Facility offers fastfood eatery plus sports lounge

BY SKIP VAUGHN

The first thing you notice when you walk into what was formerly the new Enlisted Club is the smell — the smell of good hot pizza. Sports jerseys in display frames adorn one of the walls. Over the eating area are television sets, a nearby one tuned to a sports channel.

Welcome to the Pizza Plus Express & Sports Lounge, Redstone's brand new fastfood eatery and TV-sports place. The entire Redstone community — military, civilians, retirees, etc. — is invited to this facility which is open seven days a week.

"We offer the absolute best pizza and barbecue in Huntsville, Ala., at the most reasonable price. And all the dollars — all the profit — generated in this club stays on Redstone Arsenal to benefit the community," said Lee Hicks, the general MWR (morale, welfare and recreation) business manager.

Last November the post commander, Maj. Gen. Joe Rigby, approved a club system business-based plan to improve and ensure the profitability of the Challenger Club and the Enlisted Club. "We've had a major turnaround in the Challenger Club; we are profitable with a turnaround of $100,000 in the first nine months of fiscal year '93," Hicks said. "Last piece of the puzzle was to revitalize what was then known as the Enlisted Soldiers Club. And to do that we've reworked the interior into a sports lounge. And after two years and a lot of hard work by Mr. Kallo, the pizza operation and delivery service is now operational."

Nick Kallo, the general manager of the Officers Club, came up with the concept for this operation (See Lounge, cont'd on page 14)

Aspin directs implementation of new homosexual policy

Editor's note: Secretary of Defense Les Aspin on July 19 directed the implementation of the president's new policy on homosexual conduct. The following is the text of Aspin's memorandum establishing the new policy which was sent to the service secretaries and to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

On Jan. 29, 1993, the President directed me to review DoD policy on homosexuals in the military. The President further directed that the DoD policy be "practical, realistic, and consistent with the high standards of combat effectiveness and unit cohesion our armed forces must maintain."

An extensive review was conducted. I have paid careful attention to the hearings that have been held by both the House and Senate Armed Services Committees, conferred with the Joint Chiefs and acting Secretaries of the Military Departments and considered recommendations of a working group of senior officers in the Department of Defense and those of the Rand Corporation.

The Department of Defense has long held that, as a general rule, homosexuality is incompatible with military service because it interferes with the factors critical to combat effectiveness, including unit morale, unit cohesion and individual privacy. Nevertheless, the Department of Defense also recognizes that individuals with a homosexual orientation have served with distinction in the armed services of the United States.

THEREFORE, IT IS THE POLICY of the Department of Defense to judge the suitability of persons to serve in the armed forces on the basis of their conduct. Homosexual conduct will be grounds for separation from the military services. Sexual orientation is considered a personal and private matter, and homosexual orientation is not a bar to service entry or continued service unless manifested by homosexual conduct.

I direct the following:

Applicants for military service will not be asked or required to reveal their sexual orientation. Applicants will be informed of accession and separation policy.

Servicemembers will be separated for homosexual conduct.

Commanders and investigating agencies will not initiate inquiries or investigations solely to determine a member's sexual orientation. Servicemembers will not be asked or required to reveal their sexual orientation. However, commanders will continue to initiate inquiries or investigations, as appropriate, when there is credible information that a basis for discharge or disciplinary action exists. Authority to initiate inquiries and investigations involving homosexual conduct shall be limited to commanders. Commanders will consider, in allocating scarce investigative resources, that sexual orientation is a personal and private matter. They will investigate allegations of violations of the Uniform Code of Military Justice in an even-handed manner without regard to whether the conduct alleged is heterosexual or homosexual or whether it occurs on-base or off-base. Commanders remain responsible for ensuring that investigations are conducted properly and that any abuse of authority is addressed.

THE CONSTRAINTS OF MILITARY SERVICE require servicemembers to keep certain aspects of their personal lives private for the benefit of the group. Our personnel policies will be clearly stated and implemented in accordance with due process of law.

Commanders remain responsible for maintaining good order and discipline. Harassment or violence against other servicemembers will not be tolerated.

Homosexual conduct is a homosexual act, a statement by the servicemember that demonstrates a propensity or intent to engage in homosexual acts, or a homosexual marriage or attempted marriage.

A statement by a servicemember that he or she is homosexual or bisexual creates a rebuttable presumption that the servicemember is engaging in homosexual acts or has a propensity or intent to do so. The servicemember has the opportunity to present evidence that he does not engage in homosexual acts and does not have a propensity or intent to do so. The evidence will be assessed by the relevant separation authority.

Use of acronyms

Editor:

I think a time and motion study should be made of the use of acronyms.

We all know how whippy it sounds to roll your acronyms around, especially among strangers, but does it speed-up or slow-down the process?

If one uses MP or EMI or ABCDE or KMA every day in communications and it has a specific meaning, it eventually becomes identifiable; but to use KARO or BAFFY in most instances is less than useless.

I believe that it is possible for one to express most emotions and describe most situations using the English Language and I believe that if acronyms were useful, generally, then they would have developed long ago.

I suspect that the use of acronyms is symbolic of lazy speech, similar to swearing, whereby a person uses acronyms in lieu of the proper terminology simply due to a lack of care about speech habits.

Computer upgrades

Editor:

In times when entire missions and functions are being evaluated for waste and inefficiency, an interesting personality has evolved in contra-distinction to the retrenchment culture: the personality of the Automatic Data Processing Equipment (ADPE) addict and software junky. Such personalities appear to subscribe to a belief that state-of-the-art ADP equipment and more powerful software will always rectify whatever problems are being experienced and serve to save the order of the day.

In actuality, upon procurement of the ADP equipment and acquisition of the software, the impact expected remains manifest within those factors projected. Factors raised to justify the procurement and acquisition of that equipment and software in the first place. And also factors that will be used time and time again to justify future ADPE procurement and software acquisition, in quest of ultra-efficiency in utilization of resources and maximum productivity. Somewhere within this vicious cycle, you would think that a flag would be raised to stop this Pandora's Box of fantasy. Fantasy due to the fact that, probably overall the government lags 1-3 years behind computer industry standards for state-of-the-art ADP equipment and software. This reality is attributable to at least two factors, namely: one, under-utilization of current ADP equipment and software resources; and two, extended learning curve for proficiency on ADP effects throughout ranks of functional personnel.

A technological advancement is only as good as functional personnel's ability to understand and tap its capability. Therein lies the problem, as functional personnel's rate of understanding lags substantially behind the rate at which ADP equipment and software is changed out or upgraded. Whatever happened to the ethos of doing the best with what you have, even when what you have might not be the best? When the best has been done with what you have, and that best is still not good enough; then and only then should replacements be considered. When the determination has been made to replace, that replacement, in turn, should be congruent and to the full compliment of that replaced; that which served you so well.

Honoring the flag

Editor's note: The following poem appeared on a "Defense Billboard 54" poster which was displayed at Headquarters and Headquarters Company, MICOM. It's food for thought for those who have rushed to exit Martin Road before the flag is lowered at the end of the workday:

Somewhere
A bugle softly sounds
The message of renown,
And some inside their buildings wait
Until the flag comes down.

And others run to get their cars
Quite harrowed and dismayed,
Afraid they will not reach the gate
Before retreat is played.
Not thinking of the flag or those
Who fought to keep it flying.

How many would be glad to stand,
Whose bodies now are mute,
Or have no hand that they might raise
And stand in proud salute.

So accept it not as duty
But a privilege even more
And receive it as an honor
Instead of just a chore.

