clean up the toxic material.

Marines render honors for Beirut blast victim

Redstone Marines performed burial honors last week for a fellow Marine killed during the Beirut bombing on Oct. 23.

According to Capt. Scott G. Dukes, officer in charge of the inspector and instructor staff here, about 30 Marines participated, including local detachment personnel, reservists and others.

The funeral honors were performed for Maj. William E. Winter, son of a Limestone County couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Winter of Harvest, Ala.

The graveside service was held at 10 a.m. at the Athens City Cemetery in Athens. Officiating was Frank Sells, a pastor from Beaufort, S.C. where Winter's widow resides.

Senior escort for Mrs. Winter was Col. Jim Livington, chief of operations and training for the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at Parrish Island, S.C.

In keeping with the tradition of the ceremony, flags of the United States were presented to the widow and to Winter's mother by Dukes.

Eight Marines served as body bearers. Eight officers including one Army officer who was a personal friend served as pall bearers. There was also an eight-man firing detail; a four-man color detail and a bugler. The widow's father who is a retired Marine was also present.

Dukes stated that the ceremony was impressive because of sheer numbers and because it was well-planned and professionally executed.

Pershing veterans form fraternal group

A group calling itself the Association of Pershing Professionals is being organized for people now or formerly associated with the Pershing missile system.

The group's purpose is to allow some 35,000 soldiers and civilians who have worked with Pershing during the past 25 years to share their knowledge of the system through a fraternal association. "These dedicated individuals have developed a sense of pride and responsibility, knowing their hard work and sacrifice contribute to the security of our nation and NATO," said Maj. George Stinnett, the new group's spokesman at Fort Sill.

"The national headquarters will be at Fort Sill and it is expected local chapters will be formed at other locations within the United States and Europe, wherever sufficient local membership interest warrants," he said.

An initial membership meeting is planned Nov. 18 at Fort Sill and members who join within months will be listed as charter members of the organization. A founder's day dinner is planned Jan. 28 at Fort Sill.

For information and applications write Box 33206, Fort Sill, Okla. 73503 or call the commander, 3rd Battalion (Pershing), 9th Field Artillery, at 405-351-3509.

Annual dues of $5 entitle members to a membership certificate, club roster, newsletter and opportunity to take part in periodic social gatherings.

A Company wins Commander's Cup

CUP PRESENTED—Standout athlete Sp4 William Kelly accepts the trophy for A Company from Maj. Gen. Jerry Max Bunyard. Company commander Capt. John Turner is also shown.

During a company formation on Nov. 10, A Company received the Commander's Cup for outstanding large unit sports participation. Maj. Gen. Max Bunyard made the presentation.

PFC Randall Scott, Post Soldier of the Month for November was also honored and presented several gift certificates by local businesses and a plaque of recognition by Bunyard.

tion by Bunyard.

Accepting the trophy for A Company was Sp4 William Kelly, a tow/dragon radar repairer. Kelly was chosen to represent his company because of his outstanding record in four of the major sport events on which the points for the commander's cup are based.

Kelly, who participated in football, volleyball, basketball and softball said, that winning the commander's cup was worth all of the sweat and pain they went through to get it. "It is a honor to be able to bring it to the School Brigade and we will get it again next year."

In the final standings, A Company finished first in large unit competition and the Marines were first in small unit competition for the 1982-83 sports year.

The points for the cup are based on three criteria. They are: standings at the end of the regular season play; standings at the end of the post season play and final standings at the end of tournament play. Participation points are also given to each company for participation in a specific sport.

Points were awarded for participation in softball, football, volleyball, basketball, tennis, racquetball and bowling.

The Commander's cup is a rotating trophy awarded annually. A smaller trophy is also awarded to the winning unit to be maintained at the unit on a permanent basis.

Special events planned for family week Nov. 20—26

The second annual Army Family Week, Nov. 20-26, will be observed here with special events planned by Army Community Service.

An open house at the Child Care Center is set for 1-4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 19. This will include fingerprinting service offered by military police for young children. Consent forms will be provided and the only copy of fingerprints will be given to the child's parent or guardian for identification purposes.

Other activities planned for the week include some discount prices on post. An awards program for outstanding families has begun with nominations from arsenal groups due by Dec. 5.

"The purpose is to show support of the military families and get them more involved with post activities," said 1st Lt. James May, ACS officer here.

Discount prices will be provided during the week by Morale Support Activities. They will cut their bowling and miniature golf prices to military families who have a family discount ticket. One ticket per family may be picked up at ACS, the Recreation Center or the Bowling Center, May said.

On Nov. 23-27 the PX will cut 15 percent off its price of children's jeans. Also on sale will be jogging shoes, 10-piece cookware sets, microwave ovens and sound systems, according to May. He added that there will be specials run in AAFES cafeterias and other concessions such as the beauty shop, laundry, dry cleaners, photo and flower shops.

The awards program for outstanding families on post is to include presentations in an Army Community Service awards ceremony Jan. 19. Names are to be forwarded to the Department of the Army and then possibly on to the White House which will have its second annual family awards program in 1984.

In addition to these activities here, ACS and the finance office have developed a booklet to explain pay and benefits and the leave and earnings statement. "That's just something we plan to do that we believe will help military families," May said. "We plan to start disseminating (the booklet) as soon as possible."

Physical fitness forum scheduled this summer

WASHINGTON—A forum to discuss military health and physical fitness training is scheduled for this summer at the University of Oregon.

Officials with the Army Physical Fitness Research Institute at the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., are coordinating the symposium, which will examine military fitness programs and their relation to combat readiness. Scheduled dates for the symposium are July 19-26.

