Redstone Arsenal remembers a tragic Easter Posey

Ceremony to honor four women assembly-line workers who died 1942-43.

BY SKIP VAUGHN

FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn. — Stacey Posey has never left this hilly farmland just across the stateline and neither has her sister Easter, the first woman killed on a wartime assembly line at Redstone Arsenal in the 1940s.

Easter Posey is buried along with other Posey family members in a church cemetery within a few miles from where the sisters grew up. Later in April, Redstone Arsenal will dedicate recreation area 1 — commonly called the military rec area — in her name. The Easter Posey Recreation Area will be dedicated in honor of the four women who gave their lives in service to their country at Redstone in the early 1940s.

Sitting in her home on South Lincoln Road in Lincoln County, Stacey Posey, 79, recalls the accident that killed her sister on April 21, 1942. They started working at Redstone March 16, 1942.

"I was working up at L.N. Gross Company up in Fayetteville, Tenn., and I was making a dollar a day. I gave 25 cents for transportation; I had 75 cents left. So, we got a job down at Redstone Arsenal making $3.60 a day," she says. Stacey was a laborer on the assembly line which made incendiary bombs; and her younger sister was working on the mixing machine.

On the fateful day in April, the lady who normally worked the filling machine was out so Stacey replaced her on that machine. "About 10 minutes to 12 o'clock, I heard a terrible explosion and I looked up and a blaze was going from the bottom of the building to the top," Posey says. She recalls sitting on a stool, jumping up, and falling to the floor when one of her knees gave out. Posey then got up and fled from the flames.

A man said, "There goes a lady afire there!" He took off his coat and smothered out the fire on Posey. He then put her in a car and took her to Huntsville Hospital. "I was there from April until December and they didn't think I was going to live either, but I survived. Then I got out and went back to work at the Arsenal in January (1943)," she recalls.

Her beloved sister Easter died in the explosion. "Her supervisor — he told me he was pretty sure she was dusting the machine off and maybe hit something" that caused the explosion, Posey says.

"They said it was about 30 that had got burned; but it wasn't none of them hospitalized except me and a man," she says. Malcolm Carr, now deceased, was also badly burned, but survived. Posey suffered burns to both arms and her back, all the way down her legs to her feet. "I couldn't even lay on my back; I had to lay on my stomach," she recalls. She was bedridden in the hospital and had to be turned over in her sheet.

"They didn't tell me about her death or anything while I was in the hospital," Posey says. She shows a small yellowed photograph of her sister; the photo had been placed on her sister's closed casket.

They were among 18 children of William R. Posey, a farmer who also ran a saw mill. He and Eliza Posey had 11 children; and he had seven from a previous marriage. The family lived in Madison County, Ala., about two miles from where Stacey Posey resides now.

"When he and my mother married, he had seven children — four boys and three girls," Posey recalls. "Then he and my mother had six boys and five girls. I had a brother that was the baby, and my sister was next to him, then I had another brother that was next, and then I was next."

Easter was "born on Easter Sunday (April 4, 1920), so my daddy named her Easter," Posey says.

She shows an album of old family pictures. "This is her picture," she says, referring to a photo of an unsmiling Easter. "She looks kind of sad there, but she wasn't a sad person. She was always jolly and much more outgoing than I am."

Asked how she feels about her sister's fatal accident, she says: "Well of course it's a lot of heartaches and grief about it, but — well, you think it's nothing can be done to bring her back. We know she's gone forever."

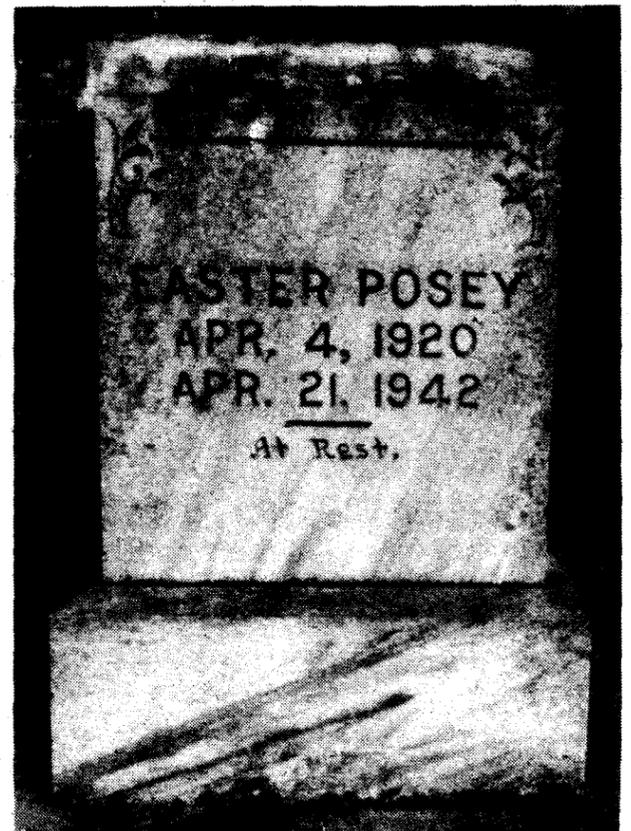

Posey returned to work at Redstone after leaving the hospital. "When I went back to work, I went back on Payroll up at (building) 111. And I worked there and they trained me to go to 781 — it's 5681 now, I think. I kept all the records and I did all the personnel work for the plant we had there. We had about 4 or 500 people. And we run three shifts. I was RIFed out in September '45 after the war was over."

Her layoff notice was final on a Friday, and she went to work that Monday with Union Carbide Com-

Flooded road

Editor:

I never cease to be amazed by how little thinking seems to go into managing minor emergencies. As I drove onto the Arsenal on March 30, I was turned around at the T of Redstone and Patton roads by no less than three military police cars. The reason was that Patton Road was under water. While that makes sense, I cannot understand why there was not some warning long before that point to let employees know that Patton was impassable. Since the road block apparently was put in place late the previous evening, that seems to have allowed sufficient time to put signs in place at the affected gates so that Arsenal employees would not have to drive all the way in before being turned around only to join the morning traffic rush which was now compounded by the traffic turned out of the Arsenal. Surely there's a better way to handle these minor emergencies!

(Editor's note: The Missile Command's Public Affairs Office provides the following response. "We are sorry that Mr. Curran and others who normally use Patton Road were inconvenienced by the flood. The flood crest forecast we got from TVA Tuesday turned out to be a best estimate that was wrong. Based on that information, it appeared Patton Road would remain open. When the decision was made early Wednesday to close the road, we called local radio and television stations and asked them to announce the road was closed. Most did.")

Secret to success

Editor:

Concerning the March 23 article "Playing the game ensures promotions": It does not take long for one to realize that the author's methodology for attaining a promotion in today's workplace is correct (60 percent exposure, 30 percent image, 10 percent performance). After all, we live in a day when being politically correct is increasingly more important than being right. But imagine for a moment if the aforementioned methodology was reversed (60 percent performance, 10 percent exposure). Would not the work force strive to be more productive, rather than focusing time and energy on being recognized and exposed? Certainly such a refocus within the government would dramatically increase productivity and reduce the need for contracted support. However, let's not get caught

Closer to home

Editor:

My husband is an AMCCOM Logistics Assistance Rep (LAR) and every so often the MICOM LAR he works with will give my husband his copy of the Rocket for me to read. The reason, I grew up in Arab, Ala., and before leaving home in 1986 I worked at OMMCS and MICOM; the Rocket makes me feel closer to home. I have lived in six different states since I left and I'm writing in regard to the "New Person's" letter and the replies from people addressing her complaints. Normally, I would never write a letter to the editor, but something happened to me today that I want to share with you.