School bus registration starts Thursday

BY PAM ROGERS

Redstone residents who have children who will be riding the bus to city schools should remember that school bus registration begins Thursday.

Bus transportation will be provided to Williams Elementary, Westlawn Middle and Butler High Schools, as well as to full-time magnet schools and for special needs students, according to Don Olsen, RASA's transportation officer.

Only children whose sponsors are active duty military members who reside on post will be eligible for bus transportation. Bus stop assignments will be made upon registration, according to Pete Woodard,

Radios in office

Editor:

I am addressing the problem of radios within the work force. If a person wants to hear music while he/she works, fine. They should wear earphones. Everyone cannot be productive listening to music — especially if the music they are having to listen to is jumping jive or screaming. Everyone does not have the same taste in music and they should not be forced to have to listen to music that is distractive.

I spend more time out of the office to get away from songs that send my blood pressure through the danger zone of strokes and heart attacks when I could be at my desk working. I have plenty to keep me busy but radios blasting away drives me to find other places to hang out. If they leave their desk for a couple of hours at a time, they leave their radios blasting away to irritate other people in the area. They could be considerate enough to turn their radio off when they are not in the area.

tact, actively undertaken or passively permitted, between members of the same sex for the purpose of satisfying sexual desires or any bodily contact which a reasonable person would understand to demonstrate a propensity or intent to engage in homosexual acts. Sexual orientation is a sexual attraction to individuals of a particular sex.

The interim policy and administrative separation procedures that I established on Feb. 3, 1993, will remain in effect until Oct. 1, 1993. Secretaries of the Military Departments and responsible officials within the Office of the Secretary of Defense shall, by Oct. 1, 1993, take such actions as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this directive. Secretaries of the Military Departments will ensure that all members of the armed forces are aware of their specific responsibilities in carrying out this new policy. This memorandum creates no substantive or procedural rights. Any changes to existing policies shall be prospective only.

ACS celebrates 28th anniversary

BY SANDA MARTEL

As Army Community Service celebrates its 28th anniversary this month, local ACS staff and volunteers are pledging to continue providing services the Redstone community has become accustomed to.

"At the DA level ACS is viewed as an integral part of working with families during mobilization and assisting soldiers," said Dr. Bill Resha, ACS director.

He said ACS will continue throughout the drawdown to provide services to soldiers, family members and civilians through prevention and education classes such as Stress Management and Parenting classes.

ACS also helps soldiers leaving the installation for careers in the civilian community, Resha said, drawing upon other civilian and military resource outlets.

Another reminder from RASA: School bus registration must be renewed annually.

Here is the schedule for bus registration:

- Thursday: 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.
- July 30: 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.
- Aug. 2: 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Army Ideas for Excellence Program saves time, money

Editor's note: This is the first installment of a two-part series on the Army Ideas for Excellence Program highlighting examples of AMC programs which have been improved through the program. The author, Capeci, works in the policy and productivity division of headquarters Army Materiel Command Resource Management.

BY BOB CAPECI

"To insure peace of mind, ignore the rules and regulations," the American humorist George Ade wrote in 1901.

Many government employees doubtless have been of a mind to follow such advice at one time or another, however hazardous it might be to their occupational future.

But regulations that are unproductive are certainly no laughing matter. In government, the methods of doing business get locked in laws, regulations and policies. How can we improve if we are bound to operate in such a prescribed way? Can we cut through the red tape that stands in the way of change? Yes, thanks in large measure to the Army Ideas for Excellence Program, formerly the Army Suggestion Program.

This program provides the means to revise requirements and procedures that time or technology have rendered obsolete or counterproductive and to introduce new and innovative concepts.

It is designed to encourage ideas from commanders, supervisors, soldiers and civilian employees to reshape their jobs and worksites in a better way.

The program operates on the premise that freeing people from the "business as usual" mindset unleashes creativity and enthusiasm and increases productivity. It has demonstrated that once good ideas are generated, many can be adopted locally without approval from higher headquarters. AIEP encourages soldiers and civilian employees to challenge current procedures at any Army activity.

How does AIEP work in AMC? A suggester submits his idea to the local AIEP coordinator, located in the resource management office. If the idea shows merit, it is forwarded through the chain of command to the headquarters that has authority to adopt it — often at the Department of the Army level. Functional proponents are encouraged to match the suggester's creativity by using their know-how and daring to implement new ideas.

Adopted ideas can mean cash awards for the suggester if the idea does not fall within the individual's job duties. The benefits to the government are calculated as either tangible or intangible. The former generally pays 10 percent of the first year savings, and the latter permits up to $10,000, depending upon the idea's value and extent of implementation.

Innovation pays off

The AIEP encourages soldiers and civilian employees to surface proposals for innovative management practices, new technology, and plain old common sense to solve everyday problems. AIEP also allows commanders to experiment with new management practices by asking for a waiver to any handcuffing regulation or policy he believes is unproductive.

Good ideas have paved the way of doing business in new ways by:

- Elimination of duplicate or unnecessary reports and forms
- Simplification of procurement and inventory procedures
- Elimination of bureaucratic or obsolete procedures

AIEP initiatives have not only benefited AMC, but the ideas have frequently been adopted throughout the Army, DoD and the federal government. The nation's defense effort and ultimately the taxpayers are the beneficiaries of AMC's creativity.

In addition to submitting and evaluating ideas from within, AMC also evaluates and approves good ideas concerning war materiel from throughout the Army and the other services.

The bottom line is increased efficiency, accuracy, productivity, and more focus on mission requirements.

Good ideas

Two Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., soldiers involved in gunnery training for Bradley Fighting Vehicles designed and implemented a computer automated, user friendly, gunnery scoring procedure. The idea was forwarded through AIEP channels to the U.S. Army Infantry School, which found it superior to the standard manual procedures which were time consuming, error prone and expensive. This new method saved the Army nearly $1.3 million annually in training time, personnel and ammunition, and the two soldiers split the cash award.

An employee in the U.S. Army Armament, Munitions and Chemical Command, Ill., gained cash and more for his idea. He argued that the AMCCOM procedure for determining the serviceability of large gun barrels was ideally suited for the Navy. The Naval Sea Systems Command agreed and sent a personal note of gratitude for his idea.

Safety was the prime consideration of one Anniston Army Depot, Ala., employee. His suggestion was prompted by observing the procedures used to dispose of leaking M-55 chemical rockets. The defective weapons were lifted and carried into a work area, placed on the floor, positioned into a sealing container without a safe way to lock them in place and then the 200 pound, bulky load wrestled onto a truck. This procedure was carried out by four men dressed in protective clothing that produced 100 degree plus temperatures. At the very least, strained backs or mashed fingers were a real possibility. Was there a better way?

The creative solution was a cart designed by the suggester which allows the procedure to be completed with ease and safety. With the cart, two employees roll the leaking rockets into the work area, lock them in place during containerization, and then roll them onto a truck for removal. Reduced are time and personnel required for the task, but most of all the possibility of accidents is greatly diminished. The AMC Field Safety Activity, Ind., approved the design and recommended an award of $500.

The overall goal of the AIEP is to foster an environment that is receptive to change and enlists the creativity and enthusiasm of the people who know best how to do a job, namely, those who are doing it. "AIEP," as one old soldier put it, "allows one to question authority without being impertinent." And if this means changing some rules, well, maybe Mr. Ade was a bit ahead of his time.

Installation management streamlined by Army

WASHINGTON — A new organization that consolidates all managerial functions for Army installations into a single agency was formally established at a Pentagon ceremony July 7.