The Army was asked to plan the event by the 1984 Olympic scientific congress, an international sport and science conference held in cooperation with the U.S. Olympic Committee and the 1984 Olympic Games.

Further information on the symposium is available by contacting the fitness institute at Autovon 242-4511 or P.O. Box 469, Carlisle Barracks, Pa. (Arnews)

Families honored in special week

WASHINGTON—Three Army families will travel to the Pentagon this month to be honored as part of Army Family Week, Nov. 20-26.

The 13 major Army commands nominated one family each, and officials here are now deciding which three made the biggest contributions to their respective communities. Selectees will attend a Pentagon ceremony honoring all Army families on Nov. 23.

"We're looking at the most significant contributions made to both the Army and the family," said an Army personnel official. He explained that all nominated families were heavily involved with community-oriented activities such as volunteer work, youth and teen groups, church and school organizations.

While the Pentagon ceremony is designed as the "centerpiece," the Army has encouraged local communities to observe Army family week in their own ways.

To help them along the Army also established a commander's public service award for civilians and family members who "contributed to the Army's accomplishment of its' mission."

Army family week highlights the Army's effort to recognize the family's importance to readiness and morale within the ranks. This position was recently outlined in Chief of Staff Gen. John A. Wickham's Whitepaper 1983 entitled "The Army Family." (Arnews)

Why is the colonel called 'Kernal'?

Have you ever wondered why Navy captain is a higher rank than Air Force—Army—Marine captain? Why a lieutenant general outranks a major general? Or why a colonel is called "kernal"?

When Air Force historian Ray Oliver was hit with these and similar questions he discovered, to his surprise, that there was no handy booklet about the origins and histories of military ranks. So he did the necessary research and wrote one himself.

Following is a series condensed from his booklet "Why Is The Colonel Called 'Kernal'?"

Private. The term "private" as a military rank probably came from a practice in the 16th century when an individual could enlist by means of a private contract to serve as a "private" soldier in a military unit.

Before the 16th century many armies were made up of serfs and subjects who were forced by their feudal lords to serve.

Airman. Airman is a recent word that means somebody involved with flying. The Air Force gave that title to the members of its four lowest enlisted ranks in 1952.

Corporal. Corporals often command squads. That was also their job in 15th century Italian armies. An important tactical formation was the squadra, or square, headed by a reliable veteran called the capo de squadra or head of the square.

The title seems to have changed to caporale by the 16th century and meant the leader of a small body of soldiers. The French picked up the term in about the 16th century and pronounced it in various ways—one of them being "cor-po-ral," which indicates a mixing with the Latin word corpus or French corps, both of which meant body. The British adopted corporal in the 17th or 18th century and it has been a part of their army ever since.

Our military services adopted the rank, as with most others, during colonial times from the French and British military.

Sergeant. The sergeant started out in medieval times as a servant, serviens in Latin, to a knight. He became a fighting man and warrior probably for self preservation. He may have ridden a horse but was not wealthy enough to afford all the equipment and retainers to qualify as a knight.

Sergeant originally was an occupation rather than a rank. As an experienced soldier he would be called upon to take charge of a group of serfs or other common people forced to serve in a feudal army. The sergeant would conduct what training he could to teach his charges to fight, lead them into battle and, most important, keep them from running away during a battle.

The English borrowed the word "sergeant" from the French in about the 13th century. They spelled it several different ways and pronounced it both as SERgeant and SARgeant, the latter becoming the most popular.

Petty Officer. The petty officer title can be traced back to the old French word petit meaning something small. Over the years the word also came to mean minor, secondary, and subordinate. In medieval and later England just about every village had several "petite," "pety" or "petty" officials/officers who were subordinate to such major officials as the steward

Attention Federal and Postal Service Employees

Q. Where can you buy first class protection and first class service?

A. From the National League of Postmasters: A first class organization.

Now, during Open Season you may purchase one of the most comprehensive medical and dental insurance plans for you and your family . . . the Postmasters Benefit Plan.

Dollar for dollar, the Postmasters Benefit Plan provides outstanding protection. You'll be completely convinced when you look over the highlights of our high option coverage.

MEDICAL EXPENSE BENEFITS

- Hospital Care—other than Mental and Nervous Conditions
100% of eligible charges up to 365 days for semi-private, intensive or ward care in a hospital or extended care facility. Patient pays the first day's room and board (up to semi-private rate) or $25, whichever is greater.
- Surgery—No Deductible
100% of reasonable and customary charges of surgeon, assistant surgeon and anesthesia. Certain non-emergency procedures require a second opinion for full benefits (see Plan brochure for details).
- Out-of-Hospital Expenses—No Deductible
80% of following eligible charges from the first dollar up to $1,000 per year: physical, speech and occupational therapy; X-rays and lab tests; certain other services and supplies. Charges in excess of $1,000 are covered under Supplemental Benefits.
- Pre-Admission Diagnostic Testing—No Deductible
100% of reasonable and customary charges.
- Outpatient Cancer and Dialysis Treatment—No Deductible
100% of reasonable and customary charges.
- Accidental Injury—No Deductible
100% of reasonable and customary charges for all non-surgical outpatient treatment within 72 hours of an accident.
- Orthopedic and Prosthetic Devices—No Deductible
100% of reasonable and customary charges up to $300 per person per year. Charges in excess of $300 are covered under Supplemental Benefits.

- Maternity
Plan pays the same benefit for pregnancy as for any other illness or injury.
- Hospice Care Coverage has been added to the Plan for 1984.