In September 1993, we moved to Fayetteville, N.C., and I met my new neighbor. She's German and married to a staff sergeant. We became friends. Today I drove my neighbor to Womack Army Medical Center to find out if her husband was one of the soldiers killed in the horrible accident that happened today. While we waited, I met other wives. We talked, cried, hugged and waited for news. My neighbor was lucky; her husband was not seriously injured, but two other wives were not — their husbands had died. I hugged each one of these women; in the two short hours we had waited, we had become friends and my heart broke for them and their pain. I know these women would have wanted their mother, father, sister, brother or best friend from high school with them at a time like this; but sometimes life doesn't work that way. In closing, I just want to say: Be kind to that new person in your neighborhood; and new person, reach out and become a part of your community. Be there for your neighbor; sometimes you're all they have.

Cleanup effort

Editor:

This is specifically directed at the officers and/or NCOs whose lame-brained decision allowed 20 to 30 soldiers/Marines to be put in harms way unnecessarily on Rideout Road at 4 p.m. March 17, planting flowers at gate 9 (with MP escort) and again at 6:30 a.m. March 22 (without MP escort) picked up trash. Anyone with half-sense would know that you do not put that many human bodies on a highly traveled, six lane, speedway at the height of afternoon and morning rush hour traffic; especially with the high-speed, change-lanes-as-fast-as-you-can, would-be-race-car driver, types we have traversing Redstone Arsenal daily. There can be no justification for these ill-timed actions whether voluntary or involuntary. Thank heaven there were no accidents or injuries... this time.

Not only is this a dangerous practice but our soldiers/Marines should not be relegated to picking up trash along the highway regardless of budget cuts. Police call around the billets and company areas is one thing; however, it makes me sick to see our fine uniformed young men and women relegated to picking up trash on the side of the road like common county convicts. Call it what you want, post beautification frenzy, Community of Excellence Award competition cleanup madness, PT formation, police call detail... whatever; this type of poor judgment and leadership is no excuse for risking the life's blood and dignity of any member of the U.S. armed forces.

If we can spend thousands of dollars on multiple, poor quality, useless, eyesore gazebos, scattered haphazardly in every nook and cranny on the Arsenal in the name of beautification... then we should be able to find a few bucks to hire someone, other than our defenders of freedom, for refuse collectors and highway landscapers. Shame on you so-called responsible leaders... whoever you are. Even in the "Old Army," we exercised common sense when it came to safety and morale.

Allen C. Stone
Retired MSgt.

(Editor's note: Capt. Richard Kruczek, commander of HHC MICOM, provided the following response. "The decision to send 25 soldiers to pick up trash along Rideout Road at 6 a.m. March 22 was mine. As commander of HHC MICOM, a unit with over 520

assigned officers and enlisted soldiers, I share your anger and frustration at seeing proud, young, uniformed men and women relegated to picking up trash along Redstone's roadways. It saddens me to have to ask those I command to, at times, accept responsibility for accomplishing tasks that others are either unwilling or unable to do — for the good of 'all of Redstone Arsenal.' Picking up trash along Redstone's roadways, clearing trees and removing garbage from the Redstone Quarry, and clearing debris from Redstone's swamps, are just a few such tasks. Completing these missions is hard, nasty, sweaty work, however, these are things which must be accomplished — for they make Redstone Arsenal a better place to live, work and play for 'all of us.' In the not too distant past these jobs were contracted out to civilian contractors who eagerly took on these assignments, thus enabling our soldiers to focus on their military duties. Unfortunately, while the days of fiscal abundance are gone, the 'dirty' jobs have and always will remain to be accomplished. At Redstone Arsenal that burden has fallen upon the proud, young soldiers who fully understand the task at hand and willingly accept the responsibility of taking on the 'tough' jobs which others are unable or simply unwilling to do. Picking up trash thrown down by others who are thoughtless and uncaring is just one of many 'dirty' jobs soldiers do for the benefit of all of the Redstone community."

Playing the game

Editor:

In the March 23 issue of the Redstone Rocket, there was an alarming, but true, article titled "Playing the game ensures promotions, says consultant." Based on the formula presented, one who presents the correct image (30 percent) and gets the right exposure (60 percent) is bound for promotions — with no regard for performance. After all, we know that 10 percent is an F and 90 percent is an A. Public education, in order to train the work force of the future for success, must be reformed. Schools have been emphasizing the wrong idea!

Smoke-free workplace gets boost Defensewide

WASHINGTON — Smoking indoors in the military workplace goes out the window, come April 8.

A new policy on controlling smoking, announced by the Defense Department March 8, supersedes the "designated smoking area" policy that, health officials have concluded, falls short of protecting non-smokers from the hazards of second-hand smoke.

Under the beefed-up ban, smoking will continue to be allowed only outdoors and inside military barracks, family housing, prison quarters, clubs, recreational areas and restaurants.

According to DoD environmental chief Sherri Wasserman Goodman, the new policy has three objectives:

- To provide a safe and healthy workplace for all defense personnel
- To promote force readiness; and
- To take the lead in creating a smoke-free workplace.

Goodman said the new policy partially accommodates smokers. For example, designating outdoor smoking areas when possible; these should be reasonably accessible to workers and provide some protection from the elements. Also available to smokers are programs to help them kick the habit.

Once Goodman's office publishes a directive on managerial responsibilities and enforcement procedures for the new policy, each of the services is expected to do likewise.

For the Army, this means that Army Regulation 600-83 (Army Health Promotion) is being revised, said Maj. David Peterson of the Army's Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel. (Arnews)

April 15 deadline for tax filing just around corner

Capt. Steve Hester, chief of legal assistance at the Office of Staff Judge Advocate, provided the following information from the Internal Revenue Service's 1993 Tax Guide for Individuals, commonly known as Publication 17.

April 15, 1994 is the due date for filing your 1993 federal income tax return. Your tax return is timely filed if it is properly addressed and postmarked no later than April 15. The return must have adequate postage. If you send your return by registered mail, the date of registration is evidence that the return was delivered. If you send a return by certified mail and have your receipt postmarked by a postal employee, the date on the receipt is the postmark date. The postmarked certified mail receipt is evidence that the return was delivered.

Two-month extension

If you are not able to file your return by the due date, you may be eligible for an automatic two-month extension (until June 15) to file your 1993 federal income tax return and pay any tax that is due if you are a U.S. citizen or resident and on April 15:

- You are living outside of the United States and Puerto Rico, and your main place of business or post of duty is outside the United States or Puerto Rico; or
- You are in military or naval service on duty outside the United States and Puerto Rico.

Caution! If you pay the tax due after April 15, interest will be charged from April 15 until the date the tax is paid.

If you file a joint return, only one spouse has to qualify for the automatic two-month extension to apply. If you and your spouse file separate returns, the automatic extension only applies to the qualifying spouse.