The new Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff for Installation Management will focus on streamlining functions, integrating doctrine and conserving resources.

The Army is re-examining its tradition of self-sufficient installations, analyzing which services installations should continue to provide, those that should be divested, and those that could be contracted most economically.

Acting Installation Management Chief J. C. Menig will be replaced by Maj. Gen. John H. Little in August. (Arnews)

Local DFAS recognized for foreign sales work

BY SANDA MARTEL

The Defense Finance and Accounting Service at Redstone has received an award for closing more foreign military sales cases than any other element in the Department of Defense.

Travis Humphries, chief of the Validation Billing Branch, received an award in Denver June 24 for closing 81 cases representing more than $4 million in unliquidated obligations, the best record in Army, Air Force and Navy.

It was in January of this year that Humphries was in Denver to hear how DoD was going to implement new procedures for accelerated case closure.

"This new procedure allows us to clean out our records and close FMS cases that have long running contracts. In the past, we were unable to close the case until the contract was closed," Humphries said.

This is accomplished by having the FMS customer deposit the remaining items to be paid for into an equity account for the government, Humphries said.

He said customers have "hounded us for years" to close their cases so this new procedure allows for better customer satisfaction.

"We're very excited about this. Now we can finally close cases that were implemented as far back as the mid-70s," Humphries noted.

WINNING TEAM — Validation Billing Branch employees worked to complete case closure on 81 foreign military sales cases January-July 1993.

Foreign military sales is a multi-billion dollar MICOM program involving sales of Program Executive Office managed missile systems to some 52 foreign countries.

A total of 299 employees draw full-time salaries generated from FMS sales at Redstone, Humphries said.

"We'd be at a loss without it. FMS business increases the volume of work in the contractor arena and without it, contractors in this area would be severely impacted," he said. "FMS puts a lot of dollars on the street."

Humphries gave a lot of credit to Security Assistance Management Directorate employees, who played a major role in getting the cases closed. SAMD is responsible for the logistical aspects of foreign military sales; DFAS handles the financial end.

Take night out against crime Aug. 3

On Tuesday, Aug. 3 neighbors throughout Redstone are invited to join forces with thousands of communities nationwide for the fifth annual "National Night Out" crime/drug prevention event.

National Night Out, which is sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch and co-sponsored locally by the Provost Marshal Office, will involve over 8,500 communities from all 50 states, U.S. territories, Canadian cities, and military bases around the world. In all, more than 25 million people are expected to participate in "America's Night Out Against Crime" on Aug. 3.

According to the Provost Marshal Office, National Night Out is designed to: Heighten crime and drug prevention awareness; generate support and participation in local anti-crime efforts; strengthen neighborhood spirit and police-community relations; and send a message to criminals letting them know neighborhoods are organized and fighting back.

From 6-10 p.m. Aug. 3, residents of Redstone Arsenal are asked to lock their doors, turn on their outside lights, and spend the evening at ballfield 8 on Goss Road with neighbors and police. This year's theme is "Give Crime and Drugs a Going Away Party." The event will include various police and community displays, games and refreshments.

Take a walk in the moon bounce, watch the K-9s in action, join in on the dance contest, or just spend a leisurely evening enjoying the displays and fellowship, the Provost Marshal Office said in a prepared release. Activities will include a street dance on Hughes Drive. The dance contest is to consist of events for preteens, teens and over-18s.

Shuttle service will be provided from 6-10 that evening for troops and family members living in the barracks or housing area. For more information about National Night Out, call the Provost Marshal Office 876-4137.

Multiple Launch Rocket System improvements eyed

Editor's note: MLRS Project Office provided the following release.

The MLRS Project Office successfully demonstrated the Improved Launcher Mechanical System (ILMS) to the Field Artillery community and others Thursday at Fort Sill, Okla.

Those in attendance included George Williams, program executive officer for tactical missiles; Brig. Gen. John Dubia, commandant of the Army Field Artillery School; and Brig. Gen. John Longhouser, assistant deputy for systems management, Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Research, Development and Acquisition.

ILMS represents the first of three planned improvements to Multiple Launch Rocket System response time. They are: Making the time from the Loader-Launcher Module's first movement to its aim-point 10 seconds or less; a 50 percent reduction in the travel lock cycle time; and reducing the boom and hoist time during load and reload operations from just over three minutes to approximately a minute and half.

The current version of the M270 launcher takes 93 seconds from the time the gunner presses the Launcher Lay key to reach its aimpoint. ILMS reduces that time to just 13 seconds. Further, with the improvements made to date, the total mechanical load-reload time has been reduced by 30 percent. A faster boom and hoist are planned for incorporation into the ILMS program that will ultimately reduce that time by 50 percent.

In terms of tactical impact, ILMS provides a greater effectiveness against mobile targets, a need identified during Desert Storm. Also, because the response time is reduced, an MLRS launcher can attack more targets in less time. Finally, ILMS enhances crew survivability through a 75 percent reduction in exposure time (time on the firing point).

Although not yet a funded program, the ILMS initiative is the result of a joint government/industry effort involving the MLRS Project Office, its prime contractor, Loral Vought Systems, and four other contractors (Vickers, Lourdes, GEC and Pitts). In the ILMS system design, current hydraulic components and the elevation transmission were removed. In their place were added new microprocessor-controlled hydraulic components, a new angle drive and a new skewed-roller elevation transmission. Minor modifications to the fire control software were made as well.

ILMS continues the evolution of MLRS in providing the soldier what he needs on the battlefield.

Iowa Guardsmen combat Mississippi River disaster

CAMP DODGE, Iowa — When some of the worst flooding in the state's history forced thousands of Iowans from their homes in early July, units of the Iowa National Guard were on-hand to provide disaster relief.

The scenario began to unfold in late June, when record rainfall in Iowa and Minnesota caused the Mississippi River to crest at 22.4 feet, about seven feet above flood stage. The flood waters caused millions of dollars in damage to businesses, homes and farm fields and forced thousands of people from their homes from Dubuque to Keokuk.

Torrential rains falling on saturated ground in central and western Iowa on July 8 caused rivers and creeks to overflow their banks in that part of the state.

Forty members of Company A and Combat Support Company, 1st Battalion, 133rd Infantry, Dubuque, were the first Iowa Guard members ordered to state active duty. Their job was to support efforts of local officials to fight flood waters in the Marquette area.

About the same time, 50 soldiers from Headquarters Co., 334th Forward Support Bn.; Co. A, 334th FSB; and Co. C, 682nd Engineer Bn., Davenport, were ordered to active duty to assist in the Davenport area. There they assisted with sandbagging in a residential area and around the sewage treatment plant.

During the next few days, flooding spread throughout the entire state. Residents were evacuated from their homes in Eddyville and Ottumwa in southern Iowa; parts of Iowa City and Coralville were paralyzed by floodwaters; a section of Interstate 80 near Iowa City was closed, snarling traffic; and supplies of drinking water were cut off in several communities.

Jerry Ostendorf, state coordinator for the Emergency Management Division, said the July flood could be the biggest disaster in the state's history.

As of July 10, more than 1,100 troops had been called up to active duty to assist in the flood relief effort. Units included Hqs., State Area Command; Hqs., 2nd

Bde., 34th Infantry Division; 334th FSB; Co. C, 682nd Engr. Bn.; Co's. B and D, 224th Engr. Bn.; 234th Signal Bn.; 2nd Bn., 147th Aviation; 1st Bn., 133rd Inf., 1034th Quartermaster Supply Co.; 134th Medical Co. (Ambulance); 135th Public Affairs Detachment; and the Iowa Air National Guard's 132nd Civil Engineering Squadron. (From a 135th Public Affairs Detachment, Iowa National Guard release.)