SUPPLEMENTAL BENEFITS

- No Lifetime Maximum*
80% of eligible expenses (50% for outpatient treatment of mental or nervous conditions), after a $200 deductible per person per year (limited to two per year per family). Eligible expenses include chiropractic treatment, outpatient doctor visits, prescription drugs, allergy treatments, injections and certain other expenses not paid under other Plan provisions.
- Catastrophic Protection—No Lifetime Maximum
In a calendar year, if out-of-pocket expenses, excluding deductibles, exceed $1,000 a person ($2,000 per family under Self and Family Coverage), Plan pays 100% of eligible expenses during the rest of calendar year.
 - Hospital Care for Mental and Nervous Conditions
70% of eligible charges for inpatient care in excess of $500 per person per year. After the insured's "out-of-pocket" costs reach $8,000 in a calendar year, Plan pays 100% of remaining eligible charges for balance of year. Lifetime maximum for each family member is $40,000.

DENTAL EXPENSE BENEFITS

- Dental Care
Our Plan provides a scheduled allowance for preventive and restorative care. Most all dental procedures are covered including routine exams, cleanings and X-rays, fillings, crowns and dentures. There is an annual deductible which has been reduced to $25 for 1984. Maximum Benefit has been increased to $800 from $750 per person per year ($2,000 per family).

- Orthodontic Treatment
After one full calendar year of coverage, 60% of eligible orthodontic charges up to $1,000 for each family member. This is a separate benefit and not included in the maximum benefit for other dental care.

COMPARE

Compare the Postmasters Benefit Plan to your current High Option coverage. What percentage do they pay for surgery in the hospital? Are X-rays and lab work in the doctor's office subject to the deductible? Do they cover denture replacement, crowns, bridges and orthodontic care?

Dollar-for-dollar the Postmasters Benefit Plan provides top-notch protection. In addition, we provide top quality service to our members with phone lines open from 8 AM to 8 PM (E.S.T.) every business day of the year. And claim checks are paid promptly!

Remember, when shopping for health insurance the Cheapest Plan is Not Always a Bargain. Go First Class With Postmasters Benefit Plan.

ASSOCIATE MEMBERSHIP

The Postmaster's Benefit Plan is an employee organization plan, and therefore it is necessary for you to become a member of the National League of Postmasters. Dues for associate members are $25 per calendar year. All federal and postal service employees are eligible.

All benefits are subject to the definitions, limitations and exclusions according to the Plan brochure and its 1984 addendum, which are available from your agency or the National League of Postmasters.

For more information during Open Season call Postmasters Benefit Plan (toll-free) 800-368-4726 between 8 AM-5 PM E.S.T.

Washington Huskies can smell the roses already

BY SKIP VAUGHN

If the Washington Huskies want to go to the Rose Bowl, they have to beat archrival Washington State this weekend.

Last year State played the spoiler by upsetting the Huskies 24-20. This year the Cougars are even better.

The Cougars are 6-4 and have won their last four games. They've beaten Arizona State, Oregon, Oregon State, California, Montana State, and Nevada Las Vegas. They lost to Michigan, Arizona, Southern Cal and UCLA.

The Huskies are 9-1 with wins over Northwestern, Michigan, Navy, Oregon State, Stanford, Oregon, UCLA, Arizona and Southern Cal. They were upset 40-14 at Louisiana State on Sept. 24.

Washington would love to visit Pasadena on New Year's Day, especially by beating the team that stopped them last year. Senior quarterback Steve Pelluer should provide enough firepower. The pick here is Rose Bowl bound....Washington.

Last week's picks delivered a 28-7 record and brought the season totals to 245-81-8 for 75 percent. Here are Skip's Picks for this week in major college football:

- Washington State at Washington—Wash. by 7
- Air Force at Notre Dame—Notre Dame by 14
- Arkansas at Southern Methodist—SMU by 13
- Baylor at Texas—Texas by 7
- Utah at Brigham Young—BYU by 21
- California at Stanford—Cal by 10
- Cincinnati at Miami (Ohio)—Cincy by 7
- Clemson at So. Carolina—Clemson by 14
- Kansas State at Colorado—Colo. by 3
- Duke at No. Carolina—UNC by 10
- East Carolina at Southern Miss—E. Car. by 1
- Texas Tech at Houston—Houston by 7
- Illinois at Northwestern—Illinois by 24
- Purdue at Indiana—Purdue by 7
- Minnesota at Iowa—Iowa by 35
- Missouri at Kansas—Mizzou by 10
- Tennessee at Kentucky—Tenn. by 7
- Louisiana State at Tulane—LSU by 7
- Maryland at No. Carolina State—Md. by 17
- Michigan State at Wisconsin—Wisc. by 21
- Ohio State at Michigan—OSU by 3
- Mississippi State at Ole Miss—Ole Miss. by 7
- Oregon State at Oregon—Oregon by 14
- Penn. State at Pittsburgh—Pitt by 10
- Temple at Rutgers—Temple by 13
- UCLA at Southern Cal—UCLA by 7
- West Virginia at Syracuse—W. VA. by 10
- Texas A&M at Texas Christian—A&M by 14
- Virginia Tech at Virginia—VPI by 13

OPEN SEASON on Insurance

Every year at this time you have the option to choose your Health Insurance for the coming year.

The North Alabama Chiropractic Society endorses the following insurance companies, in order of best health care coverage.

1. Postmasters
2. Aetna
3. Blue Cross

Other policies offer Chiropractic Health Care coverage, however their limitations result in more out of pocket expense for the patient.

These limitations usually aren't readily apparent to someone not trained in insurance terminology .

This information is presented as a public service by the NORTH ALABAMA CHIROPRACTIC SOCIETY.