If you are eligible and elect to use the automatic two-month extension, you must attach a statement to your return explaining what situation qualified you for the extension.

Four-month extension

If you are unable to file your return within the automatic two-month extension period, you may be able to get an additional two-month extension of time to file your return for a total of four months. You must file Form 4868 by the end of the automatic extension period, June 15, to get the additional two-month extension. Keep in mind that this two-month extension of time to file is not an extension of time to pay. You must make an accurate estimate of your tax for 1993. If you cannot pay the full amount due with Form 4868, you can still get the extension. You will owe interest on the unpaid amount and may be subject to penalties for paying late taxes.

If you are unable to file your return by April 15 and do not qualify for the automatic two-month extension, you may be able to get a four-month extension of time to file your tax return. To get the four-month extension, you must file Form 4868, Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. Form 4868 is available at the Office of the Staff Judge Advocate, Legal Assistance Division, building 111 or the Tax Assistance Office, Army Community Service, building 3491.

To receive the four-month extension, you must file Form 4868 by April 15 with the local Internal Revenue Service Office for your area. You can file Form 1040EZ, Form 1040A or Form 1040 any time before the four-month extension period ends. Caution! You may not be eligible for the four-month extension. If you want the IRS to figure your tax, you cannot use the four-month extension of time to file. Also, if you are under a court order to file by the regular due date, you cannot use the four-month extension of time to file.

Remember, as with the automatic two-month extension, an extension of time to file is not an extension of time to pay. You must make an accurate estimate of your tax for 1993. If you find you cannot pay the full amount due with Form 4868, you can still get an extension. You will owe interest on the unpaid amount.

You also may be charged a penalty for paying late unless you have a reasonable cause for not paying your tax when due. Interest and penalties are assessed from the original due date of April 15.

If you qualify for the four-month extension and you later find that you are not able to file within the four-month extension period, you may be able to get two more months to file, for a total of six months.

Form 2688

You can apply for an extension beyond the four-month extension period either by letter or by filing Form 2688, Application for Additional Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. You should request the extension early so that, if refused, you still will be able to file on time. Except in cases of undue hardship, Form 2688 or a request by letter will not be accepted until you have first used Form 4868 to get an automatic four-month extension. Form 2688 or your letter will not be considered if you file it after the extended due date.

To get an extension beyond the automatic four-month extension, you must provide all of the following information:

- The reason for requesting the extension
- The tax year to which the extension applies
- The length of time needed for the extension; and,
- Whether another extension of time to file has already been requested for this tax year.

If your application for this extension is approved, you will be notified by the IRS. Attach the notice to your return when you file it.

If your application for this extension is not approved, you must file your return by the extended due date of the automatic extension. You may be allowed to file within 10 days of the date of the notice you get from the IRS if the end of the 10-day period is later than the due date. The notice will tell you if the 10-day grace period is granted.

Combat zone service

If you served in the armed forces in the Persian Gulf Area Combat Zone, the deadline for filing your tax return, paying any tax that you owe, and filing a claim for refund is automatically extended. For purposes of the deadline extension, the Persian Gulf Area became a combat zone on Aug. 2, 1990. Your deadline for filing your return; paying any tax that is due, and for filing a claim for refund is extended for at least 180 days after the later of:

- The last day you are in a combat zone (or the last day the area you are in qualifies as combat zone), or
- The last day of any continuous qualified hospitalization for injury from service in the combat zone.

In addition to the 180 days, your deadline is also extended by the number of days you had left to file when you entered the Persian Gulf Area Combat Zone. For example, you have three and a half months (Jan. 1 to April 15) to file your 1993 tax return. Any days of the three and a half month period that are left when you entered the combat zone — or for the entire three and a half months if you entered the combat zone before Jan. 1 — are added to determine the end of your time extension for filing your 1993 return.

MICOM will have quarterly Industry Day sessions

BY SANDA MARTEL

Missile Command held its first Industry Days Conference March 2-3, a forum to bring industry executive management together with the MICOM staff to discuss topics of mutual interest and concern.

Some 22 large business representatives attended the March 2-3 event. A second session is planned for May 11-12 for small businesses.

Industry days will become quarterly events, alternating between large and small businesses. Another large business session is being planned for late summer and a second small business session is planned for November, according to John Finafrock, MICOM ombudsman.

Industries wanting to attend are selected by lottery and any industry can participate whether it has contracts with MICOM or is interested in doing business with MICOM.

Announcements will be published by special notices in the Commerce Business Daily.

Some 64 small businesses have already received invitations to the small business session in May, Finafrock said.

"It's a great opportunity for industry to come and hear about new programs, the acquisition process, acquisition streamlining, best value contracting, blue ribbon contracting and other topics. It's important for us to get their first-hand responses and to hear what their concerns are in an informal manner," Finafrock said.

Some topics presented by MICOM representatives at the March 2-3 session included "Pre-solicitation Communications with Industry," by Robert Spazzarini of MICOM Legal Office; a briefing on MICOM's acquisition process by Col. C.R. Morton, Acquisition Center director; a presentation on small business trends and special programs by Dr. Rex Conners of Small Business/Competition Management Office; an update on the Contractor Performance Certification Program by Truman Howard, Product Assurance Directorate; Technology Transfer by Warren Alford, MICOM Technical Integration Office; and a briefing by Dr. Larry Daniel, director of System Engineering and Production Directorate on the Industrial Base Study.

Industry representatives were invited to give any presentation they wished. The following companies had representatives in attendance: Magnavox Electronic Systems Company; BAMSI; Land Systems Group-U.S. Division, Canadian Commercial Corporation; Texas Instruments; Digital Equipment; Science Applications Information Corporation; Nichols Research; Grumman Aerospace and Elec-

Advice available for managing anger, stress

Editor's note: Clark manages the Family Advocacy Program at Army Community Service.

BY JENNIFER CLARK

Stress can be hard for all of us to deal with. Many people tend to keep tension bottled up until they explode — often at home or in the workplace.

Other people keep it in, only to result in medical problems or thoughts of suicide. Regardless, misdirected tension can be harmful to ourselves and those close to us. We can learn other ways to deal with anger and stress.

Army Community Service is presenting classes in stress management and anger control as part of the MICOM Suicide and Violence in the Workplace Prevention Program.

• Anger Management — The Family Advocacy Program at Army Community Service is offering a four-session class to teach skills which will allow you to channel anger in constructive and creative ways.

This class starts April 12 from 5-7 p.m. and is open to the public. Materials are furnished. Class will meet on Tuesdays at ACS, building 3491. For more information, call Jennifer Clark 876-5397.

• Stress Management — A free, five-week stress management class will be held at ACS on Wednesday nights beginning April 20 from 5-7 p.m.

Dr. William Resha, ACS chief, gives a framework for defining stress, information on change management, and at least 20 ways to deal with stress. The class is open to civilians and military. To register, call Virginia Dempsey 876-5397.

Task force tackling tough job of OMMCS transition

BY KEN McCOOEY and DONNA ALBERTO

The Ordnance Missile and Munitions Center and School has established a Transition Task Force (TTF) to plan and implement the movement of designated OMMCS functions, personnel and support equipment to the Combined Arms Support Command (CASCOM), Fort Lee, Va., and to the Redstone Arsenal Support Activity (RASA) and the Corporate Information Center (CIC).