System changes for determining supervisor's grade

BY SANDA MARTEL

Up until now supervisory grades have been determined by the number of people supervised. That is changing, however, with a general schedule supervisory guide recently published by the Office of Personnel Management.

This new position classification standard applies to general schedule (GS or GM) supervisory positions, grades GS-5 through GS-15, and more than 1,000 positions serviced by Civilian Personnel Office will be af-

"The good part of this new supervisory guide is that it frees managers to build an organization of the size and type they need instead of building an organization to support grade levels."

— Lori Reynolds
Civilian Personnel

ected, Lori Reynolds, chief of Classification Branch, said.

With the implementation of the guide, grades of those who supervise others will be set by a point evaluation method that considers six factors: program scope and effect; organizational setting; supervisory and managerial authority exercised; personal contacts; difficulty of typical work directed; and other conditions.

"The good part of this new supervisory guide is that it frees managers to build an organization of the size and type they need instead of building an organization to support grade levels," Reynolds said.

CPO officials hope supervisors view the change as an opportunity to set up their organizations in the way it needs to be set up, instead of to support certain supervisory positions.

"The pyramid effect is gone with this new standard," Reynolds said.

Currently there's a cap on promotions at the GS-13/14/15 levels and Reynolds said there's no relief expected in that area because of the new guide, "but there won't be a problem with preserving the existing grades."

Reynolds anticipates that every supervisory job standard will be rewritten during the next 18 month period, the time given by OPM to implement this new change.

CPO will conduct training sessions on writing new standards beginning in July, she said.

If current job descriptions of those affected by this new position classification standard are still good, job audits will not be done, Reynolds said. But because of recent downsizing and retirements, some audits may be required.

The new classification standard affects supervisory positions throughout the federal service.

CONTRACT PROFESSIONALS — Julia Marsh, left, contract specialist for TOW Acquisition Branch of Division "B," and Roger Pearson, right, contract cost-pricing analyst of the Contract Cost Division, are the recipients of the Acquisition Center's "Contract Professional of the Quarter Award" for the third quarter of fiscal 1993. Maj. Gen. Joe Rigby, commander of the Missile Command, made the presentations. According to a prepared release, "these two people exemplified leadership, professionalism and teamwork as they worked toward the achievement of the FY 93 TOW Missile System Production Buy."

Emergency Room mission and hours to change

BY CLINT KENDRICK
The Fox Army Community Hospital Emergency Room will cease 24-hour-a-day operation and become an Urgent Care Clinic Oct. 1 due to a $1.6 million decrease in hospital funding from Health Services Command.

"Budget and staffing cuts have forced us to concentrate our resources and efforts where they are most cost-effective."

*— Dr. (Lt. Col.) Kirk
Acting hospital commander*

Urgent medical problems and emergencies will continue to be seen in the former Emergency Room location between 7 a.m. and 10:30 p.m. After 10:30 p.m., emergencies will be transported to an acute care facility downtown. Non-emergency patients must wait for care during normal clinic hours.

Dr. (Lt. Col.) J. Mark Kirk, acting hospital commander, said, "Family Practice Clinic, Outpatient Clinic and Pediatrics have same-day appointments for patients needing same-day care. Non-urgent conditions will be given appointments as soon as possible.

"Budget and staffing cuts have forced us to concentrate our resources and efforts where they are most cost-effective. An analysis of the previous year's statistics indicates that few emergencies are seen after 10:30 p.m. in the Emergency Room. Unfortunately, we cannot justify the high cost of continuing 24-hour service. It is more cost effective to transport true emergency patients to a designated civilian hospital than to maintain staffing for three shifts," Kirk said.

This policy also applies to active duty personnel who will be seen at the civilian facility after 10:30 p.m. for emergencies. Active duty patients who are admitted will then be transported to Fox Army Community Hospital as soon as possible. Emergent care at a civilian hospital is at no expense to the active duty servicemember.

"Emergency care will still be available," Kirk said. "The ambulance service will continue to operate around the clock. Urgent and emergent cases will continue to be seen at Fox during normal clinic hours, 7 a.m. until 10:30 p.m."

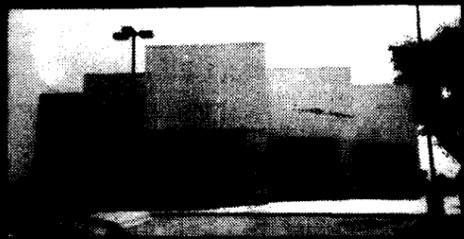

Dr. (Capt.) Nathan Ellis, emergency care physician, said, "the Urgent Care Clinic (formerly Emergency Room) will not be a walk-in clinic for routine illnesses and injuries. Patients will be assessed to determine the nature and extent of their problem. If the problem is not urgent or emergent, the patient will be asked to make a routine or same-day appointment with the proper clinic."

Ellis said that the majority of patients who come in for care are not emergencies. Current Emergency Room policies will not change with the change in hours and clinic name. Patients seeking care will be screened by a health care provider from 7 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. and placed into one of three categories: emergent, urgent and non-urgent.

Emergency cases will be handled immediately during Urgent Care Clinic operating hours and transported to a civilian facility after hours. Urgent patients will be treated on an "as soon as possible" basis during clinic hours. Patients should use a civilian facility for urgent care after hours.

"I want to emphasize again that no patient is being denied care," Kirk said. "We simply must use our assets and funding in the most efficient manner to maintain the quality of care for all our patients."

Dental Activity's new commander an Atlanta native

The new commander of Redstone's Dental Activity is an Atlanta native who last served an assignment in Germany.

Col. Kenneth Fowler assumed command of the DENTAC here during a change of command ceremony July 21 in front of the main dental clinic. He succeeded Col. James D'Anna who leaves for an assignment as commander of the Dental Activity at Fort Knox, Ky.

"To the DENTAC family, it's an honor and a privilege to be your commander," Fowler said at the ceremony. He thanked the attendees for their presence during the warm Alabama day, praised Redstone Arsenal and accepted the challenge of continuing the level of service of his predecessor.

D'Anna, who served as commander since July 2, 1990, thanked the Dental Activity and the community on behalf of his family: wife, Bev, and sons John, 15, and Mark, 12. "This tour has been super for all of us. We'll miss you all, but we're delighted to be leaving you in such capable hands," D'Anna said.

Maj. Gen. Joe Rigby, commander of the Missile Command and Redstone Arsenal, officiated at the change of command ceremony. "Ken (Fowler) brings with him a distinguished record in the profession," Rigby said.

Fowler was born in Atlanta on July 29, 1943. He graduated with a bachelor of science degree from Morehouse College in 1970 and Emory University School of Dentistry with a doctor of dental surgery degree in 1974, both in Atlanta. He entered active duty in September 1974 and was assigned to Fort Devens, Mass., after completing his Georgia Dental Board. He later completed the advanced officer course in July 1977 and general dentistry residency course at Fort Hood, Texas, in 1979. Fowler also graduated from the Army Command and General Staff College in April 1988.

He comes to the Redstone Dental Activity as his first command. Fowler previously served as officer in charge of the dental clinic at Wiesbaden, Germany. Other assignments include deputy commander of the 122nd Medical Detachment in Southwest Asia during Desert Shield/Storm, and DENTAC executive officer and chief of operative dentistry at Fort Stewart, Ga.