"I think it's kind of neat because we get to pick out what we need, more or less," said Pvt. 2 Arthur Anderson of 4th Student Company.

PFC Randall Scott of A Company was accompanied by his wife Gloria. "I think it's a good idea," she said, "because I guess if they get everybody represented on post then they'll know what they need on sale, things that they need."

Scott, post soldier of the month for November, agreed. "Instead of AAFES deciding on what's on sale, they're letting the people who are actually doing the shopping choose what should be on sale," he said.

Scrolls recognize school's support

Kuan-Wen Chi, a retired professor and Taiwanese Army officer, presented handmade calligraphy scrolls to Col. Joseph Cote, MMCS commandant, Col. James Hall, School Brigade commander and Capt. Michael McChestney, chief of the foreign student support office in a ceremony here last week.

The scrolls were in appreciation of the school's participation Oct. 10 in the Taiwanese students' celebration of their National Independence Day and for the school's support of the Taiwanese students.

Each scroll contained the words, "A real friend of the Republic of China," along with a personal message. The scroll presented to Cote said, "The ways of an enlightened ruler." The scroll presented to Hall contained the words, "The great spiritual strength for the right and just." McChestney's scroll contained this message, "Universal brotherhood." All of the scrolls were written in Chinese characters.

Kuan-Wen Chi prominent in Chinese-American affairs in Huntsville graduated from the National North-West Normal College in China in 1945 and joined the Taiwanese Army as a major the same year. Following the war, Kuan-Wen Chi followed the government of the Republic of China to Taiwan where he taught Chinese history and classical novel after his Army retirement in 1948. In 1976, he retired as a professor and emigrated to the United States with his two daughters and two sons. One of his major accomplishments has been the establishment of the Chinese Library in Huntsville. He was also Chairman of this year's Chinese National Day Committee.

Also present for the ceremony was Lu Ting-Kuo, representing the Taiwanese students.

Common uniform violations noted

WASHINGTON—The proper wear and appearance of the Army uniform is the responsibility of all soldiers whether they are active Army, Army National Guard or U.S. Army Reserve.

According to Army personnel officials, soldiers must maintain a high standard of dress and appearance by wearing properly fitted, cleaned and serviceable uniforms. The uniform should always be buttoned, zippered or snapped; brass and shoes should be shined; and haircuts should be neat and well-groomed.

Some of the most common uniform violations pointed out by officials are: worn ribbons; unshined shoes and brass; hats not being worn when outdoors; wear of outdated uniform articles (the green wind-breaker and cardigan sweater); improper length of trousers, skirts and slacks; and male officers wearing the garrison cap with the green blouse when the service hat is required.

Personnel officials noted that the wear and appearance of Army uniforms and insignia is covered in Army Regulation 670-1. (Arnews)

Gun deer season begins here Friday

Redstone hunters open the gun deer season Friday and can reserve a hunting area by applying in person at the Outdoor Recreation Center tomorrow.

Signup for the Friday hunt begins at 7 a.m. tomorrow.

The center will open at 4 a.m. Friday to issue hunting permits for that day and accept advance applications for Saturday and Sunday hunts.

Hunters must attend a safety orientation before going afield. The next scheduled orientation will be tomorrow at 6 p.m. at the center.

So far this season, hunters have taken 10 deer on the arsenal with bow and arrow. Seven other animals have been killed by motor vehicles.

Gun deer hunting on opening day and the first weekend of the season is limited to military personnel, that includes active duty and retired, and their dependents.

VA pensioner income surveyed

WASHINGTON—Some two million Veterans Administration pensioners began receiving the agency's annual income questionnaires on Nov. 1 to insure that they are still eligible to receive that income.

The questionnaire, required by law, goes to all persons receiving pensions or parents' dependency and indemnity compensation benefits. This includes claimants over 72 years old and children who have been receiving the pension for more than two years, say VA officials.

In the past, the income questionnaires were sent with monthly VA pension checks by the Treasury Department. Under the new system, VA will send a new and simpler questionnaire separately that includes a worksheet to assist in completing the form. The worksheet may also be kept as a record.

Those pensioners seeking help in completing the annual income questionnaire will find that assistance available from any VA regional office or from many of the major veterans organizations. (Arnews)

AER offers new educational assistance program

BY SKIP VAUGHN

Army Emergency Relief now offers two types of educational loan programs for unmarried children of active duty and retired Army personnel.

Before this year only the students borrowed money for their college undergraduate expenses. This year Congress enacted a program to allow the parents to borrow money for their children's undergraduate education.

"The Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students allows parents to borrow the money to assist in paying the post secondary undergraduate educational expenses of their dependent children," said Juanita Phillips, AER officer here. "The other program is the Scholarship and/or Federal Guaranteed Student Loan Program."

Under the parent loans or so-called PLUS program, the parents may borrow the money and are responsible for paying it back. "Prior to this year we only had the one where the students borrowed the money and were responsible for paying it back," Phillips said.

Parents may borrow up to $3,000 per academic year for each dependent student. The loan amount cannot exceed the estimated cost of education for the loan period less other financial aid available. These parent loans can be applied for at any time but applications for student loans must reach AER national headquarters by March 1 of the school year.

Up to $2,500 per academic year is the loan limit on the student loans. Students can apply for either a loan, a scholarship or apply for a scholarship and/or loan. If they apply for a scholarship and/or loan, they might receive part of the money in a grant and the other in a loan that would have to be repaid.

Loans are for one academic year so someone who gets a loan would have to reapply for another loan the following year.