"The Task Force was established by Col. Hooper (the OMMCS commandant) in February and given the mission of developing a well coordinated, time-phased transition plan to ensure that the right people, equipment, furnishings and documents make the smoothest transition possible," said Capt. Donna Alberto, the TTF chief.

As with any move of this magnitude, problems are bound to occur, and the TTF has run into a few of its own. One of the biggest is the short amount of time it has to develop and implement its plan. "Time is our biggest constraint," Alberto said. "The secretary of the Army approved the CASCOM Reorganization study on Jan. 26, 1994, and the scheduled implementation completion date is Oct. 1, 1994. That leaves us with about eight months to plan and execute the entire reorganization."

The reorganization resulted from a study commissioned by Lt. Gen. Wakefield, the CASCOM commander. It was conducted to give him the best option for restructuring the command under the dwindling budget and manpower constraints. "The current CASCOM reorganization brings the combat development, training development, evaluation/standardization and proponenty functions directly under CASCOM control," Alberto said. "That leaves the business of training and leader development to the Combat Service Support Schools."

"We have some of OMMCS' top-notch people working on the TTF. Sgt. Maj. Lewis Lockett (deputy TTF chief) was instrumental in staffing and equipping the TTF with the best of the best in the school," Alberto said. "Ms. Terry Thomas, Mr. Gozalo Martinez, MSgt. James Taylor, Mr. Roy King, MSgt. John Stefan, SFC Willie Williams, SSgt. Billy Murray and SSgt. Audrey Burt are the full-time nucleus of the TTF, without whom the TTF could not function."

As full-time team leaders and support staff personnel, these people lead groups of part-time TTF members in tackling all the issues involved in this reorganization: personnel, equipment, furniture, facilities, mission workload transfer and building the remaining brigade structure and mission. "All of these people, full and part time TTF members, as well as the OMMCS directors, are true professionals and are invaluable to the success of this very critical mission," Alberto said. "And the MICOM community has helped the TTF immeasurably over the past month."

Having had the luxury of time to plan for the Sparkman Center move, Alberto and Lockett tapped into the abundant wealth of existing expertise on movement planning. "We owe a great debt of gratitude to Mr. Jim Flinn, Mr. Dave Sparks, Ms. Lisa Thomas, Mr. Mike Canfield and Col. Jack Culberson for all of the time and assistance they have graciously given to us. They helped us build our Task Force without wasting the precious little time we have," Alberto said.

A big part of the TTF's mission is keeping the work force informed and providing a forum for them to address, comments, questions and concerns. Several information update briefings have been held over the past two months. Speakers from CASCOM, Fort Lee area services and Petersburg, Va., have come to brief on reorganization and resettlement issues. "The bottom line is the TTF is here to serve the work force in obtaining answers to their questions regarding this reorganization," Alberto said. "Please feel free to contact us with your comments and concerns." The OMMCS TTF is located in building 3305, room 136. Its phone numbers are 876-6750, 842/2274/2276. It also has a 24-hour Hotline number, 842-9991.

Protect computer systems from infection by viruses

Editor's note: The following article was provided by the Security Office at Ordnance Missile and Munitions Center and School.

Bad news — the virus season for computer systems on Redstone Arsenal is upon us. The other bad news — the season is 12 months long.

Today the worst threat to our computer security is malicious codes, which are commonly called viruses. There are three general types of malicious code: trojan horses, worms and viruses. Trojan horses generally show up as an undesired function or graphic. Worms infect other systems through communication lines and reproduce until memory storage is exhausted. Viruses are codes which when accessed, enter a system and reproduce and infect other media through shared software.

There are three types of viruses. Boot viruses attach themselves to the boot sector of floppy and hard disks. When your computer accesses a floppy that contains an infected disk, the virus is copied onto your hard disk. The process is reversed when your hard disk ad-resses a floppy. The virus travels from computer to computer through infected software.

You can protect your computer systems from infection by never downloading information from an unknown or unreliable source.

System viruses infect the disk operating system or DOS, when booting from an infected disk system.

Program viruses are the most prolific, capable of infecting any program. When executed, the virus transparently infects new programs on hard and floppy disks. They are generally invisible to the user until activated.

Viruses are triggered after a period of time during which it reproduces itself on the system and floppy disks. It may show up as an innocent message or may systematically destroy your programs and stored data.

It may be programmed to activate on a given date or after it has been accessed repeatedly.

Virus infection typically comes from sharing infected diskettes — personal software, shareware, freeware, disks created at home on infected systems, and even from commercial software. Other sources include programs downloaded from bulletin boards, networks and communication links. A study identified "modemized" communication as being responsible for about 20 percent of all viral infections.

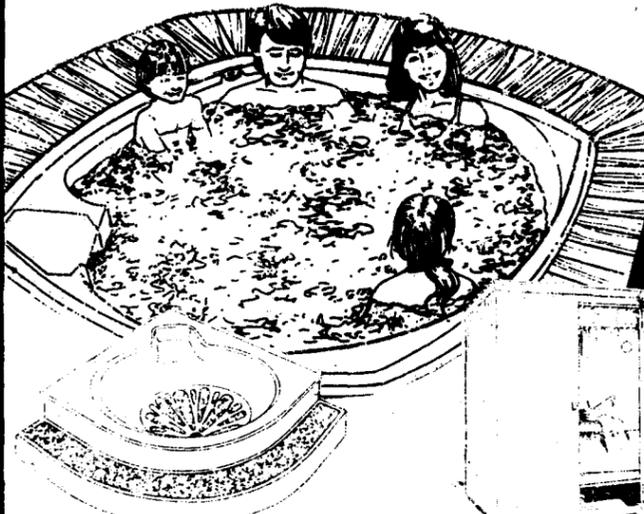

You can protect yourself from infection by never downloading information from an unknown or unreliable source. Check all unknown disks with licensed antiviral software before using. Even if the PC has the latest antiviral software, ensure it is not infected by booting it from a write-protected system disk and checking it with a write-protected antiviral program at least once a month. Use only original software on your PC. Copies of original software are often illegal and are much more likely to contain viruses.

If you suspect that your system is infected, shut down your system and isolate all suspected disks. Notify your terminal area security officer and information system security officer. Notify other users with whom you may have shared software.

Joint program helps defense shoppers for test equipment

Editor's note: Waters is a logistics management specialist at TMDE Activity.

BY GLENDA WATERS

Everyone receives direct mail discount catalogs. Did you know that an activity at Redstone Arsenal manages a catalog which is utilized by various government sectors/agencies including the Federal Aviation Administration, Coast Guard, Army, Air Force, Navy, National Security Agency, and Marines?

The Department of Defense Consolidated Electronic Test Equipment Listing (DODCEL) is the catalog for ETE and is managed by Glenda Waters at the Test, Measurement and Diagnostic Equipment Activity.

As the Army's functional proponent activity, TMDE Activity hosted a DODCEL Joint Working Group Meeting on March 15-16 at the Howard Johnson Park Square Inn in Madison. Representatives from the FAA, Coast Guard, Army, Air Force, Navy, Marines and the National Security Agency, who are all members of the joint working group, attended. The purpose of the meeting was to update the DODCEL, to promote networking, and to indoctrinate new participants. This inter-agency conference revitalized the intended purpose of the DODCEL.