Fowler is a member of the American Dental Association, the Academy of General Dentistry, and the Federation Dentaire Internationale. His awards include the Bronze Star, Meritorious Unit Citation, Meritorious Service Medal with two oak leaf clusters, the Army Commendation Medal with oak leaf cluster, National Defense Ribbon with bronze service star, Army Overseas Ribbon with numeral three, and the Southwest Asia Service Medal.

He is married to the former Elinor Atkins from Atlanta; and they have just celebrated their 27th anniversary on July 3.

REFRESHMENTS FOR HOT DAY — John D'Anna, 15-year-old son of Col. James and Bev D'Anna, poses next to the Boy Scout Troop 308 trailer which was purchased from donations provided by the Thrift Shop. The trailer offered needed refreshments to attendees at the DENTAC change of command ceremony.

HONORARY CITIZEN — Doc Holliday, the acting administrative assistant to Huntsville Mayor Steve Hettinger, presents an Honorary Citizenship Certificate to Lt. Col. Joseph Paddock, former commander of the 832nd Ordnance Battalion. The certificate, presented during Paddock's farewell luncheon July 16 at the Officers Club, was the only serious part of the luncheon that day, as the event went on to become a good-natured roast of the ex-commander. Paddock's wife, Sue, nodded in approval and every so often joined in the comments as each company commander took the podium to poke fun at Paddock. He moves on to the Space and Strategic Defense Command in Huntsville's Research Park.

WHY LIVE WITH THESE CONDITIONS?

Let's Correct The Cause!

Headaches and migraine headaches can be due to nerve pressure. The head and/or neck will hurt occasionally or constantly. The pain may be localized behind the eyes, at the temples or begin at the base of the skull in the neck and lead over the top of the head. Other times the pain may radiate from neck to shoulder blade or down the shoulder and into the arm. The only solution is to get to the cause of the problem not just cover up the pain with medication. # DEH organization day a success despite the heat

BY SANDA MARTEL

About 125 employees and family members of the Directorate of Engineering and Housing braved the heat Thursday and enjoyed Organization Day at recreation area 2.

This was the fourth year for the summer event, according to event organizer Anita Harrison. But after sweltering in 98-99 degree temperatures during the afternoon, it will be changed to Fall next year, Keith Kirksey said.

Employees bought tickets for a meal of hot dogs, hamburgers, baked beans, coleslaw, chips and drinks. A deal was worked out with soldiers from the Better Opportunities for Single Soldiers (BOSS) group to cook the meal in exchange for a donation from the day's proceeds.

Picnickers paid to play bingo, participate in a Cake Walk and for a chance to dunk a boss in the dunking booth.

A basketball game lasted only about 20 minutes because of the temperatures and softball games were also shortened, but a completed volleyball game found the managers defeating the interns 17-15.

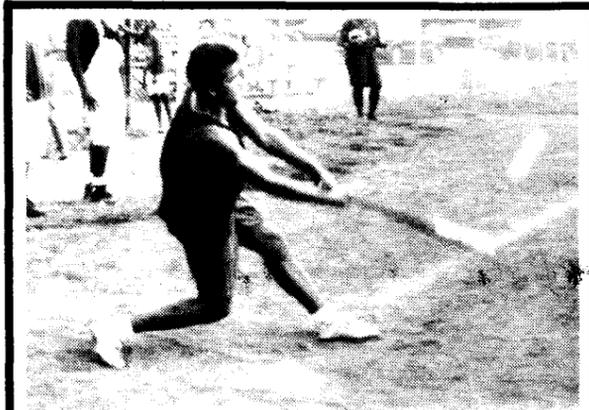

WHERE'S THE SHADE? — This group of employees looks for a cool place to rest after enjoying their meal.

PICNIC TIME — Phillip Bagnall, 2, son of Fred and Teresa Bagnall, enjoys his iced drink in the shade. Fred works in DEH's Mechanical/Electrical section.

CAMARADERIE — Anita Harrison, left, and Duane Elder have a chance to get to know each other better at the DEH organization day.

HOME RUN — Spec. Lonnie Williams of HHC 832nd Ordnance Battalion hits a home run during HHC 832nd's Organization Day held July 16 at recreation area 1, formerly known as military recreation area. The annual event featured boat rides for children of soldiers in the company, plenty of food, and the only overcast and breezy day in recent memory.

Funeral detail a solemn but worthwhile duty for soldiers

BY TONY RAMOS

As an American soldier, there are several entitlements that make military life worthy of the many sacrifices a military family makes to continue to ensure our country's freedoms. Along with such benefits as the commissary, post exchange and free medical care, a very important one is hardly ever mentioned: the entitlement to a military burial.

The Redstone Arsenal Funeral Detail strives to make this last passage a memorable one for the family of the deceased. Funeral details are not military occupations; instead they are made up of soldiers from Redstone who are assigned according to a set schedule. MICOM and TMDE provide the soldiers for four months of the year, and 832nd Ordnance Battalion provides the soldiers during the remaining eight months.

SSgt. Aubrey Mathis, NCO-in-charge of the 832nd Ordnance Battalion detail, takes his job very seriously. As of this writing he was out gathering information for another funeral this weekend. Mathis, who has served in the funeral detail for three years, is in charge of two platoons which work the funerals on a rotating basis. Each platoon consists of about 20 soldiers. The detail is always on call and ready — weekends or weekdays and holidays. The detail consists mainly of career soldiers who practice and rehearse constantly for this duty.

Many years ago Redstone had a bugle player to accompany the funeral, but since then a recording of Taps has been used to accompany the funerals. However, thanks to the voluntary participation of Ray Jones, a retiree from the Space and Strategic Defense Command, many of the funerals are accompanied once more by the sound of the bugle.

Jones has a long, if unwilling, history with burials and the bugle. Since age 11, Jones has been a bugle player; because of this, he has found himself participating in burials regardless of where he goes. For instance when he was in high school, his band director was a warrant officer in the Guard and had him play at various times. At 16 there were other things Jones would rather have been doing, but he never said no to such a request. He then decided to join the Navy, partly to get away from all those funerals. Nevertheless once they found out he could play, he again found himself playing at burials. Because many of the deaths were at sea, Jones accompanied the bodies to San Diego where the bodies would then receive a proper burial — with him playing Taps. This time around though, Jones says he is doing it because he wants the Huntsville community to have something that he feels rightfully belongs to the deceased: the time honored tradition of being buried with a lonely bugle crying the cords of Taps in the wind.

Due to the military tradition of Tennessee Valley residents, and the attraction this area has held for military retirees for many years, the funeral detail and Jones are kept busy. The detail serves an area that includes eastern Mississippi, western Georgia, southern Tennessee, and central to north Alabama.

Hunt and Fish Shop the place to go for hunters, anglers

BY SKIP VAUGHN

A shop operated by the Post Exchange has everything the hunter and fisherman might need to pursue their favorite hobby.

The Hunt and Fish Shop, which opened in May, sells supplies for hunting, fishing and camping. Like the rest of the Post Exchange, only authorized ID cardholders can shop there.

"Customers say we have very good prices," said Donna Lawyer, supervisor of the Hunt and Fish Shop. Prices range from as little as 42 cents for a sinker, up to $200 for a top of the line bow. Reels run anywhere from $9 to as much as $170.