"In other words they're not going to approve you for four years. You must reapply every year," said Phillips. "It's just to make sure everybody is still enrolled and make sure what their academic standing is and what their financial situation is."

It does not matter what year of college the student is in as long as he or she is an undergraduate. Eligible are unmarried dependent children, including stepchildren or legally adopted children, of Army active duty or retired personnel.

For repaying loans the first payment for a parent loan is due within 60 days after the loan is made and the minimum monthly payment is $50. Repayment may extend as long as 10 years. The finance charge is 12 percent annual interest on the unpaid balance of each loan.

Repayment for a student loan begins the eighth month after the student leaves school. An interest charge would be the same for the first year loan as it would for the second year loan. In other words, a student applying for his or her second loan would pay the same interest rate that applied on the first loan.

"These are the advantages of the student applying over the parent applying: Lower interest rate and the repayments do not start immediately," Phillips said. Students who apply for the first time this year will be paying 8 percent interest.

The parent loans for undergraduate students program also has an advantage, according to Phillips. "I guess the advantage of that parent loan is that there is no needs test for PLUS," she said. "A parent's income would not be the determining factor on whether or not it is approved."

Educational loans are approved by AER national headquarters. Applications are available at the local office and now is the time to apply for student loans, Phillips said. Forms and information may be obtained at the AER office in building 3491, telephone 876-5468/5397.

Assistance provided nationwide in 1982 totalled $180,194 which represents "quite a number of people," according to the local AER officer.

"I know in the past that this educational assistance program has helped military because we get feedback from soldiers whose children have gone on the student loan program," Phillips said. "And this new (parent loan) program will enable more military personnel to educate their children."

New team needs practice partners

An interservice basketball team here is looking for teams to practice against to prepare for the upcoming Civilian Welfare League season.

The team, formed a few weeks ago, has members from the Army, Navy, Air Force and civilian work-force. They play together at the gym at lunchtime so they decided they would get together and form a team.

"We really haven't come up with a name. I think the Misfits would be appropriate for it," says Air Force Sgt. Don Bardo, the coach and captain. "We'll be entering the CWF league so we need teams to practice against before the season starts. I think they're starting after Thanksgiving."

The military members are assigned here but not to units large enough to form their own team, according to Bardo. There are two from the Air Force, two Army, two Navy and four civilian members.

They practice at the Westside Community Center in Huntsville Monday and Wednesday nights. Any team interested in practicing against them should call Bardo at 876-2622/4730.

"We haven't practiced against anybody yet," he says. "We were supposed to scrimmage against one team that's going to be in the league we're going to be in, but they didn't show up."

Research group tags fish for

BY ED PETERS

A fish caught locally with a tag in the lower part of its back near the tail could be worth $3.

The tagged fish have been released in the area by Olin Corp. in connection with their environmental studies on the arsenal.

Olin will pay $3 for a tag. They can be turned in to Olin's local office, telephone 883-0459, or mailed to the Amherst, N.Y. address printed on the tag. Olin needs to know the species when and where the fish were caught and its approximate size.

Olin has tagged approximately 1,000 fish in Huntsville Spring Branch, Indian Creek and the Tennessee River and plans to tag many more. By means of the tags Olin is charting fish movements to determine how their migratory habits affect their uptake of DDT in contaminated waters of Redstone Arsenal.

At the same time, Olin is learning about DDT uptake through a series of experiments being conducted in a laboratory office the company has set up in a specially built trailer on the arsenal. In these experiments small catfish in aquariums are being subjected to specific levels of DDT.

The point of the studies is to determine by what mechanisms DDT is getting into the fish and how migration affects that uptake, said Keith Roberts, a chemical engineer overseeing Olin's environmental work at the arsenal.

"We feel the fish are migrating and as they go through different areas are exposed to different levels of DDT," explained Roberts.

"From the aquarium studies we know what happens when fish stay in a specific DDT content. With the migration studies we may find that they spend only half the time in a contaminated area and the other half in a non-contaminated area.

"And we may find," he continued, "that certain species don't go into the DDT area and we won't have to worry about that species and the people that catch them won't have to worry either."

"If migration studies show that certain species stay within the same area, then we ought to be able to correlate the DDT levels in sediment with the DDT levels in fish."

Chances are slim that anglers will return many tagged fish since most are being tagged in arsenal waters that are closed to fishing. "We've had a few returns, most tagged in the Tennessee River and returned from the Tennessee River. I don't know that we've had any returns tagged in Huntsville Spring Branch and caught downstream," Roberts said.

To gather fish for tagging and to study already-tagged specimens Olin is using a boat-mounted shocking apparatus that temporarily stuns the fish and brings them to the surface. A backpack shocker is used in areas inaccessible by boat. Fish are tagged and released unharmed.

The shocking crew spends five days per month on the water, according to Steve Anderson, an Olin environmental technician. During the week personnel from Recra Research, an environmental consultant from Amherst, N.Y. are on the arsenal participating in the Olin studies. Recra has provided laboratory support and other services during the 18 months Olin has een seeking a solution to DDT contamination here.

Fish for the migration studies are being collected from eight areas above and within the region of DDT contamination. Water and sediment samples are also being collected in those eight locations, as are insects and other macroinvertebrates fish feed on. "We're trying to get as much information as possible on how the food chain operates," said Roberts. "Really what we want is to see how the fish becomes contaminated. Is it from what he eats? Is it from water passing through his gills? Is it from contact with sediment? Our aquarium studies are trying to answer these same questions but on a more strictly controlled basis."

Roberts said the aquarium studies have shown that DDT in fish seems proportional to the amount of DDT sediment in the aquariums.