What is the DODCEL program? The DODCEL program is the designated buying guide for all DoD services and other participating governmental agencies. It is the primary vehicle for communicating available, or soon to be available, opportunities for joint services or agency ETE acquisitions. If a service or agency has a requirement for a particular ETE item, why should they expend unnecessary resources to let a new procurement contract? Either they can contact the sponsoring service that has an existing contract for the same item and piggyback on their procurement action or the requirements can then be combined saving administrative time, market study time, testing, logistic support, program management and procurement time as well as reducing months off the fielding time.

How does the DODCEL work? The DODCEL lists ETE used by one or more services that has an existing contract. Each service can look at another's forecast and tell the proponent service what they plan to buy. TMDE Activity can then list the forecast to enable other agencies who have an existing requirement(s) to consolidate their orders resulting in tremendous savings. By exercising consolidated purchases, ETE costs can be reduced as much as 50 percent; thus saving valuable tax dollars.

The DODCEL Joint Working Group was chaired by David Fledderman, acting director of logistics at TMDE Activity; and co-chaired by Lt. Col. William Hastie, program manager of test equipment modernization.

A newsletter is published every six months to inform the Joint Working Group members of the current contract changes. The newsletter is a valuable instrument used to keep our customers informed of changes to the DODCEL. The DODCEL can be an invaluable tool that can save our customers time and money.

"The DODCEL exists and is noteworthy because of its demonstrated ability to save millions of dollars," Fledderman said. "The DODCEL works because it is a living document with live contracts. As old contracts expire and new contracts are awarded, we must notify each other so the DODCEL can remain effective. Communication is the key."

Simple ideas can mean big savings through program

Editor's note: Hewitt is the coordinator for MICOM's Army Ideas for Excellence Program.

BY JANICE HEWITT

The MICOM Army Ideas for Excellence Program (AIEP) has recorded savings in excess of $2 million to date, for fiscal 1994. The adopted suggestions with tangible savings are summarized as follows:

- A suggestion to utilize a Video Teleconferencing Facility in lieu of TDY was submitted. An approved study on this subject was the basis for adoption of this idea. First year savings was determined to be $92,671.
- A suggestion submitted by a servicemember assigned to the former Avenger Project Office saved $74,347. The individual recommended using AudioVisual equipment which was available through the AV centers located on Army installations, rather than purchasing the equipment.

- First year savings of $2,520 was realized when unused ISDN phones were turned-in and line rental was terminated. The organization had experienced reductions in personnel strength, and an employee recommended that the phones at vacant workstations be turned in.

- An individual observed that the cost of transporting retrograde MLRS to the storage points was very expensive. He recommended that the MLRS be placed in temporary storage at a Naval Weapons Station, and then be loaded onto prepositioned ships. His recommendation saved the government $1.94 million in transportation costs.

Although they were submitted by extraordinary individuals, these ideas were not complex. In each of these circumstances, the suggester recommended a modification of the current situation, because it seemed too expensive to carry on business in that fashion.

You have the ability necessary for submission of an excellent suggestion. Look at your job with a critical eye. If you owned this "company," is there something you would want to change because it is too expensive, or there is a better way to do it? The suggestion which is the result of practical thinking, is one which is likely to be approved.

Both military and civilian employees have the power to help this Command conduct its daily business in an increasingly efficient manner. When you unleash that power by submitting your suggestion to the AIEP, you may also be entitled to receive a cash award.

Your suggestion should be submitted on DA Form 1045, and sent to AMSMI-RM-PM-MC. If you have any questions regarding the AIEP, please call me — Janice Hewitt, the MICOM AIEP coordinator — at 876-2154.

pany at Oak Ridge, Tenn. She worked there until 1947 when she fell in love and married James Miller. They divorced in 1954; and Posey took back her maiden name.

Posey worked in purchasing and contracting at Warner Robbins Air Force Base in Georgia from 1950-54. Then she transferred "back home" to Redstone Arsenal. She worked in the administrative office in Field Service at building 781 for about two years, before transferring to purchasing and contracting. When building 111 became an Officers Club, she moved over to building 4488 where she worked until retiring Aug. 1, 1981. She was a GS-7 purchasing agent when her government career ended. Since retiring she has been doing volunteer work with the Red Cross at Huntsville Hospital and at Fayetteville Hospital. Several relatives still work at Redstone. Her only sur-living sibling, Ella Ashworth, 90, resides in Windsor House nursing home in Huntsville.

Posey hasn't returned to Redstone since retiring in 1981, but says she will attend the recreation area dedication if she can get there.

"Really I think it would be nice and I really appreciate them doing it," she says, referring to Redstone's plans to honor her sister. "I just wish my other brothers and sisters were here to see it."

A dedication ceremony at recreation area 1, located off Shields Road, is tentatively set for 11 a.m. April 21. Hank Rone, chief of the operation management office in Logistics Support Activity, has been involved in the arrangements because LOGSA adopted that recreation area in 1993. "I'm going to arrange for transportation to go up and have her (Stacey Posey) picked up along with her sister-in-law Beatrice Posey who lives in Hazel Green," he said. "She's got three other sister-in-laws. I'm going to try to contact them and send them an invitation."

Easter Posey, who died from wounds received in an explosion on an incendiary bomb production line at what was then Huntsville Arsenal, was the first of four women to die during wartime production here in 1942-43. Rone said the others included:

- Virginia Smith, who died from wounds received in an explosion in the H Plant on Huntsville Arsenal May 6, 1943.
- Mattie Cloud, who died from sulphuric acid wounds in the L Manufacturing Plant at Huntsville Arsenal July 6, 1943.
- Nannie Martin Mefford, who died en route to the hospital following an explosion on Production Line 1 at Redstone Arsenal Aug. 14, 1943.

Easter's grave is in a row of Posey family members' graves at Stateline Cemetery near the Stateline Methodist Church. Posey rides in the car to direct a visitor to the gravesite, but stays in the vehicle at the cemetery. Visiting the grave is still difficult for her, particularly at this time of the year. "I tell you, it really is (difficult) on decoration day. We have it once a year, the third Sunday in May," she says, referring to a time when the family members bring flowers to the site. "And it really makes it hard on me."

Girl Scouts at Redstone Arsenal seek adult leaders

Editor's note: Capt. Yarberry is commander of F Company, 832nd Ordnance Battalion.

BY CATHY YARBERRY

Redstone Arsenal Brownie Troop 430 couldn't have asked for better weather on a recent Saturday; the skies were clear and the temperatures lingered in the mid-70s when 16 girls and five adult leaders loaded their sleeping bags and camping gear into several cars and vans outside the Girl Scout Hut on Cajun Road. They were headed for Trico Girl Scout Camp Grounds on Lake Guntersville.

Over 100 girls between the ages of 5 and 12 were involved in Girl Scouts on the arsenal this year, enjoying hikes, arts and crafts, sports, flag ceremonies and campouts. There were seven troops in all: one Daisy Troop (age 5); four Brownie Troops (grades 1-3); and two Junior Troops (grades 4-6). You've seen them selling cookies in front of the Post Exchange and marching in various Huntsville parades; they've also painted fire hydrants on post and conducted flag ceremonies at PTA meetings.