Anglers — from the amateur to the professional — can probably find whatever they need within the 28-by-26 room filled with fishing equipment. "That's 728 square feet of fishing; nothing but fishing," added Beverley Martin, the sales area manager over the Hunt and Fish. These include fishing rods, trolling motors, boat covers — all kinds of boat and trailer accessories. The shop also sells live bait.

"On the fishing side, we're going to have a spooling clinic and it's Saturday, Aug. 28th, from 8-4," Martin said. "The spooling clinic will be done by McCoy Fishing Line. And what you'll do is you can bring one rod and reel and they will spool your reel for free. And if you purchase a reel, you can have all the reels you purchase spooled for free. Like if you purchase five reels, you can have all five spooled. But if you bring your own reel in, they will only do one."

Hunters can find bows and arrows and other archery accessories. Hunting clothing, including the insulated variety, should be available soon.

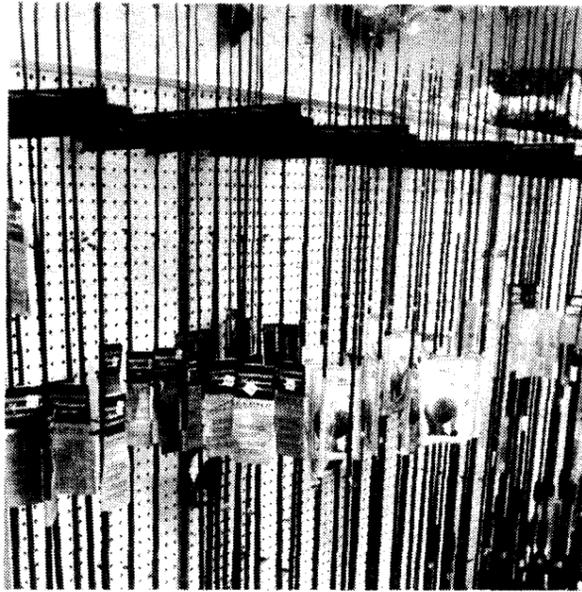

Firearms — including rifles and shotguns, but excluding pistols — will be sold on a special-order basis only. Catalogues will be available; and customers will pay in advance of their firearms order. "Going into the selling of firearms is an action that we're taking based on the community's request," said Chuck Lisgaris, the PX manager. He expects to see this firearms ordering service begin within the next 30 to 60 days, depending on when a state license is obtained.

The Hunt and Fish Shop is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8-4 Saturday and 10-4 Sunday. The phone number is 883-8368. Like other exchange facilities, the shop offers the Deferred Payment Plan for customer convenience. The shop is located at building 3475 on Honest John Road, near the Army Community Service building.

Staff members include Lawyer, the supervisor; Robert McCowan and Geraldine Jenkins. Martin, the sales area manager, oversees the operation from the Main Exchange.

"We feel we have the best prices; we have the best selection," Martin said. "If we don't have it, we will try to get what they (the customers) want. And half the money goes back to the Morale and Welfare Support Fund."

Said Lawyer, "A great majority of our customers state that a shop like this has been long-needed at Redstone."

PEO-Tactical Missiles earns honor

The Missile Command and the Program Executive Office for Tactical Missiles were among the recipients of DoD-wide value engineering awards for fiscal 1992.

Deputy Secretary of Defense William Perry presented the annual honorary awards for value engineering achievements during fiscal 1992 in a ceremony July 21 at the Pentagon. The awards are intended to further the use of value engineering by the Department of Defense personnel and contractors.

Value engineering is a systematic functional analysis leading to actions or recommendations to improve the value of systems, equipment, facilities, services and supplies. The objectives are to improve quality and to reduce cost and schedules.

During FY 1992 some 4,401 in-house value engineering proposals were accepted DoD-wide with a reported savings of $750 million. Another 392 contractor-initiated value engineering change proposals were accepted with an additional savings of $319 million.

The value engineering award program is a highly visible acknowledgement of exemplary achievements and encourages additional projects to improve in-house and contractor productivity. Each DoD component was encouraged to forward one nominee in each of seven categories: program management, individual, procurement/contract administration, value engineering professional, field command, installation, and contractor. Each award winner receives a DoD plaque. The award winners for the categories of field command, installation, and contractor also receive a pennant.

George Williams, program executive officer for tactical missiles, accepted the Army's award for program management. According to an award letter, the Program Executive Office for Tactical Missiles completed five contractor initiated value engineering change proposals and 17 internally-developed value engineering proposals during fiscal 1992. These actions produced $179.4 million in savings for the Army, the letter states.

The Army's other honorees include:

- Team — Janice Dove of the Missile Command, and Robert Kirby of Multiple Launch Rocket System Team
- Procurement/contract administration — Beatrice Foulds-Stadnika and Michael Rehm, Tank Automotive Command
- Professional — Vincent Vanranker of Depot System Command
- Field command — Missile Command
- Installation — Tooele Army Depot.

Redstone's outdoor sportsmen receive training

BY RICHARD LONARDO

Despite the heat in the room, more than 20 students watched intently as the instructor set the mousetrap that was glued on top of the wooden rifle. He then passed it to the students. However, the "loaded weapon" was passed through dozens of hands before one sharp student took the time to release the trap before passing it on. And that was exactly the point that Bill Kerlin, a volunteer instructor for the Alabama Hunter Safety Course, was trying to make. Everyone should be aware of weapon safety instead of letting sloppy situations turn into disasters. The model rifle and mousetrap exercise opened everyone's eyes to the class materials.

Kerlin covered hunter safety and ethics in this first part of the three-day class. Two additional Saturdays would be devoted to training the predominately "father and son" students on hunter safety. More than 17 topics would be covered including those on wildlife management and ID, tree stand safety, first aid, survival, etc. Finally, a 100-question test would be administered to check the students' understanding of the material.

The class was held Tuesday, July 20 at the Yacht Club building on the south end of Redstone Arsenal. The course is required for any new hunters born on or after Aug. 1, 1977. Upon completion the students can use the certification in 44 other states which recognize the importance of hunter safety education and mandate it by law. Kerlin, the instructor, has taught this course for several years here and also two years in Germany and one year in New Jersey. He says he enjoys teaching youth about conservation and responsibility. Moreover, Kerlin represents the best of a group of sportsmen concerned about the future of our natural resources.

This new group, known as the Redstone Arsenal Outdoor Sportsmen Association, is a volunteer group of people dedicated to the promotion of outdoor activities in the Redstone community. It is composed of both civilian and military volunteers interested in promoting conservation, hunting, fishing, marksmanship, canoeing, boating, and any other type of outdoor activity that promotes the appreciation and utilization of the great outdoors.

Although the group is new, they have already set aggressive goals in the areas of conservation projects, hunter education, youth activities, and countless other special events. Like any new organization, the Redstone Arsenal Outdoor Sportsmen is looking for more people interested in the aforementioned activities to come voice their opinions, interests and concerns. The Junior Officers Club is the site of the next meeting to be held at 6 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 5. The schedule of events includes discussion of a constitution and bylaws, types of committees that should be formed (examples include conservation, bowhunting, canoeing, etc.), upcoming events and a guest speaker.

All military and government employees and their dependents, and contractors and their dependents, are welcome to participate. Interested persons can find out more by calling Jack Ferguson 876-8850. For more information about hunter safety, call Ray Metzeler 1-800-245-2740.

Exercise caution with summer workouts

Editor's note: Goodman is a nurse educator at Preventive Medicine Service, Fox Army Community Hospital.

BY SUSAN GOODMAN

Summer's long, humid days are upon us. As you exercise, it is important to account for the heat and to train safely.