"We're just starting to look at the food chain now. We don't know if the food chain or exposure to sediment is more significant. That's what the next phase will tell us in the next month or two," Roberts said.

The aquarium studies have yielded one discovery that may prove useful in solving some of the pollution problems in arsenal waters. In some of the aquariums, bottom sediment was covered over with a tough plastic material. "In those studies there was little or no DDT in the fish. The plastic barrier is a possible remedial action that could be utilized in some areas. Those areas we're trying to determine now," said Roberts.

Olin's environmental affairs group based in Charleston, Tenn. is seeking ways to end DDT pollution in local waters. Under a federal court settlement in 1978, the government has agreed to take cleanup measures that will reduce DDT levels in local fish to five parts per million. Olin operated a DDT factory on the arsenal for a number of years during which manufacturing waste built up in sediment in Huntsville Spring Branch and Indian Creek on the arsenal.

Military anglers set '84 schedule

Ten fishing contests are on the 1984 tournament schedule of the local military bass anglers group.

SFC Mike Cowan, north Alabama district director of the Military Bass Anglers Association, said the schedule includes seven "point" tournaments and seven "non-point" events. Anglers compete for trophies and cash prizes in all tournaments, he said.

Cowan describes the MBAA as a national group dedicated to sport fishing and fellowship. Its North Alabama district based at Redstone Arsenal has about 22 members.

Members bass fish for points and prizes in a series of local and state tournaments that culminate in a national championship event at the end of the season.

Most people with a military affiliation are eligible for MBAA membership. This includes government civilians, retirees and family members. Dues are $12 yearly and there is an entry fee for each tournament.

Cowan said persons interested in pursuing "the most popular game fish in the U.S. today" are invited to attend the group's first meeting of the season on Nov. 30 at 7 p.m. on the patio of the NCO club. For information call Cowan at 852-3905.

He said members do not need to own boats. "In the past we've not had trouble matching people with a boat," he said, explaining that before each tournament members draw for partners. "You may not fish with the same person twice in a season. In fact it's highly unlikely that you will," Cowan said.

Here's the schedule of tournaments for the new bass fishing season:

December 1	Guntersville/Goose Pond
March 3	Guntersville/Turner's Marina
March 31	Elk River/Lehigh Bridge
April 28	Guntersville/Brown's Creek
May 19	Wheeler Lake/First Creek
June 16	Wilson Lake/Turtle Point
June 23-24	State tournament/Logan Martin
July 14	Guntersville/Goose Pond
Sept. 8	Elk River/Lehigh Bridge

Training opportunities help civilians improve skills

BY GINGER STEPHENS

Training opportunities to help improve job skills are listed in a Training and Development brochure that is available to civilian employees through their supervisors.

The brochure is used by employees under the guidance of their supervisor to help devise an Individual Development Plan. The IDP was implemented this year by the civilian personnel office to gauge the prospective training needs of civilians.

After the IDP has been completed, it is sent back to civilian personnel through the Organizational Training Contact.

Each office has an Organizational Training Contact who works as the liaison between the individual and the Employee Development Specialist in civilian personnel.

The Employee Development Specialist determines the training needs of each organization and arranges spaces available in the training courses requested.

"Classroom training is arranged by the training directorate in civilian personnel," said Lawrence Williams, chief of training management branch. "But employees must meet course prerequisites to apply for the training. People think they want a course and can just apply, but it's just not that simple. We send people for courses that will help them do their job better," he said.

The Army will pay for non-government, job required courses if the employee has a nomination by a supervisor.

A nomination consists of a completed and supervisor endorsed DD Form 1556 and SMI 1269 (training justification and agreement).

The government will also pay up to 50 percent of the tuition for job related, but not job required, courses that are offered after working hours. "All night courses will be on the employees own time and they will have to pay for at least 50 percent tuition and their books," said Williams.

Applications for all non-government courses have to be in to the Training Management Branch 30 days in advance of the courses starting date.

Some local non-government education and training institutions are the University of Alabama in Huntsville, Alabama A&M, Florida Institute of Technology, and Southeastern Institute of Technology.

"Some colleges, like Auburn and schools as far away as North Carolina will come down to give a course," said Williams.

The government will pay for job required courses but not for a degree, according to Williams.

"Our classes aren't programmed to college credit but to job need," he said. "To take a course, it has to be what the employee needs to do their job."

Approximately 1,000 courses to improve job skills or acquire knowledge on subjects ranging from anthropology to veterinary medicine are available through civilian personnel's learning resource center.

Put Yourself in the Marketplace, in the Classifieds

The Redstone Rocket provides the Rocket Classified section as a free service to active duty military personnel and army civil service personnel at Redstone Arsenal. To place a Rocket Classified ad:

- Type or legibly print a brief description of what you want to sell on an 8½ x 11 inch piece of paper (no 3 by 5 cards or torn paper accepted). You must list a price, your home phone number, your home address and your duty status (active or civil service).
- Sign the ad.

• Deadline is 9 a.m. on the Thursday before the ad will appear. Ads will run for only one week. You may resubmit them.

The Redstone Rocket will not accept ads concerning real estate, mobile homes, or apartments for rent, or businesses.

Conditional statements as "like new," "excellent condition," "runs well," will not be printed.

If you submit more than one classified at a time, place each one on a separate piece of paper, unless they fall in the same sales category, (miscellaneous, vehicles, etc.).

Mail Rocket Classified ads to Sara Grant & Associates, Atten: Redstone Rocket Classified, P.O. Box 5351, Huntsville, Alabama 35805.

The Redstone Rocket will not accept free classified ads by telephone.

The Redstone Rocket is not responsible for typographical errors or for omissions in this section.