But as the school year draws to an end, so too does another year of Scouting. Several of the arsenal leaders will be leaving during the summer months and need replacements. Now is the perfect time to get involved; the outgoing leaders are still on post and available to pass on their skills. Additionally, the North Alabama Girl Scout Council in Huntsville provides one and two day training sessions during the summer months for all new leaders, as well as refresher training for returning former leaders. Perhaps the best part about being a leader on the arsenal is the availability of the Scout Hut. Of course, you're welcome to hold meetings in your home, but having the Hut makes messy projects much more appealing.

If you have a daughter in Scouting or plan to enroll your daughter in Scouting, why not consider being a leader? Of course, having a daughter in Scouting is not a requirement; any woman 18 years of age or older can be a Girl Scout leader, and men 18 years or older may serve as assistant leaders. So, some of you moms, older sisters or active duty soldiers, why not volunteer to be a Scout leader? For more information, call Susan Carr at 837-9149 or Cathy Yarberry at 837-1943.

Two civilian nurse practitioners join hospital staff

Editor's note: Fox Army Community Hospital provided the following article.

Fox Army Community Hospital has employed two civilian nurse practitioners — Connie Glover for Family Practice, and Amy Reynolds for Pediatrics — to complement the four Army nurse practitioners: Maj. Neil (Family Practice), Maj. Havas and Carver (Internal Medicine), and (most recently) Maj. McDonough of Pediatrics.

A nurse practitioner is a licensed, registered nurse who returns to school for further education and training to become a health care provider. This schooling focuses on taking histories of medical conditions, diagnosing and treating minor illnesses or injuries, providing routine health screenings, writing prescriptions and monitoring chronic, stable illnesses, etc. In other words, nurse practitioners are valuable assistants to physicians, under whose supervision and guidance they work. They play active roles in the recently setup "Help Desk," whereby they "triage" (or screen) all incoming telephone calls from patients; and with their good clinical training, they have knowledge to give appointments for the same day or give valuable medical advice or treatment to them. This assistance not only helps the clinics operate smoothly and efficiently, but also helps free the physicians to spend more valuable time in taking care of patients with more complicated or special needs.

Fox Army Community Hospital is proud of all its nurse practitioners!

A word of advice for parents: It is the clinic (and commander's) policy to let a parent bring only those children who have appointments to the clinic, for several good reasons:

- It disrupts the smooth operation of the clinic, because the health care providers are unable to concentrate on the patients or communicate effectively with the parent(s) due to interruptions.

- Unattended children are a hazard to themselves and others.

- Cross-infection is a real possibility.

We advise parents to make every effort to make prior arrangements for those children who do not have an appointment in order that we may serve them and their sick children better. If a parent does need temporary babysitting help, they may call the Child Development Center on post for more assistance. The number is 876-7952.

It has always been a pleasure to serve the Redstone Army Community!

Rocket fuel technology eyed for civilian sector

BY PAM ROGERS

A new form of carbon now being made by MICOM scientists may someday keep barge towboats from running into bridge pylons.

The material is named C-60 and nicknamed "Buckyballs" after the creator of the geodesic dome, Buckminster Fuller. The shape of buckyballs resembles a soccer ball, with 60 corners.

C-60 was discovered in 1990 by scientists at the University of Tucson, and has been produced since 1992 at the RD&E Center's Propulsion Directorate as a potential rocket fuel.

Under a cooperative research and development agreement signed last week, C-60 production technology was transferred to Signature Products Company of Huntsville for use in the civilian sector.

The problem that C-60 may provide an answer to is the tendency for bridges to behave as broadcast antennas for civilian radar. The problem occurs when a towboat approaches a bridge using X-band radar to locate the bridge pylons. The bridge, acting as an antenna, renders the radar useless. Signature Products has developed a method for preventing the interference using C-60.

TECHNOLOGY TRANSFER — RD&E Director Dr. William McCorkle, left, and David Keen, president of Signature Products, sign a cooperative research and development agreement for C-60.

ATTENTION: Federal Civilian Employees and Soldiers...

STOP GARNISHMENT OF YOUR FEDERAL PAY!

A provision in the recently signed Hatch Act reform law will permit garnishment of civilian employee and soldier pay in order to settle private debts. Debt consolidation may be a way to stop such garnishments and also allow you to consolidate your bills into one manageable monthly payment.

Good, bad news

Editor:

To the driver of the dark green pickup truck traveling eastbound on Martin Road near the Patton Road overpass on the afternoon of March 30, I have good news and bad news to relate to you about what happened when your truck hit the orange cone that day. First the good news. As you know, when your truck hit the cone it came flying in my direction (I was the one in the right lane in the silver Honda Accord). Fortunately for both of us I was spared serious bodily injury that could have happened when that cone came flying in my direction. I have also gotten over the shock and terror at seeing the cone being hurtled in my direction and my having no way to avoid it.

But now the bad news. While I personally did not suffer any personal injuries in this incident, I cannot say the same for my car (the aforementioned Honda Accord). Unfortunately, the cone you sent flying in my direction caused my car to suffer a broken front right signal light.

But not to worry. Your sleepless nights caused by worry over the damage you may have caused by hitting that cone are over. I am here. I am safe. And I can be reached at 842-0549 when you are ready to make amends for your actions, chiefly, the repair and replacement of the broken signal light and your profuse apologies for the harm and inconvenience your actions have caused. I look forward to hearing from you.

Genevia Fontenot

Help appreciated

To the communication center, BAMS, friends of 4505:

I would like to thank each and every one of you for the prayers, cards and visits during my stay in the hospital for five months. You really made me feel good, knowing that I had true friends like you. The doctors didn't know whether I was going to live or die, but the Good Lord let me pull through. However, I still have a long way to go. May the Good Lord keep you in good health and bless you, too. I say thanks again. Hope to see you soon.

Bowling tournament for AER deemed big success

An AER bowling benefit, sponsored by F Company, 832nd Ordnance Battalion, raised more than $390 for Army Emergency Relief.

The moonlight no-tap tournament held April 2 at Redstone Arsenal Lanes raised $393.50, according to John Cappiello, the tournament director. The tournament had three divisions with 45 bowlers in the men's division, 40 bowlers in the women's division, and 32 bowlers in the YABA (Young American Bowling Association) division.

Winners included Dale Meier in the men's division, Percy Hawthorne in the women's division, and Kenneth Jordan in the YABA division.

"All the participants had a fun-filled evening but the big winner was AER which received $393.50 toward its fund," Cappiello said. "F Company would like to thank all the participants for their contributions and especially John Howard and the staff of the Bowling Center without whom this benefit would have been impossible."

Reutilization office plans public sale

The Defense Reutilization and Marketing Office here will hold its first-ever public cash-and-carry sale Saturday, April 16 from 7:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Items that will be for sale include appliances, office equipment, office furniture, clothing, tools, computers and filing cabinets. Some items are new and some are used.

The DRMS, a part of the Defense Logistics Agency, is responsible for disposing of surplus items generated by the Department of Defense. There will be free information about other DRMS sales available during the April 16 sale, or call 1-800-222-DRMS.

To get to the sale, enter the arsenal through gate 3 on Redstone Road. Turn left on Warehouse Road and follow the signs to building 7431.

Army Reserve school helping Navy trainees, too

Editor's note: Earl Alspach, a senior instructor with the 3392nd Army Reserve Forces School, provided the following article.