When you exercise, you lose more than unwanted fat. You also lose fluids, which can lead to dehydration and heat stroke. It is essential to replace these fluids as you sweat. You cannot depend on thirst as a sign of dehydration as thirst is not always a good indicator. You may quench your thirst yet still not have fully replaced your fluid loss. Drink water or any nonalcoholic, noncaffeinated beverage — you do not need a "sports drink." Drink before, during and after exercise — at least eight ounces (a cup) every 15 to 20 minutes. Don't wait until you feel thirsty.

When training, avoid the heat of the day. Exercise in the early morning or the evening, when it's coolest. Wear a hat or stay in a shaded area.

Dress appropriately. The more clothing you wear, the higher your body temperature becomes and the harder your heart has to work. Joggers on post have been seen wearing rubberized clothing or heavy sweats. Your body cools itself by sweating. Rubberized clothing can be very dangerous as it decreases the body's chance for the evaporation of sweat. Also, it increases the body's response to exercise and makes heavy demands on the circulatory system. Light, loose fitting clothing is best to keep the body cool.

Have fun during the summer months, but take precautions when training outside in the heat.

Do not overexert yourself. Scale back on the intensity of your workout for a week, until you become adapted to the heat.

Know when to stop. If you feel dizzy, faint, nauseated, disoriented, excessively fatigued, or stop sweating — stop exercising immediately. Get into the shade and get cool water in you and on you. If symptoms persist, get help immediately.

During the hot, humid weather, you may want to try other activities. Try swimming or choose an indoor activity such as an aerobic dance class, stationary cycling, or rowing.

Exercise is one part of the formula for a long, healthy life. Have fun during the summer months, but take precautions when training outside in the heat.

Coed Softball League completes regular season

The Civilian Welfare Fund Coed Softball League completed its regular season play July 20. With the Riffers taking the Eastern Division title and the SSDC/COE team taking the Western Division title, the division playoffs mirrored the end of the 1992 season when these two teams faced each other on the last day of the end-of-the-season playoffs.

In the first game, the Riffers rallied behind home runs by Chris Black, Rick James and Charlton Sample to win 18-12. But by the time the second game started, the heat had clearly exacted a toll on both teams and the power seemed gone from the bats and the spring from each player's step. Still, SSDC/COE knew they had to win this one to force the third game on Thursday.

The Riffers quickly jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning, but fell behind in the second as SSDC/COE scored two runs on Terry Bauer's triple. They added two more in the top of the third inning, and would have scored more had it not been for Rick James' excellent defensive play at the plate. This seemed to give the Riffers an edge, as they scored six runs in the bottom of that inning, on eight singles. The Riffers added one more in the fourth and two in the sixth when James hit a double for the Riffers' only extra base hit of the game. But SSDC/COE was not to be counted out, even though they were down by 10-4. Doubles by Darrin Jackman and Terry Bauer, a triple by Brandon Pearce, and a scattering of singles brought the score to 10-9 when the dust finally settled.

The league now wipes the regular season slate clean and begins its double elimination tournament to determine who will represent the league in the post World Series against NASA. To see the action, go to field 13 after 5 p.m. any Monday through Thursday for the next three weeks. The first games were set for July 26.

Here are the final regular-season standings for the CWF Coed Softball League:

• Eastern Division — Riffers, 13-2; Rippers, 11-4; BeBe's Kids, 11-4; TOW Jammers, 7-8; Virtual Reality, 6-9; and HWIL Simulators, 2-13.

• Western Division — SSDC/COE, 10-4; Lethal Weapons, 7-7; Pray for Rain, 5-9; IMMC Fanatics, 4-10; and DCD, 4-10.

Lounge

about two years ago. He is serving as manager of the new place for the next two months to help it get started. The grand opening is set for Aug. 2 with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 10:30 that morning. The facility is already in operation, except for the delivery service which begins the night of Aug. 2.

Pizza Plus Express — not its permanent name; a contest is to decide that — offers lunch from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday. The lunch buffet includes pasta, pizza and salads. If you don't want to eat from the lunch buffet, you can order from the menu. In the evenings, it's strictly order from the menu. Evening hours, including inhouse service and the soon-to-begin delivery service, are 4-10 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 4-11 p.m. Friday. On Saturday and Sunday, the hours are 11 a.m. until 11 p.m.

People can call in orders at 882-2459. They can either eat at the facility, or carry out their lunch and dinner; again, delivery service starts the night of Aug. 2. This will be strictly on-post delivery, and during the evenings only.

"The whole idea behind this (facility) is to offer the Redstone community another service," Hicks said. "In this time of diminishing dollars, we in the club system are trying to do more for our customers. This gives people on the Arsenal another outlet for lunch. Also it gives the soldier and their families another outlet in the evenings to come and relax." He added that the facility offers a variety of foods for takeout or delivery; unlike other fastfood operations that offer pizza only or hamburgers only.

There's plenty for the sports enthusiast, too. "We have three satellite dishes, 14 TVs — to include one in each bathroom," Kallo said. Sure enough, there is a television in each of the four restrooms (two men's and two women's). A system called NTN, broadcast out of Carlsbad, Calif., enables viewers throughout North America to compete for prizes in sports trivia and general trivia. This system is to be available here starting this week.

For those who like sipping cold beverages while they watch sports, the saloon opens at 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and at 11 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday. Besides beer, wine and liquor, you also can get non-alcoholic beverages.

A few examples of the food prices include: a half-pound hamburger with all the trimmings and fries, $4; a 16-inch pizza, with guaranteed larger portions of toppings than elsewhere, $14.50; a Philly steak sub, $3.95; and an Italian meatball sub, $3.65. Keeping with the sports theme, the menu categories include "pregame warm-up," finger foods, pasta and salad; "all star subs," the six sub sandwiches; "base runners," various meats with fries; "in the dugout," burgers; the "home plate," barbecue items; "extra point," apple or cherry pie; and "off the glass," beverages.

Among the visitors last week, Thomas R. Moore, director of installation support for the Corporate Information Center, told another visitor: "My comments are it's excellent for the price. I think it's fine. It's fattening, but it's fine."

Located at building 3400 near the corner of Gray and Ajax roads, the facility is under the Community and Family Activities, the MWR Business Office, Club

System. It should have a full staff of 34 by Aug. 2. "We're looking forward to continue to serve the Redstone community in this exciting venture. And we invite everybody to come by and try us," Hicks said. "We offer 100 percent guarantee."

NOW OPEN — The new Pizza Plus Express and Sports Lounge is located at building 3400, formerly the Enlisted Club, near the corner of Gray and Ajax roads.

TELEVISIONS EVERYWHERE — This television set is mounted in a men's restroom. There are televisions in each of the four restrooms.

Former pro football great coming to lounge opening

BY MICHELLE JENNESS-STULTS

The Redstone Arsenal community is invited to the grand opening of the Sports Lounge, Aug. 2, building 3400. A ribbon-cutting ceremony will be at 10:30 a.m. with refreshments served afterwards. At 7 p.m., John Stallworth, former four-time Super Bowl champion with the Pittsburgh Steelers, will meet the community and sign autographs.

Located in what used to be the Enlisted Club, the Sports Lounge will provide the entire Redstone community with a convenient, centrally located, sports themed club with all the amenities.

The sports lounge has access to world sports via three satellite dishes. We also bring to you NTN communications, a linkup live game that lets you play against other competitors in North America. Showdown is NTN's premier 90-minute live interactive game show. It is the world's largest game show, and is played here every Tuesday. Thousands of dollars are given in prizes and awards. Sports Trivia is in the ultimate sports game show consisting of both current and historical sports facts. This game is played 52 weeks a year for prizes. These are just two of the many sports-related games that are being offered.