1983 Great American Smokeout starts tomorrow

Smoking cigarettes is no laughing matter. Neither is quitting, but once a year thousands of serious quitters do have some fun as they try to make it through the day without a cigarette.

The occasion is the Great American Smokeout, an annual celebration when the American Cancer Society focuses public attention on cigarette smokers from coast to coast in an attempt to encourage them to go a full 24 hours without cigarettes. Everyone enjoys watching and rooting while the smokers try, if only to prove to themselves that they can abstain for one day. This year, Smokeout Day is Thursday, November 17.

The Great American Smokeout is now in its seventh year as an annual nationwide celebration. The first mass movement by smokers to give up cigarettes was led by Lynn R. Smith, editor of the Monticello, Minn. Times, in his home town in 1974. Smith's idea was recognized in California in 1976 as the Great American Smokeout and in 1977 it was observed for the first time nationwide.

In 1982, more than 19 million American smokers attempted to give up cigarettes on Smokeout Day—41 percent of the nation's female smokers and 31.9 percent of its male smokers participated. According to a survey conducted by the Gallup organization, 4.5 million succeeded for a full 24 hours. Eleven days later, 2.3 million reported still not smoking.

About 55 million Americans still smoke. Surveys show that 85 percent of smokers would like to quit and a great many have tried at least once.

Cigarette smoking is a very serious problem. The Surgeon General has labeled cigarette smoking the "chief avoidable cause of death in our society." Statistics bear this out. Smoking has been shown to be responsible for more than 75 percent of all lung cancer, the number one cancer killer of men. By the end of the 80's, lung cancer is expected to replace breast cancer as the number one cause of cancer death among women. Cigarette smoking has been implicated in cancers of parts of the body other than the lungs, including mouth, pharynx, esophagus, bladder, kidney and pancreas.

The goal of the 1983 Great American Smokeout is to get at least one in every five smokers to give up cigarettes from midnight to midnight on Thursday, November 17. Would-be quitters will receive buttons and stickers that announce their intentions ("It Ain't Easy, But I'm Trying.") Official "Adopt a Smoker" proceedings will arrange for nonsmokers to adopt a smoker for the day and try to lead their "charges" on the path to smokelessness.

Giving up cigarettes can make a difference in your life. A healthy difference. Join the million of Americans who intend to take a day off from smoking November 17, the day of the Great American Smokeout. Help a friend quit smoking if you are a non-smoker.

Civilian Career Appraisal

The Department of Army Supply Management Civilian Career Program screening panel will convene in Alexandria, Virginia Feb. 21—March 2, 1984 to evaluate employees eligible for referral to positions at GM/GS-13 level. Forward an original plus six copies of SMCP Career Appraisal to DRSMI-SS, Willena Richardson, bldg. 5681, room B3S no later than Dec. 16. She will review it and obtain the ACPM signature. For more information call Mrs. Richardson at 876-1531 or 1411.

Prayer Breakfast

The Nov. 23 speaker at the weekly prayer breakfast will be Capt. Laurz Noble, Commander of the 6th Student Company, MMCS. The breakfast begins at 6 a.m. at the Post Chapel and lasts about 45 minutes. Everyone is invited.

Corrections

Due to typesetter error an incorrect figure was given for total expense in the CWF financial statement in last week's paper. The correct total is $18,369.44.

Also due to typesetter error, there were several misprints in the football picks column last week. The picks should have read, Arkat. as over Texas A&M (not Texas) and Maryland (not Memphis State) under Clemson. Memphis State was picked under Cincinnati but that line was omitted.

Marines celebrate 208th birthday with party here

The Marines at Redstone celebrated the Marine Corps' 208th birthday on Nov. 10 with a traditional ceremony and a small celebration afterward.

The ceremony began with the reading of a birthday message to the Marine Corps detachment from Gen. Paul X. Kelly, Marine Corps commandant, by CWO 2 William Watson, officer in charge of the Marine element in the conventional ammunition department.

In this message Kelley republished the first order he received from President Reagan when he became the 28th Marine Commandant. That order was to tell every member of the Marine Corps that America is grateful to and "proud of our proudest".

The Commandant also asked the Marines to rededicate themselves as "Soldiers of the Sea" by remembering to be always faithful to God, country, family, fellow Marines and to the corps."

Capt. Scott Rayn, Officer in charge of the Marine administrative detachment, also had a birthday message for the Marines. He stressed Marine support of other Marines, especially those in Lebanon and admonished them to remember that they too have a mission here at Redstone. He commended all of the NCO's as being the backbone of the detachment. "We all are 100 percent Marines in every way".

As required by tradition, the first piece of birthday cake was eaten by the youngest and the oldest Marine. After Ryan cut the cake with the Marine Corps sword, Pvt. Alan Perry, an ammunition storage supply student and Master Gunnery Sgt. Donald Thompson, NCOIC of the Marine element at conventional ammunition department were given the first bites.

The 25-pound, four layered cake was baked by Charlotte Price, wife of Master Sgt. Robert Price, who retired on the Marine Corps birthday and was honored during the same ceremony.

"Age doesn't bother us. The Marines are like fine champagne, "The older we get the better we get," said 1st Sgt. Larry Sutterfield, of the Marine inspector and instructor office here.

The Marines will also sponsor a Marine Corps 208th birthday ball at the NCO Club on Nov. 19.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—Capt. Scott Ryan cuts the cake with assistance from 1st Sgt. Herbert Wise. A Marine wife baked the big cake.