The 3392nd Army Reserve Forces School has set another first. Recently, the Huntsville Naval Reserve Unit requested training assistance from the 3392nd in ammunition handling and accountability.

After carefully reviewing Navy training requirements in the munitions field, it was determined many training tasks were similar for the Army and Navy.

Several days were spent aligning task requirements from both services; and the result was a well-defined Program of Instruction. "This could be the start of something big," said CWO 4 James Bankich, a senior instructor with the 3392nd, and munitions course manager. Money will be saved by not having to send reservists away for training, he added. The 3392nd is a capstone to Ordnance Missile and Munitions Center and School, and has the resources available for such missions regardless of the branch of service.

Although the current curriculum will not provide a new Military Occupational Speciality (MOS) to the Navy reservists, it will allow them to train on critical tasks required for their job.

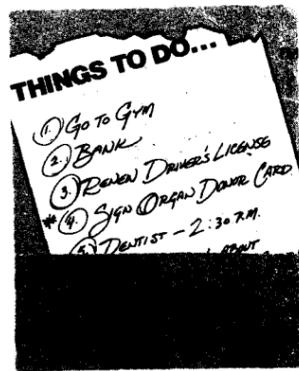

"This effort is the first of a kind for an Army reserve school and has the potential for almost unlimited growth," said MSgt. Earl Alspach, who teaches the computer phase of the munitions course. "With the downsizing and funding limitations of active components and reservists, we need to be cognizant of all available training resources, and use them to their fullest. The most difficult item we have run into thus far has been trying to learn Navy terminology; however, that doesn't limit our training capability."

MSgt. James Barron, who teaches the munitions handling procedures, said he is "very impressed with the quality and motivation of these students; it always makes our job easier."

Representatives from the Naval Weapons Training Center, Charleston, S.C., visited the site and were impressed by the level of training and the enthusiasm of the instructors and students. They further indicated that, if all goes well, additional training requirements may be forthcoming from the Navy.

Ex-Olympian from Barbados wins Rocket Run 10-miler

BY SKIP VAUGHN

Former Barbados Olympian Leo Garnes, running his longest race ever, outclassed the field at the Rocket Run 10-miler Saturday, March 26 at Redstone Arsenal.

Garnes, 26, a junior at Alabama A&M University, won easily in 53:31. He plans to run his first marathon in December in Huntsville.

"I just came out this morning to get some distance running because I'm planning to run my first marathon later this year," said Garnes, who ran the 5,000 meters for Barbados in the 1992 Olympics. He says his specialties are the 1,500 meter run and the 3,000 meter steeplechase. He transferred to Alabama A&M from a junior college in Texas, and ran one year for A&M before leaving the track team.

Chris Simmons, 33, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was the first female finisher in 1:03:52. "It was a good race for me," she said. "It's a good course, relatively flat; and relatively good conditions today so it was fun."

Capt. Bryan Fahy, 35, of Huntsville, won the 5K race in 17:04. He took the lead from Phil Smith, 32, of Huntsville, about a mile and a half into the race; and they maintained a steady pace the rest of the way. Smith finished second in 17:51. Simmons, running her second race of the day, was again the top female finisher in 20:06.

On a perfect day for running — cool temperatures with little wind — 92 runners finished the 10-mile, and 87 finished the 5K. Malcolm Gillis, the race director, said 11 state records fell this year in the 21st annual 10-miler. The races started and ended near Pagano Gym.

"It was a perfect day for a race," said Betty Dooley, 66, of Madison, who set a personal best 10-mile of 1:34:55. The state record for her age was 1:49:20.

Here are the overall and age-group results:

Male 10-mile: Overall — Leo Garnes (53:31).

10-14 — Eric Warren (1:18:33). 25-29 — Garnes (53:31), David Purinton (56:19), Mark Bailey (1:04:16). 30-34 — Chris Roberts (57:46), Kevin Keene (58:35), Steve Hester (1:01:13). 35-39 — David Zajic (1:01:07), Forrest Callicutt (1:03:56), Joe Matthews (1:04:14). 40-44 — Mike Boring (1:00:15), Al Rosenberger (1:03:03), Robert Cothran (1:06:44). 45-49 — Carl Nicholson (59:50), Dick Franklin (1:01:25), Don Wallace (1:08:24). 50-54 — Ellis Whitt (1:06:20), Terrill McGee (1:07:05), Wendell Sandlin (1:10:49). 55-59 — Jerry McGath (59:56), Kelly Stinson (1:09:59), James Whitt (1:11:09). 60-64 — Malcolm Gillis (1:03:09), Gresh Downs (1:13:19). 65-69 — Louie Hargett (1:25:36), Loyd Doering (1:27:43), Mike Dooley (1:32:02).

Female 10-mile: Overall — Chris Simmons (1:03:52).

Redstone Arsenal Post Exchange No. 1 in customer service AAFES-wide

Redstone Arsenal's Post Exchange has been named the top customer service store for the entire Army and Air Force Exchange Service.

The PX and its general manager, Ken Klein, was notified last week that it has won this year's Exchange Extraordinary Customer Service Award. Headquarters AAFES-Store Operations will be sending a plaque to the region office by May 15 for presentation at an award banquet here.

Klein's office provided the following list of facility projects accomplished this year to improve service to the customer:

- Relocate/renovate MCSS — The Military Clothing Sales Store was relocated from the main store to a separate, newly renovated facility. Year-to-date military clothing sales increased 24 percent due in part to an improved stock assortment. "In the main store, we allocated additional space to men's clothing, increasing sales by 78 percent," the PX said.

- Relocate Fishing — Opening of the Hunt & Fish Shop significantly improved service in this category. "Sales increased 145 percent and command/troops love it," the PX said. "Due to financial considerations we co-located Troop Store with Hunt & Fish in building 3475. The combined troop and tackle facility offers additional one-stop shopping convenience to the community and subsequently improves our financial disposition due to decreased operating expenses."

- Theater Renovation — The command and AAFES teamed up to improve the post movie theater with a $200,000 project which included Dolby sound and other improvements.

Besides customer service, the PX contributes money to Morale, Welfare and Recreation at the Redstone community. "Our $1,474,266 MWR dividend (year-to-date January) already beats fiscal '92 and is the largest Army simplified dividend, as a percent of sales, in the region," the PX said. "Our 4.32 percent of sales to the community compares to our closest competitor (Fort Gordon, Ga.) at 3.70 percent of sales, while the average of all others is 2.75 percent of sales. The Redstone Arsenal military community receives by far more MWR dividends per dollar spent than any other location.

"Considering facility improvements, safety, command/community involvement, and feedback as well as financial returns to the community and AAFES, Redstone Arsenal (Post Exchange) provides the most extraordinary customer service," the PX release concluded.

Announcements

Community activities

YOUTH SERVICES — The Community Block Party will be held 1-4 p.m. April 9 outside the Youth Center, building 3148. Bring your kids for an exciting day of games, rides, music, food and displays. Celebrate the Month of the Military Child! For more information, call 876-KIDS.

Baseball registration continues through May 1. Sign up your son or daughter. Practice begins April 15; call for firm time. Coaches are needed. For more information, call Gordon Keene 876-2255.