Front door delivery (during the evenings beginning Aug. 2) is available on the Arsenal with the convenience of charge, to include Diners Club, Mastercard, Visa, and Officers Club Cards. Personal checks are also accepted. The Redstone Arsenal Sports Lounge is the only local sports themed facility that offers delivery. The wide variety of foods delivered ensures the entire family satisfaction. How many delivery services can accommodate your family with pizza, sandwiches, burgers, barbecue, salads and much more? Another outstanding quality we guarantee is that you get a larger portion of toppings on our pizzas than any other pizza place can offer.

Civilians can find help here with their personal problems

BY SKIP VAUGHN

Far too often a local federal employee with personal troubles takes them downtown and ends up paying for counseling services which he might have received for free here.

The civilian program at the Community Counseling Center should be the first stop for workers or family members who have problems of any type — not necessarily drug or alcohol related.

"We see people for all kinds of problems, not just chemical or alcohol problems. We see people that have a myriad of problems — it can be marital problems, financial problems, psychological or emotional problems, grief, adjustment problems, anything," said Ed Fahey, the center's civilian program coordinator. "Regardless of the problem, we will attempt to help the employee recognize the problem and then make a referral for treatment if necessary.

"If the problem should happen to be alcohol or drugs — and that can be with the individual or a family member — we can provide outpatient treatment here at no cost to the employee. If the problem is chemically related and inpatient care is necessary or if the problem is non-chemically related, there will be cost to the employee. However, we try to work within the parameters of the employee's insurance coverage to look for the most cost-effective treatment," Fahey said.

This service is confidential. The civilian program is available to federal workers in the Redstone area, their family members, military retirees and their family members. Fahey tries to make employees aware of this service through their supervisors, but recognizes that everyone might not get the message. "It is to the employee's benefit to know that we are a very confidential, helpful agency that would be glad to hear their concerns; and that's the message we need to get to the community," he said.

Here are some other things related to the civilian program which he would like the community to know:

- If someone has an active alcohol or chemical problem in the family, it affects the whole family. "We have a group here for non-abusers in that category and we can help them with outpatient group therapy and some individual counseling," Fahey said.

- Regardless of the type of problem, there is nothing wrong with having a problem that you cannot resolve yourself. Admitting that you have a problem is a move toward recovery. "It has been our experience in this business that the person who walks in this door, stating that they have a problem they can't resolve alone, has already halfway won the battle," Fahey said.

"We see people for all kinds of problems, not just chemical or alcohol problems."

— Ed Fahey

*Civilian program coordinator,
Community Counseling Center*

He wants to help supervisors inform their workers about the civilian program services available. Fahey said he would be glad to address organizations if the supervisors would like to schedule a time. He can be reached at 842-9896, or through the main center number 876-7256/7257.

Ruby Turner, chief of the Community Counseling Center, agreed with Fahey's assessment that many people who need the services offered by the center are either going elsewhere or keeping their troubles to themselves. "A lot of people are suffering because they haven't found anybody to talk to," she said.

The civilian program is confidential; and workers should not fear retribution from their organizations. Said Fahey, "Employees are not aware that federal statutes are clear that when an employee asks for assistance, when the problem's affecting their job, the government is obliged to make accommodations just as they would for a handicapped individual."

In addition to the civilian program the center, located at building 3490 on Honest John Road, provides prevention and education awareness training, group counseling, individual counseling, co-dependency counseling, and drug-testing for designated positions and for active-duty military. Staff members include Turner, the chief; Fahey, the civilian program coordinator; Anna Whisenant, the prevention and education specialist; Carl Thurner, the clinical director; SFC Hyacinth White, biochemical testing coordinator; Paula Hagy, secretary; counselors Sgt. Catherine Davis, Roosevelt Love and David Bates; and MSgt. Ron Williams, NCO-in-charge.

Wells takes reins of FAAD Sensors Product Office

Lt. Col. James Wells has moved over from Bat Project Office to become product manager of the FAAD Sensors Product Office.

Wells succeeded Lt. Col. Michael Howell during a change of product manager ceremony held Thursday in the Recreation Center. Wells formerly served as assistant project manager for production at the Bat Project Office.

During his remarks Wells thanked the people he has known over the last five years he has been connected with Program Executive Office for Tactical Missiles. He also thanked the members of Bat Project Office.

"I've learned a lot and I hope I can carry that over to FAAD Sensors," Wells said. He introduced his family; and he promised to do his best to execute the duties of FAAD Sensors.

Howell, who has been selected for colonel, is joining the Program Executive Office for Tactical Missiles. "I'm really going to miss working in the product office," Howell said. "It's really been a lot of fun over the last three years. We have made some good accomplishments."

Andrew D'Angelo, the program executive officer for intelligence and electronic warfare, officiated at the afternoon ceremony. D'Angelo pointed out that Wells is "inheriting an outstanding organization, a well-organized program, two major contracts that are well on track."

The FAAD Sensors Product Office develops, acquires, fields and sustains sensors for the Forward Area Air Defense systems. These include the Ground Based Sensor and the Light and Special Division Interim Sensor. Hughes Aircraft Surface Systems in Fullerton, Calif., is the contractor for GBS; and Lockheed Sanders out of Nashua, N.H., is the contractor for LSDIS.

Wells was commissioned into the Army in 1973 and branched into the Army Ordnance Corps and was detailed to Air Defense Artillery. He has a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Toledo, and a master's degree in business administration from Florida Institute of Technology. His military education includes Air Defense Artillery Officer Basic Course, Improved Hawk Course, Ordnance Officer Advance Course, Command and General Staff College, and Defense Systems Management College. Wells' assignments include two separate tours in Germany with the 32nd Army Air Defense Command with positions as platoon leader, materiel officer, and brigade support element commander; a tour with the 1st Infantry Division with positions as maintenance officer, battalion commander; an ROTC instructor assignment at San Diego State University; a tour at the Department of Army with assignment as PEO Fire Support representative and Department of the Army systems coordinator; and his most recent assignment as assistant project manager for production at Bat Project.

His awards include Legion of Merit, Meritorious Service Medal with oak leaf cluster, and Army Commendation Medal. Wells and his wife, Vickie, have two children: Kristen, a junior at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa; and Timothy, a junior at Grissom High School.

Employer Day, Aug. 24 for people in transition

BY PAM ROGERS

One of the hottest places to be this summer will be the Army Career and Alumni Program "Employer Day."

Planned for Aug. 24 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Officer's Club, the event is geared to anyone in the Redstone community — military, civilian, or family member — who is planning or anticipating a career change, according to Ramona Roy, Redstone's transition services manager.

This Employer Day will include temporary employment agencies, which were not a part of the last event held in March.

"Temporary agencies are the wave of the future. Employers often use them as a screening process before deciding on hiring someone permanently," Roy said.

Other employers were carefully selected to match the needs of transitioning servicemembers and other Redstone community members.

Representatives of the Job Assistance Center will also be present to assist with mini-resume preparation for those attendees who do not have a resume.

Here are a few of the companies that will have representatives at the event: BAMSI, Home Depot, McDonnell Douglas Aerospace, Raytheon, SUMMA Technology, and the U.S. Border Patrol.

Watch the Rocket for the next few weeks for a complete list of employers and for other articles relating to the Employer Day. For more information, call 955-6490/6665.