Since the early seamen knew petty officers in their home villages they used the term to describe the minor officials aboard their ships. A ship's captain or master chose his own petty officers who served at his pleasure. At the end of a voyage or whenever the ship's crew was paid off and released the petty officers lost their positions and titles.

Petty officers were important members of our Navy right from its beginnings and were also appointed by their ship's captain. They did not have uniforms or rank insignia, and they usually held their appointments only while serving on the ship whose captain had selected them. Petty officer became an official rank in the U.S. Navy in 1841, along with the appearance of uniforms and rank insignia.

Officers

Warrant Officer. The "warrant" portion of the warrant officer's title comes from the early French word warrant, meaning protector or an authorization. In the 11th century, English ports began furnishing warships to King Edward the Confessor in exchange for certain privileges and they also furnished crews whose officers were authorized, or "warranted" by the British Admiralty.

Warranted officers were often permanent members of the ships' companies. They stayed with the ships in port between voyages as caretakers supervising repairs and refitting. Other crewmen and soldiers might change with each voyage.

When Congress created our Navy in 1794, it listed as warrant officers the sailing master, purser, boatswain, gunner, carpenter, sailmaker and midshipman.

The Army and Marines began using the warrant officer rank in the early 1900s. The Army Air Force used the warrant officer ranks for its flight officers during WWII. When the Air Force became a separate service the warrant officer program was phased out.

First Army woman attends British college

WASHINGTON—The first U.S. Army woman ever to attend the British Staff College in Camberley, England, is scheduled to be classes there in January 1984.

Maj. Karen L. Frey, formerly assigned to the U.S. Army Military Personnel Center in Alexandria, Va., brings to her new academic status a full background of advanced training in her specialty (military police) and in military staff functions.

Before reporting to the British equivalent of the U.S. Army's command and general staff college, Frey will receive a three-month precourse briefing at the Royal Military College of Science at Shrivenham, England. Prerequisites for attending the British school include graduation from the American staff college. (Arnews)

Take a bite out of crime

BY LARUE ULSHAFFER
MP crime prevention team

Robbery accounts for nearly half of all violent crimes. It is estimated that 1 in every 48 people in the United States are affected by robbery. November is Anti-Robbery month, and to kick it off, here are a few tips that will keep you from being a statistic:

- don't go out alone
- don't flash your money
- stay in well lit areas
- walk in commonly travelled areas
- don't carry large amounts of cash

If you are a victim of a robbery, the following actions could save your life:

- obey demands
- cooperate fully
- do not argue
- remain quiet

Be sure to make a mental note of the physical description of the assailant to include height, hair color, type and color of clothes, and any distinguishing characteristics such as scars or tattoos. Remember what was said, any accents, and tone of voice. The more details you can relate to the military police, the higher the possibility the assailant will be apprehended. As McGruff says, "You Can Take A Bite Out Of Crime."

THREE STRIKES AND YOU'RE OUT

- STRIKE 1: Flash your cash
- STRIKE 2: Drink too much
- STRIKE 3: Travel alone

This month in history

39 years ago: ● Redstone Arsenal won its fourth Army-Navy "E" production award for high achievements in the manufacture of war material. (Nov. 4, 1944).

● The 2-acre recreation field, located in the temporary area south of the MP barracks, was named Marzolf Field in honor of Capt. John C. Marzolf (Nov. 18, 1944). Captain Marzolf, plant superintendent, was killed in a phosgene accident at the Huntsville Arsenal on Sept. 4, 1944.

● The Officers' Picnic Park, a 3-acre tract of woodland located south of the Foster home (building 192), was named Loeffler Park in memory of 2nd Lt. Jerome Loeffler (Nov. 18, 1944). Loeffler was one of the first officers to test incendiary bombs at the Huntsville Arsenal airport and gave his life in the performance of this duty on June 27, 1944.

35 years ago: The chief, Chemical Warfare Service, informed Huntsville Arsenal that it was being removed from the surplus category and placed on standby status (Nov. 9, 1948).

32 years ago: The first successful kill of an aerial target by a US guided missile occurred on Nov. 27, 1951, when the Nike Ajax missile intercepted an aircraft flying at 15 miles range, 33,000 feet altitude and 300 mph.

26 years ago: Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy directed the Army to proceed with the Jupiter C satellite project (Nov. 8, 1957).

23 Years ago: Juno II Vehicle AM-19D placed into orbit the 90-pound Ionosphere Direct Measurement Satellite, Explorer VIII (Nov. 3, 1960).

16 years ago: Toftoy Hall at MMCS was dedicated to the memory of Major General Holger N. Toftoy (Nov. 3, 1967). Toftoy was a pioneer in the nation's missile and space programs and served as commanding general of Redstone Arsenal from Sept. 1, 1954 to March 31, 1958.

14 years ago: The Chaparral air defense system was initially deployed (November 1969).

12 years ago: Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird visited Redstone Arsenal (Nov. 24, 1971).

10 years ago: Maj. Gen. Vincent H. Ellis became MICOM's fifth commanding general, succeeding Maj. Gen. Edwin I. Donley who retired (Nov. 1, 1973). Ellis was the first Commander of MICOM who had not had a previous tour at Redstone Arsenal. He served less than two years, was reassigned for opposing the split of MICOM into separate commands for readiness and research and development.

Soldiers take part in Veteran's Day parade

Once again, the Missile and Muniton Center and School participated in the annual Huntsville Veteran's Day Parade, on Friday, November 11.

Sixty soldiers from each company in first and second battalion and the Marines formed the marching unit.

Three services were represented on the color guard.

An equipment display was also supplied by the school.

The parade which began at 11 a.m. followed the same route as last year. The one and one-half mile route began and ended on Lowe Street.