JOC — Effective April 5 individuals under the age of 19, unless they are active duty, are no longer permitted in the Just Our Club (JOC). "The JOC is patterned after an adult club established for the young at heart, where adults could go to relax and let loose (within reason). Characteristics of adult clubs, i.e., alcoholic beverages, smoking, and language, are not considered a suitable environment for children. Thank you for your cooperation."

Babysitting class

Supplemental Programs and Services (SPS) of Child Development Services is sponsoring a Babysitting Class during April, Month of the Military Child. The class is for individuals 13 and over. It will be taught April 11-15 from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at the Bicentennial Chapel. To register call 876-7888. Class limit is eight.

Fox Army Community Hospital

BODY COMPOSITION — Height/weight charts only provide averages based on a sedentary population. They do not take body composition into consideration. Bathroom scales do not reveal what makes up that weight — how much is fat and how much is lean body mass. Find out your body composition from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. April 6 at Pagano Gym. For more information, call the Community Health Nursing Section 876-8831.

BREAST CANCER AWARENESS — Every three minutes a woman in the U.S. discovers she has breast cancer, about 500 women a day. Early detection is the best defense women have against breast cancer. Yet, in a recent study, only 40 percent of the women surveyed routinely performed self-examination, and of those, only 19 to 57 percent met the proficiency criteria. A breast cancer awareness program will be held 9-10 a.m. April 13, and 11-noon April 14. You will receive instruction on the lifesaving technique of self-examination and hands-on practice with models. Other detection methods, such as mammography, will be included. These health and wellness classes are open to military beneficiaries and civil service workers. To register for a class, call Preventive Medicine Service 876-8831.

MICOM hail/farewell

The MICOM Hail and Farewell "April Showers Bring May Flowers" is scheduled for Tuesday, April 12 from 4-6 p.m. at the Officers Club. "This promises to be a fun-filled event with good food, spirits (at the cash bar) and fellowship. All MICOM civilian and military personnel, regardless of grade or rank, are invited to attend." Honorees will include all military officers and civilian employees, GM/GS-11 and above, who have joined MICOM within the preceding three months (January through March) and those scheduled to depart before July 8. Dress will be duty uniform for military, and normal duty attire for civilians. All attendees and honorees should complete a reservation form, enclose $4 per person or charge card information, and send to the Protocol Division by April 8. Payment may be made by cash, check or charged to your Mastercharge, VISA, Diner's Club or RSA Officers Club account.

CFC

Applications will be accepted through April 29 for the 1994 Tennessee Valley Combined Federal Campaign. By federal regulation, only human health and welfare agencies recognized by the IRS as eligible for tax-deductible contributions are eligible. The campaign covers Cullman, Limestone, Madison, Morgan and Marshall Counties in Alabama and Lincoln County in Tennessee. For information call Charles Scott 536-0745.

AER trap/skeet shoot

A Trap and Skeet Shoot, to help raise money for Army Emergency Relief, will be held 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 9 at Outdoor Recreation. Cost is $5 per round (one round is 25 targets). All participants must provide their own shells and hearing protection. For information call SSgt. Cummings 876-2393.

Medical expense fund

Three-year-old Brad Stone, son of Sammy and Bonnie Stone, had a liver transplant Thursday, March 24 at UAB Hospital. He is in critical condition and will require extensive medical care. Bonnie Stone works in Program Executive Office for Missile Defense. Bonnie Hankins, the grandmother of Brad Stone, works in the Unmanned Ground Vehicle Joint Program Office. Accounts have been opened at all AmSouth Banks and Community Banks in the name of the Brad Stone Charity Fund. All donations will go a long way in assisting this family during Brad's hospital stay and recovery.

ACS open house

"The Other Side of ACS" is the theme of an open house set for 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday at Army Community Service, building 3491. Information and handouts on the programs, services and classes offered at ACS will be available. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call Mary Breeden 876-5397.

ID Card facility

The ID Card issuing facility will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, April 9. "Active duty personnel in uniform will not be given preference on this day." For more information call Betty J. Weaver, chief of the Personnel Processing Center, 842-2410.

Union meeting

AFGE Local 1858 will hold its monthly meeting at 5:30 p.m. April 11 in building 7132, Union Office. For more information, call 881-7430 or 876-4880.

Brotherhood Run 5K

The annual Brotherhood Run 5K will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, April 16 at Pagano Gym. All runners who have trained for the 3.1-mile distance are invited. Preregistration is $8, postmarked by April 8; $10 thereafter and on race day. There is no charge for the one-mile fun run. This year's event is being sponsored by the Sergeants Major Association; proceeds from the run will benefit the installation's welfare and recreational activities fund. T-shirts will be given to the first 300 registrants. For more information, call Hardee Green or Tony Ramos 842-2218/2219/2220.

Boating safety course

Redstone Flotilla of the Coast Guard Auxiliary is offering a Boating Skills and Safety course on Thursday nights from April 14 through May 26. The class, which may lower your boat insurance premium, will be held from 6:30-8:30 p.m. in building 3305, room 114. A material fee of $12 will be collected on the first night of class. For more information, call Tom Kunhart 890-2220 (days) or 830-6621 (evenings).

Best yards

The first judging for the Yard of the Month competition for this year will begin April 20. "Have your lawn, flowers, and shrubs policed and ready for judging." Your neighborhood coordinator in your area will review each yard and submit the best yards for the month of April in writing to the housing office by April 18. All names will be given to a panel of five judges for selecting the best yard of the month in each of the 11 districts, and one best yard of the post from the 11 districts winner for that month. To obtain the minimum standards criteria for the Yard of the Month program, contact your neighborhood coordinator, district coordinator, assistant district coordinator or building coordinator.

Customer service corner: directorate of flight operations

BY PAM ROGERS

Workers at RASA's Directorate of Flight Operations have to answer some pretty tough questions from their customers sometimes. For example: "what's this for?"; "how high will it go?"; "can I fly it?"; or "what would happen if I pushed this button?" The questions could go on and on and often do during static displays and tours the directorate puts on for children from local schools and churches.

"During tours we give the kids a tour of the tower, and the fire department, and let them climb in the aircraft," said Tom Cameron, acting director. The directorate tries to honor as many requests for tours and displays as possible, and sometimes can fly helicopters to schools for displays.

The directorate also supports the Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps in the area, giving orientation flights to those cadets who are eligible.

Flight operations gives support every year to the annual Huntsville/ Madison County Armed Forces Celebration, and will provide static displays during organizational picnics, Cameron said.

The primary mission of the directorate is to support the Missile Command and its research and development functions, but it sometimes provides support during overseas deployments of troops, most recently flying personnel and equipment to ports of embarkation to Somalia.

Although the Redstone Airfield doesn't have a passenger flight mission, it is a part of the Operational Support Airlift Command network, and government travelers can fly from Redstone on OSAC flights.

"So many offices on Redstone don't realize we still handle flight requests," Cameron said. If the request is approved, travel is free, and could save offices scarce travel funds, he added.

"Requests are not always approved, but the large majority are, and the more demand we put on the system, the more savings there will be for the command," he said.

In some cases OSAC flights can help with people who need to fly out of town in an emergency leave situation, such as a death in the family.

"We might not be able to get them exactly where they need to go, but we could help, if there's a flight coming through."

Cameron urges official travelers to call the directorate for advice on using military flights. The number is 876-4299/4310.
